THE NEWS IN THE TABLE.

Lisbon, July 27.—In the House of Lords this evening, Lord Napier took the customary oaths and seat.

The Bribery Bill was read the second time, and the Public Schools bill passed.

Earl Malmesbury, in reply to a question from Baron Houghton, Richard Monckton Milnes, and the Marquis of Ripon, said Mr. Rosamne's report before considering the value of the services and the extent or the sufferings of the Abyssinian envoys, before ☞ Perhaps as a public journalist, we are in duty bound to notice everything, good or bad, as they transpire in our city. The good we have with pleasure, for there are times that we do not care to handle under any consideration, still we are compelled to do so in order to satisfy the public demand. Thus, the past week the usual quiet of our village has been upset by a general family break up, the participators of which, for better be omitted, at least, until the parties interested have had their examination before the proper authorities.

DANCE.—Henry Youngians has issued cards for a Harvest Festival, at Goodyear's hall, Monday Evening, Aug. 10th, 1868. Music by the Jackson city band. Bill $2, supper included. Everything will be done to make this a pleasant party, therefore, if you are a dancing you are respectfully invited.

☞ Kah-ge-ga-gah-bow, or, G. Copway, the celebrated Indian Doctor of the Ojibway nation, will be at the Manchester Hotel, Thursday, Friday and Saturdays, during July, August and September. The Doctor will be happy to meet those afflicted, and relieve their sufferings.

CITY AIRS.—Coon & Mover have a beautiful wagon, manufactured expressly to deliver goods purchased at their store. If their business should continue to increase, they will soon be obliged to adopt a coach and four. Nothing like Family Grocery!

THE FIRE TRADE.—Competitively few of our readers are aware of the immense extent to which the fire trade, which is continually expected to be a very lucrative one, has grown. Remember it has grown everybody's business. Meers. Porter, Jaynes & Soca. They have the woolen factory in the running order, and are turning out some new styles of cloth that cannot be excelled. One piece we noticed, a brown and black, which is most substantial and "the fall style." They make flannels, yarn, and custom work a specialty, and have opened the 4 spring seasons. Give them a call.

CASH IS THE CRY.—We respectfully inform the community at large, that the Credit Book can be DEAD. We shall make no more accounts. We shall sell for cash ONLY. We also inform all those indebted to us, that we will be early and earnest of all accounts. Don't Ask for Credit. Goods cheap for cash, at Wastell Bros.

COMMUNICATION.

MR. EDITOR.—I answer to your question, viz: "Has an individual who fought at the government greenbacks in 1864 and '65 any greater claim upon the nation than the widow or orphan who gave the country a husband and father?"

That you may not charge me with evading the question, I answer most emphatically, No. The party in power, both in Congress and in the executive, have reversed the rule. They have in every manner possible made the widow, the orphan and the disabled soldier, the wards of the Union. While the opposition have denounced the soldier as a drivelling, the cause for which he fought unholy and unjust, and in a contention at Chicago, over which Horatio Seymour presided, while victory and success was waiting upon the Union army, and the Rebellion stood trembling upon the verge of the "last ditch," after the soldiers had been starved in Andersonville and Libby, after millions of treasury, and many thousand precious lives had been given, and the rebellion narrowed down so that a single State, or two, constituted the field of conflict, and slavery the stronghold of the rebellion had been crushed, the slaves no longer than found 4,000,000 of human beings as slaves; while Grant was accepting the "unconditional surrender of Vicksburg and peace was dawning upon the country, this national convention solemnly declared the action on the part of the Government, to crush the rebellion, a "failure" and demanded an immediate cessation of hostilities. But events have stamped this solemn resolution as a falsehood, and the soldiers in the last Presidential election, by their ballots, hurled back the foul slander into the teeth of this convention. It sought to fasten upon them. No, Mr. Editor, the Government is, long as it has been allowed to control it, will first look out for the disabled soldier, the widow and the orphan. To such the continuance of the country outweighs the claims of Secession, and the Government is paying them liberally, notwithstanding the demand for the money to pay the Southern spoilers and unjust expenditures of the war. The enterprising, industrious, and upright portion of the country will look out for the soldier, the widow and orphan, and the soldier will look out for the country by voting against a rebels, repudiates and secession principles this fall.

Your space will not allow me to enlarge upon the question of taxation of government bonds, neither, perhaps, am I called upon to define myself upon this issue. But such gross deception is attempted upon the people by the plank in the platform of N. Y. conventions, that I simply call your attention to the subject.

First let me say, what will be an admitted truth, viz: that every voter ought for himself to study the political issues before the people, do his own thinking and arrive at his own conclusion; after weighing every question in the balance of his own good judgment, vote and act from the conviction of his own unbiased examination. He will not then be so likely to regret his action. Inadvertence, credulity, rashness and partisan zeal upon political issues characterize more of all parties, too much. Cunningly devised traps and artfully laid plans are spread at all times to catch the honest, thoughtless or credulous voter.

This question of taxing the government bonds, emanating from the New York convention, in which are to be found twenty prominent and distinguished (?) copperheads, is but one of the shrewdly laid traps, by which it is hoped to carry votes for Horatio Seymour the nominee of Belmont and other extensive bondholders of New York; and yet, but few days before his nomination sufficient to by declared himself to be opposed to a measure that would so greatly impair the interests of his friends, the bondholders of the East, notwithstanding he stands upon the platform with this plank in it. Those in favor of taxing Government bonds should ask themselves or the advocates of the measure, a few questions to ascertain if by voting for the nominees of this platform they are really voting for taxation. The doubt will be perfectly satisfied upon the least investigation.

First, where does the power lie to tax government bonds and securities? Every one will say that the Federal courts can influence this question. If you point to Congress then find the provision in the constitution that will allow such bonds to be taxed, and I will point you to the State, what will you do with the several decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States which say there is no law giving to the States the power to tax the bonds of the Nation.—I do not say there is no such law to meet this question, but ask in what manner it is proposed to reach it, and if not, why Seymour and Blair will very much embarrass this measure.

But again. I have said quoted, squarely and proper the issues before the people. It must be admitted that the same laws which govern the people in their intercourse with each other, ought to apply to the government with equal force in its transactions directly with the people. The law then stands, Debtors to be honest, and pay the principal borrowed, and the interest, in coin, also it cannot be taxed. The principal borrowed, and interest in coin, is all the creditor can lawfully demand. Now, Mr. Editor, my question is simply, shall we, as a people, violate our solemn obligations, and by a mere technicality, or rather, by a sophistical quibble, which, if it means anything, means that it is a falsehood, or a sickly family. Just so, that's our opinion, and for fear you may think we go it blind, we reach your emphatic N.

The republican party can say, over holds itself in readiness to relieve the disabled soldier, the widow, and the orphan. Here's a difference, No. 2. While the republicans, or any other party, try to avoid taxation upon the wealth of the country, the democratic party boldly declare, now, then and not until then, will we swallow this assertion. The working people, before voting for such parties, we feel will take a few of the dollars the widow and orphan, but the politicians, bondholders and patriots, bankers and speculators will fling up to the soldiers of the country, but have taxed the people to pay gold water mark. Suppose we do not have a farm, pressure to the war. Her boys responed to the Nation's call. She sells the farm to yes, half cash, half on time, in three years, second by note payable in gold. Time passes, your obligation becomes due and is presented for payment. You owe some bondholders, bankers, speculators, she replies you that the note is payable in gold. True, undoubtedly, Congress, so some party, has passed a law declaring greenbacks legal tender, and you know one of them, to take greenbacks for gold without. Now, Mr. Republican, Congress gave a law to make greenbacks legal tender to take greenbacks or gold without. Is there any difference between the will and the law? Just the difference, I guess not. At least, if what is said is the gospel, it differs the gospel.

Now suppose the widow, if present in whipping the democratic party, or Seymour, or any other politician. We commenced, as we said, talking to such a dunning don't you? Seymour may have said some thing at Chicago, but you know Seymour said so and so at Washington last week.

Is Seymour and Blair worse than Johnson they are, and they opposed the Republican candidates were in favor of gun redemption, I would rather Seymour and Blair.

Here a an old, faithful man, who was not in the grave, who says he will fight, take his part of the dues of the dirty. There is lots of folks just like old Thom. There is another gentleman at Washington, who writes to a cold world to address a paper in this town, Mr. Editor, I am a poor old man, I am a poor old man, I am a poor old man
