Arthur C. McCullough, one of the finest singers in the land, has been engaged to assist Simon Gansen and Tries at their concert on Wednesday evening next.

Wallbridge our worthy Post Master, has been appointed general Distributor and Agent for Southern Washtenaw Co., of the United States Detectives Protective Union. Every farmer should be a member of this society. Membership fee $1.50. For particulars enquire at the Post office.

We call attention to our readers to the advertisement of Harris & Plum now handled "The Bonanza" in another column.

Cousins—Rose & Rothfield will open a complete stock of Clothing, in Union Hall, on Monday June 8th. They are well known to our readers as honorable dealers and will be welcome to the best trade of Manchester.

Lost—Between the residence of H. [illegible] and this village on Saturday May 16th, a pocket-book containing about seventy dollars and a teacher's contract. Twenty five dollars reward will be given for the return of the above described property.

May 20. HENRY N. PALMER.

We are assured that the firm of Hastings & Kendall, 65 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass., advertised in our columns to be trustworthy and reliable. For 10 cts they send a patent pen fountain, and a book containing an article for the sick for $1. Their cloth system of selling goods is becoming quite popular, particularly with the ladies. It is worthy of a trial.

New dwellings are springing up in almost every direction of the corporation. One in particular attracts the attention of strangers, and has been a curiosity to our citizens. Its architecture is decidedly ancient and the work manship very modern, in fact, it resembles the Chicago Wigwam on a small scale. We learn it is to be dedicated and occupied on the next wing of the late profession by Mr. Hewitt, one of our popular landlords.

[illegible] The annual election of Officers of the Literary Society resulted as follows

J. M. McLean, President.
Mary Norris Vice President
J. Wardell, Treasurer.
[illegible] Secretary.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday Evening, June 9th. A good programme will be presented.

MANCHESTER, MICH., May, 1868.

To our Friends [illegible] Waterloo, where we have [illegible] been struggling hard to overcome the difficulties incident to establishing a new country, where cash must be demand and new buildings are need. Since the price of produce was low, we could have been distant, when the capital of all was limited and money were in light, it seemed necessary that merchants should sell as time, though they may be forced to charge more for the goods, but now, the reverse of nearly all things is true, and a constantly increasing number are becoming able and anxious to buy their goods for money or at the actual time, demanding that some concession from your prices be granted, to offset the drawbacks of the credit system. Believing that a firm doing business upon the plan will be sustained here, we have concluded that on and after the first day of July next, we will sell goods for CASH PAY STRICTLY. Trusting that our friends will feel an interest in the matter and bring along their greenbacks and whatever articles of country produce they may have to spare, and carry off our goods at low figures.

Very Respectfully, Yours,

[illegible] LARK & CO

The above circular we endeavored to pick up in one of our stores a few days since and the idea of impeaching the credit system, and adopting a cash policy seemed to us very plausible. We continue to assert that there is not a Merchant or Mechanic in our village who does half the business, and pay financially, but materially, morally and religiously from the effects of the credit system. Our things are uncertain, i. e., we certainly suffer in proportion.

For some unaccountable reason the credit system is more fully developed in these abundantly able to pay their bills.

At one of our prominent grocery houses a farmer brought in Butter Eggs &c. and received Thirty three dollars for the same, made a purchase of Sugar in five cents and very soon after called the grocer to charge the amount to his account. Thus a beautiful specimen of the evil effects of the credit system. Every Merchant Mechanic and Manufacturer should sign their names to the above circular and adopt it as a Ready pay system. We feel the difficulty in it would not only benefit themselves but the human race.

The need over and be marketed and the grain will soon follow, and the true great political partizan will cease, and the people consequently become [illegible]

IMPEACHMENT OF THE PRESIDENT.

Mr. C. W. Wesley Refuses to Testify.

Strike in the Vermont Marble Quarries.

In the House. Mr. Carr (Ind., Ill.) offered the following:

Whereas, The national bank system has proved a source of public indebtedness, sacrifice of home and abroad, not only without the constitutional authority of the nation under which it was constructed: therefore,

Resolved, That neither the letter nor spirit of the law under which the National Banks are created, is binding upon the people of this country, and it will be the utmost good faith with the Government creditors to pay the entire money which has been paid to the soldiers who fought the battles of the war, and with which the Government has discharged the claims of the widows and orphans of our fallen heroes, to be paid into the treasury of the nation to redeem in wages, and march in equal order for all public and private debts except common duties and interest on the public debt.

Mr. Van Horn (Rep., N. Y.) moved to lay on the table. The question was decided in the affirmative, Yeas 135, Nays 17. Members: Bialowitz, Blair, Dixon, Lamda, Mallory and Wadsworth; page 99. The preamble and resolution were then referred to the Committee on Ways and Means: yeas, 74, nays, 18.

Mr. Chanler (Dem., N. Y.) introduced the following, which was referred to the Committee on Elections:

Whereas, It is the sacred duty of every public servant to perform his duties with every ability, and government and department of government, and every public servant is the confidential principles of such, justice and liberty; and

Whereas, Power is a trust of self-preservation during the late civil war between the States of the Union, and it is the duty of this administration to accept the black face and the white man may be protected from the hands of slavery, and by proclaiming them free and equal before the law; and

Resolved, That never we doubt if the duty of Congress to declare that the original, existing, and only rightful relation between the United States, and the Territories and Indian tribes, and the Indian tribes and the people in the respective States of this Union, is that of wards to guardian, and that the Congress of the United States, and European ancestors, the original discoverers of this continent, by consequent conquerors, and subjugators of the Indian tribes, children of liberal civilization.

Resolved, That the appointment of any man or Territory of the United States, or any other, or any other, or any other

WHAT ARE THY BROTHER'S FAULTS?

The brother's faults! O, what are they?
A word unkind, a look of scorn,
Some in a thoughtless way
That stung your or spring hard
Which caused him such offence
Was given when he did not heed
Or was unknown to you.

Thy brother's fault! what has it been?
Some sinking or unseeming act?
He did not mean to sin
Thy heart is not so green,
Thou hast not yet to learn
Of human weakness, and of human pain
Would not a good man act
Thy brother's fault Pour compassion temper,
Kindness and love, and pity
Thy brother cannot act aright
Has not some fault fault been
Dropped from thy lips or pen?
Hast thou no unmerciful words offense?
O think of thy faults then.

Thy brother's faults! O, heed the word
Should not thou ponder this more deeply
Why have God's faults so
A way with apathy for man to found
Thyself a sinner, in need of God,
Yet wonder is a strict account
Of the faults of thy brother.

Thy brother's fault! is this thy cross?
Is it to be a burden, a load?
Is it to be a pain to thy soul
When I speak of it to thee?
Hast thou no compassion?
Over thy brother's fault
Not are thou golden edges
Or, on thy golden spur to be?

Thy brother's faults O! heed the sound
Are thou all faultless found?
Are thou all faultless found?
Dropped from thy lips or pen?
Hast thou no unmerciful words offense?
O think of thy faults then.

Remember the days.

MANCHESTER.

Emmet Palmer a Democratic Shoddy mason placed his wallet containing seven dollars in a pocket without the bottom when rolling out on Saturday last. The wallet dropped out and was picked up by the road side, having been emptied by a passing cow.

In the Advertising Columns of May 30th, I notice the above article from the Manchester enterprise in regard to my improvements. Now I wish to inform the honorable City editor, that I have never taken a political paper in my life except the Advertiser and Tribune. Also I have no fault to find, opinion of myself that I be had attended my school during my boyhood days. I could at least have read the first sentence of a good memoirs or a text which I think would be a little difficult to be found for temperance lectures in the upper story, and pledging to make a personal apology and have a column in the next issue, from a gentleman of the city of Detroit, I will be satisfied. I do not think and since reading the article I have come to the conclusion that I have made many acquaintances and friends, and I would like to have the pleasure of shaking hands with the gentleman who wrote the article. Yours &c. C. H. NICHOLS.
