THE STORY TELLER.

HOW CLAY PIPES ARE MADE.

From the Moulder's Hand to the Kiln—The Clays that Burn Yellow, Red and White—American Pipes Supplanting Foreign.

Notwithstanding the great increase within a few years past in the consumption of cheap cigars, the immense demand for millions of made cigarettes annually—a trade that hardly existed two years ago—the widely-spread custom among smokers of making their own cigarettes, and the large importation of cheap and durable wooden pipes, the business of making clay pipes has never been more flourishing than it now is. Of important clay pipe factories, there are three in Brooklyn, two in Baltimore, three in Detroit, twoin Woodbridge, N. J., and one each in New York City, Trenton (Mich.), Newark, Providence, Cleveland, Syracuse, and Rouse's Point. In addition to these there are thirty-or-forty small concerns scattered about the country that manufacture only to supply local demand, and give employment to from one-to-four men only in each. Canada also maintains three considerable factories—one in Quebec and two in Montreal. These are all engaged in turning out cheap clay pipes of the sort usually retailed at from five to ten for years ago two-thirds of the common clay pipes used in this country were imported from Scotland and England; but now hardly one-fifteenth of the demand is supplied from that source, and it is the cheapest of all articles of foreign growth in the matter of preference, as well as on account of the number of hands using these articles, due, doubtless, to the increase of the number of cigarettes consumed, certainly arriving, that makes this particular branch of manufacture so considerable in importance.

"It seems to the looker-on an exceedingly simple thing to make clay pipes, a mere boy's business, and anybody ought or learn in two hours, yet, singularly enough, this is one of the few trades in which only apprentices learn still the rule—rigidly enforced. The process of making pipes in this country is three years, and in Great Britain five years, even now. Many orphans are now employed there in lieu of as many as seven years' apprenticeship in England. Skilled pipe-moulder can turn out 8-to-8-hundred-and-fifty-to his industry and quickness. The clay of which most of the pipes in this country are made is obtained from pits either in Woodbridge, N. J., or in Maryland, near Baltimore. The Detroit and Canadian factories get theirs from Liverpool, water transportation making it cheaper to them than the American article.

"All these facts—about the trade, and many more, a reporter of the Sun gleaned one rainy day from the Superintendent of one of the three intelligence-holding factories in the principal factory of Woodbridge. While they went on with their work, he sat in a high chair, with his feet low and low, hardly more than a pleasant, well lighted shed, with an earthen floor, crowded with the men, boys, and girls and simple machinery they used—tubed with boxes and trays and cracks, and piles of pipes in every stage of completeness. In a remote and secluded place, the Superintendent had fitted up in the middle foreground the Superintendent busied himself with picking the clean, white, gritty clay, which he moistens soft hay and in fine shavings, in three grades, sizes. In through the great open door, just the new 100-horse-power engine—blew a pleasant breeze, bearing with it a few of the ferocious mosquitoes that paid no attention to the presence of men, but settled upon the legs of the reporter, and, he declared, were surprising agility and sagacity in spite of the pains they taken, except one man who now and then, with a sweep of his hand, brushed off one or more of the pests, and, in a moment, was back in his place, before, in the interval, a dozen more had settled upon him. The reporter, in the intervals of the grinding, looking now at the machinery, now at the clay, which, with the exception of the Superintendent, was entirely in the hands of men, and, however, the Superintendent, in the intervals of the grinding

GRASS LAKE.

The republicans of Washtenaw county hold a convention at Ann Arbor Tuesday, and the following ticket was nominated:

Senator—Conrad Kapp, of Ann Arbor.
Sheriff—Ambrose V. Robison, of Ann Arbor.
County Clerk—John A. Palmer, Sylvan.
Register of Deeds—Frank D. Gilbert, of Ann Arbor.
Prosecuting Attorney—Amariah F. Freeman, of Ypsilanti.
Circuit Court Commissioner—Lucius Lyon, of Ypsilanti.
Coroners—Dr. U. S. Quinn, of Ypsilanti; Dr. O. C. Ladd, of Ann Arbor.

James O'Donnell and M. Adelle Hazlett gave a political lecture here on Saturday evening last, which all present enjoyed.

The entertainment given here by the ladies of the M. E. Church, at the hall last Thursday night was a success, socially and financially. Still more cheerful.

There is a good milk opening in this place for an enterprising city dairy house, as Smith & Sheldon's amazing stock is selling out so rapidly—or goodness, and milk is plenty. Everything promising, and the place improving.

Lenawee County Items.

Clinton indulges in fried cake social.

A Concord democrat has clipped 30 inch hair.

The Tecumseh postoffice has 899 boxes, all new, 129 of which are lock boxes.

The canning works at Adrian give employment to 130 men, women, and children.

The Lenawee county W. C. T. U. are holding their annual convention at Macon this week.

John S. Peck of Adrian was knocked down and robbed of a gold watch Saturday night.

The foundation for the new soldiers' monument at Tecumseh is completed and is ready for the monument.

The lecture committee at Clinton have already disposed of a large number of season tickets for the course.

The Adrian Times says that the teachers of Morenci, Blissfield, and Palmyra have organized a teachers' association.

After receiving a rebate from the Lake Shore railroad the profits of the Clinton Episcopal excursion to Detroit figure up $41.27.

Dr. Rynd addressed a free trade meeting at Adrian last week, and free trade has taken a boom in that city. So says the News.

A Tecumseh gentleman received a fall pippin from Los Angeles, Cal., the other day, measuring 15 inches in circumference and weighing 19½ ounces.

Adrian is to have a button factory with a capacity of turning out 10,000 pearl buttons per day. That city buttons on to every sort of manufacturing enterprise that comes along lately.

The reward of $1,000 offered by the common council of Adrian for the arrest of ex-mayor Navin, will expire by limitation on November 5th. It has also been directed that the reward of $2,000 offered by the sheriff and prosecuting attorney, expire at the same time, as there seems to be no hope of Navin's capture.

Washtenaw County Items.

There are 159 students in the Ypsilanti high school.

The Ann Arbor Democrat is published on Friday now.

Ann Arbor Presbyterians indulge in Japanese tea parties.

Washtenaw supports fifteen county papers according to the Register.

Lee Hills of Bridgewater has gone to Kansas with a car load of sheep.

The Ann Arbor Courier comes out with a complete supplement this week.

The prohibitionists will hold a county convention in Ann Arbor Oct. 25th.

C. M. Hubbard of Ypsilanti captured $75 worth of pigeons at the state fair this season.

Folks can begin depositing their money with the Farmers' and Mechanics' bank of Ann Arbor, January 1, 1883.

At the township examination held in Ann Arbor, October 6th, the following named persons were examined and received certificates. First grades: H. E. Hunt, Manchester; Thos. Spencer, Ypsilanti; Geo. Mitchell, Ypsilanti; E. C. Young, Salline; Mary E. Ward, Ypsilanti; Jennie Wheeler, Ypsilanti; Frank C. Ward, Ypsilanti; Hattie M. Hall, Ypsilanti; Ella M. Pease, Ypsilanti.

One half the farmers of this county in Hillsdale county agricultural society, is that it is strictly a mechanical, agricultural and industrial exhibition. No games of chance are allowed on the ground, no pool selling or gambling devices are allowed, and no dog tragedy or monkey advertised for the purpose of drawing a crowd. Other societies might copy these features with profit.—Hillsdale Democrat. The officers of the state agricultural society would do well to pattern after the Hillsdale folks.

P. C. Snell, the section foreman through whose carelessness the accident to the freight train occurred between here and Tecumseh a couple of weeks ago, has been reinstated to his position by the company. Snell is said to be an exceptionally good man and has probably learned a lesson which will be of value to him and the company in the future.—Clinton News. There where the Lake Shore company exercise good judgement, as it is better to keep in their employ men who by experience know the consequences of carelessness.

Jackson County Items.

Jackson has 42 miles of street railway.

Napoleon has a very prosperous good Templars lodge, which receives additional members every week.

Grass Lake News: Charles Nichols has the larger ears of corn in his field that we have seen this year, he thinks it will yield one bushel of corn to sixteen hills.

Monday night's is the last street car at Jackson was on its return trip it stopped at the office of the car company, and as the treasurer was taking the car box money, some one entered the office and stole $60.

At the meeting of the board of supervisors in Jackson last week the following resolution was adopted: Resolved, That the committee on equalization be instructed to fix the aggregate valuation of the county at the sum of $25,000,000.

Jackson Citizen: Dan C. Smith and E. B. Field of this city, own a farm in Dakota, near Blanchard, of 3,560 acres, 1,060 under cultivation, from which there will be taken this season 4,000 bushels of oats, 2,000 bushels of barley and 21,000 bushels of wheat.

J. Dieeman and wife of Jackson had a family far the other day because Mrs. D. who was mistaken in her health, had her first relapse while in an omnibus, and she did not reach the sidewalk for better half an hour, during which time her husband was driving her home when she became a mother. Husband is to be thrashed for throwing her into the road, for which satisfaction he afterwards paid a fine of $5.

LOCAL NEWS BREVITIES.

Good long evenings now.

There was a sharp frost Tuesday night.

About time for the knitting mania to set in.

They have put the cornice on Kimble's building.

Folks are on the look out for a sudden cold snap.

Won't some church get up a pumpkin pie festival?

Holiday fixings will soon be on exhibition at the stores.

Flocks of birds have begun their annual southern flight.

Did you see the new moon over the right shoulder, or the wrong one.

Greenback representative convention at Saline next Wednesday. See notice.

About time to begin bringing in your house-plants and getting them rigged up for winter.

Gather in the hickory nuts and pop corn, we'll all want some this winter to help pass away the time.

The autumn tints are glorious and one feels a big desire to take long rambles in the woods and fully enjoy nature's beauties.

S. W. Dorr presented us with a basket of peaches a few days ago of the Smock variety, one of latest and most profitable peaches.

Eugene Schweikle has bought the old bakery building on Railroad street of Wm. Kirchgessner and will fit it up for a residence.

Some of our town girls are very anxious for a hello line to be established here so they can "talk back" at the fellows in Clinton.

The Germans are evidently in haste for the Lutherian church to be opened for services, judging from the crowds that visit that edifice every Sunday.

Just listen to what Kirchhofer says. He's got the biggest kind of a new stock of fine goods on hand and he tells all about it in his new ad. Read it.

W. H. Webb built a sheek iron stove for the hunters to take to the north woods with them. It is to serve the double purpose of cooking and heating stove.

Since Am. Freeman received the nomination for prosecuting attorney, the girls have been weeping cause they can't vote. He'd have a big boom if they did.

There's a man in town who says he told "to that outbounded comet" to stop which he has been gambling out of bed at all uncanny hours of the night.

If Bence, the druggist, keeps on with the good work he'll soon have his whole store covered with advertising banners. He's pretty well bannered up already.

The N. Y. state agricultural works, are trying to make arrangements for a transfering depot in this village. The building will be near the Lake Shore depot.

W. L. Watkins the agricultural house-seer has a new advertisement this week. He now offers farm implements to those in need of pumps and wind mills.

Sunday was such a balmy, lazy day that nearly everybody and their families went forth for a delightful stroll. There will be many more such warm days this season.

It makes no difference how long you have lived in the county or how many times you have registered and voted, you must register this year or you can't vote.

If the owners of destructive cows don't take better charge of the varmints there won't be enough cabbage left in the gardens about town to make a pint of sauer kraut.

The lately formed livery firm of Farrell & Brangwain has dissolved partnership, Brangwain selling out to Farrell.

When the Lake Shore gobbles up the Ft. Wayne and Monroe road we may expect to see through trains running between Detroit and Cincinnati passing through here.

Corn was fully ripened before the frost, if we may judge from the quantity of fodder we have seen shocked up in the fields.

A party consisting of Jas. Reid, Joan Nesrcel and Jim Stone of this village, and Frank Hall of Sharon, started for Canada yesterday, where they intend to spend a couple of weeks in hunting game.

C. W. Spencer, sold last week a large stock of registered merino sheep on hand and is advertising them through the columns of the ENTERPRISE. Those in want of good sheep will do well to read the advertisement and give him a call.

This seems to be an extraordinary year for fruits and flowers coming on out of season. Many instances have been mentioned lately, of raspberries, strawberries, lilac and fruit blossoms being gathered and all seeming as perfect as those plucked at the proper time for such products.

Chauncy Walbridge the old and popular auctioneer of this village, has concluded to yield to the wishes of many of his friends here and will make engagements this fall to sell people's property at auction. The farming community and others having goods to sell will hail this information with pleasure.

John H. Miller has tried to get in business again in Manchester, but rents for such goods as he can have here are high, and real estate is also so high that he thinks he cannot afford to establish himself in business here again. He has been to Chelsea where he says he can buy or rent much cheaper than here.

Some of the village cows seem to have an insatiable desire for undoing gate fastenings and lifting bars, etc., with their horns. We humbly suggest that the "unlimiles" be relieved of these horny appendages, which will be gladly received by inflectic city people who are using cows horns in home decorations.

Why should folks be forever telling about the meloncolinss of October days. Why!, it's the jolliest kind of a month, always full of pumpkin pies, grapes, the vigue, and lots of wedding cake. Why shouldn't we lay aside our "weeps" and be having a rousing big rejoicing while the bright leaves go sailing around in the breezy breezes.

Since making a notice of the patent car lock invented by G. H. Felt, Jackson, Mich., we have had several inquiries regarding the same. Yesterday we heard from Minnesota, which shows that a small advertisement in the columns of the ENTERPRISE is seed well sown. Parties wishing to correspond with Mr. Felt should address him at Jackson.

J. H. Miller of Clinton was in town Tuesday morning and left copy for a new advertisement which will be found in another column of the ENTERPRISE. He has a tremendous stock of goods and is selling them at very low prices, but the average quarter of sale will be a still further reduction, and we should think a "drawing card." When John is bound to sell out he will let the goods go regardless of profit.

About the 14th of July Dr. Conklin put some patches in Chauncy Sindlinger's refrigerator building. He took them to the state fair and they took 1st premium; he brought them home put them back in the refrigerator and kept them until the Hillsdale fair when they were taken there and again took the 1st premium. Sindford has contracted peaches for a Thanksgiving feast at Newark, N. J. His reputation is a good one, good thing and our citizens appreciate his enterprise and liberality in putting up such a building.

A good share of Macomb street residents arose with the early worm—no, we mean—lark—last Sunday morning, and scattered themselves around town seeking prominent places from which to view the meteor. The majority of those who were haunted with two grim specters armed with a lantern. They evidently were afraid they wouldn't be able to discover where that elongated star was without a light. The latter specimen of humanity taken possession of by youthful astronomers who hold up a dre and took matters very comfortable thus. The rest of the people who were on the watch were from the top of houses, where they could see what we haven't space for a full account of their observations this week.

The excursion to Detroit yesterday was in vain. There were five cars in the train loaded with about 400 people from Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti and intermediate points. The train came to Detroit with the Lake Shore and then took the Michigan Central to Grosse Ile, where it broke down. The train was then taken back to Detroit by the Lake Shore and the excursionists returned home.

Vic. is very rough on the patent car lock invented by G. H. Felt, Jackson, Mich., we have had several inquiries regarding the same. Yesterday we heard from Minnesota, which shows that a small advertisement in the columns of the ENTERPRISE is seed well sown. Parties wishing to correspond with Mr. Felt should address him at Jackson.

A few weeks ago there appeared in the village a German about 20 years of age, who introduced himself as August Rose, a veterinary surgeon of much skill having had several years experience in the Franco-Prussian war, etc.

Anthrax was a good opening for a man of that profession here he at once got plenty of work to do. He consulted with Mrs. Henry Upham in Freedom, to whom he proceeded to hand $2,000 deposited in a bank at Toledo.

He turned off buying a buggy and got Ann Arbor street in this village and it is claimed he had won the good graces of young city in Freedom and had proposed marriage to her.

Mrs. Upham's friends in Freedom became alarmed at the attentions paid their friend and proceeded to Toledo where they claimed he had $2,000 deposited. Mrs. Upham's friends here claimed he had no money, but he said he had plenty in Toledo

Japanese Civilization.

No monarch and no one else private person, can have a house in this place more unique and interesting than the house now occupied by the Japanese Minister of Japan with whom I am now stopping. When last autumn the ex-Mikado of Japan was restored to the throne, a great change took place in the dress of the people. Men who had worn the long robes of ceremony, and women who had worn the long sleeves and the paint and powder of the Japanese beauty, all at once, in Japan in which it has taken active and intelligent part for four years has been seized with a mania for the Dutch and 1871 the Daimios, or feudal lords, the Samurai, were, with the exception of a few Satsuma—not radically minded—all 1877—whose chief was the mighty Saigo, deluded of their power, and their military retainers receiving a pecuniary compensation. In 1878 all classes of men alike were declared liable to conscription in the imperial army. This army, organized by Frenchmen, has now for nearly ten years been of a high state of efficiency. Its West Point is conducted chiefly by Frenchmen, its establishment is Teutonic, near Tokyo. The total military force is about 50,000 men. The navy is modelled after the English. It includes twenty war vessels, nineteen gunboats, and a training ship. National education dates from 1871. By 1878 the Government schools had 46,000 pupils, and 1,000,000 were over over 12 years old. Tokio University has nearly 1,000. One well-educated lady in Japan—a lady who is intellectually fully abreast of the average one to those of Europe and American institutions, the gentler virtues of a woman, industry, politeness, and self-control they are unquestionably superior to. The prevailing feature among little people and one which strikes even the least observant, is their almost exceedingly sweet temper. It is, although impossible to make them angry, and Mr. Long, resident in Japan, says it is a fact that Japanese children are scarcely ever heard to cry. Cards are unknown in the nursery. Is not provided by the soothing syrups of a Japanese Pinkslow, but in the form of the dear old lady handlers—sometimes oil men. The Japanese post-office is another of the Nation's triumphs. A month was in ten years growth into a mountain. The railroads, though in numerous, are cheap and pay well. They are now chiefly superintended and worked by natives. Workers are chiefly Japanese. From half a mile in September, 1869, the telegraph lines have grown to 4,000 miles, worked by 1,500 employees, of whom ten only are foreigners. It would be well for this country if its lads were in half as satisfactory plight as are those of Japan, and in this matter Japan has borrowed not little from the foreigner. The most minute precautions are taken to prevent abuse of authority in prison officials. The Governor of a jail may inflict no punishment more severe than the dark cell, and that only for half an hour for a strictly limited period, without the sanction of a District Court. This system is carried, in the case of the strictness in the most remote province as in the capital. The vast system thus in little more than ten years has been erected and controlled by a Cabinet of thirteen, over which the Mikado presides, assisted by a council of the ablest and best informed men, who give advice and aid in the framing of enactments made by the Cabinet. Prodigious changes have taken place since 1878, and National Parliamentary Government is to the order of the day. Chicago Times.

French Criminal Procedure.

The place which is given to sentencing dream-tance in the French code explains the search made by the presiding judge of the prisoners in the dock. In England murder case is devoid of psychological interest; crime is only the key-stone into to strengthen the chain of circumstances, and the prisoner is a mere position relics. In this country, the jury is sometimes taken the place of the ghostly confessor or director in the confessional of penitence. It tries to learn the hidden causes which have led to the perpetration of the murder, and whether they attenuate or aggravate the crime. Hence the sifting examination into the antecedents of the accused by the prosecution, which tries to show evil motives. To evidence which the English judge would reject as irrelevant immaterial is to be attached if it points the same man who commands the other one we see in the dock. The public prosecutor would describe Cain as a monstrous hateful and strong. Cain, he would say, if he had would try to show the extinction of law of justice, the extinction of equality—a tyrant and oppressor of men who had eradicated thorns and thistles and turned the primeval forest into a productive vineyard. Abel, he would describe as a peaceful, quiet, shepherd, who, if he had committed a crime, and took special in a shady place while Cain was tilling the ground, was engaged in digging and clearing irrigation. Cain also was a cultivated intellectual man. The jury, with a knowledge of what mind, and of the circumstances of the victim, of an act of favoritism, he was horrified at the idea of Abel's being his nephew's rival in Cain's affections. Mail Gazette.

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

—Children in Australia will hereafter be obliged to attend school for eight years.

—Several young ladies from Indian Territory are attending school in Ohio.

—There are 50 Chinamen in the rolls of the Sabbath school in Chico, New York, and 12 in another Sabbath school in Los Angeles, Cal., with a total of 375 in Chinese schools.

—There are 3 ministers in the ministry of Connecticut who have been in charge of congregations in succession for a period of consecration, in minister-ship of 50 years, 48 years, and 45 years.

—In the educational system of Newfoundland each school district receives an amount of income from the Government equivalent to the amount received by the district for school purposes.

—At the annual meeting of the Blue Ribbon Gospel Temperance Society, held in Newburyport, it was reported that since the society had been organized 4,000 people had signed the pledge, and the headquarters in different parts of the country. It was mentioned that the time is at hand when the drinking of spirituous liquors would cease in the United Kingdom.

—Last April Mrs. Mary F. Henderson, of St. Louis, offered a prize to the pupils of Kirkwood Seminary for the best essay on "Common Sense About Women." The essays were sent in without names, and Mrs. Henderson was the judge. The girl who won the prize proved to be the Cherokee Indian, who has since graduated and gone home to the Territory to live.

—The London Pall-Mall Gazette says: "Mr. Moody, the American evangelist, has closed his visit to Scotland. In his last address, which was delivered at Edinburgh, he intimated that this would be his last visit to Scotland. He now proceeds to the Continent, and after spending some time in Germany, he lengthened visit to England. On the completion of his English programme, he will return to America, where he intends to remain the rest of his life. On this occasion his visit to Scotland has extended over nine months."

—An interesting meeting took place at the Old South Church, Boston, on a recent afternoon, to bid farewell to thirteen missionaries, who were soon to sail for their respective destinations. For China—Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Tenney, and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Atwood, to Shan-See: Miss Alice B. Harris, to Pooo Chow, and Henry P. Perkins, to Tien-Tsin. For Bulgaria—Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Sleeper, to Shamokov, and Miss E. L. Spooner, to Monastir. For Mexico—The Rev. James D. Easton, to Chihuahua, and Mr. and Mrs. John Howland and Miss Belle M. Haskins, to Guadalajara.

PUNGENT PARAGRAPHS.

—A Woodbury woman accidentally swallowed some arsenic that had been got to destroy bugs. She was in great danger, but she was not destroyed.—Danbury News.

—A Missouri book agent piled ties across the railroad track, run ahead and stopped the passenger train, and took one hundred and twenty orders from the graceful passengers without change of countenance.—Detroit Free Press.

—A book of three hundred and fifty pages has been written to prove that shacks do not exist. Immediately the author of the work has declined an offer of $1,000 to jump into the harbor at Key West and settle the dispute.

—Canada people want free United States potatoes. We want our Canadians to pay their taxes. We want free potatoes. While neighbors! We have to pay three prices this side the line, where there is no duty.—Lowell Courier.

—They were carving dinner and one asked him how he liked the blanc mange. "It tastes of the chimney," he said. "Then it ought to soot you," was her answer. "I will try to swallow it," he replied, having the last word as usual.—Detroit Post.

—Archibald Forbes, the English war correspondent, is to get $5,000 for his proposed work on the United States. We had no idea the United States needed repairs so bad that the work on them would cost $5,000.—Paris Sentinel.

—Jenny June in one of her fashion letters says that leather is applied to pockets is not quite new. Jinks says he should say not! He will remember the day when he considered an application of leather to his pocket as something altogether old as to be no longer novel, and good for the day when it would be no longer fashionable.—Burlington Hawk-Eye.

—A Chicago man, too lazy to work, too proud to go to the poor-house, and too honest to steal, hired a furnished room and gave notice that unless some generous soul would provide him without leaving his room with food and clothing he would lie down and die. He starved to death.—Philadelphia Times.

—Once upon a time, a Frenchman named De Tomanti, wishing to gain the good will of a lady, undertook to build for her a Chinese pagoda on the savage island of Nukahiva, which he had bought, and which he had colonized. Doubtless, in the experiment, there was no an uprising of the natives against the innovation thus introduced into their island, but the pagoda was not a success, and it soon became a ruin. Over the door, in Chinese characters, was the inscription, "Ever Gracious Spring." The Chinese characters are still there, it is intimated, and have a bedeviled. Springfield Republican.
