

Council Proceedings

June 26, 1978

Council met in regular session with the meeting called to order by President Schaffer at 7:00 p.m. Present were Althouse, Daniels, DuRussel, Fitzgerald, Koebbe, Rigg and Zsenyuk; absent Duncan. Minutes from the June 5, 1978 regular meeting were approved in a motion by Koebbe, supported by DuRussel. All years, carried.

Moved by Fitzgerald, supported by DuRussel that a resolution be drawn up to raise the fee schedule for inspector's fees to cover the new rate of $10.00 per inspection. All years, carried.

For the moving of dirt within a certain distance of a river, lake, stream, etc. the DNR Act 347 has numerous requirements. Claran Knass, Sr. and Bruce Daniels are the only qualified inspectors for such projects in the Village. DuRussel questioned whether the Village was going to set up a rate schedule for such permitted work. Schaffer suggested that DuRussel and Daniels get together and work up a proposed rate schedule.

The rezoning of several parcels of property requested by R.E. Lempert had been set for July 13, 1978. However, due to the uncertainty of a guaranty because of vacations, it was moved by Fitzgerald, supported by Althouse to set the hearing for August 7, 1978. The properties will be considered in the following order: 1) Thomas Morgan Addition, 2) alley, 3) property north and south of Durcan Street. All years, carried.

Schaffer advised Council that the Village had progressed to number 97 on the list for Federal Sewage Funding.

Koebbe presented Council with a copy of Acting Public Works Superintendent Don Smith's report of Public Works activities for the prior week. Streets were cleaned and roadsides mowed. Parks were mowed. The sewer and water ditch on Main and Adrian Streets was prepared for paving. Water valve tops were repaired.

Koebbe remarked that he had had a number of complaints about fire crackers. Zsenyuk reported that 52 mailboxes had been destroyed in surrounding townships due to fireworks. Under present state law police cannot do anything unless a complaint is filed for disturbing the peace against individuals.

Zsenyuk presented the police report for May, 1978. He commented that complaints have increased by about 100 over those received to date last year.

An ordinance to deal with coin operated centers was introduced. Moved by Althouse, supported by DuRussel to adopt Ordinance 106 COIN OPERATED CENTER ORDINANCE with the fee of $100.00 to be inserted for an annual license. All years, carried. (Copy of ordinance attached)

Rigg questioned what had happened on the agreement of last Council meeting to leave the East gate at Carr Park open from 5:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. daily. Zsenyuk replied that the police had decided to keep it locked even during those hours, because after a trial period they had encountered the same problems as before.

It will be open all day on Sunday, however, Rigg indicated that he was setting up a meeting with the township supervisors from the surrounding townships, Mr. Masten, a representative of the Chicken Broil, a Manchester Athletic Boosters representative to discuss a recreation complex which would service the community as a whole. The meeting will take place the latter part of July.

He had had a meeting with Clarence Fleider and Bart Barrels about the summer recreation program. They were working under the same budget as last year. They did request several loads of dirt for the baseball fields. The posts which are to be reset by the youth from the WORC program will be painted brown this year.

DuRussel reported that Samonek can be reached for plumbing inspections from 4:30-6:00 p.m. daily and 1:00-3:00 p.m. on Saturdays. DuRussel brought up the point that presently the Village is not charging a fee for zoning changes, as is common practice in other communities as well as the townships. The Village must pay for the notice publications, legal fees, certified mail and clerical work.

It was recommended that DuRussel see about having a resolution drawn up, or whatever is necessary to implement a fee for zoning changes. Between $150 and $200 were the figures discussed.

Zsenyuk reported on a meeting of the Manchester Village Association which had preceded in conjunction with the proposed Art Fair scheduled for August 12, 1978.

Rigg asked Althouse and Zsenyuk to consider revising parking fines prior to the winter months.

Koebbe commented about the north of Main Street parking proposed by the Manchester Village Association members. He said the plans sound excellent thus far and had committed the Village to lining the completed parking lot, as well as upgrading the Village portion of it.

Schaffer advised Council that McNamee, Porter and Sealey are being employed by Emory Garlick on Deutschtat Subdivision to inspect plans and make certain that proposed sewer and water plans would be suitable for annexation to the Village should that ever come about.

Schaffer offered the name of Dealoris Richardson for appointment to the vacancy of clerk, effective July 1, 1978. Moved by Fitzgerald, supported by Koebbe to approve the appointment of Dealoris Richardson as Clerk from July 1, 1978 until the annual election in March of 1979. All years, carried. Mrs. Richardson was then sworn in.

Limpert stated that he had received a copy of the Village attorney's opinion of June 19, 1978 (copy attached) indicating that Clinton, Washington and Macomb Streets are closed. He asked for Council's statement in that regard. Moved by Fitzgerald, supported by Koebbe that Council accept Roesch's opinion as presented in a letter of June 19, 1978. All years, carried.

Moved by DuRussel, supported by Rigg to adjourn at 9:17 p.m. All years, carried. Mary H. Wheeler, Clerk

The rate on Treasury bills varies from time to time. But the rate at the date of the purchase of your certificate determines the rate paid by the bank at maturity - six months later.

Here's new flexibility for investors who want to earn a high rate of interest in a short period of time.

Income Option. The interest you earn can be credited directly to your Central checking or savings account. Or mailed to your home.

THE GROWTH OF A COMPANY

By J.A.W.

Many years ago it happened that I walked into the barn which was then located on my property to discover inside a man reading through copies of old discarded "Time" magazines. I had always been more or less of a peep rat for keeping old magazines and many of the copies were 15 and 20 years old. "Good Lord, Harry" I said to the man, "what interest do you find in those old copies?" "Well I'll tell you" he said, "it is interesting to read what all the Great men thought ten and fifteen years ago and how wrong they actually were. It is too bad that they are all dead now and can't tell us just what mistakes they made."

This thought was again brought home to me the other day when NBC announced that a recent study showed that if you add all the ages of all the people living in the U.S. today and divide that total by the total population your answer would be 30. This means that over one half of the population today was not even born at the time of World War II. It also means that there were even less people alive at the time that a company which is now an integral part of Manchester was formed. In fact to the best of our knowledge there are only two still alive of all of those who were with the company at its infancy.

And so I feel that at least one of us should record all the happenings and aspirations which started a small company and helped it grow into what is now known as Double A Products Co., a wholly owned subsidiary of Brown & Sharpe Mfg. Co. Double A, to shorten its name, was started in Ann Arbor, Michigan, during 1934. At that time the world was in the depth of its greatest depression when the unemployment rate was at least twice as high as during the most recent depression. Almost one-fourth of the entire work force was out of work with companies and banks

A VOTE FOR STANOWSKI IS A VOTE FOR JUSTICE

9449 Moon Rd., Saline, Michigan 48176 Phone 313-429-1082

STANOWSKI FOR DISTRICT JUDGE

To the Citizens of Washtenaw County:

I am a candidate for the 14th District Court judgeship because I believe that the quality of the judiciary determines the quality of justice. Respect for the law is the cornerstone of a free and well ordered society. My record, diversified experience and knowledge of the law demonstrates that I can provide the necessary judicial leadership and the high standards of performance that are essential for the respect and cooperation of my fellow citizens within Washtenaw County.
 The community asks much of the criminal court and the court is expected to meet their demands by controlling crime. Controlling crime is not solely the task of the police, the courts or correction agencies. Crime prevention and control requires total involvement and participation of the entire community. Without the interest and participation of the schools, businesses, social agencies, private groups and individual citizens, crime in our society will continue to be a multi-million dollar business. We can no longer tolerate public apathy, reluctance or an inability of the society to take effective action against the criminal element. I believe that we must lead the trend to reverse public accommodation of crime and violence.
 It is my belief that the court has a vital function in balancing the rights of individuals and the needs of the community. The community is entitled to freedom from fear and should not permit the intolerable situation of one man preying upon another. The complex balancing process of protecting the rights of an individual and the interests of the community must be premised upon the principle that people are accountable for their actions and criminals are responsible for their crimes.
 The principles of justice demands complex and time consuming procedures in which the court must separate the innocent from the guilty. However, the guilty, who are convicted, must be punished with reasonable certainty and promptness, so that, the deterrence of crime will not be blunted. A society which does not insure its safety and nourishes lawlessness is governing itself by the absurd.
 In choosing to seek the office of Judge, I have placed my confidence in the Voters of Washtenaw County, and I urge that you now generously respond to my candidacy by placing your confidence in me.

Respectfully,

 John W. Stanowski

JOHN HARTFORD IN CONCERT

Recording artist John Hartford will appear in concert on Monday and Tuesday, August 7 & 8 at the Black Sheep Repertory Theatre in Manchester, Michigan. Show times are at 7:00 and 9:30 p.m. on both dates. All seats are $6.00 and tickets may be obtained by phoning (313) 428-9280. Tickets are also available at Schoolkids Records on E. Liberty St. in Ann Arbor, Michigan and Recordland in Briarwood Mall, Ann Arbor. Mail Order reservations are accepted when accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope and designated show time.
 Joining John will be special guests The New Grass Revival. Hartford is best known for his performances on the Glen Campbell Goodtime Hour and the Smothers Brothers Show. His credits include three Grammy awards and the number one hit single Gentle On My Mind recorded by Glen Campbell. For two years, Gentle On My Mind was the most recorded song in the world. Hartford retains a personal touch with the audience that many performers never have. Low-key and delightful, versatile and intense - these terms can all be applied to the music and performance of John Hartford. This will be John's only area appearance this summer, a rare opportunity to see a great artist at work.
 The New Grass Revival is comprised of Sam Bush (mandolin, fiddle and vocals), Courtney Johnson (banjo, acoustic guitar), Curtis Burch (dobro, guitar, vocals) and John Cowan (bass, vocals). Their music is unique, a vigorous offspring of a love affair between progressive rock and bluegrass combines the best of each: the driving power and freedom of one enhances the acoustic energy of the other, adding a brilliant new dimension to contemporary music.

 Press wishing to attend shows should contact this office not later than Friday, August 4th. Interviews will be granted on request only. Ask for Jim Fleming or Jacque Crandall, (313) 428-9287 or 428-9280.

The Growth of A Company

rising daily while Franklin D. Roosevelt and his Brain Trust were establishing an ever increasing number of alphabet soup departments. There existed in Ann Arbor the Upton-Riggs insurance company consisting of Herbert E. Upton, Sr. as head of the company and Finley B. Riggs, son of the founder and chief engineer of the Ann Arbor Railroad Co. as Vice President. This company dealt in insurance and some small real estate and had offices both in Ann Arbor and the prominent building in Detroit. They met a person by the name of C.W. Childs who was an entrepreneur and designer of small baby type power tools. These three men decided to form a sales organization promoting the sales of such power tools and thus formed Double A Products Co.

The concept for such a company at that time was extremely good because there was a large number of men with ample idle time who could use such tools to make trimmings for sale or to make general repairs of furniture and other household goods. The concept in design was also extra good as all tools were more or less interlocked with other tools so that the craftsman through disassembly and reassembly could produce any of the desired tools.

The basic tool was a small cast iron stand approximately six inches long, seven inches high with two vertical supports which held a horizontal spindle with a pulley in the middle and threaded ends on each side. In these ends could be mounted a grinding wheel, a buffer, a steel brush wheel, a saw blade, a half inch chuck, or a disk on which could be pasted sand paper and be used as a disk sander. They also had a wood lathe, a saw, belt sander and a small eight speed saw. To facilitate completion of a work shop the company also offered a line staff with its bearing supports and all sizes of belts, pulleys, and couplings, chains, etc. Most of these items carried a price to the public under $1.00 with only the jig saw and the lathe at $1.49 and $1.25. Thus the craftsman could complete his work shop over a long period of time at a relatively low cost.

The one thing the three men lacked to get this company off the ground was money. After all materials had to be manufactured and purchased before it could be sold and for that money was a necessity. So they looked for investors and finally found Joseph A. Bursley, Dean of Men at the University of Michigan, and his brother Philip who was a professor in French at the same institution. With the help of these two and their own money they managed to gather a capital of $64,000 and started the company. The manufacture of the tools was to be performed by Robert Smith Co. of Tecumseh and a company in Seneca Harbor, Michigan which later became what is now the Whymore Corp. The company opened up offices on 118 N. 4th Ave., Ann Arbor, Mich. and consisted of a three story office using the basement as a shipping room. The office was furnished with Upton-Riggs insurance and the same help used for both companies. The only persons not used by both companies were Mr. Childs and Nate Porter, the shipping clerk. This was done, of course, to keep labor costs at a minimum.

One of the first breaks which the company received was when S.S. Kresge Company decided to market their tools. At that time S.S. Kresge was much different than it is today. In fact they had been primarily a 5c and 10c store. That is most of the items which they handled sold for the low prices and only about 20% of their total sales were goods whose maximum price was 25c. However, in the early 1930's S.S. Kresge Co. decided to add to their 600 stores approximately 150 stores which would sell goods to the public at a price of more or less $1.00. These stores were to be known as the Dollar stores. The M-Mart stores which we know so well today did not start until the early 1950's. Dealing with such a company had many decided advantages. First of all Kresge policy dictated that all orders were to be mailed on Friday of each week, and would arrive at Double A on Monday or latest Tuesday. Double A took in them approximately 50 specific items hence all orders were preprinted with only the desired quantity of each item noted. Likewise Double A could forward pre-printed invoices with only the quantities shipped shown and extended. There were no records of back orders as the store manager would simply re-order the following week. Re-evaluation of cost prices was only negotiated one year thus orders, invoicing and payment was conducted at a minimum cost. Stores were located all over the eastern and midwestern part of the U.S. and Double A made direct store deliveries to only the Detroit area.

As business grew the location on N.

4th Ave. proved to be highly inadequate and in the summer of 1935 the company moved to the old Leick Saw Mill on N. Fifth Ave. This was an old barrel factory, two stories high with one large building about 50 ft. wide by 70 ft. long and two smaller buildings on the opposite side right next to the Ann Arbor Farmer Market. Of these buildings the larger is still in use and is presently occupied by Kerrytown. This large building was used as a shipping room and storage with the larger tools downstairs and accessories upstairs. One of the two buildings on the opposite side was used for offices and the other for an engineering room upstairs and a pattern shop on the first floor. All buildings were connected with a covered walk upstairs thus movement between all buildings was adequate even in bad weather.

The company owned a small staked bodied truck which was used to make deliveries to the Detroit area Kresge stores and pick up manufactured tools from Tecumseh and Benton Harbor, Pulleys were bought from Congress Tool & Die Co. in Detroit and most other accessories from various manufacturers.

In the fall of 1935, the day after Labor Day to be exact, we joined the company as one of its employees. We had graduated from the University of Michigan and had spent the summer working for the Highway Department of the State of Michigan. By the end of the summer I discovered that we had never registered as a voter.

GROWTH OF A COMPANY

and the department being exclusive democratic was forced to discontinue. We had returned to Ann Arbor and resumed work as a waiter at the Pretzel Bell where we had spent in the same occupation the last two years of our college life. Frequently the office help of Double A had their lunch there and having become acquainted with them it was no big deal to ask them for a job. So we started as helper in the shipping room and being the truck driver whenever the occasion arose. We still get a chuckle when we remember that Mr. Upton always introduced us to V.I.P.'s visiting the plant as a graduate engineer of U of M but when we approached him for a raise his comment was: "Starting as a truck driver you haven't done too badly."

All during this time Double A had one major disadvantage which was to plague it for many years and that was that power tools were not sold during the summer months. The Kresge Co. closed its power tool section from May thru the middle of September and filled it with items which were in greater demand during the warmer weather. Business at Double A went to zero and profit made during the winter was soon eaten up with fixed expenses such as insurance, taxes, and utility costs.

Double A tried to expand its sales with an ever increasing effort and finally added McCrory with stores in the eastern part of the U.S. and in early 1937 managed to get its foot in the door of Sears, Roebuck and Co. Sears at that time was interested in marketing a small Wet Grinder which consisted of a casting approximately 4 inches wide, six inches high and 16 inches long. It had supports on the side to allow a twelve inch sand stone to be mounted and, with the inside of the casting filled with water, one had a good Wet Grinder to be used for sharpening knives, scissors, hoes, or any tool which needed a sharp edge.

About this time Mr. Upton decided that it would be of great advantage to the company to go into manufacturing and he negotiated with Robert Smith of Tecumseh to purchase his plant, and move it lock, stock, and barrel to Ann Arbor. With this company also came a group of men that stayed for a long time, among them Hollie Ayres (now deceased), George Johnston, Robert Service, Tom Martin, and Marvin Meyers (deceased). These men were joined by Shubby Strang, (recently retired) and Roy Kucklerbocker (deceased).

Of this group, Bob Smith was the first to become disenchanted and left the company in early 1939. C.W. Childs had left earlier along with his son Jack, and George Diefenderfer who had been the pattern maker became its engineer. Whenever the shipping room ran out of work I put in my spare time as the draftsman.

It was in 1939 that it became very evident that the building used for manufacturing was very much inadequate. While the downstairs room was adequate enough to hold the manufacturing machines the upstairs had not been designed or built to hold tons of cast iron. The wheels on trucks used to transport castings broke through the floors daily and repair work was almost equal to truck movement. Therefore, Mr. Upton, purchased some land on S. State Street in order to build a new concrete floor factory. The purchase of this land depleted his capital to such an extent that he had not enough left to start the factory.

Then in early 1940 Double A received a visitor of a young man who introduced himself as "Jim Hendley", President of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce. He stated he had heard that Double A was planning to build a factory on S. State St. and suggested that Double A consider Manchester as a likely location. Mr. Upton stated that he would be interested if Manchester could help with the financing. Mr. Hendley, through the Manchester Chamber of Commerce arranged a dinner in the basement of the Manchester Catholic Church for something like fifty Manchester people who wanted an industry in the town. The only factory at that time in town was the Ford plant, then rather small and employing about twenty-five people. The community was in need of additional employment and had plenty of available labor.

Mr. Hendley explained to the group of potential investors that it would take $20,000 for the construction of the factory and for moving expenses. All investors were to receive a promissory note secured by a first mortgage, all of which was

TAX LIMITATION FOR MICHIGAN ELECT JERRY KLEIN

YOUR EAR IN THE 18TH DISTRICT. . .
YOUR VOICE IN LANSING
MORE JOBS. . . MORE BUSINESS
CONSTITUTIONAL LIMITATION ON TAXES

The lack of common sense in our government can be seen in our taxing and spending. They want to tax 2 cents a gallon for gasoline to build a subway in Detroit. But they do not spend enough on our mental hospitals to insure patients are not abused. We are paying the highest taxes in our history and for what? Terrible streets and roads, sewage systems that are inadequate, a broken legal system, an exploding welfare burden. Our government isn't solving problems—it's causing problems.

We cannot hope to reduce the tax load overnight. We must move ahead on three fronts. First, we must establish a business climate that will attract new business to the state and which will encourage the growth of business here. Added business means more jobs, higher incomes for all and less of a tax burden. Secondly, we must reduce the cost of government and stop spending from essential to essential activities. Lastly, we must impose limits on the amount of taxes that may be collected and the amount of borrowing by government. Only with limits on what can be collected will there be limits on spending.

ELECT JERRY KLEIN

There is something fundamentally wrong in the way our government and our society are being run. We are being eaten alive by rising taxes, rising prices, red tape, and regulation. Government is growing faster than the rest of society and its over-spending pushes up taxes and causes inflation. Further, we the people are being forced to go the bidding of the bureaucrats and the politicians, instead of government serving the people.

"We are being treated as if we are nothing or as numbers on some huge list. Politicians are trying to turn our lives into one, am sick and tired of being shoved and manipulated and this is why I am running for office. I intend to shove back for the people."

Daily Vacation Bible School ended Friday evening with a program for parents and friends, with the one hundred and thirty-three children and young people taking part in the singing, reciting of bible verses and telling the stories they learned of Jesus. They were also entertained by the Directors, who were from "The Grand Rapids School of the Bible and Music", with a ventriloquist and his puppets which was much enjoyed. Prizes were awarded to those earning the most points, followed by refreshments and treats for all present.
The children all brought a collection which will be sent to the Church Missionaries.
All agreed it was a very successful Vacation Bible School.

UNION SAVINGS BANK
MEMBER F.D.I.C. MANCHESTER / BRIDGEWATER / PLEASANT LAKE

Jim Hendley, as president of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the committee to get new industry into the community formed a committee consisting of Frank Tirth, Ted Kuhl, Carl Wuerthner, Charles Walt, Township Supervisor, and Bill Dorrance, engineer for Ford Motor Company, to supervise the building of the factory and handling of the money. On May 2, 1940, most of the employees of Double A Products Co. came to Manchester and started digging the foundations for the new factory. They received 10¢ per hour and were given a 35¢ meal donated by the Manchester Chamber of Commerce. The weather was miserable, snow and rain practically all day long but the boys kept their spirits alive by consuming untold quantities of beer and whiskey which they purchased themselves. The building itself was purchased in a knocked down condition and at one time was a Chrysler Sales & Service establishment located on Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. in the block which is now occupied by the Detroit Art Museum. The cost was between $2-3 thousand for the bricks, windows and roof trusses. The building was completed and occupied by Double A on the second of July, 1940, with 35 employees of which 22 were from Manchester.
The company was still selling power tools to S.S. Kreege Co. as well as to some hardware chains. Its largest customer, however, at this time was Sears, Roebuck and Co. for whom they now manufactured a small metal lathe approximately 36 inches long with a five inch swing. By adding a gear train, in which they used white metal gears this lathe could be converted to a screw cutting lathe. These lathes could be bought through the Sears catalog for around $22.00 for the plain lathe and the gear cutting lathe for around $35.00. Most of these tools were shipped to the nine small order houses of Sears. On several occasions the company shipped entire carloads of this merchandise to the west coast.

Of main concern, however, to the company was still the lag of business during the summer months, and the company was in a steady search for the manufacture of items with which to increase their summer sales. Then came December 7, 1941 and with it within thirty days a directive from the U.S. Congress that metal was no longer to be used for the manufacture of domestic goods. With this production at Double A came to a screeching halt.
With the increasing demand for war material, guns, tanks, ships, planes, etc. large companies that held contracts for such items were soon looking for subcontractors to make various parts. Double A became such a subcontractor to General Motors, the Olds Division, and soon was in the manufacture of small gun parts which required lathes, grinders, and polishing for manufacturing. In a short time the company had to go on three eight hour shift per day, seven days per week. This work was of great benefit to Double A as it gave them a chance to buy better and a greater variety of machines with which to manufacture. Also for the first time in its history it had to install an inspection system in order to give them better control over the hardware they produced.
In 1945 the war ended and Double A resumed its role of a small power tool manufacturer. With better machines and equipment to work we were finally allowed to enter the Craftsman line of Sears. This was their lines of their best tools and we also picked up the job of producing a large Table saw. S.S. Kreege and McCrory did not reopen their line of power tools and thus Sears was our only customer. However, the country had not been able to buy any such domestic items for a long time and the demand for them was great, and for the next two years Double A was quite busy.
However the company was still plagued by the lack of business during the summer season. And then late in the fall of 1947 the company ran into a situation which was to change its entire life.
In 1935 Vickers Inc., later a Division of Sperry Rand Corp. started to introduce the transmission of power through the use of hydraulic fluids. *The common use of hydraulic apparatus is due to the fact that properly constructed hydraulic systems possess a number of favorable characteristics.

The deadline for taking advantage of a tax sheltered Individual Retirement Account is a long way off, yet it isn't too early to begin plans.

Remember, if you are not employed where there is an adequate retirement program, you probably qualify for an IRA of your own.

Whatever you contribute to your IRA, and interest earned, is tax free money for the present. You pay taxes on these funds only after you retire and begin drawing from your Individual Retirement Account.

At the time of retirement, you probably will be in a lower tax bracket and thus will pay less tax than you presently pay.

You can make a contribution any-time to an IRA program. However, you may wish to open a regular savings account for this express purpose and order the funds in an IRA at the end of the year.

I hope I haven't confused you. Frankly, the best bet is to stop in and I will personally go over the advantages this type of account has for you.

That's what I am here for, to help you, a member of this community area, to prosper as best I can.

characteristics. Although complex installations have been developed for special purposes those in common use are generally simple in construction. They eliminate the need for complicated systems of gears, cam and levers. Motion can be transmitted without the slack inherent in the use of all machine parts. The liquids used are not subject to breakage as are mechanical parts, and the mechanism itself is not subject to great wear.

NAVY PERS 16193: Standards and Curriculum Division Training Bureau of Naval Personnel, 1945

Although the extensive use of hydraulics is of recent date the ancients were familiar with many hydraulic principles and their application. The Egyptians and later the Romans studied the laws of floating and submerged bodies and applied them for many useful needs.

Many of the valves and pumps manufactured by Vickers Inc. were sold to the Ford Motor Co. and serviced there in the 28-Hi Line Repair and Maintenance shop. Harry McNulty, an electrical engineer and a partner started to manufacture valves under the name of Hydraulic Hi-Speed Co. in a two car garage and sold them to the Ford Motor Co. while at the same time working for Ford. This partnership dissolved in 1942 and was sold to Harry Kipke, former U of M football great and later coach and the company moved to Tireman Rd. in Detroit. Mr. Kipke hired Arch Wilson as general manager and Ray Murphy as sales Engineer. These two men were joined by J.J. Pippenger as Engineer. Pippenger also was working in the repair department of Ford Motor Co. In 1947 the company was faced with a strike and Harry Kipke had been offered a job with the Coca Cola Co. of Chicago. Kipke wanted to live in Chicago and approached his friend H.H. Upton to offer him Hydraulic Hi-Speed Co. After looking over the books of the company Upton realized that here was a business which had sales in the summer and would put Double A Products Co. on solid ground. He met Harry Kipke in Chicago and bought the company for $60,000, with $5000.00 down and $5000.00 per month. THUS it came to pass that while picketers were marching in front of the building, Double A trucks were loading machinery in back and moved Hydraulic Hi-Speed lock, stock and barrel to Manchester. With this company came Wilson, Murphy, Pippenger and Ross of which the first two soon left after the transaction.

Thus in October of 1947 Mr. Upton called me into his office and informed me that he had bought a company that sold hydraulic valves and that I was the manager. I said: "Thanks, Uppy, but what the hell is a hydraulic valve?" "How the Hell should I know" he replied "you are the manager."

Hydraulic Hi-Speed Co. had established the practice of marketing their valves through distributors located in those sections of the country where such valves were in constant demand.

Essentially a hydraulic circuit consists of a source of power furnished by a pump controlled by a relief valve which holds the pressure in the circuit at a predestined pressure. The next important item is the four way valve which directs the fluid to wherever it is required and last the ram which does the actual work. In 1947 the industry had a lot of trouble with the four way valve which essentially consisted of a large cast iron body machined in such a way that it had four ports, pressure, tank, cylinder 1 and cylinder 2. These ports were interlocked by using a large spool and moving it back and forth to obtain the correct connection. Thus fluid under pressure could be diverted to Cylinder 1 while cylinder went to tank and on the reverse cylinder 2 could be pressurized while fluid in cylinder 1 was allowed to empty to tank. The ram was merely a cylinder in which the ram moved and by introducing fluid under pressure at the top the ram would move downward and apply force as needed and after the work was done pressure would be applied at the bottom of the cylinder moving the ram back and pushing the oil in it through the cylinder port back to tank.

Movement of the spool could be accomplished either by fastening a lever on the end of it, or by introducing oil pressure in the end caps, or by fastening large solenoids on each end and actually hammering the spool back and forth. The solenoids used were large push type which took high amperage to energize. The only problem was that these solenoid valves tended to move large volumes of fluid at a high speed causing hammering effects and shock to the rams. In short they were extremely noisy and tended to become hot.

The machine tool industry, that is those men that were building machines using hydraulic circuits requested the fluid power industry to produce valves which would make the machines operate quieter. The oil piloted valves had this feature but the machine tool industry wanted to use solenoid valves since that gave them a chance to use electrical circuits to actuate the machines. Thus the fluid power industry came up with the idea of combining these two methods using solenoids on the oil pilot valve and mounting this valve on top of the main valve. Thus they started the concept of the oil piloted solenoid controlled four way valve. Between 1950 and 1955 there were many refinements in these valves a process which is being carried on even yet today.

Due to the length of this article, the remainder will be in next weeks paper.

REGULAR SEASON STANDINGS

Astros (Manchester)	10	0
Reds (Dexter)	6	2
Athletics (Chelsea)	5	3
Yankees (Dexter)	6	4
Dodgers (Dexter)	4	5
Pirates (Chelsea)	3	7
Royals (Chelsea)	2	7
Orioles (Chelsea)	1	9

On Saturday the 15 year-old All Stars traveled to Lansing for the District Tournament. Unfortunately they ran into a strong Saline team and lost 7-2. Saline jumped on pitcher Tom Malcolm for four runs in the first inning. The Chelsea team countered with two runs immediately and played even until the seventh when errors by Chelsea allowed three more runs. Jeff Fourty had three hits and Dave Kennedy two hits but overall the Chelsea All Stars were unable to put enough hits together to produce many runs.

This Saturday, July 22, a team of 13 year-old All Stars will venture to Grass Lake for a tournament. From Chelsea the All Stars will be Bob Trevino, Matt Villamore, Dave Wojcik, Tim Whitesell, Will Morley, Jamie Owinga, Randy Krichbaum and Dale Peck. Dexter will send Ted Aeschliman, Walt Edwards and Phil Gumtco. Manchester will send Jim Krzyzaniak and Pete Johnson.

SCHEDULE

Monday-Dodgers vs Orioles at Chelsea. Astros vs Yankees at Dexter. Royals vs Reds at Dexter.

Tuesday-Royals vs Athletics at Chelsea. Wednesday-Yankees vs Orioles at Chelsea.

Thursday-Pirates vs Astros at Chelsea. Friday-Pirates vs Dodgers at Dexter. Athletics vs Reds at Dexter.

With fine weather providing the setting the Babe Ruth teams played a full schedule and as the standings show the Astros continue to be the team to beat. The depth of the Astros pitching was evident as two new pitchers, Doug Van Deven and Nick Krzyzaniak, won games against the Pirates and Athletics. Jeff Catanese won a third game against the Reds. The Pirates provided the stiffest test yet for the Astros as Dan Alber, returning from an injury, baffled the Astros with good side arm pitching. Dan limited the Astros to only three runs. Unfortunately the Pirates could manage only two runs as they lost 3-2. In addition to the performance by Alber a fine game was produced by Joel Krichbaum in an earlier contest against the Orioles. Joel was the winning pitcher and contributed two solid hits.

The second place Reds continued to play fine baseball as they beat the Dodgers solidly 17-0 with Dave Kennedy pitching a no-hitter, as probably the best pitching performance in the league this summer. Rob Ianni helped in the game by contributing six RBI's with three hits. Ted Aeschliman had four RBI's with a homerun, double and single.

CARD OF THANKS
I would like to thank the people in this community of Manchester that helped me win the trip to California.

I would especially like to thank Jay Lantis for putting the whole contest on. I would like to thank the people that work in the store and the people on the outside that helped to count the points. Thanks alot it was the most wonderful trip I have ever had.

Thank you, Alicia Seeger

I'd like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who remembered me in many kind ways while I was hospitalized and since returning home. I appreciated the prayers, gifts, cards and kindnesses too numerous to mention. Your thoughtfulness will long be remembered. Special thanks to Fr. Schlinkert and Fr. Dupuis for their visits and prayers. Allen (Spike) Benedict

Many, many thanks to our friends and relatives and neighbors. The gifts of food and memorials and flowers were very much appreciated. The family of Fred Buss

I would like to thank all the people for their great effort and donations toward the fireworks and a special thanks to the Manchester Fire Department, the Village of Manchester and to the Traveling Smiles Childrens Theatre, Mr. Jim Fleming and the whole cast.

We will have the sign in the Union Savings Bank for public viewing and also for donation for next year's fireworks. This is the Jaycees second year of running this project and would like to keep on with this community service.

I would also like to say that we will have our dunk tank and other games at the Fair this year and there will be a Fun Day for the kids, so be looking out for more details in the paper as to time and date of events sponsored by the Jaycees.

So thanks again residents of Manchester for your donations and great turn out for a successful project.

Cemetery Association Needs Your Help

by C. Chapin
The Manchester Area Cemetery Association, quietly and efficiently dedicated, has for a great many years gone about its work without noise or fuss. The Association, so little in the focus of the community attention, serves as volunteers, to safeguard and maintain the beautiful grounds west of town. More than a hundred years have passed since the cemetery was moved from the center of town to the present location, one of the loveliest spots in our valley.

11,000 CHICKEN DINNERS SETS NEW RECORD

Announcer Dr. Glen Lehr and Luke Schaible Orchestra.

COMMUNITY FAIR TABLOID MAILED

Manchester had its day in the sun last Thursday. A new record was set when over 11,000 people were served Manchester's famous broiled chicken dinner. Guests came to Manchester from all parts of Michigan, from many other states and from foreign countries to join in the celebration of our 25th annual broil.

Thanks to the cooperation of the weather man and the detailed pre-planning by the 55 volunteer working committees, there were no long waiting lines. 550 volunteers served our first guests at 4:00 P.M. and all were served by 8:30 P.M.

Luke Schaible's Band entertained the dinner guests throughout the afternoon and evening.

Governor Milliken arrived about 6:30 and mingled with the guests for over an hour. Before leaving he spoke briefly over the loud speaker system. He was presented with a framed picture of the now famous Manchester chicken and a Broil tee-shirt as mementos of his visit to our village.

Gene Bentschneider, General Chairman, said it was a great day for Manchester and extended his thanks to all of the citizens of the Manchester area who supported this special 25th Annual Broil and the hundreds of volunteers who gave of their time and talents to assure it's success.

The Fair Parade in Manchester has got to be one of the best around. The theme of the parade this year is "Outer Space - Science Fiction." We hope many people are getting ideas together to participate in the parade. Contact parade chairman, Clarence Fielder or Gene Bentschneider. Continued on page 3
