THETA ALPHA PHI WILL PRESENT ANOTHER PLAY

"TAKE A TIP FROM ME" TO BE TITLE OF NEXT OFFERING.

To Be Produced at Little Theatre
December 10.

Take a Tip from Me," a four-act comedy to be produced by Theta Alpha Phi, national dramatics fraternity, will be presented at the Little Theatre Thursday evening, Dec. 10, at 8:15.

The play centers around the political difficulties of the small town of Eureka. The village newspaper, the Eureka News, is the means by which most of the propaganda is spread.

Bob Mannion, youthful editor of the paper, is unable to publish everything he wishes because of his employer's opposition to Wargrim, town boss. Wargrim's disposition is a thing to be feared, and the town is kept from advancement by his hold upon the rest of the population.

Jimmy Samson, persistent salesman, comes to Eureka with the intention of reforming it over night. "The only reason," he says, "that Rome wasn't built in a day was because they didn't have my slogan."

Through the efforts of Peggy Acton, charming young millionaire actress, the town is able to throw off the shackles and come into its own. Suspense gives way to comedy in the personage of Mrs. Nelson Dodd, social leader, whose main ambition is helping the poor, and who is about to embark on her third matrimonial voyage. Judge Fenton, town bum, whose great aim in life is not to do any work, plays a very interesting part in his role. Like her father, the terrible Wargrim, Marcia helps in keeping the town in the rut. Peggy Samson, Bob's sister, is taken up with a struggle with Jimmy Samson throughout most of the play.

With plenty of good talent and thorough instruction in their parts, the following cast promises to give the audience something entirely worth while:

Bob Mannion—J. Dale Medill; Vircy Mannion—Margaret Moinet; John Wargrim—Frank Haven; Marcia Wargrim—Sylvia Schimmele; Judge Fenton—William Hathaway; Jimmy Samson—William Scott.

PHYSICAL EDS GIVE CO-ED CONVOCATION

Posture Subject of Co-ed Meeting.

An all-co-ed convocation was held Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the home economics building. It was sponsored by the women's advanced physical education classes, the topic being Posture.

The president of the Women's Athletics Association, Margaret Foote, presided and speeches were given by several of the girls. Florence Pankhous spoke on posture in general; Elaine Walker talked about care of the feet and the wearing of proper shoes. Phoebe Taft spoke on proper sitting positions and slouching. Rachel Brooks read a paper on Health by Irene Carlisle. There was also an interesting style show, in which Elaine Robertson posed as having poor posture and Dorothy Sprague as having good posture.

Boarding Club at Wells Hall Makes Big Cut in Cost of Living

The high cost of living holds no fears for Michigan State college men who are fortunate enough to obtain their meals at the boarding club in Wells Hall, the men's dormitory.

According to the audit for the fall term which has just been completed, the cost per week for the term has been $3.74.

The price is somewhat higher than usual this term and is probably due in part to the fact that it has been necessary at times to pay as high as $2.50 per bushel for

The club is run on a cooperative basis and is managed by Mrs. K. Joslin, who has three assistants. There are three paid stewards who record attendance and represent the students in the management. In addition to the paid help, there are about 50 students who work for their President Butterfield.

F. J. Great, who is the purchasing agent for the club, has held this office for 20 years. The business department of the college under H. H. Halladay does the auditing and this is the only connection that the college has with the club.

The club meat bill amounts to between $1,000 and $2,000 per month. About 10 bushels of potatoes are used each day. The bread bill averages about $300 per month. At least 70 pieces are required for a meal and either pie or cake is served each day. The students are given a chicken dinner nearly every Sunday.

Before President Kenyon L. Butterfield came to Michigan, when he was president of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, he sent a man to Michigan State college to investigate the system used at the college boarding club in order to find out how it was managed so economically.

"It is the cheapest good board furnished at any college in the United States that I know of," says President Butterfield.

Rooms may be obtained in the dormitory as low as $15 per term, which means that a student may obtain board and room for a term of 12 weeks under $65.

Y. W. FINANCIAL DRIVE MAKES GOOD START

Many Houses Pledge 100 Per Cent in Annual Subscription.

The finance drive of the Y. W. C. A. held on the campus the past week, resulted in $302 pledged toward a $200 goal. College houses pledged as follows:

Ero Alphian, Sesame, second floor Woman's building; Kappa Delta, Tap House, and Alpha Phi, 100%; Theta, 65%; Abbott Hall, 92%; Hillcrest, 83%; College Residence, 81%; Sorority, 72%; Alpha Gamma Delta, 64%; Vedder House, and first floor Woman's building, 62%; Pythian, 57%; Strong House, 52%; fourth floor Woman's building, 46%; third floor Woman's building, 22%.

If anyone has not pledged yet, or has failed to receive a pledge card, it is not too late to obtain them from the organization.

DECEMBER "GREEN ONION" ON SALE WED. MORNING

Trott and Hahn Present Their Ideas of Christmas In Cartoon Form.

ANNUAL MILITARY BALL SATURDAY

Two Vaudeville Acts to Be Staged During Intermission.

December issues of the Green Onion will be on sale tomorrow morning in the various buildings on the campus.

This number is the second under the editor's management. Features of especial interest are a series of holiday take-offs, and again the "Campus Primer." The latter should arouse much interest, as it did in the last issue, among all aspirants to be "big men on the campus."

Numerous novel cartoons by Trott and Hahn have been prepared for the December issue. A special three-color cover has been prepared by Hahn, characteristic of the Christmas season.

The annual infantry dance, under the auspices of the infantry unit of the military department of the college, will be held on Saturday evening, Dec. 12, in the 119 Field Artillery armory, in Lansing.

This party will be open to outsiders as well as college people, and it is expected that many people from Lansing will attend.

Plans have been made to include two novelty vaudeville acts to be staged during the intermission, and military decorations will be in evidence about the hall.

The patrons will be the officers of the local military department. An attempt is being made to bring as a guest some prominent figure in military circles.

Students may CLASSIFY THIS WEEK

Practically All Divisions Can Classify for Next Term.

It is possible for practically all students to classify this week instead of waiting until next term as has been done in the past.

Students in the agricultural division are requested to see their class officers on Dec. 10 or 11 for pre-classification. The applied science division also gives students the chance to classify this week. The engineering department will classify students this week if they so desire, but expect that only irregular students will call. The home economics department desires that all students classify this week if possible. Only irregular students in the liberal arts division need appear before the end of the term for classification.

Students will be assigned to class sections on Monday, Jan. 4.

Will Place Bronze Tablet In Union Bldg. Commemorating M. S. C. Casualties in Three Wars.

Parties two Michigan State college divisions are in hand for the preliminary tryouts in the Union vaudeville chorus. Tuesday evening, eight girls had been members of last year's chorus, but six will have to prove their worthiness over the others before they are chosen again this year.

Selections to be determined on two points of quality of voice and dancing ability. Miss Neva Bradley and Miss Evelyn Supply, instructors of dancing, will be judges in the later.

Tests in singing took up the time

Thursday evening, but no decision was reached. The girls were told to appear next Thursday evening prepared to sing some simple song and dance acts in groups of four. Final selections will then be made.

Washington D. C. alumni of Michigan State college have provided the funds and have ordered a bronze tablet which will bear the names of alumni and former students of the college who have given their lives for their country. More than 60 names will be inscribed on the tablet of which about 50 were in the world war. The others were in the Spanish-American and the civil wars.

The tablet will be placed in the lobby of the Union building in the near future and it is expected that it will be formally unveiled Memorial day.

Students will be assigned to class sections on Monday, Jan. 4.

FELLOWCRAFT DEGREE TEAM PUTS ON INITIATION

Takes Charge of Degree Work For Leslie Chapter.

The Michigan State college Fellowcraft club, in its initial trip of the season, journeyed en masse to Leslie where it put on the complete work of initiation for the third degree of Masonry for the chapter there.

An elaborate banquet and special entertainment was held before the meeting, in honor of the Michigan

State degree team. The lodge meeting in the evening was attended by over 300 members from different sections of the state, who were especially interested, and commented favorably on the work put on by the

GEORGE WOODBURY, MANAGING EDITOR FOR DECEMBER

"THE PENNILESS MILLIONAIR"

"Acres of Diamonds" will hereafter be confined mostly to books, for the great Russell H. Conwell is dead.

Dr. Conwell stands out as one of the most surprising men of the dollar age. He had the ability of amassing boundless wealth. It is said that his lectures earned more than $11,000,000, but he gave the whole sum away for the sake of education.

Society places highest value upon the wealthiest. The more money a man has, the more likely will he be the ideal of society. Yet, Dr. Conwell with his masterly oratory, with his idealism, and practicalness has the admiration and respect of those who knew him or of him.

He gave the famous "Acres of Diamonds" lecture 6,152 times. He memorized 28 lectures and gave them without notes. He was said of have addressed a largest audience than any of his contemporaries.

He has paved the way for financial success and happiness for thousands, but chose for his life one of accomplishment rather than wealth, when he could have had either or both. He did ~~several~~ millions away so that his name might live as the name of a university. He, himself, established a university, and as its president advanced Temple university far into educational accomplishment.

HONOR BRIGHT

"This above all; to thine own self be true,
And it must follow as the night the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man."

One of the biggest rogues of literature said that there is all the space in the universe between knowing what is right and doing what is right.

If all the people who did good because good is good to do were put in a balance against those who know what is good to do and don't do it, the first group—because the scales would go down so fast on the other side—would be tossed through the stars.

If we all practiced for ourselves what we preach to the other fellow, we'd have heaven on earth quicker than a shark could sell a front lot in Miami.

But if we all preached what we practiced we'd have some poorer preaching than students don't go to hear in East Lansing.

The power of one honest man has never been measured—because you can't get the measure of an honest man. His circumference is everywhere. One lie makes a man measurable; two lies make him more measurable; three lies, however, shrink him so that he is as safe from being measured as an imaginary point existing somewhere in undemonstrated space.

The power of an honest man is lifting power. Sadow used to put thirteen men on a platform, and lift them all. An honest man can beat that; he can lift a whole college full of men and ponies.

Speaking of ponies: one of the greatest feats of ancient times was that of Samson. Samson caught three hundred foxes and tied their tails together. He was a strong runner. But the chap that can catch all the ponies on a college campus and tie their tails together will make Samson look like a picayune in the pocket of a miser.

It is ever interesting to hear students say: "If we only had the honor system here we'd go square. We want to be put on our honor."

People that don't know that they are on their honor till someone tells them they are not likely to stay on the little they have after they have been told.

A good citizen doesn't feel insulted by every policeman he meets. If you feel insulted—grapenuts.

One of the golden rules of Robert Louis Stevenson was this: "When you feel afraid to speak, speak up at once."

If there are some spine-containing bipeds at Michigan State and these latest products of evolution want to get rid of some cribbing, let them stand up in class and call cheating. That would hit it hard. Remember Abe Lincoln at the slave auction? And, of course, a man would have to have a clean fist in order to hit hard. Is your honor bright? Motto for examweek: HONOR BRIGHT.

—W.

Co-ed Edna Says:

Well, they got the hockey finals played off at last! I've been waiting for that most of the term.

I hope the seniors feel properly舒ched—letting the lowly freshmen beat them that way.

Although I haven't noticed that the freshmen have been particularly "lowly" this term.

I will now allow any upper-classman to tell that stock story which begins, "Now, when I first came to school, things were certainly different."

But to return to the inter-class games, if you don't mind, girls, I'd like to see that soccer final finished off, too. Do you feel that's the proper attitude to be afraid of a little snow? Why, if I were on that team, the game would have been played and won long ago!

In the days when sport was really sport, frost-bitten toes and frozen noses were the ordinary thing. That was before boys took up the games and made them so gentle.

You all heard the ex-coach tell how he fed his football team on raw meat? Well, when soccer first became a popular sport, we didn't even do that for the players—we made 'em bite it right out of the animal whole!

I've heard a lot of gossip lately, but the latest is about that sign someone saw in the Union: "Girl wanted, to take care of children. Apply to Mr. Pace."

And that same someone asked me how long fraternity houses had been orphan asylums.

Said they had always heard they were considered insane asylums.

Now that W. A. A. initiation is over, we can stop worrying about the health of our athletic co-eds. I don't believe any casualties resulted, either.

Now, if it had been a man's athletic organization, we should have been kept awake all night by shouts of "Twelve o'clock, and all's well!"

My only hope is that the co-eds will form an honorary rifle fraternity and then we shall have some fun.

I'd do anything to get even with the boys that kept me awake so many nights for fear they would fire a shot through the window.

By the way, rifle is coming along fast. The girls started their practice in the armory two weeks ago. Practice is being held every Tuesday evening through the winter term.

Just a suggestion to the Y. W. If you can't get enough toward your goal from the girls, tackle the fellows. They always have plenty of money, and I know they'd certainly be willing to give you all you need.

FRIENDS
You would have given me casual friendliness
Such as you give to anyone you like;
Light chat, and gaiety, and compliment,
And all onlookers would have called us friends.
But I flung back such easy offerings,
Demanding that which others did not claim;
In place of compliment I wrung from you
The stumbling, difficult truth—in place of chat
Deep silences as tender as the stars—
And in the place of all that pleasantness
Of casual contact, we have found instead
A comradeship that pierces to the core—
A stabbing joy forever tipped with pain.

RETORT
Can you warm your hands by a star?
Is the west wind good to eat?
Can you find on the crimson sunset clouds
A solid place for your feet?

Do you think inter-society and inter-fraternity sports should be encouraged?

Hugh Robinson, '26 S.

I believe inter-society and inter-fraternity sports should be encouraged as they are an aid in securing physical benefits, a method of creating better sportsmanship, and a means of promoting a feeling of good-fellowship among societies.

Dorothy MacEnchron, '26 L.

If inter-society and inter-fraternity sports can be carried on in the light of true sportsmanship, with an idea of fellowship and friendly competition in view, it seems to me that they should be encouraged. If such is not the case, it is up to the groups of men and women at M. S. C. to do away with one factor which is destroying inter-society and inter-fraternity good will.

Carl Bittner, '26 Hort.

Inter-fraternity sports should be encouraged because too few take part in sports as it is, and to get more people out for athletics, they should be developed.

Annie Laurie Walls, '26 L.

I am in favor of inter-fraternity and inter-society sports. It seems to me that there is not enough of such intercourse here. It would tend to promote better feeling and fellowship between societies and also consolidate the student body. Why not independent teams as well? Who knows but what latent material may be found among those who would help their society—not feeling adequate for varsity teams?

Thomas Belt, '26 Forestry.

I heartily believe in inter-society and inter-fraternity sports. They should be encouraged because by developing society teams material can often be found for varsity teams.

A joint paper was prepared by Dr. Kimball and Dr. Duffenbach for this meeting, its subject being "Distribution of Potential."

"Some Phases of Statistics." All members of the staff and others interested are invited.

ENGINEERING DEPT. HAS ELECTRICAL TYPEWRITER

The M. S. C. electrical engineering department has received an electric typewriter which requires only a slight touch to the key board and an electrically operated cam causes the type bar to strike.

As the impression is absolutely uniform, the work from this machine looks like real printing. This last feature is especially valuable where a number of carbon copies are to be made as each copy is of uniform legibility. The electrical department is very glad to have anyone interested examine the machine.

Do College Students Insure Their Lives? The Answer Seems to be "Yes"

Do You Know

That in a test recently made with upper-class students of both sexes in fourteen representative colleges, 140 out of 351 said they carried life insurance policies?

It is significant that 40% of undergraduates have insurance on their lives—a notable advance over what prevailed twenty, or even ten, years ago. This shows that college students and their parents think life insurance is of considerable use in connection with the educational program.

Parents believe in it because they have something invested for the benefit of their children. Students realize that their lives have an economic value.

The John Hancock is particularly interested in insuring college men and women and in obtaining college graduates for the personnel of the field staff.

RECENTLY some one said to a prominent official of the Bell System:

"Your pioneering work is done. You have created a system that makes a neighborhood of the nation."

"Our pioneering work has just begun. Each day brings new problems, new discoveries, new developments, all calling for broader, visioned handling on a larger scale than ever before. The Social Whirl

Edited by
ERVA PRESCOTT
Kappa Delta House

Before the storm the calm might well be used to express the social activities on the State campus the past week. Last week-end was absolutely dead as far as society was concerned while this week saw nine parties. The Alpha Gamma Deltas, Hesperians and Olympics entertained with fall term parties, while the Alpha Phis, Eunomians and Trimmo-ras held open houses and the annual Farmers' hop and junior party took place.

Olympic Venison Roast

The Olympic society held its annual fall term formal venison roast at the Masonic temple with about 45 couples in attendance. The dinner program took the form of a hunt with E. Eckert as toastmaster and D. Schellenger responded with "The Chase." A. Vogel with "The Deer," M. Messer with "The Campfire" while A. Edmonds gave "The Council." The Jackson DeMolay orchestra was hidden in a tiny log cabin which was completely surrounded by evergreens. Patrons and guests for the affair included Dean and Mrs. Bissell, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hasselman, Prof. and Mrs. J. F. Cox, Prof. and Mrs. S. E. Crowley, Mr. and Mrs. J. Heppenstahl, Coach and Mrs. R. Young, Coach and Mrs. J. H. Kobs, J. L. Taylor, Col. and Mrs. Sherburne, M. Casteel, Prof. and Mrs. M. M. Cory and Mr. and Mrs. Redding.

Alpha Gamma Delta

The Alpha Gamma Delta fraternity held its fall term informal in Ag hall Friday evening with about 60 couples in attendance including Mr. and Mrs. R. Shaw and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Halladay who served as patrons and patronesses for the occasion, and Misses Katherine Leacock of Detroit and Elsie Penegor of Ypsilanti who were guests. The decorations were of a Christmas nature and favors were tiny Christmas stockings while the Wolverine State Collegians played.

Annual Farmers' Hop

The annual farmers' hop, sponsored by the Ag club, was staged in Ag hall Saturday evening with about 100 couples in attendance. Features of the evening were various stunts, rubber's dances and the choosing of the most appropriately dressed couples. Acting as patrons were Mr. and Mrs. R. Shaw and E. B. Hill.

Hesperian

The annual fall term informal of the Hesperian society was staged in the Masonic temple Friday evening with the Reid-Kenyon orchestra as music makers. The place was decorated with ferns and palms and about 50 couples, including Mr. and Mrs. Stach and Mr. and Mrs. J. Hasselman as patrons enjoyed the affair.

Junior Party

The class of '27 acted as hosts to the other classes at an informal party in the Union Saturday evening. Furnishing music for the occasion was Diederich's orchestra, while Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Huston and Mr. and Mrs. E. S. King were patrons for the affair.

Union Party

The last Union party of the term was staged in the Union Friday evening with the Michigan State Union orchestra furnishing the music. Colored lights produced a novel effect.

Trimoiria

The Trimoirians entertained about 30 couples at a house party held at the society home Friday evening. The ballroom was decorated with the society colors of maroon and gray. Dancing was enjoyed throughout the evening, the music being furnished by the Collegiate Three. Refreshments were served during the dance intermission. Patrons for the affair were Prof. and Mrs. M. M. Cory and J. W. Sheedy and Miss Signe Carlson.

Alpha Phi

The pledges of the Alpha Phi fraternity entertained with a Christmas dance at the house Friday evening. The house was decorated in keeping with the season, a huge Christmas tree occupying the most prominent place. The feature of the evening was the presenting of Christmas gifts to the 40 guests present. Patronizing the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Bassil Brewer and Mrs. Waterbury.

Misses Leona DeYoung and Ann Yearsley of Boston were house guests during the past week-end.

Miss Ruth Ranney of Greenville visited her sister June during the past week.

The fraternity is planning to hold a Christmas party Tuesday evening.

Eunomian

About 40 couples were in attendance at the society open house Saturday evening. H. C. Rather and Mr. and Mrs. K. M. Seudder acted as patrons and music was furnished by Hines' orchestra. Alumni who returned for the affair were J. Smiley of Detroit and R. Schingle of Saginaw.

Sororian

Mrs. Carl Gladay (Helen Wales) visited the house Friday. Mrs. Gladay was a former member of the class of '28.

Miss Edna Brown and her family were here this week-end. Edna is at Merrill Palmer this term.

Miss Rowena Hicks of the class of '26 was married Saturday, Dec. 5, to John Ablanpal of Chicago.

Phi Kappa Phi

L. B. Wheeler and J. G. Lakin have been selected as delegates to the Phi Kappa Phi convention at Chicago the latter part of December. C. W. McIntyre and J. H. Lenz, alumini, will also attend.

The fraternity announces the following pledge list: O. J. Scheuster, Battle Creek; E. J. Sekendie, Chas. Beeman, Manistee; W. L. Olson, Benzonia; S. J. Graf, Grand Rapids; J. W. Welch, Vassar; J. C. Howell, Battle Creek; R. L. Jacobs, C. M. Walker and L. W. Raymond, of Detroit.

The fraternity has won the first two indoor baseball games played against the Columbians and Delta Sigma Phis.

Hillcrest

Helen Fowler of Grand Rapids was the guest of Biddy Gibson over the week-end.

Marian Pulver spent the week-end at Ann Arbor.

J. H. Gillis of New York city spent the fore part of the week with his daughters, Fay and Beth.

College Residence

Ellen Lamar of Grand Ledge was the week-end guest of Ilo Smith, while Mary Batchelor entertained Marian Batchelor and Betty Nichols.

Strong House

Georgia Rann entertained Rachel Moore during the past week-end.

Laura Steinmetz spent the weekend at her home in Davison, while Ferri Earner visited in Battle Creek and Agnes Baynes and Irene Roth were in Birmingham.

Practice House

Miss Clarissa Anderson of Grand Rapids was a house guest during the week-end.

Kappa Delta

Misses Bernice Shaw of Grand Rapids and Edythe Sundell of Owosso were house guests over the week-end.

The sorority is planning to hold a Christmas party Wednesday evening.

Phi Kappa Tau

L. Smith and T. Oldenberg were in Muskegon for the week-end.

The date for the winter term formal has been set for March 6. The affair will be staged at the Kerns hotel.

Phylean

Herbert Hall, Gus Drain, Herbert Chilton and Carl Miller were house guests over the past week-end.

Pythian

R. B. Weaver gave a very interesting talk at a literary meeting last Monday evening.

The society held a Christmas bazaar in the Collegian Flower Shop Dec. 6 and 7.

Phi Delta

Mr. and Mrs. McLandress of Saginaw were guests Sunday afternoon.

ON MICHIGAN STATE GRID IN 1926CORNELL AND COLGATE WILL BE INVADED IN EAST BY GREEN AND WHITE; OTHERS TO BE BOOKED.

Four major gridiron engagements, two of them possible to be played at the East Lansing stadium, were the results of Director of Athletics Young's visit to Chicago the past week when he attended the meeting of Western Conference and Middle Western coaches and officials.

Colgate and Cornell are definitely settled to be played on the eastern gridirons at Hamilton, N. Y., and Ithaca respectively. The Cornell outfit which is coached by "Gloomy" G. Dobbie, will be hosts to the Green and White October 16. The date of the Colgate encounter is still tentative.

The University of Michigan and Centre College of Danville, Kentucky have both been booked for 1926, according to Coach Youngs, but where the games will be played is still a matter of conjecture. It is possible that both Michigan and Centre will be met at East Lansing, probably at least one of the two will appear here next season. With these two games on the

FROSH HOCKEY TEAM
DEFEATS SENIORSFinal Game Secures Championship for Fresh.

The seemingly unbeatable freshmen defeated the seniors in a properly-played hockey game last Saturday morning. The score was 7-5 and decisively establishes the first year girls as the champions, and raises their hopes in soccer to the highest peak.

The teams were very well matched, as is shown by the score, and the games were hard fought. Both teams deserve credit for their skill.

dium should be filled to capacity on the merit of the game played this past season.

Coach Young also has several minor schools in view from which he will probably select one to appear here in an early season game.

Wrestling, swimming, and baseball schedules were also tentatively arranged and will be announced from the director's office within a short time.

and Nevers of Stanford combine the necessary qualities beyond the fondest hopes of any coach.

Friedman of Michigan, to whom is awarded the quarterback berth, is especially capable in one line passing. Passers of the variety of the Maize and Blue flash come few and far between, and in full realization of the prowess of Brick Muller, the California marvel, and Hoge Workman, one of Ohio State's idols in this field, we feel safe in declaring Friedman an equal to any passer seen within the last decade. He is also an open-field runner of note with runs from kickoff to his credit this season. He is also a smart field general, and an accurate place-kicker.

The halfback positions go to Grange and Oberlander. The capabilities of Grange are as communists' fairy tales and need not be commented upon. To say the least, few equals in carrying the ball have ever been seen on a college gridiron.

Oberlander, the Dartmouth ace, combines the ability to punt, pass, run, and in fact to do everything demanded of a halfback in a manner beyond reproach. With Dartmouth acknowledged as the power of the east, and Oberlander topping the offense of the team with his passing and running, something of the versatility of the man can be realized.

Ernie Nevers of Stanford, in the mind of the writer, is one of the greatest fullbacks ever to don gridirons, and wins the fullback berth. Nevers is a throwback on the primitive in his line-crushing, steam-roller planking, and shattering of opposing lines. On top of this he handles all the other functions of a back with equal facility, and as a defensive fullback compares favorably with Mallory of Yale, who is remembered for his play in the east.

This completes a backfield which would test the powers of the best defensive team. All four backs are capable of slicing gains off tackle or around the ends. Oberlander and Nevers are almost always equal to yardage through the line. All four men are available on passes, with Friedman hurling the most of them. Each man can kick, handle punts and form interference.

STRONG LINEMEN

On the line, Oosterbaan of Michigan and Tully of Dartmouth give the team one of the most capable pair of ends seen in years. Oosterbaan, on the receiving end of Friedman's tosses, proved to be the necromancer of the football season. He would reach out and catch passes from impossible positions and is undoubtedly one of the greatest receivers.
