TAKE MOVIES OF THIS YEAR J-HOP SCENES

REPORTS OF ELIGIBILITY COMMITTEE INDICATE LARGEST OF ALL HOPS.

DECORATING BEGUN

Representatives From Detroit Arts and Crafts Studio Arrive Monday.

An opportunity that may come but once in a lifetime, that of appearing in moving pictures, will be given to the guests of the J-Hop Friday night. Decorations will be taken of the grand march and other incidents of interest during the evening.

Representatives of the Detroit Arts and Crafts studio arrived Monday and are preparing to begin the huge task of decorating the Union building. Many student helpers will be required to aid in the work and will be excused from classes during the last of the week.

The massive hammered brass and iron which have been purchased by the members of the general arrangements committee to be presented to the Union will be installed this week and will be used in the fireplace in the main lobby on the evening of the Hop.

Decorative posters for the J-Hop, which have been made by the college art department under the direction of Prof. A. G. Schoele, have been placed in prominent places in East Lansing and on the campus.

Reports from the eligibility committee chairman, Stanley Hartsell, indicate that the attendance this year will be greater than ever before. Many juniors and seniors who did not attend last year signed up last week and Monday and Tuesday were busy plays for those who were attending to collection of fees and the assignment of tables.

It will not be possible to sign up for the Hop later than Tuesday night, Feb. 16, as it will be necessary for the Union management to know by Wednesday morning how many will attend in order to make all the arrangements for serving the banquet.

With the completion of all plans—decorations of an entirely new type, an orchestra such as has never been surpassed at any Michigan State soiree. (Continued on page 2)

HOO HOO CLUB TO HOLD MEETING IN UNION BLDG.

Pres. Butterfield to Be Principle Speaker; Senior Forestry Students to Be Guests.

President Butterfield will be the principal speaker at the midwinter meeting of the Central Michigan Hoo-Hoo club Nov. 17, which will be held in the Union building tomorrow night.

A dinner will be served in the dining room at 6:30, with music by college students. Seniors in the forestry division will be guests of the club. It is planned to have an exhibit of a large number of forest products for display at this meeting. A demonstration of the Brunswick "panatrop" will also be made by a representative of a Lansing merchant.

NEW SHORT COURSES STARTED LAST WEEK

Many Noted Lecturers Have Been Secured to Assist in Courses.

The new short courses which started last Monday had a busy week getting under way and reported a large registration for special short courses.

The courses include a four week truck and tractor course, two week beekeeping course, and a one week fruit growers course. The truck and tractor course deals with the principles of the truck and tractor on the farm. The fruit growers course is a special instruction course for nursery salesmen. The beekeepers course is brief but intensified, emphasizing the principles of beekeeping as well as the problems confronting the industry. The course will include discussions of the following: Bee behavior, Michigan honey plants, systems of management, swarm control measures, bee diseases, queen rearing, wintering bees and honey marketing. A special feature of this week will be lectures and demonstrations by Jay Smith of Vincennes, Ind. His lectures will cover queen rearing, apiculture management and production methods. Mr. Tenny, head of the short courses, said that Smith's appearance would draw a great many outside of the course.

NOTICE!

All seniors who expect to teach next year or be recommended by the department of education for a certificate in June or August, should register this week at the department office, old library building. Students who have already filled out the application blank need not report.

U. OF M. DEPUTATION TEAM HOLDS SERVICES

Various Church and Church School Services in People's Church Visited by Michigan Men.

A team from the Christian association of the University of Michigan were visitors at the various church and church school services in the People's church last Sunday.

This team is similar to the deputation team of Michigan State in that it conducts services in many nearby towns.

Members of the team are: Ronis Laskert, president of the Student Christian association; Howard McCuskey, professor in the department of psychology; Ralph Harlan, graduate of Princeton and teacher in the department of public speaking; Harry Hawkins and Jack Lovette, members of the football squad.

LIBERAL ARTS COURSE BRINGS TO END MOST SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Versatility of Numbers Affords Entertainment to People of All Tastes.

Fraser Gange, prominent baritone in singing last Wednesday evening at the gymnasium, brought to an end one of the most successful liberal arts courses ever to be presented to any college audience.

The committee in charge of the course should be complimented upon their choice of artists. When the arts course was first established at the college but a few years ago, prices for programs were from $75 to $100. This year the numbers ran from $300 to $600. The ability of the artists in all cases justified the prices paid.

Versatility was the feature of the entire course. Beginning with Alfred Noyes, poet laureate of England, and concluding with Fraser Gange, famous Scotch baritone, the course included numbers of interest to athletes, explorers, scientists, musicians, and the public in general.

Charles Laddock, foremost among American athletes, appeared here in November. While, as would be expected, his talk was largely about the athlete, it was one of interest to any. (Continued on page 2)

CHEMISTRY CLUB FORMED AT M. S. C.

J. H. Barlett Chosen President; Plan to Affiliate With National Fraternity.

A Chemistry club composed of students and graduate assistants, with the faculty of the department as honorary members, completed its organization Friday. The first election of officers was also held at this time.

J. H. Barlett was chosen president of the new organization. Other officers are: B. L. Smith, vice president; Clark Sinclair, secretary; A. M. Bacon, treasurer.

According to Prof. A. H. Clark, head of the department, the new club may in the near future affiliate with the national professional fraternity, after which it is modeled. The charter members number 15. After the society is in operation members will join by special invitation. Those majoring in chemistry and graduate assistants in the department will be eligible.

There are nearly 60 students registered in these special short courses, which is considerably higher than that of former years.

RAY MILLER, "THE PERSONALITY KING"

The 13-piece Brunswick record orchestra led by Ray Miller, the "Personality King," which aroused a flood of enthusiastically favorable comment during a recent theater engagement in Lansing, will be "the life of the party" at the J-Hop Friday night.

New Rating Responsible For Popularity of Music Courses

The music department of Michigan State college is coming to be a real factor in campus activities. Light of the dawn has come and this department, which is so important to college life, is taking its place along side, instead of way behind, the other departments of the college.

This awakening, so called, is probably more or less vague to most people and a little history must be related to clear the situation.

For a number of years Prof. Taylor has attempted to establish the music department on a sound college basis. At the beginning of this year he put the proposition up to the state board of agriculture, after having the consent of the college of giving college credit for work done in the music department without paying extra fees. He has accomplished this and it will be definitely started at the beginning of next fall term.

In the meantime various means have been found to help the department develop and increase in popularity among the students. Very reasonable rates, quality of the glee club, orchestra, band and quartette, have all contributed to this popularity.

There are now over 200 students taking work in the music department in voice and instrument. Eight instructors are now on the staff and

HORT INSTRUCTOR SPEAKS AT CHARLOTTE

Mr. Hootman will talk of modern orchard practice and will illustrate his talk with a movie, "White Magician," which shows the use of fertilizers in orchard practice.

To Give Talk On "Disease Carrier"; Student Chorus to Sing.

Dr. R. M. Olin, state commissioner of health, will speak to the students of Michigan State college at convocation Wednesday morning in the gymnasium.

Dr. Olin's subject will be "Disease Carriers." In his address he will explain the cause of the Eaton Rapids typhoid fever epidemic. Some explanations concerning the present plans of handling the health service also promise to be of interest to the student body.

Mr. Kendal, director of music in the Michigan state department of public instruction, and director of the student chorus at M. S. C., will lead the gathering in mass singing for about a half hour preceding Dr. Olin's address.

GREAT PROGRESS BEING MADE IN UNION FUND DRIVE

With $35,000 Already Subscribed Committee Hope to Pass Goal Before Date of Drive Is Over.

With $35,000 already subscribed and the unofficial goal set at $60,000, the student committees in charge of the Union Memorial association drive are rapidly pounding away with the prospects of reaching and passing their goal before the date of the drive is over, according to Charles Parrish, head of the general committee.

The liberal arts division is leading in the amount of money pledged, according to G. N. Swanson, assistant manager of the Union. However, the engineering division is leading with the highest percentage of students pledged, he declared.

Mr. Swanson said, "President Butterfield and members of the faculty have given us excellent support in the drive. And with the donation of the services of George Maltby's orchestra, the Union was able to put on the free dances last week without cost to the association. This saved about $100 for the fund," declared Mr. Swanson.

UNION POPULAR FARMERS' WEEK

Farmers' week proved to be the busiest five days the management of the new Union building has ever experienced, the records of the receipts show. A net turn-over of over $3,500 was registered during the week.

Practically all of this money was earned by the cafeteria, which served on the average of 1,500 meals each day during the five days' festivities. Ten banquets were served at the Union building during the week. The number served at these ranged from 722 individuals, who attended the Farm Bureau banquet, down to 12 individuals attending the small organization banquets.

The new pool and billiard room proved popular during the week, the records show. This branch of the building took in over $20 each day. The cigars and confection stand had the record business of $18 for one and a half hours immediately following the Farm Bureau banquet.

BARGAIN DAY FOR STUDENTS REAL NOVELTY

STUDENTS TO SELL HIGH GRADE MERCHANDISE, WED. AND THURS.

"OUT OF MANY, ONE"

Adopt Slogan Signifying Consolidations of Denominations.

Beginning Wednesday morning, a two-day bargain day in new and high quality haberdashery will be launched by the religious council of the college Community church in an effort to meet the $1,200 budget for furnishing a large room in the new church for student activities.

Booths managed by student salesmen will be set up in front of the old People's church parlors. At the hours of from 11 to 12 and 4 to 5 o'clock, students and women will be stationed at all these booths.

Lansing Co-operates
Lansing concerns which are backing these salesmen's efforts in this project are Aronson's, which will furnish ladies and men's hose, and socks, royal crown, neckties, red and white neckties, men's handkerchiefs, boys and neckties, Edmund's, stock of novelties, Lewis Bros., shirts, caps, ties and hose; Dancer, women's and men's hose; Ames Dry Goods, handkerchiefs, brass ware, pictures, frames, and novelties.

According to the committee, there will be many real bargains offered at "bargain prices." However, the sale will not take on the dimensions of a rummage sale. The committee also said that the goods are new, up-to-fashion but will be sold at a great saving to the students.

Acting Committees
The committee on merchandise consists of Verlyn Moore, Maynard Grands, and Margaret Sanford. The sales and means committee consists of Roy Lawrence, chairman, E. D. McLean and Jeta Thompson.

"Out of Many, One" is the slogan of the council. Interpreted, this said to signify the fact that over 20 denominations have consolidated into one large and active community church.

People who will sell in the various booths are as follows:

Ruth Harb, Martha Grawford, Clinton Fitch, Dorothy MacEachron, Ruth Featherly, Justin Simpson, Hazel Hall, Ruth Craft, Glenn Cowles, Ruth Andrews, Margaret Matthews, and Johnson.

Besides these people a salesman or saleswoman has been appointed for each fraternity and sorority.

VARSITY DANCE IS BIG EVENT

Joan Goldkette Breeze Blowers Will Furnish Music for Party.

"Four hours of perfect bliss" is the promise made by the Varsity club to all who attend the annual formal varsity club party in the Union hall room next Saturday evening.

Recent communications from Joane Goldkette assert that the music produced by her Breeze Blowers, the 9-piece orchestra booked for the party, is by no means inferior to the best and entirely in keeping with the occasion.

The party this year is considerably limited. A total of 299 will be entertained. One hundred fifty tickets were on sale, most of which have now been bought up. The other 50 are being distributed among guests and members of the club.

Governor Grosbeck, President Butterfield, Secretary Halladay and the members of the athletic board have received formal invitations. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hotchins and Coach Young are also expected as guests of honor.

As is the custom of previous years, the party decorations will be the same as used at the Hop on the previous night. This year, however, only the ballroom decorations will be used. The lounge room will have to be cleared out on Saturday in order not to interfere with cafeteria service on Saturday and Sunday.

Brochons favors are to be used. Though their actual description is withheld, the committee, as usual, promises "the best ever."

J-Hop week is considered by many as the peak of the year's social life on the campus. It brings with it these two distinctive parties and is generally followed by a slump in formal party interest.

TAXICABS FOR THE J-HOP

A special cab service will be provided by the Mackey Cab Company. There will be a dispatching service at the Union Building at 5:00 p. m. and cabs will be stationed there from that hour until after the party. Call 21-444 in placing orders before 5:00 p. m. and the Union phone, 9059 after that hour.

Plenty of cabs at the Union Building during the party. No charge for extra passengers.

ART OF LIVING

All men, in greater or less degree, conceive of living as an art. Perhaps they cannot define it as such but the yearning is there. And often it never is defined. That is one of life's greatest tragedies.

In our psychological evolution, there is some point along the line where we detect the thought of living life as a beautiful art. It appears to us so innane and simple. We dismiss the thought summarily lest we become "weak-kneed, google-eyed milk-sops."

But as we grow in wisdom and stature, we begin to see things in a new light. The beauty of friendships formed on a campus such as ours, the worth of idealism and truth, and the newer conceptions of living life as an art are truths we find in our adolescent gropings.

And then, as dawn precedes day, these thoughts precede the truths we live. Life as an art then is not something for long-haired intelligentsia, the existence of which we do not doubt but of those influence we sincerely do doubt. Living a beautiful life, with sympathy, with love, with understanding, with poise, becomes an all-enduring passion, and to many of us the end of living.

We can understand the artist, the teacher, the preacher. We can understand people because we have changed our method of approach to them. And when we have understanding we have drawn a bit nearer to Utopia, as near as men will be permitted to on this earth.

OUT OF MANY, ONE

In chemistry there are some great questions: What did carbonate? Where did iodine?

In the Greek and Hebrew classics there are two great questions: Where did electrallite? Where did the arclite?

More serious than these chemical-classical questions, however, is, How, Out of Many, One?

I once knew a boy who thought that the government would give him twenty-five cents for every one cent piece on which he found the name of the designer of the coin. His collection was growing rapidly. His excitement was growing more rapidly. I asked him for the name of the bold and false designer. He flashed up a new copper. "There it is," he cried. "There it is! See! Mr. E. P. Luribus."

E Pluribus unum! Majestic phrasing of a tremendous concept! And the boy had left out the great word, unum.

For two thousand years men have left that great word out of religion. In the forming of political states they saw that they must have unity. In the building of religious states (of mind) they have insisted on diversity.

There is but one God; there is but one man. Yet the one man will worship the one God in five hundred different ways. It is a custom more honored in the breach than the observance.

"We are but man, who for a length of days
Seek the one city by a million ways."

And Christians, worshipping the one Lord who came "that they may all be one" still present the spectacle of worshipping that Lord in diversity rather than in unity.

Now a college man is more and more taking a man at a man's worth. "A man's a man," he says. "He isn't a Methodist, a Lutheran, a Catholic, a Jew, an African, a man's a man." Right!

Out of many, One. So here at State we have built a church where a man's a man. And where God's the God. All Michigan is the parish of this church. It is an institution of pioneers. It has in it the appeal of the forests and the plains. It has the challenge which comes to courage and faith, the highest form of courage.

In the new building, which is the physical symbol of the spiritual ideal of unity, there are student rooms. They are the best rooms in the building. They are to be beautifully appointed. In these rooms in this building students, in a social way, as well as in other ways, are to learn the great lesson of time, Out of Many, One.

That lesson learned here and carried out into the state and the nation will be of value unmeasurable.

Bless your imagination, O State! Out of Many, One!

KAMPUS? KUESTIONS

Do you think that the Union building should have clubrooms for the men of the faculty?

Dean Ryder, Liberal Arts Dept.

Yes, I think it would be worth while to have rooms where members of the teaching staff and others of the college force might gather for social purposes. Such facilities have never been offered at the college in the past. As we increase in numbers, opportunities for social contact become more and more necessary for the best interests of the staff. Such provision would be in accord with the purpose of the building, which is to render its services to the M. S. C. family, including alumni, students and faculty.

Prof. Hughes, French Dept.

My opinion has been asked concerning the installation of a clubroom for faculty men in the Union building. That a place of that kind is needed no one will gainsay. When men teachers wish to relax, to get away from books and classroom routine, to mingle socially with their colleagues, they have, at present, no rendezvous, unless it be smoky, profanity-filled public amusement places in which they are loath to be seen. A clubroom with davenport, a billiard table or two, a room closed to students and outsiders would, therefore, be a boon to the faculty man.

On the other hand, the Union exists primarily for the students and alumni. The faculty, of course, have contributed heavily toward the construction of the building, but in doing so, they have had no thought of personal benefits. If, therefore, there is space enough in the Union building to permit the setting aside of a room for faculty use, without jeopardizing, now nor in the future, the interests of the students, such a room could and might well be consecrated to the use of the faculty. It would form another bond between the "Prof" and the Union, and give him a renewed interest in its perpetuation.

G. N. Swanson, '25.

I would say that faculty clubrooms would not injure the purpose of the Union or its headquarters if such clubrooms were for the use of those members of the faculty who are members of the Union and have subscribed to its building fund. All students are members of the Union and most of them will become life members upon leaving college.

Considering the present financial condition of the Union, faculty participation in the use of the building should hasten its completion, due to increased faculty interest in the project. The Union desires the support of the faculty as well as of the students and alumni.

Sylvia Schimmel, H. E. '27.

Due to the fact that the faculty have pledged so much to the Union, I think it is only fair that they should have clubrooms to themselves.

Irene Austin, L. A. '26.

Yes, I do think that the men of the faculty should have clubroom space in the Union building, because the building is as much theirs as the students. They showed this by their prompt response to the Union Memorial drive.

M. S. C. GRADUATES MARRY

Miss Dorothy Yakeley and Dr. Alexander Copeland, former students of M. S. C., were married in Stanton Jan. 23. The wedding was attended by a large number of East Lansing and M. S. C. people.

The bride was a member of the Alpha Phi sorority. Dr. Copeland attended the University of Pennsylvania after his graduation from M. S. C.

After the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Later the couple left for Grosse Pointe where they will reside.

LIBERAL ART COURSE ENDS MOST SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Renowned American, Ernest Hutcheson, world famous pianist, came here as the third number on the course.

Outstanding in the course was the work of the great sculptor, Lorado Taft. With the aid of an assistant, Mr. Taft gave an illustrated lecture on his art, which sprinkled with bits of original humor, greatly pleased his hearers.

Of interests to scientists and explorers was the lecture of Roy C. Andrews, the first white man ever to lead an expedition into the Mongolian desert. In conjunction with a very complete film showing his work, Mr. Andrews entertained his audience with his talk on "Hunting the Bones of Adam."

Still fresh in the minds of the college students is the singing of Fraser Gange, one of the world's best baritone singers. His appearance at the college gymnasium last Wednesday evening marks the conclusion of the course.

It will be of especial interest to many of those attending the concerts and lectures to know that in the large cities where these same artists have appeared, the price of single admissions is practically prohibitive to the average person. In many cases, admittance may be gained only by being a member of the organization sponsoring the program. Due only to the fact that the gymnasium could not be obtained for a comparatively small sum, and that each student subscribes to the art course in his regular fees, it is possible to obtain these high quality programs.

Campus Prowler Again Creates Furore in Co-ed Dormitories

He is again among us—our friend, the Campus Prowler. Around sorority houses in the remote outskirts of East Lansing he is frequently encountered lurking in the back yards, or gazing unhappily in at lighted windows. He has had a great many experiences in the past few months, the terror of all co-eds, but we thought he had deserted us. Frequent rumors of his being captured, perched like a monkey at the top of one of our tallest trees, and placed in a position where climbing is prohibited, only served to increase our horror of the gentleman.

He became the horror of fraternity houses, also. While he was never known to lurk in the neighborhood of them, it became rather tiresome to the heroes of the campus to be awakened out of a sound sleep by a frantic S. O. S. from some frightened household where Mr. Prowler had been paying his evening call. Pajama clad boys would silently surround the house, only to find that the one they were so anxious to meet had "folded his tents like the Arabs, and silently stolen away."

But this winter we had almost forgotten our friend the Prowler, when suddenly his low, meaning whistle was carried through the still air to the dormitory windows of a sorority house. We had not forgotten his whistle. It is the sort of thing that makes college students think of their cozy homes in Oshkosh, and with mother were there to sing them to sleep. At that whistle every girl in the dormitory sat erect, and there was a simultaneous gasp. Some clear-headed ones ran quickly downstairs to lock the doors, and then remembered after they had returned to bed that there was one window opening onto the porch which had absolutely no lock at all. However, the spirit to go down into the dark below and perhaps encounter the intruder face to face did not come to them as it should, and so we lay in the dark, shivering, and in imagination hearing that window being opened thousands of times.

And then he whistled again! A whistle that struck terror to the hearts of the bravest of us. In fancy we saw him creeping up the stairs, opening the door. Of course, there were 20 of us to one poor man, but who could tell? His strength might be "as the strength of ten"—but if so, we were certain that it would not be "because his heart was pure!"

And then someone started a story—the kind that begin "Did you hear about that awful thing that happened over at Ann Arbor?" There is a certain pleasure at times like this in listening to gruesome tales of things that have happened to others far worse than could ever happen to you. We trembled, but in our interest in telling stories and listening to them, we forgot what had been holding our attention so few minutes before.

I wonder if the cause of all the excitement was standing under the window listening to us, and chuckling to himself at the commotion he had succeeded in creating? At any rate, he left us in peace for the rest of the night.

Who would not enjoy being a detective? In the morning we traced all the footprints in the fresh snow, and got a second thrill out of seeing for ourselves where the gentleman had gone up on the front porch, unknowingly so very close to the unlocked window. We measured all prints before the snow melted, but so far the criminal has not been detected. We are looking forward with great enthusiasm to our next meeting, and hope the Prowler will be around again soon, because—this is a secret—there is a nice pall of icy-cold "aqua" awaiting him.

COLLEGE EMPLOYEES

HOLD OLD TIME DANCE

Two Orchestras Composed of Em-ployees Furnish Music.

An old-time dance with two or-chestras to furnish the music was held for employees of the Michigan State college building and grounds department and their families in the college gymnasium Monday night.

Both orchestras were made up of men in the department who have had long years of experience in play-ing old fashioned tunes.

About 200 couples were in at-tendance. There are 117 men em-ployed in the department. Special arrangements were made whereby one of the smaller rooms adjoining the gymnasium was converted into a motion picture hall, where "mov-ies" were shown to the children.

Fred Sherman, 68, headed the Compensators orchestra, a group of five, which was originally organized to represent the college power house men. A second orchestra was re-cently formed, with Charles Pike as its leader, and the two played alter-nately during the evening.

Cider and doughnuts were served, and appropriate decorations were in evidence to revive old memories to the guests.

Big Evergreen

Old Landmark

On Evergreen street of East Lan-sing there stands a mammoth elow-elm, a tree that has beheld the events of at least 1,000 years. It is a peerless representative of its kind, a genuine monarch of the old forests.

The immense height of its branches is equalled by the length of the roots it sends into the soil. Five adults with both arms outstretched can barely complete the circumference of its trunk. No wonder its life was spared when the forest around it was destroyed. No wonder the street curves to leave it unharmed by the advancing civilization.

What scenes the tree has seen con-acted as it remains the only station-ary object in a rapidly changing world. It has seen the clearing of the forests, the reign and the passing of the red man, and the coming of the whites. It has seen the first stu-dents arriving at a new college. It has seen their ever increasing num-bers as the years rolled by.

At one time a landmark for In-dians, then a shelter for a pioneer's home, and now the proud protector of a charming modern cottage. It makes one wonder what new ad-vancements and achievements the future will disclose to the tree as it stands secure in its magnificent strength; aloft in the pride and glory of its size and height.

Co-ed Edna

If only there were nothing to do between now and time for the Hop, I think it would be a wonderful thing if the powers that be around here would decide to excuse the hop-pers from classes, beginning this Monday morning.

Then we would be able to rest and be ready for the party, as well as having the two days afterward.

It really was very obliging of George Washington to be born just when he was. The juniors appreciate it.

Too bad that the dear old gentle-man is too far away to realize how much we feel indebted to him for giving us a holiday just when he did.

Maybe he is looking down on us in his fatherly way and congratulat-ing himself. What for, eh? Why, for having been the father of his country when there are as members of that country such a fine class of juniors at Michigan State college!

But the biggest problem now be-fore the co-eds of this institution is whether or not it would be too ter-rible to wear the same dress to the Hop and also the Varsity party.

I heard one of them saying the other day that she was going to four-formals this term, and only had three dresses to wear!

If I were in that position I am sure I would stay home from the fourth party or else borrow another.

I simply never could bring myself to wear the same dress to two par-ties, could you?

My mother would never hear of it. She always said anything like that simply places you. So common!

Now that the suspense is over and we know who is going to lead the Hop, George Burke has lost a great deal in importance in the eyes of some of the young co-eds.

I'll bet he has had a great time for the last few weeks, while we all hung around him and called him "dearie."

Then they say that girls aren't grasping.

However, he was a wise man. He has asked an outside girl and saved a good many fights around the cam-pus.

I would hate to think that any of us should be jailed for murder.

The next important thing around here seems to be the fact that we are having a holiday on Monday. Perhaps to some of us that is even more important.

Of course, I shall spend the day among my books. I can never bear to be away from my studies for a very long time.

That is how I manage to receive A's in all of my courses. If there are any of you who would like to learn how it is done, stop around some evening and I will see to it that you find out.

My classes are open until 10 o'clock every evening. Come and bring your friends.

Elections are approaching, and we are all holding our breath. Is it not so? Everyone is campaigning for his or her favorite candidate for everything. And none of us really cares how they come out after all.

But it is for the honor of the school, remember, that you pick the best man for the position. And we all must always think first of the honor of our college.

Be sure, boys and girls, that you remember that.

NOTICE

There will be volleyball practice Wednesday night from 7 to 9 o'clock for all the girls who expect to make class teams at the Temple House in Lansing.

WKAR ATTRACTS CROWD OF VISITORS

Farmers' Week Attendants Show Much Interest in Broadcast-ing Station.

WKAR was one of the centers of the largest crowds of Farmers' Week visitors. Thousands of visitors swarmed through the transmitting room and studios of the college broadcasting station.

An added attraction in the broad-casting station was the display of vacuum tubes, which is one of the most complete in the country. This display included many old tubes of the types used by the United States and English navies in the world war. Every kind of vacuum tube from the smallest peanut tube up to the largest of power tubes used for broad-casting was shown.

The station had a display board on which were the pictures of the transmitter, lecture and music stud-ies as well as the reception room of the main studio in the tower of the home economics building. At the top of the chart was a picture of "Jimmy" Hasselman in the small telephone booth as he is announcing a play by play story of a basketball game. Lines were drawn between the different pictures to show the path of the voice or music as it starts through the microphone in the studio until it leaves the big anten-nae.

FAMOUS CARTOONISTS DRAW FOR WOLVERINE

To Contribute Complimentary Drawings to College Annual.

Two of America's foremost car-toonists have agreed to contribute complimentary drawings for the 1938 Wolverine. C. M. Blosser, au-thor of "Freakies and His Friends," and Ben Bodstorf, author of "The Duffs."

The members of the Wolverine staff consider it a special favor that these men who are very busy with their regular work should agree to contribute complimentary work to a college publication and it will be an unusual distinction for the Wolve-rine to contain these pictures.

I. S. Edwards, editor of the humor section of the year book, is corre-sponding with other outstanding ar-tists and it seems quite probable that more of them will agree to favor this year's publication with products of their skill.

GREAT PROGRESS BEING MADE IN UNION FUND DRIVE

Last Friday, Prof. Clark gave a short talk urging students who are able to and who have not already sub-scribed to the fund to do so as soon as possible. He told of the excel-lent co-operation given by Lansing business men to the fund.

One pledge was paid in cash, ac-cording to Mr. Parrish. The student first signed a pledge, reserving the right to pay in cash, and then wrote out a check for the full $75, he said. On another occasion, a Lansing busi-ness man, who is not in any way con-nected with the college, gave a check to the fund for $100 without solici-tation, he said.

Only $75 has been taken from the Union fund to put on the drive, the records show. According to Swan-son, this is a great saving from the usual amounts spent for such drives.

EARLHAM U TAKES COURT GAME FOR STATE'S EIGHTH STRAIGHT DEFEAT

SMITH AND DREW REMOVED FROM LINEUP AT CRITICAL STAGES OF GAME; FINAL SCORE 26-21; COLE STARS.

Earlham college took a heart-breaking basketball game from Michigan State Saturday night, 26-21. After suffering seven consecutive setbacks, the Kobsmen stepped out and took a commanding lead from the initial whistle and seemed to be about to break away from the slump that has been on the trail of the team for the last few weeks. But Dame Fortune decreed otherwise.

State was leading with but a few moments to go in the first quarter, 9-5, due to a pair of goals by Smith and contributions from Cole and Drew, when Smith drew his fourth personal foul and was excused for the evening. Smith had been the big gun in the State offense up to his demise and his loss put a damper on the State liberties with the visitors' basket. "Monty" Hood, who replaced him, found the hoop for a trio of baskets, but the teamwork that had resulted from the Smith-Hackett-Drew combination was lacking.

State held a four point advantage throughout the half, which ended 12-8, State leading. To add to the evening's hard luck, Ken Drew, who had been another bright light in State's offense, was injured and took the count. He was assisted from the floor.

With four substitutes in the lineup, State tried hard to hold the advantage. Lewis had replaced Fred Ericks, who seemed to be having an off night after his brilliant performance against Marquette. Colvin had gone in for Captain Hackett and Kelly was injected into the fray when Drew was incapacitated.

State played Earlham even up to within a few moments of the final gun but Swain and Huntsman, Earlham's guards, found the hoop for the needed counts, and left Michigan State still wanting as far as basketball games are concerned. "Stub" Cole, the only regular in the lineup at the time, did heroic work in trying to stem the tide, but his work went for naught. Captain Hackett returned to the lineup in the closing seconds, but Earlham had the game and made sure of it with deliberate stalling.

Hood and Cole led the State scoring with 6 and 5 points respectively. Cole sank two short ones that were the result of some good passing. Cole and Drew played good defensive games. The offense in the first half was hampered a great deal by the ability of Referee Duville to count steps. His numerical system didn't always agree with that of the audience, but State did violate the rule several times. Earlham was also guilty of the same violation.

Swain and Huntsman were high scorers for Earlham and they also did most of the visitors' defensive work.

CINCINNATI HAS VERDICT IN SWIM

Whitlock Only Stater to Show Form; Final Score 50-19.

Coach Kieffaber's natators proved to be no match for the fast traveling plungers representing the University of Cincinnati in the State natatorium Friday night and absorbed a 50-19 drubbing. State failed to make a first place, garnering all its points out of second and third places.

Whitlock was the only State tank, or to accomplish much during the exercises, placing three seconds. He placed in the 50 yard free style, 220 yard free style and 100 yard free style.

Cincinnati presented a well balanced team that had no outstanding stars but an aggregation of real swimmers.

State's next and final meet will be with the University of Michigan in the home tank, Feb. 17.

Summary:

120 yard relay—Won by Cincinnati (Dunlap, Dunlap, Fauer, Fennikohl). Time—1:12.2.

NOTRE DAME ON CARD TONIGHT

Irishmen Invade Kobs Stronghold For Second Encounter of Season.

Notre Dame university came here tonight for its second encounter with Michigan State this year. The Irishmen gained the verdict by a large margin on the South Bend court January 14 and are poised to repeat at the State Arm, although by no means as large a margin. State may spring a surprise and take the Colgan coached crew into camp but it is only a remote possibility.

State was set to win a game Saturday night but was turned aside for the eighth consecutive time. The Kobsmen have not won a game since St. Viators was humbled nearly a month ago. It cannot be laid to poor coaching for the team is showing good teamwork and a close defense. Neither can it be blamed on the squad. The fellows are working their heads off to give Michigan State a victory but a winning punch seems to be lacking.

As a team Michigan State is a great deal better than the one representing the Green and White the winter term when an entirely different personnel took the floor. It is not the high scoring aggregation that the Russo-Jugoslavs were but it is a team that knows the meaning of passing and co-operation. The spirit on the team is high and what is keeping the team back is a problem.

Michigan State will probably send Captain Hackett, Smith, Fredericks, Cole and Drew, if the latter suffers no ill effects from his injury Saturday night, against the Irishmen.

As a result of Drew scoring four points against Earlham, he has crept to within a point of high scorer. Russo still leading with 54 counters. Captain Hackett, Fredericks and Smith are closely bunched in the next three positions.

The scoring

	FG	FT	TP
Russo	20	14	54

TENNIS TEAM TO MAKE EASTERN TRIP

The board of athletics of Michigan State college is endeavoring to arrange a six game trip for the tennis team this spring that will take them throughout the east. Prospective schools to be met are University of Pittsburgh, Bucknell, Penn State, Allegheny college, Carnegie Tech. and Oberlin college. The University of Michigan, University of Detroit, Western State Normal, Albion college, Ypsilanti Normal and several other teams will be met later in the season by State's racket men.

M. S. C. FRESH LOSE TO GRAND RAPIDS

Furniture City Gains 32-21 Verdict Friday.

Grand Rapids Junior college took Michigan State's all-fresh down the line Friday night, 32-21. This was the freshmen's second defeat of the season and the first under the regime of Coach Elwood Mason.

The fresh had things more or less their own way in the first period, leading the Furniture City crew by a scant margin until a few seconds before the gun when the junior collegians counted on two free throws and a toss from the floor, giving them the lead at the half.

The fresh defense went to pieces in the final chapter, allowing the Grand Rapids guards and center to sneak in for pop shots at the hoop, most of which were used to good advantage.

Dickson was the only Stater to show any basketball form during the game. He showed himself to be very adept at short jump shots and counted several pretty ones. Raber and Glochowski led the Furniture City attack.

Coed class games in bowling, basketball, swimming and volleyball are to be played soon. The preliminaries on March 13 and the finals on March 18. More girls are needed for practices, especially from the senior class.

Union Has Most Expensive Party

Some of us paid $8 for military ball tickets. They are asking us a $12.50 cover charge for the J-Hop this year. Last year it was $21 and the year before $25, as the rumor goes. Some of us even paid taxi bills and tax rentals and chewing charges on top of that, bringing the bill perhaps to $31.83. In a few instances three or four special deliveries were exchanged during the following weeks, but the correspondence simmered down to postal card magnitude before a month had passed. This might have added another 50 cents to the bill.

But how insignificant those prices seem compared with the $75 matinee dance last Wednesday afternoon. There were no taxi bills because the sun shone so brightly that the cozy "yellow" would have been of no special value. Taxes were forgotten. School suits were not even pressed in many cases. Chewing gum was from the morning's stock of "wear ever" variety.

All were assembled for a single purpose—to get rid of $75. That proved a simple task. "Just sign the dotted line" was the predominant refrain. They did too, because it was easier to cart one girl around than to struggle under the added burden of a subscription officer on your coat-tail.

After all, it wasn't so bad. We have ten years to pay. And the money goes to a good cause.

It wasn't such a bad idea after all!

The physical education department announces that there are not enough girls out for the inter-class swimming teams. If a sufficient number do not appear before the end of the week the inter-class swimming meet will not be held.

The coed department of physical education is planning a demonstration to be held March 18. The demonstration will be of apparatus, dancing, corrective gymnastics, swimming and preliminary games of inter-class basketball and volleyball.

EIGHT GAMES ARE ON SCHEDULE FOR STATE PIGSKIN CHASERS

CORNELL, MICHIGAN, COLGATE CENTER AND HASKELL INDIANS SIGNED.

The athletic office of Michigan State college has released the completed football schedule of Michigan State for next fall, which includes eight games, five of them to be played in Michigan State's new stadium. The schedule carries more intercollegiate color than the one of last season but it is not an attractive home arrangement, the choice of the games being played on foreign fields.

Adrian college will come here Saturday, September 25 to help the Youngmen pry off the lid as the season's opener and Kalamazoo will repeat the next week. Neither team rates strong and little opposition can be expected from them only as practice games to put the team in shape for the hardest

Colgate, minus the great Edgely Pryon, will be met at Hamilton, N. Y. on October 30 and another great battle, such as the one last year when Cornell was held to two points, is expected.

The big home game of the season will be the homecoming battle when Centre college's "Praying" Indians will again invade the State campus. For Paul Smith's 45-yard drop kick, the closing moments of that Cornell Centre would have been the victor and the popularity of the visitors here has won for them the homecoming game, November 6.

The Haskell Indians will close State's schedule November 20, when they come to the East Lansing campus.

game of the schedule, Michigan at Ann Arbor, October 9. Coach Vost, veteran coach of the Marquette and Blue will face nearly a veteran combination that he termed "the best team I ever coached." Led by the two Benmys, Captain Friedman and Osterbaum, besides a veteran backfield, Michigan will be formidable.

Cornell university will be met the following week at Ithaca, N. Y. Cornell had two All-America candidates last year in Kearney, a guard, and Gassner, a half back. Coached by "Glory Gil" Dobbie, Cornell has always turned out good teams and will give the Youngmen a real test.

Lake Forest, which upset the dope last year by beating State 7-0, returns again this year for Parents' Day on October 23. State fans will always remember Folgate, speedy Lake Forest half, in his brilliant 50 yard dash for the winning score last year, and Lake Forest should draw good.
