The Blarney Stone

CHAMPIONS

While University of Michigan students were doing a fairly good job of making an Ann Arbor theater following the Wisconsin game that ended a championship for the Wolverine athletes were quietly packing their basketball bags at the end of a fairly successful season. We say fairly successful because it was only after experiencing a bit of difficulty at first we were able to defeat Michigan State in the Big Ten. The close score of 31-24, that was decided in the final 20 minutes of play. And then there was Ohio Western represented by a team that was second to none in the country that finally nosed out a three-point decision over VanAlstyne's team. And there was also that eastern team going to take a real leader in the point decision and Syracuse beating the night after, handing Michigan its worst beating of the year in a seven point margin.

With Michigan astride the Big Ten championship and burning up the Michigan State can look back on the season in true Quaker solemnity and take off her hat to as fine a bunch of clean, clever scrappers as represented the Green and White basketball court.

CAPTAINS

The basketball finale at Milwaukee last night saw two Michigan State captains bid adieu to intercollegiate basketball competition. Carl of Muskegon and Verne Dickerson of Highland Park, the two passing up the unique honor of being championship teams during last two seasons. Dickerson being last year and Felt this season. Never may be named captain of a year's quintet is going to step into a pair of empty shoes. He is going to take a real leader in the basketball court.

LOCK UP

In the constant recurrence of so-called robberies in East Lansing, high time that some individual were taken by those parties in the Members of the society are the ones to take action by every possible entrance to the building. This means all ground floors, cellar windows and doors, doors on the main floor. Even in the Alphan case, the marauder entrance through a second floor window and his loot will probably be well worth his efforts. A suggestion is, don't leave watches and living around loose in study at night whether you sleep in or in the room. YOU MAY BE

A SCENT

Passing the old Library building by we have several times caught of an odor usually associated with the black and white kitties that the woods and highways at. Upon investigation we learned that a zoology class was preparing stuffed specimens of the mammal called skunk or polecat.

The entire convocation is the final effort of the retiring religious council and the chairman is Howard Lacombe. Dr. Lacombe will preside at the luncheon on Friday noon with visiting secretaries as guests. At this time the addresses will be given by four students upon the stock of the year and the religious needs of the campus for future development. ## WOLVERINE GOES TO PRESS MAY 1

Faculty Section Completed; Colored View Division to Head Book.

The Wolverine college annual will go to press before May 1, according to Lewis Snyder, editor-in-chief of the publication. The faculty section has been completed and the work of mounting the class pictures is being rushed. The feature and athletic sections will be finished by the end of the winter term.

The theme of the cover design is an Arabian tent. There will be an eight-page new section in color in the front of the book, which is to be done by the Jahn & Oiler Engraving company by a process developed especially for the Wolverine. The feature section is taking shape under the direction of Marion Trumbull. The designs for the feature section are being done by the Wolverine's own art department, which is in charge of Gilbert Thompson with the assistance of Claude Smith.

There have been 1350 copies of the book signed for. There will be a very few extras, and anyone desiring a copy may be able to get one if application is made immediately. No reservations will be made.

Freshmen and sophomore picture appointments will all be finished by the end of this week. All sophomores desiring their pictures in the annual must have their proofs in this week. No extension of time will be made. Seniors are receiving their appointments now. It is imperative that every senior sign the activity book at the time he goes for his appointment. This is important.

Caswell Terms Proclamation "Clever Diplomatic Document"

To call the Emancipation Proclamation the agency that freed the slave is pure bunk, says Prof. P. T. Caswell, history instructor at Michigan State college, who vigorously opposes the popular grammar-school practice of calling Abraham Lincoln the "Great Emancipator." Instead he would term this famous document as being one of the most clever diplomatic papers ever published in its effect on international conduct.

To understand this unusual statement one must look back on a few of the events that crowded those hectic Civil War days. In 1862 when the course of the war had been steadily turning against the Union forces, a Trappe Tribune was being formed between England, Prussia, and France who was smarting under her setback in Mexico and naturally wished to humiliate the United States government. The object of this alliance was to recognize the seceding states, which would mean a virtual declaration of war against the northern government.

It was therefore to immediately prevent such action on the part of England that Lincoln issued his famous Emancipation Proclamation. The war was now a battle on the slavery question and not merely a technical action.

THE ELECTIONS

A situation, unusual as it was surprising, developed at the nominating class meetings Tuesday. For the first time in several years there was a dearth of nominations. In fact, two of the classes had to be coaxed to put up the required number of names. Even then the junior class fell short of having enough to warrant a ballot for eliminations.

It indicates one of two things. Either there is little interest or desire for the offices at stake or else the class feels that the best men have been put up and additional competition is a waste of effort. Such a thing is possible in the junior class but very improbable in the freshmen group for they cannot yet have become so familiar with the qualifications of class members.

Evidently there is a lack of interest. Such condition is serious and untenable in student government. It cannot thrive, cannot gain the influence with the student body that it must attain.

Next Tuesday night the sophomores and freshmen will have their elimination meetings. Members of these classes should make it a point to attend and to cast their vote. Those to be selected within the next two weeks will be the governing group on the campus next year and everyone should have a hand in the choosing.

NAME SCRIBBLERS

The new memorial tower is yet to be finished and already that group of self-advertising students are busy using this new medium to put their names before the public gaze. On the top of the new structure many cheap publicity seekers have scribbled their initials and names, thereby perhaps attempting to identify themselves as prominent people of the community.

Such a class of people who have no more respect for the appearance of the buildings of this campus than to scratch such scrawlings on the new stone work do not deserve to be designated as college students. It is evident that they must live in an entirely nominal existence, must have failed to bring their name before students by worthwhile and deserving actions. In a last resort the scribblers have raised themselves to heights by climbing several flights of stairs and an iron ladder, thence gloriously jettisoning down nonentities for the benefit of the admiring gaze of posterity.

IS IT SOPHOMORES

Signs telling of the freshmen class meeting for nominations Tuesday afternoon mysteriously disappeared from the bulletin boards about the campus.

It is to be hoped that members of the sophomore class are not adopting such actions as a method of expression of class spirit. The signs are extremely necessary to bring out the first year students. It is difficult at any time to arouse interest in class activities and any actions blocking efforts in this direction are to be severely condemned.

COUNCIL REVISES POINT SYSTEM

Attempt to Prevent Excessive Student Participation in Activities.

Announcement of the revision of the point activity system has just been announced by the student council. A maximum of 20 activity points during one term is set by the council, only four campus offices drawing the maximum. The revision is aimed to prevent a student from attempting too much outside activities, the former system allowing a student to participate in what was adjudged an excess of work. Following are the student council recommendations.

College Historian Reveals Life On Campus Sixty Years Ago

Upon delving into the history of Michigan State college, some very interesting facts have been brought to light concerning the college and its students 60 odd years ago by Dr. P. S. Kedzie, college historian. These comparatively few years have made a vast difference in conditions at this institution.

In the year 1863 the college was surrounded by forests and the town of East Lansing was not yet founded. Practically the only building in this vicinity aside from the college buildings was a log cabin situated on the spot where the Phi Delta house now stands. Grand River avenue was an old lumber road connecting Detroit and Lansing and it was traversed daily in seasonable weather by the stage coach.

The school term for M. S. C. students started Feb. 24 and closed on Nov. 30 with the school year divided into two terms, allowing a ten day vacation in July. The reason for holding school throughout the summer instead of in the winter was to enable the students to teach school during the cold months in order that they might earn enough to defray college expenses. Think of the hardships and loneliness incurred by a strange student arriving at a poorly equipped school in the cold month of February. Nearly all of the students were self-supporting, and this meant that they had very little money and could afford only the bare necessities of life. The comforts and conveniences of modern college life are rarely considered by the average student until he has brought to his attention the hardships endured by these early college students.

At this time the college was not educational, the most popular and important course taught being agriculture. As manual labor was considered healthful and instructive, three hours work of clearing and cultivating the college farm was required of each pupil. The main point given in favor of manual labor was that it kept the student from forming idle habits, considering some of the difficulties that these students had to counter we should respect their memories and congratulate ourselves on the advantages we have now.

CHINESE BECOMES R. O. T. C. OFFICER AT OHIO STATE

Columbus, Ohio, (I.P.)—The only foreign student at Ohio State university ever to become an R. O. T. C. officer is the distinction held by Mr. Chun, a junior in the school of commerce.

It is taking advanced military by special permission outside of his regular curriculum, with the hope that his work if satisfactory will lead to the securing of a commission with the Chinese nationalist government.

Versatility is one of his virtues as far as language is concerned. He speaks four tongues besides his own native dialect. Within the past two years while at Tsing Hua college at Peking he mastered German, Japanese, the new standard Chinese dialect and English. German, he says, caused him many a sleepless night.

OREGON PAPER TO PRINT NO MORE EDITORIALS

Eugene, Ore. (I.P.)—The only editorial which will appear in the Oregon Daily Emerald for the rest of winter term will be those letters written into the paper by the university students.

This revolutionary change in policy was announced by the newspaper in a front-page editorial headed "Emerald Defies Convention, No More Editorials."

A portion of the editorial follows: "Convention has very nearly won a permanent, unchangeable position in the columns of daily newspapers. The convention is recognized through the apparent necessity of both news and editorial space. Granted that the news columns are vital to the life of any paper, editorials may easily become merely the intellectual whims of the editors."

Almost without exception newspapers carry current events both in news and on the editorial page. In America news predominates, but throughout most of continental Europe there is an undisputed attempt to mold the thought of the public by comment on the news. The value of this comment is uncertain.

Dear Friends:

I have been a very heavy pipe smoker for the last thirty years and have always used Edgeworth's. I have tried other brands and find there is no other tobacco like it for a cool and well flavored taste.

I am in the vaudeville business, and have traveled all over the world with my brother, and always have had very great pleasure in recommending your tobacco, and many a time I have had to pay double the price in different countries for it, but I would sooner do that than smoke anything else, as I have tried all different brands. I generally buy a one-pound tin and roll it up and believe me, gentlemen, it is a real tobacco.

With best wishes from

Because there are more entries than was expected, some of the preliminaries may be held Friday afternoon.

The Irish are the defending champions. They have won first honors in the two years last year with 27 1/2 points. State has collected 20 points during its competition in the C. I. A. A. Fourteen schools scored at Kalamazoo. University of Wisconsin points last year and it is thought that it will compete with State's best kept competition in Saturday's meet. State again meets 17 of more than 25 points. While nearly 200 Spartan men Saturday, March 16, teams and 200 athletes are entered here.

SPARTAN FENCERS TO SEE PLENTY OF ACTION SOON

Spartan fencers will see plenty of action for the next few days. A dual meet with the Kalamazoo fencers club will meet Ohio State University's crack fencer team and Saturday night at the Detroit Hotel and Hunt club at Detroit.

John Brown of Notre Dame and Blvok of Butler as well as several others will push the State distance runner to the limit. Pfeiffer of Marquette who led the two-milers to the tape last year will not be on hand Saturday.

McAttee, the State pole vaulter, who tied with Glazier of Marquette and Boy of Notre Dame last year at 12 feet 6 inches, will probably be good for 13 feet tomorrow. McIntosh of Monmouth, who rises around 12 feet 6 and Hathaway of Kalamazoo college will measure McAttee's first place chances the most.

Bill Kroll will defend his 440 yard dash title that he won last year against a strong field. A world's record may be made in the 60 yard dash with Jack Elder, Irish flyer, Walls of Lincoln University, conqueror of Loren Muehlen a year ago in the 50 yard dash, Mike Topp of Marquette and Eric Henson of State as competitors. Lane, another Spartan sprinter, is out with a pulled tendon. Hanson may get up in the scoring column for State in the event.

In the hurdles the State timber topped by Frances will get plenty of competition from Dwight Kane of Ohio Wesleyan who won the national intermediate crown last spring with the mark of 14 1/2 seconds of Notre Dame. Yeager of Butler and Loring of Western State Normal, Kane is on the high and low hurdles.

SPARTAN SWIMMERS LOSE TO GRAND RAPIDS TEAM

The Spartan tank squad met unexpected opposition Wednesday at Grand Rapids and fell before the strong Grand Rapids Y M C A team in a close, exciting dual meet by a score of 37 to 34.

The score was tied until the last event, the medley relay, which the Grand Rapids team won by inches to finish on top. The State swimmers experienced difficulty in adapting themselves to the short pool which handicapped them in every event.
