

Acting Deane speaker, A. Anthony, will also be in charge of the Wednesday afternoon session in the gymnasium. Following the session of the Michigan State Extension Council, Dr. J. A. Hirsch, secretary of the Farmers and Manufacturers Beef Sucker association of Bay City, will address the group on the subject "How We Can Work Together." The meeting will be continued by further musical entertainment. The general evening session will be held in Demonstration hall Wednesday beginning at 6:45 with a band concert under the direction of Leonard Falzone. This will be followed by a parade of livestock. Special features will include a display of dairy products and volunteer quartets. The main speaker, introduced by Acting Deane Anthony, will be Webster H. Pearce, superintendent of public instruction of the state. Pearce will speak on "Michigan Schools." Further numbers on the program will be presented by The Thursday evening program in Demonstration hall will be similar to that of the previous night in that it will include overabundance of musical entertainment. Those attending are urged to bring their own chairs. The evening sessions should not go to the other Thursday program, under it W. Tappin, director of short courses, will commence at 6:45 with a talk by the college band. This should end the evening with the presentation of the Michigan agricultural commissioner of the state. He will be introduced by President H. S. Shaw. Entertainment will be provided by the Lumberjack orchestra of Gratiot county, community singing, exhibitions by special educators, the state high school horse and various contests such as judging those pulling and chicken catching.

SPARTANS MAY BE MINUS SERVICES OF VAN FASSEN; CINCINNATI TEAM STRONG

Japanese Team Comes Here on American Tour as Season's Highlight; Nick VanderRoest Will Play at Center if Van Fassen Fails to Recover from Illness.

By DOUG GRAHAM

Faced with the possible loss of Arnold VanFassen, high scoring pivot man who is on the sick list, Coach Ben Van Alstyne's Spartan campers open their second half of the current basketball season, meeting Xavier university of Cincinnati Friday night and the traveling Meiji university of Japan Saturday night. Both games are to be played in Demonstration hall, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

The Xavier quintet is expected to put up a stiff battle for the Spartans, since they have been hitting a fast clip this season losing but one game by a close margin to the Ohio State basketball team. The Meiji university squad, which is on a tour of the United States, brings to East Lansing for the first time a foreign basketball team, marking a high spot on the State schedule. The Japanese players represent one of the best Japanese teams to be developed there, and are expected to furnish a hard game for Coach VanAlstyne's men.

Nick VanderRoest, second-string center who filled VanFassen's shoes very capably in the Olivet game, will probably get the choice to start at pivot unless VanFassen recovers from an attack of tonsillitis. All the other varsity regulars, including Gerald McCaslin and Wendell Pritchett, forwards, and Al Kircher and Bill Vandette, guards, are almost sure to start in the two week-end games.

In the week's terminations, Van Alstyne had shifted VanderRoest to Pritchett's forward position, but VanFassen's absence made it necessary to postpone that shift. The possibility of losing his varsity berth, has been playing better ball in the practices. Other men who will probably get into one of the games, are Eddie Houston, Bob Herrick and Al Kircher.

Meiji Braves Short Men

Learning of international color in the State schedule, Meiji came on prepared to cope with the most physically of the year. Despite their slender frames, and speed, the Meiji players, who are too small for the local players, their short stature has already been proven a disadvantage in basketball. The tallest men on the squad are only five feet, nine inches tall. Though the sport of basketball is reported to be rapidly gaining favor among the Japanese, this disadvantage will probably make it impossible for them to produce any sensational winners.

Last Saturday the Spartans turned in an easy victory over the Olivet Crimson 35 to 13. After the first few minutes of play, the visitors failed to keep up with the barnstorming pace of the State five. The Olivet team could do the second half of the game, but the Spartans failed to connect at the basket that failed to connect.

VanderRoest Leads Scoring

Nick VanderRoest set the scoring followed by Al Kircher, who accounted for four long shots for eight points. Of the second stringers who were sent in by VanAlstyne in the second half, Eddie Houston looked the best, scoring four points in the last few minutes of play.

Intra-mural Sports

Beginning next week basketball will supplant baseball on the intra-mural program. Director Primodig announces that classes, fraternities, wards and independent clubs will be represented on schedules that will extend through February and a part of March. Details of fraternities and interclass competition appear below. Material on dormitory and independent teams has not yet been released.

WELLS HALL

Ward E. Unsworth in three starts, says he has two games tonight in his effort to win the dormitory baseball title. Although assured of a forfeit from C, the E men will have to work hard to outscore Ward D later in the evening. Capt. Bill Gentner, who has lured for his team throughout the season without a setback, will again be on the mound tonight when E makes her last stand.

Should D win over Gentner's ball players a three-way tie for first place will result between wards E, D and F since all will wind up the season with percentages of 800.

The standings:

A	2	3
B	1	4
C	0	4

CLASS BASKETBALL

First appearances of the interclass quinquets will be made Monday night when the juniors and seniors battle among themselves for favorable positions in their respective blocks. The soph and freshmen, who are scheduled for games Wednesday night, will probably not play, due to Farmers' Week activities.

HIGH PRESSURE REMOVED

Amidst all the exploding of rumors and high pressure, newspaper publicity, the work of choosing Jimmy Croswell's successor is progressing slowly and quietly on and on. The issue has been greatly clouded by column and column of newspaper inside dope, which in nine cases out of ten is all fantasy. The latest classic example of jumped-up publicity had it that some attempt was to be made to draft Gus Dorais, here from the University of Detroit. That intention was soon denied and in the end it was found that the writer had deliberately misquoted Ralph H. Young, director of athletics.

Though nothing is certain, we think that some result will be reached very shortly, possibly within the coming week. The personnel committee has been holding regular meetings to cut down the large number of applicants, and undoubtedly now are down to less than half a dozen men. Young has pointed out several reasons why the task is so gigantic. Some 100 men have sent in applications, and each one must be given careful consideration. A good man will be passed up. Of the outstanding ones, more information is secured as to their own factors, coaching, record, and recommendations. Most of this work has been completed, including several personal interviews, earlier this week. All that remains is, perhaps, the hardest job of all—to pick the one man.

It is fair to say in some respects that State should have to choose a new coach in a depression year. Because of the hard times and the fact that a large number of institutions around the nation are hard-pressed for the ever-wanted cash, a number of good coaches have either had to take substantial salary cuts or else have lost their positions entirely. Out of this great mass of coaches who are looking for new jobs of better promise, the State officials have their pick. And the majority are convinced of the highest calibre, too. Because the Spartan athletic leaders have steered a safe and sane course, State is in a better position financially to pay good money for a football coach than many other schools, a factor which assures the college of getting the best man out of national reputation.

MITHI CAGERS

When Coach Shumpei Suzuki brings his Meiji university basketball team here on Saturday, the local fans can try their tongues on some real Japanese names. Here is a list for you and the printer to stumble over: Captain, Yuhel Suzuki, Taro Maeda, Shiroh Oshima, Hideo Nishiwaki, Masao Takakura, Kyo-hiro Nishiwaki, Chokichi Kondo, Oni Matsumoto, Taro Yashiki, and Michikado Takachi. And now if you have mastered them, you might go wandering in the Red Cedar.

Meiji is one of the leading universities in Japan, today, handling a student body of 10,000. Following democratic custom, the institution is not co-educational, but does have a women's department of about 300. Meiji was started in 1861 and is private and non-sectarian. Like other schools in the island province, five years is the length of time required for graduation.

It is interesting to note that the tallest man on their squad will be only 5 feet 9 inches. Their captain is just a foot 2 inches high, weighing 137 pounds. According to that, if Jim Decker gets into the game he ought to be careful not to trample the visitors. Meiji is a member of the Tokyo Big Six Conference in Japan and distinguished themselves before leaving for this country by winning the All-Conference team, composed of stars from the other five universities, a 55 to 42 licking.

OTTEY NAMED TEACHERS ROUT ALL-AMERICAN YEARLING TEAM

Select Two From Michigan Ousting of Spartan Center State, Ottey and Crosby, for Honor Team.

Two Michigan State, thin-limbed, Tom Ottey of Adrian, Pa., and Fred Crosby of Baltimore, Md., are the latest to join the select list of Spartan track nonetists when they were named this week on the national A. A. U. All-American track team. Freddie Alderman, dash star, and Clark Chamberlain, great distance runner, are the only others to achieve such fame.

Tom Ottey was designated as the country's best in the 16,000 meter run, while Crosby received his recognition for finishing first in the 50,000 meter walk. Both men represented the United States and summer in the Olympics at Los Angeles, Calif. Ottey has been to be one of the mainstays on the state cross-country team and a sure winner in the indoor and outdoor distance runs. Crosby, who is a freshman here, has taken on running as walking is not classed as a college sport and has had some difficulty in making the change, although he promises to develop into a better than average runner.

Clark Chamberlain was the last Spartan athlete to be awarded an All-American rating. He achieved that last year when he won the national A. A. U. cross-country championship. Alderman was never named on the athletic union team, though he did set the ranking as the best college athlete in the 220-yard dash.

The announcement of the award came at the same time Ottey decided to lay aside his track career for the rest of the year. Last November before starting college, he was stricken with what at first was diagnosed as a fever. Since that time he has been unable to compete. An operation will be necessary to remove the ailment so that he may continue his career in track. It is probable that Ottey will submit to the operation sometime early in the spring term, and it is impossible for him to answer in competition until well after the operation is successful and all vestiges of the trouble are removed.

The varsity team from Ferris State, which will be the next foe for Coach VanAlstyne's men, will be played in Demonstration hall Friday night.

You smoke a Pipe

and we'd like to talk with you about it

All races of people since the beginning of time, so far as we have been able to read, have had some kind of a pipe and have smoked something—whether they called it tobacco or what not.

AND since smoking a pipe is so different from smoking a cigar or cigarette, we made a most painstaking, scientific study in an effort to make, if we could, a tobacco which was suited to pipes.

We found out, first, that there was a kind of tobacco that grew in the Blue Grass section of Kentucky called White Burley, and that there was a certain kind of this tobacco which was between the tobacco used for cigarettes and the tobacco used for chewing tobacco. It is this tobacco which is best for pipes.

We found out that Mr. J. N. Wellman, many years ago, made a pipe tobacco which was very popular. But it was never advertised and after he passed away nothing more was heard about it. We acquired this Wellman Method and that is what we use in making Granger.

Next was the cut. We knew that fine tobacco burnt hot because it burnt so fast. You could hardly hold your pipe in your hand, it got so hot at times. So remembering how folks used to "whittle" their tobacco we cut GRANGER just like "whittle" tobacco—"Rough Cut." It smokes cooler, lasts longer and never gums the pipe.

So far, so good. Now we wanted to sell this tobacco for 10c. Good tobacco —right process—cut right. So we put Granger in a sensible soft foil pouch instead of an expensive package, knowing that a man can't smoke the package.

GRANGER has not been on sale very long, but it has become a popular smoke. And we have yet to know of a man who started to smoke it, who didn't keep on. Folks seem to like it.
