New Racket

It sounded as if someone had inaugurated a "numbers racket" at the Michigan game Saturday, when members of the State band received their coats after the opening kick-off. Apparently the boys have numbers in their coats—that's the way they find them after they stack them in piles preparatory to taking the field.

Crooner at College

Free Corsages

When the students in one of his courses were given permission by Prof. V. R. Gardner, head of the horticulture department, to pick some flowers for study purposes, several of them hastened to do so. Alas, one was stopped in the act by a formidable member of the "greenhouse gang." When told by the lad that he had received permission to do so, several harsh remarks concerning the nerve of the professor were forthcoming.

Keys to New York

Prof. W. L. Mallmann of his bacteriology department plans to enjoy his visit to New York this week, where he has gone for a meeting of the American Public Health association. Apparently Doctor Mallmann knows the right people, at least he has a pass for every show in town.

Reserves Meet

There will be another Michigan State football game at 2 o'clock, October 9, at Macklin Field, East Lansing. The reserve teams of the two schools will meet for the first time in more than a decade.

More Apples

They are still shaking the tree for "big apples" at the Union dances. This afternoon from 4 o'clock till 5:45 Bob Siegrist will play for dancing in the ballroom. Ed Flowers, Union board president, announces that the finals in the Big Apple contest will be staged.

What a System

Dean Elisabeth Conrad and her assistant, Miss Mabel Petersen, who worried all summer for fear nobody would ever come to see them in their new offices on the second floor of the Administration building should take a tip from President Shaw. The president spends a couple of hours in his orchards every afternoon, and any visitor who comes away from his office these days without some large, red apples and a couple of juicy pears is rare. Miss Conrad might buy herself an orchard.

Tells of England

The Rev. Thomas Toy of Lansing will tell members of the State College club his "Impressions of England and the King's coronation" at their regular luncheon meeting, Wednesday, October 6.

Plan Home Ec. Courses For Liberal Arts Co-eds

Due to requests of liberal arts women, this year the Home Economics division has provided a series of courses in Problems of the Home and Family for liberal arts juniors and seniors only.

These courses, No. 348-A, B, C, under the direction of Miss Evelyn Bergstrand, deal with the problems of the home, such as the selection of clothing and furnishings, meal planning, nutrition, child care, management, and family life. Three credit courses, they include group discussions, lectures, and laboratory work, and must be taken all three terms before credit is given.

Gina Cigna Comes Here For Concert

First Artist of Fall Series to Appear Here October 11.

The concert season will be officially opened at Michigan State college next Monday evening when the first of a series of outstanding artists will be presented. Gina Cigna, soprano and star of last year's Metropolitan Opera season, will give the first concert, to take place in the Peoples church at 8 o'clock, October 11. Coupon books will admit students.

Mme. Cigna's concert was originally scheduled to take place on October 8, as printed in student coupon books, but due to a time change in the arrival of her boat from Europe, she had to postpone her concert three days. Upon her arrival in this country, Mme. Cigna will come directly to East Lansing and will here give her first concert in America this season. Later in the year, she will make a very limited number of appearances in the country, including engagements at the Metropolitan, the Chicago Opera, two concerts in California, and the University of Michigan.

SANG WITH METROPOLITAN

Until last year, Mme. Cigna was not very well known to the American concert audience. Last year, on her first visit to this country, she appeared in only two engagements, with the Metropolitan and the General Motors radio hour. However, every performance in which she appeared was sold out and she made the greatest popular, as well as artistic success of any newcomer at the Metropolitan last season. Some idea of how the French-Italian dramatic soprano has stirred the interest of the New York operatic world may be gathered from newspaper reports about her. The New York World Telegram reported of her "Norma" appearance that "eager throngs besieged the doors of the Metropolitan, an auditorium sold out to the last inch of standing room, and applause that volleyed and thundered." The New York Post's contribution to the unanimous approval of the critics was: "The new 'Aida' was received with an enthusiasm that several times stopped the show." And to quote the New York Journal: "She is one of the most astounding singing actresses in this generation."

MANY ARTISTS COME

The college concert course will also present the following artists: November 15, Josef Hoffman, pianist; Gregor Platigorsky, violinist; February 24, and Marian Anderson, negro contralto; April 19, The college symphony orchestra under Michael Press' direction will present one concert each term. Gregor Platigorsky is replacing the Stravinsky-Dushkin concert scheduled last spring, as Stravinsky will not appear in America this season as previously planned.

Faculty members may secure a limited number of season tickets at the music building. No single admission seats will be sold.

Five New Men Taking Graduate Dairy Work

Besides Mr. Gjesing of Denmark, who is in his second year of graduate work at Michigan State college, there are five new men engaged in this field here this year. Included in the five are W. W. Snyder of Pennsylvania State college, E. B. Hale of Texas A. & M. college, Robert Townley of Oklahoma A. & M. college, R. A. Larson of the University of Nebraska, and A. Maldonado of the University of Puerto Rico.

Lewis on Leave

Miss Mary Lewis, assistant professor in home management, has a year's leave of absence to take work towards a doctor's degree in child nutrition at the University of Chicago. Miss Evelyn Bergstrand, formerly an instructor in home management, has replaced Miss Lewis as the advisor in practice home No. 6 and has taken over one of her classes in child care.

To The Victors?

"Two battles for the price of one."

That was the exclamation of the spectators who viewed the post game riot after witnessing the Spartan last period rally that put the game in the bag for State.

As the gun sounded, signaling victory for the men of State, hundreds of students from both colleges swarmed to the north goal post ready for combat. Fists were swinging in wild fashion, the Spartan gang surged to the posts only to be repulsed by the Michigan defenders. For nearly half an hour the students battled, hitting each other and not caring who they damaged.

But whenever the State offense threatened to take the goal posts, the Wolverines fought back savagely, pushing the invaders away. Getting nowhere with the north posts a vanguard shifted its efforts to the south goal. The others seeing what happened hurried to the new scene of attack.

Then another scrap started with one of State's men scaling the cross-bars, but he did not stay up there long. Again this was repeated without gain. Suddenly amidst the struggling the Spartan warriors by brute force shook the posts for some time but the foundation was secure and their efforts were all for naught.

Although no serious injuries were reported many a student attended classes yesterday with bruises and black eyes.

Soils Man Represents College at Washington

James Porter of the department of soils, who was connected in a part-time capacity with the state committee on agricultural conservation, represented Michigan State college at Washington, D. C., during conferences concerning the 1938 soils program.

E. D. Longnecker, also formerly connected with the state committee on agricultural conservation, has been transferred to soils extension work at M. S. C.

New Chem Teachers

Miss Marianna Auer, who graduated from State last winter, has been appointed as an instructor in chemistry. Another new appointee is Frank Thompson, a Kalamazoo graduate, who is replacing E. A. Rominski as a part-time assistant in chemistry.

Date Bureau Arranged By Hasselback

Independent Men, Women Will Sponsor Dance October 16.

Bill Hasselback, junior chemistry major and newly elected president of Independent Men, announced today his plans for an all-college date bureau and an independent sponsored dance.

Organization of the independent men began to grow under Fred Arnold's leadership last year, and they are now represented on the student council, have their own sport teams, and sponsor several dances throughout the student year.

ATHENIANS HELP

In conjunction with the Athenian women the independent men have begun work on an all-college date bureau which will be functioning shortly before Saturday, October 16, at which time the independent men and women are giving a dance in the Union ballroom. Frankie Prindle and his band will furnish syncopated rhythm for the occasion.

"We believe the bureau will be an aid to a large majority of students, and will help to make the dances more 'all-college' affairs than they have been in the past," Bill said.

TO NAME COMMITTEES

Bill Hasselback and Charlotte Schmidt, presidents of the two groups, are developing plans for the dance and will announce the committees shortly.

Hasselback plans to establish the date bureau in a special office somewhere in the Union building. A clerk will be present at this office during certain hours of each school day to take care of the date-seeking trade.

The date service will be free to co-eds, but men will probably be expected to pay a nominal fee.

State Talent To Charm Mike

Experienced Students Arrive to Participate.

At the first call for radio talent to which only experienced persons were admitted, there were 17 men and 19 women who met Friday afternoon in the woodshop. The experience of this group ranged from two broadcasts to 1-6 broadcasts. Most of this experience came from WKAR, but 12 other stations from Florida to Portland were represented.

For the remainder of the meetings to arrange programs, no definite time has been set. Daily meetings will be held to feel out the abilities of the group and work them into programs. The students will work on characterization and the reading of dramatic continuity until their ability is sufficiently developed to present plays.

Flint Man Hurt On Way to Game

Auto Strikes Truck in East Lansing.

An automobile owned and driven by George Foster, Flint, on the way to the State-Michigan game, crashed at right angles on the corner of Orchard street and Albert avenue into a Kroger Grocery company truck with William Carr at the wheel at 11 a. m. Saturday.

Carr received head injuries and was taken by ambulance to Sparrow hospital where he "was released after treatment. Foster was unhurt."

The truck's right rear fender and top was damaged as was the right front bumper of Foster's car. No charges were brought by either party.

Women's Tea Tuesday

A tea will be held in the student parlors of the Peoples church Tuesday, at 4 o'clock, to welcome the delegates of the annual conference of the Michigan council of federated church women. Women of the church are urged to be present.

Kappas Lead List With 29

Thetas are Second; While Alpha Phi and Chi O's Are Tied for Third.

Gunson Recalls Subdued Frosh Of Olden Days

Tom Gunson, professor of horticulture here long before even our fathers were too steady on their feet, well remembers the day when a freshman didn't dare to walk on the campus sidewalks. He reminisces: "Why, I remember when a freshman couldn't call his life his own and be too sure about it. But then, that was before Bill X—came here. Yes, he resented being bullied around by his superiors, and refused to give ground. What did he do? Well, a couple of upperclassmen were taken from Bill's room in Well's hall to the hospital with crushed skulls or something."

"Of course, that was a long time ago, when it was an all-day's trip to go over to Lansing. That was also before some of you young punks came here and sat down in my garden (Real Botanical garden) with your best girl and thought that it had never been done before."

Even the president of Michigan State college isn't sure of his rights any more. He was seen not long ago giving his right-of-way to a couple of his less erudite freshmen.

New English Profs Hired

Add Two Instructors Fall Term Due to Frosh Overflow.

Due to an overflow of students in the freshman English classes, two instructors have been added to the staff of the English department, increasing it to 23. Dr. Evelyn H. Scholl and Daniel F. Sheehan, who are to remain only fall term, took over classes in freshman English yesterday.

Doctor Scholl obtained her A. B., M. A., and Ph. D. degrees at the University of Michigan, studying also at Smith college and at the Cleveland Institute of Music. She is an accomplished musician. She has taught at Smith college, Post Huron Junior college, the Eastman School of Music, the Cleveland Institute of Music, and at Hanover college in Hanover, Ind. She will teach freshman English and possibly a survey of English course.

Mr. Sheehan took his A. B. and M. A. degrees at Fordham. He did further study at Northwestern, University of Minnesota, and the University of Michigan. He was associate professor of English and Latin at the College of St. Teresa in Winona, Minn., and instructor of freshman English in the correspondence division of the University of Michigan. He was also on the staff of the "Early Modern English Dictionary."

Beautiful Beaumont Tower Gives Fine View, Sweet Music

by LUCILLE VOGEL

Freshmen come and seniors go, but Beaumont tower, equipped with a carillon and clock works, prefers to remain stationary. The building, located near the library, has had more success in making itself famous than many an ambitious statesman. At least, its chimes are listened to more attentively.

The year 1928 witnessed the building of Beaumont tower, erected on ground where once stood the country's first college building used for teaching agriculture. From the top of this 100-foot structure, which is also 20 feet square, can be seen the campus in all its fall loveliness, as well as much of the surrounding territory. North, south, east and west offer interesting contrasts—city and country, trees and buildings.

The rhythmic gong, whose music is wafted over the grounds and into classrooms, offer added service to those who are without timepieces. The stroke of the hour means release for students and relief for professors.

Michigan State college's chief carillonneur at present is Jake Daubert, swimming coach, to whom tribute is due for his expertness in ringing out melodious chimes. Familiar to all is his "Bells of St. Mary's," which was probably one of the first bits of musical cadence played to usher in the class of 1941.

Incomplete Frat Lists Show 111 Men Accepted for Pledgeship.

Delta Sigs Are First With 17

Sigma Nu is Close Second; Phi Kappa Tau Holds Third Place.

Fraternity rushing has been going forward at high speed this year, with all indications pointing to a greater number of pledges than in last year's post-rushing period. To date, reports of pledging have been received from 14 of the 18 fraternities, listing 111 pledges after the first week of pledging. Delta Sigma Phi leads with 17, and Sigma Nu is a close second with 16. Phi Kappa Tau ranks third with 12.

Fraternity rushing started at the beginning of freshman week, and pledging began a week ago Sunday. Last year, 111 pledges were reported after two weeks of rushing. As pledging will continue for some time, all figures are not yet complete; however, the names of pledges listed below make up the largest part of prospective fraternity men at Michigan State this year.

DELTA SIGMA PHI

Forestry Club To Reorganize

Dean Mitchell to Discuss Advantages of Training.

President Bill Pitts, of the Forestry club, has called a meeting this Wednesday to reorganize for the coming year. At this time five new staff members, each from a different state, will be presented to the group. The club plans to stress the need for a cosmopolitan viewpoint in the study of forestry. Since fifteen states are represented in the organization, it is hoped that the near future will bring many discussions of unusual interest to foresters.

Several boys have just returned from summer camps and will relate experiences of the past summer. The keynote of the program will be an address by Dr. Mitchell, who will discuss "The Advantage of a Rounding Training." He will emphasize the need for social, religious, cultural and artistic education in facing economic and social problems of today.

Dr. Russell Fills Vacancy

Dr. C. E. Russell, former graduate of Michigan State college and previously department head of horticulture at Texas Technological college at San Antonio, Texas, is now filling the vacancy left by Dr. F. C. Bradford of the Horticultural department.

The electrical engineering division has just received a new beat frequency isolator, which will produce an alternating frequency up to ten thousand cycles per second. This will be used in the electronics and alternating current courses.

Unkempt Frosh Worry Yearbook Photographers

Perhaps from ignorance, perhaps from laziness, first-year men show up at the Versluis portrait studios with the majority possessing a tie askew or with no tie at all. Either they come devoid of kept regalia or adorned in the splendor of military's basic uniform.

According to the Wolverine pilot, Bill Ingleson, frosh should appreciate this opportunity to have a "fine, beautiful, and glorious portrait" created in the image of themselves. It would please Mom and the girl back home immensely if they could view their young man away at college in combed hair, washed face, suit vest and coat, and of course the required necessity of a clean shirt.

Elsie Thrasher Joins Faculty

Rural Extension Work Covers 18 Counties.

Miss Elsie Thrasher, formerly assistant professor of music at Kansas State Teachers college, Emporia, Kan., has been added to the faculty of the music department of M. S. C. as a specialist in rural music extension work. Miss Thrasher was graduated from Bethany college in Lindburg, Kan., and has her M.A. in education from New York university, and took additional work from Kansas State Teachers college and Pittsburgh, and Columbia universities.

For four years she conducted county institutes in music, and also taught extension work to rural school teachers in Kansas.

Previous to the appointment of Miss Thrasher, rural music extension work was done by only two workers, each of whom covered six counties, reaching 25,000 grade school children. With her aid eighteen counties will now be taken care of. The three women meet early in the school year with the county school commissioner and the teachers of the county, to teach songs, dances, and rhythms to the latter, who then instruct the children in these. During the year the workers visit each school to supervise the work.

In May every county gives a festival in which all pupils who reach certain standards of excellence participate. About two thousand children from all schools meet for one rehearsal of chorus and dances before the festival. This is probably the only time some of these children ever meet each other.

"Rural extension work is becoming more popular each year, and each year new counties apply for work in their county," stated O. Enfield, publicity director of the music department.

Trojans Prepare For Game With Flint Eleven Saturday

By CHARLES DUTTON

Now that the Lansing Central game is history, East Lansing is preparing for its game with Flint Central next Saturday at Flint.

Coming out of the game last Friday with no serious injuries the Trojans will be at full strength for the Flint game because last night both George Schieve, regular guard, and Weston Gardner, veteran end and tackle, were in uniform.

Although they did not participate in any heavy drill, it is very probable that they will be ready for the game Saturday. Their absence from the game with the Big Red materially affected the Trojan team.

Despite the loss at the hands of the Big Red, the game did have its brighter side. Coach Shaver uncovered an excellent passing combination in MacKichan and Marshall. If this pair continue to click as they did Friday night

Spartans Dance 'Big Apple' In Ann Arbor After Game

Arno Weiss Makes Harmony in State Union at Victory Party.

Both Michigan and Michigan State couples rallied round for a hilarious "Big Apple" led by George Cully, State cheerleader, at the Ann Arbor Union dance last Saturday night. A Michigan orchestra played in the main ballroom, while Bill Porter, familiar around these parts, reigned over the smaller hall upstairs.

Way back home in our own Union, Arno Weiss harmonized for a crowd of two hundred and fifty elated Spartans at the victory dance. Professor and Mrs. S. E. Crowe acted as patrons for the occasion.

An interesting program in the way of tea dances this week is planned. At the Tuesday dance, which will be from 4 to 5:45 o'clock, there will be a "Big Apple" contest with cash prizes to be awarded to the winners. The first five couples will be admitted free, and "trucks" as well as "big apples" are invited to come.

College Holsteins Beat 1936 Record

'Traverse Star Echo' Leads Producers.

Completing its ninth year, the Holstein herd of Michigan State college once again shows an exceptional production record.

The testing of butterfat, supervised by the college and officially recognized by the Holstein-Friesian association, showed that the average of eleven class B cows produced 15,649 pounds of milk, with an average of 3.2 per cent butterfat, or a total average of 480.8 pounds of butterfat produced during the year.

Previous records of the milk tests show that an all-high record of 4894 pounds of butterfat was made in 1934. 463 pounds of butterfat were recorded. Last year an average of 412 pounds was produced by the prize cows.

Traverse Star Echo, became the Michigan State college star for the year by producing 22,720 pounds of milk with an average of 3.2 per cent butterfat and giving 731 pounds of butterfat.

Hunt to Talk On Religion

Y. M. C. A. Meets Tonight: Induct New Cabinet Members

The second bi-weekly open meeting of the Y. M. C. A. will be held tonight in the organization room of the union. The program committee has arranged to have Dr. H. R. Hunt of the zoology department, speak. His subject will be, "The Religion of an Educated Man." Dr. Hunt is noted for his provocative ideas on religion, particularly concerning its relation to science.

Brief induction ceremonies are planned to initiate new cabinet members.

Pins will be given to eligible members and applications for membership of newcomers will be received at the meeting.

Twelve members of the faculty advisory board will be guests of the organization. Members of the freshmen council will also attend this meeting.

Norman Hyatt, membership chairman of the Y. M. C. A., announces that over 50 men have already made application for membership. He expects more as the year progresses and extends his welcome to all campus men to attend these open meetings.

Robey Takes Leave to Study Developments

O. E. Robey, assistant professor of agricultural engineering and research, is on a two month's leave of absence in Europe. During this time he will study agricultural developments in all the more modern countries and at the same time comparing their improvements in recent years to the progress made in the United States in this field. His journey will carry him to England, Belgium, France and Germany. He will return near the end of October.

Z. Kemsy Arrested As Drunk Driver

Believes He's Home After Hours in Jail.

Z. Howard Kemsy strengthened state trooper, R. W. Eaton's, conjecture that he was intoxicated while driving at 8:30 a. m. Sunday morning, by innocently insisting after two hours in the city jail that he was on the seven mile road on the outskirts of his residence, city, Detroit.

Trooper Eaton arrested Kemsy on West Michigan avenue in the 900 block when, according to the police, he was intoxicated.

New Plan Ready For Fraternity Pictures

Wolverine is introducing a new plan this year regarding the pictures of fraternities and sororities. All fraternity and sorority pictures will be taken as informal outside shots, using the respective houses as backgrounds. Also into the page of each group will be worked in at least one candid snap of some of the "big shots" of the organization.

These pictures will necessarily have to be taken during the noon hour in good weather, and they will also have to be taken in the near future.

All junior and senior men journalism majors will meet at 7:30 Tuesday evening, in room 7, Union annex.

West Mary Mayo

Lee Himmelsbach, former West Mayoite, whose home is in Farmington, spent the week-end here as Betty Asire's guest.

Rose Kest, a former West Mayo resident who is now teaching at Port Huron, was the guest of Betty Harrington.

The date for the West Mayo fall term party has been set for November 20.

State Whips Wolverines, 19-14; Klewicki Out For Year

Pingel To Nelson Wins Grid Thriller Before 71,000 Fans

Combination Scores Two of Three State Touchdowns: Ciolek Races 89 Yards to Count First Spartan Score. Only to See Michigan Strike Back to Take Lead.

By GEORGE MASKIN

The game with "a story book finish." Certainly when a kid you remember of Tommy Jones and his heroic performances in the last few minutes of play to lead the Rough Raiders to victory in their most important game of the season.

Well, the same thing happened at Ann Arbor last Saturday. Instead of there being only one hero there were two, and instead of the Rough Raiders winning, Michigan State finished on the long end of the count.

It is needless to say the Spartans whipped Michigan, 19-14, to become the first team in modern football competition to mow down the once mighty Wolverines four times in a row.

CIOLEK GETS AWAY

It also is needless to say Gene Ciolek ran 89 yards to score the first touchdown, and that Michigan came back to take a one-point lead, only to see State five back, to forge to the front five plays later.

Furthermore, nothing much has to be said of the manner in which the fighting Wolverines took a one-point lead in the opening minutes of the final quarter and how the never-to-be-dreaded Spartan eleven followed with the winning touchdown while the Michigan fans still were in a frenzy.

PINGEL

The two heroes for State were Johnny Pingel, the black-haired Mt. Clemens junior, and Walter "Ole" Nelson, the giant killer from over Chicago way.

They saved their show until the last half, and when they had completed their work for the afternoon, the crowd of 71,200, largest ever to see the two rivals play, turned for the gates stunned by what it had seen.

PEARCE TAKES PICK
It was in the third quarter and Michigan led, 7-6, the first time in four years the Wolverines had led the Spartans. Michigan kicked off to Ed Pearce, the State midget, who ran the ball 16 yards to State's 26-yard stripe.

One line play failed and Pingel then raced around Michigan's left end to the Wolverine's 49. Two running plays netted only a couple of yards and Pingel then faded back to his own 40.

He stopped for a moment, looked about, and then shot a pass, which Nelson caught on the Michigan 20. Ole dodged one Wolverine would-be tackler and crossed the goal line for a touchdown. Pearce kicked the point and State led, 13-7.

Michigan was out of the ball game by no means, and early in the final stanza marched 45 yards to score with Trosko plunging over from the 1-yard line. Trosko booted the extra point, putting Michigan in front, 14-13.

TIME'S A PASSING

Eleven minutes to play! The crowd talked a Michigan victory. But wait—the Spartans again were on their way.

Udit Haney returned the kick-off to State's 33. Pingel lost three, but Haney ran Michigan's right end to State's 43. A pass Pingel to Nelson was good for a first down on Michigan's 43.

Then Pingel and Nelson collaborated on the winning play of the game, Johnny passing to Nelson, who shook Ritchie off and stepped high, wide and handsome the last 15 yards to the pay line.

It didn't matter that Pearce missed the extra point. Michigan realized it couldn't beat the Spartans and for the rest of the game play was confined strictly to Wolverine territory.

That's the story of the two heroes, but before they came into action Ciolek had startled the crowd with his sensational run in which brilliant blocking was featured. Lyle Rockenbach knocked no less than four men out of the play, while Dave Diehl dropped Valpey, the last Michigan man in Ciolek's path.

RENDA GOES OVER
Running and passing spectacularly, Michigan scored its first marker just before the period ended when Ritchie passed to Renda, the midget back, who played a standout game. Trosko converted the extra point.

During the game the Spartans outgained Michigan 460 to 176 yards. The Spartans seldom have played better football than they did Saturday.

Michigan's defense was equally stout. The Spartans were held to 140 yards and 10 first downs. Michigan's defense was equally stout. The Spartans were held to 140 yards and 10 first downs.

Frat Football Loop to Open Play Tonight

Three Games Mark First Round of Battle for Crown.

Tonight under the lights of the varsity practice field the interfraternity touch football opens its 1937 season with three games.

Assistant director of athletics, Lyman Frimodig, who supervises the schedule of thirty-five games is hoping for another season as successful as last. Tonight the Hespies tangle with the Delta Chis, the Eclectics, last years champions, meet the Phi Kappa Phis, and the S. A. E.'s team will battle with the Phi Chi Alphas.

There Goes Pingel Again

CHIEF SAYS: Kipke Asked State To Pass, and—

By Harry Speelman
State Football Star

Well, Harry Kipke can't say he didn't ask for it. Saturday he was quoted as "daring Michigan State to pass against Michigan's defense."

Not only did State complete 8 of 17 passes and score two touchdowns by this method, but they also threw in a swell run by Gene Ciolek for good measure.

Personal nomination for Michigan's best player goes to Stark Ritchie, halfback, who should do them a lot of good this year.

Believe it or not, Ole Nelson was actually "talking it up" in the game. Usually he makes about as much noise at the concrete stadium, but Saturday he was really alive and played a whale of a game at left end.

Michigan's linemen were constantly making remarks about "watching the farmers how to play football" during the game. I bet they wish they had a couple of "farmers" like Pingel, Nelson, Haney, Gaines, Halbert, Swartz, and Gortel, along with about fifteen others going to school in Ann Arbor.

are in charge of the ball.

The team also has the SPIRIT. The sum total of all these assets points to a great fall along the Red Cedar.

Whether the team goes undefeated is a question only time will decide. We should be able to answer this next November 27. Maybe before that.

SPORT INTERLUDES -- What About the Future

by George Maskin

If your football team had just made modern football history by becoming the first college to defeat Michigan on the gridiron four years in a row, you'd probably be a pretty happy coach. But not so was Charley Bachman after the Spartans had whipped the Wolverines Saturday.

Bachman is no different than any other coach in that he dreams of some day piloting a team through an undefeated season and possibly getting a chance to show his proteges in football's big classic of the year at the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

When State downed Michigan as it has for the last four seasons, it is a sign for the Spartan followers to commence talking a perfect season and the Rose Bowl. They talked of the California game in 1934, again in 1935, and again last season. Now that State once more has conquered the Wolverines, undergraduates and alumni again eye that big classic.

In each instance State has faced Michigan on the second Saturday of the season, and the unfortunate part of it has been, the heaviest part of the schedule still remained ahead for the Spartans.

With Michigan out of the way, State, before it can qualify for the undefeated class and a possible shot at the Rose Bowl, must turn back Manhattan, Missouri, Marquette, Kansas, Temple, Carnegie Tech, and San Francisco. State can win all these games if and there's that little word again, the Spartans play the same brand of football as they did last Saturday.

MEMORIES OF LAST THREE SEASONS REMAIN IN COACH BACHMAN'S MIND

To get back to Bachman. Football coaches have good memories and the records tabulated by the Spartans in 1934, 1935, and 1936 hold a prominent place in Bachman's mind.

Three years ago, the Spartans trimmed Michigan, 16-0, and then proceeded to down Carnegie Tech, Manhattan and Marquette in that order. Coupled with a triumph over Grinnell in the opener, State boasted a five-game winning streak.

Then with the Rose Bowl on the lips of virtually every man and woman in East Lansing, and the pandemonium ceased to and the pandemonium ceased.

SPARTAN '11' AGAIN OFF TO FLYING START BY WINNING TWO GAMES

This season again finds State off to a good start. The Spartans won first from Wayne and then scored in a thriller over Michigan in as good a game of football as will be played in these United States this year.

On paper, it isn't hard to figure how easily State can take its next seven opponents this camp. The Spartans have Pingel and Ciolek and Haney, to mention only three stellar backs. In the line there's Ole Nelson and Frank Gaines and Harry Speelman among others.

All are great football players. They are the kind of boys any coach gladly will put on his first team, even Bernie Bierman at Minnesota, whose team isn't invincible yet.

Names don't win football games. Bachman and his chief aides fully are aware of this fact.

Manhattan, next in the line of State opponents, lost to Texas A. & M. Saturday by one touchdown, and the Aggies are rated one of the strongest teams in the southwest. Missouri follows Manhattan and the Tigers are supposed to have a power house, despite a setback to Colorado State Saturday.

Marquette, Temple and Carnegie Tech always are tough for State and Kansas will have an issue of two to settle when it plays here later this month. Performing at home, San Francisco also won't be a push over.

UNCERTAINTY MAKES FOR FOOTBALL. NO WONDER BACHMAN IS WORRIED

There, briefly, are reasons why Bachman isn't all smiles today. Uncertainty makes for football, and since anything can happen during the next seven weeks, we shouldn't be too hasty figuring State "in."

With the possible exception of lacking scoring punch when in-line, State appears to have about everything. The Spartan backfield has runners, passers and kickers, and besides knows how to block. The line can open the holes. Back for its ball carriers, and smother the opponents when the latter side the opposition's 20-yard

Young Back Breaks Right Leg On Last Play Of 'M' Game

Spartans Open Drills for Game With Manhattan at Brooklyn Next Saturday: Diebold, Kovachik Rejoin Squad After Spending Day in College Hospital.

While Michigan State's football team prepares for its game with Manhattan at New York next Saturday, Herman Klewicki, young sophomore quarterback, is in the hospital with a broken right leg suffered on the last play of the Michigan game last Saturday.

Klewicki, who was on his way to a regular post on the State varsity until the injury struck him, will be lost to the team for the rest of the season.

Brother of a former State football great, who now is starting with the Detroit Lions, Herman limped from the field Saturday unaware of the seriousness of his injury. When questioned by Coach Charley Bachman, he remarked:

"Some one kicked me in the leg, but it's not bad."

That the leg was broken wasn't learned until the team returned home late Saturday. Dr. R. M. Olin took an X-Ray to determine what was wrong, after Klewicki complained of great pain.
