Today's Campus

Wandering Gander

Latest foreign visitor to the campus is an Egyptian goose. While he is not directly from Egypt, his recent ancestors undoubtedly resided there. The large, beautiful bird has attracted no little comment and curiosity through the presence in the mallard flock at the Wells hall.

According to Dr. K. W. Stack, associate professor of zoology, the bird escaped from Belle Isle or the Royal Oak zoo to an estate on Grosse Ile where mallard ducks were raised. The goose was brought to the Doctor Stack for identification. Since it is handled, it will be possible to trace its flights.

Tables Turn

A Wolverine candid camera man rushed into the Verbius studio the other day flourishing his tiny black box. "Will you please turn your lights around so I can take a picture of you?" he asked the photographer. The man complied, and the candid addict reversing the usual process, snapped a student's view of the man who squeezes the high and says "watch the bellie."

Footballists

Bill Ingleson, Wolverine editor of a Theta Nu, and Bob Harner, Delta, are the two most recent victims of touch football carnage. Ingleson suffered a torn hip muscle in a game Thursday night. Harner was in the college hospital till today and is now able to walk somewhat painfully with the help of a cane. Harner suffered a strain in a Thursday night game.

Puerto Rico Attends

Jose F. Maldonado, a Puerto Rican student at the University of Michigan, who is studying for the production of a play at Michigan State this year, says that the college has become well known on his native island. He likes the climate, but when asked about the food, he replied with a slight Spanish accent, "The food is very gracious, but I don't like it very much."

Optimism

Friday was certainly a warm, sunny day, but even so the groundskeeper at the Union either has his dates mixed or he is an optimist. At about 10 a. m. he was busy running a law mower over the slopes near the west entrance.

Spreading Ripples

The Michigan-Michigan State football game has become a topic of international conversation, at least at Zurich, where the American consul and a graduate student of the University of Zurich are former Michigan State men.

Date Bureau Popular

Bill Hasselback, independent men's president, reports a rushing business at the new date bureau. Already 855 men have signed with the bureau and 219 more have filled application blanks.

Der Hund Schlaft

Dick Nahstoll, sophomore member of Union board, is by way of being an animal lover. A stray cat wandered into the board meeting Thursday night, and unobtrusively the distinguished complexity, encoined himself in Nahstoll's lap, where he promptly went to sleep. After the meeting broke up, Dick continued to sit on the floor, when the dog had had his sleep out, woke up, and departed.

NSFA Convo Here Draws 51 Delegates

Representatives Discuss Student Council Problems.

Fifty-one delegates from 12 colleges in the east central region assembled in East Lansing yesterday for the National Student Federation convention here this weekend. Battle Creek college, Battle Creek, had the largest delegation with four men and three coeds.

After registration and a complimentary luncheon in the main dining room of the Union, the delegates met in the organization rooms Friday afternoon for a round table discussion of student council problems. The group conferred on difficulties in student council-student relation and the student-faculty relations problems.

Following the round table conferences the visitors toured the campus under the sponsorship of Alpha Phi Omega, honorary service fraternity.

HUGHES SPEAKS

Friday evening the delegates attended a banquet in the faculty dining room. Following a short musical program, President R. S. Shaw introduced Hon. Sam Street Hughes, Lansing municipal court judge, speaker of the evening. His topic was "Civic Responsibilities of Students."

Arthur Northwood, president of the National Student Federation, who was scheduled to speak at the banquet, did not do so.

Later Friday night the delegates danced at the Harvest ball. Dates for the affair were furnished by the new date bureau.

CONFERENCE TODAY

Saturday morning the envoys will hold round table discussions on the independent-fraternity relations and the problem of increasing democracy on campus.

At the summarization luncheon in the Union sun porch today, Fred T. Mitchell, Michigan State dean of men, and James O. Carney, DePaul university, president of the east central region, will summarize the results of the convention.

After the summarization, delegates will attend the Michigan State-Kansas football game as guests of the Michigan State student council.

SCHOOLS LISTED

Representatives came from Western Reserve university, Cleveland; Rockford college, Rockford, Ill.; Central YMCA college, Chicago; Milwaukee State Teachers college, Milwaukee; Central State Teachers college, Mt. Pleasant; University of Akron, Akron, Ohio; DePaul university, Green-castle, Ind.; Battle Creek college, Battle Creek; Western college, Oxford, Ohio; and Hope college, Holland.

F. W. Fabian Ends Series of Talks

Tour Carries Bacteriologist Across Continent

Bacteriologist F. W. Fabian's series of lectures which have taken him from New York to Texas, was concluded October 29 in Dallas when he addressed a national meeting of ice cream makers.

The paper delivered by Professor Fabian concerned more sanitary methods of soda fountain service and was prepared in collaboration with A. E. Hook of the bacteriology graduate school.

The session in which Professor Fabian presented his lecture was an all-college gathering, including representatives of the Universities of Minnesota, Illinois, Missouri, Purdue and Michigan State.

Mrs. McCune Honored for Service to Club

At the meeting of the Sunday Evening club on October 24, Mrs. N. A. McCune was presented with a gift in recognition of her service to the club. She has served as their adviser for the last six years. The presentation, which was made by Gerald Marshall, president of the club, followed Mrs. McCune's address on her freighter voyage through the Panama canal.

Board Votes To Raise Fees

Faculty to Meet Monday to Vote on Thanksgiving Vacation.

The administrative group of the college, meeting Friday afternoon recommended to the State Board of Agriculture that student fees for the Michigan State News be raised to 50 cents per term. This increase was voted by the student body at an election in June.

The News is being published as a morning tri-weekly for the first time this year. In former years it has appeared twice a week as an afternoon paper. The special election in June was called to vote on the proposed change. Although only a light vote was cast, an overwhelming majority of voters expressed themselves in favor of the change.

Provided the Board of Agriculture confirms the fee increase, a matter of 15 cents per term, the additional amount will be collected at the time fees are paid in January.

A meeting of the faculty, which includes all staff members with rank of associate professorship or above, together with the administration heads, has been called for Monday afternoon at 4 p. m. At that time the question of the Thanksgiving holiday will be decided.

Dairy Men Plan Annual Party

Judging Teams Will be Guests at Bean Feed

The ninth annual Bean Feed is to be held in the dairy building, Monday, November 1, at 6 p. m. James Hayes, dairy extension specialist, will be in charge of the party.

The purpose of the feed is to honor the dairy cattle and dairy products judging teams, and to get the dairy students and instructors acquainted with each other.

Prof. P. S. Lucas will act as toastmaster of the affair. The menu will consist of beans, potato chips, ice cream, milk, pie, and a variety of sandwiches.

Milk Association Plans Meet Here

The twenty-first delegate meeting of the Michigan Milk Producers association will be held in the Union on Thursday, Nov. 4.

For the first time the wives of the delegates will be invited. The program will be the regular business meeting and a tour of the campus for the women during the day. The social program will be a dinner at 6.30, followed by an old-time dance.

Approximately 75 or 80 women and 200 delegates are expected.

Opens Gift Shop

Mrs. Eve Smith, life-long resident of this vicinity, has opened a new gift shop at 1027 East Grand River in East Lansing. Her shop offers a complete line of school supplies, party gifts, Christmas cards, stationery, wood carvings and other gifts.

New Dormitory Has Dedication Fete Tomorrow

With tapers presented by President Robert S. Shaw, Miss Jean Bedford and Miss Jean Shearer, presidents of Sarah Langdon Williams South and North wings, will light fires in the dormitory dining room fireplaces tomorrow afternoon, dedicating the newest unit in Michigan State college's housing system for women students.

The fire-lighting ceremony will follow a dinner at 7 p. m. tomorrow for Board of Agriculture members and their wives and for other college administration and dormitory committee members and their guests.

The Misses Bedford and Shearer will be assisted in the ceremony by the Misses Patricia Pearsall and Bette Lawrence, social chairwomen of the two wings.

Relatives and friends of students living in Sarah Langdon Williams and faculty members will be guests at an informal reception from 3 to 5 p. m. Sunday, and all friends of students and of the college are invited to an open house from 7 to 9 p. m. Sunday.

ADMISSION BY CARD

Admission to the afternoon reception will be by card only, but the evening open house will be public. Faculty tickets for the afternoon reception may be obtained at the secretary's office or the dean of women's office this morning and at the Union desk this afternoon.

Secretary John A. Hannah will preside at the dinner and dedication program. Guests for the dinner and program will include Board of Agriculture members, Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson and Mr. Wilson of Rochester, Gilbert L. Daane and Mrs. Daane of Grand Rapids, Charles E. Downing and Mrs. Downing of Willis; Benjamin H. Halstead and Mrs. Halstead of Petoskey, Clark L. Brody and Mrs. Brody of Lansing, and William E.

Cooper Not To Return

Sophomore Who Disappeared for Week Drops From School.

LaVerne Cooper, Michigan State sophomore, who disappeared from East Lansing early last week, will not return to college, it was learned yesterday. A telephone call to this effect was received yesterday by Prof. Earl Weaver of the dairy department, where Cooper worked.

Cooper disappeared on the night of October 18 while on his way to work. Local and state police were conducting a search for him when he was located Wednesday of this week at Scottville. He was reported to have taken a bus from Scottville for East Lansing, but went to his home at Hastings instead of returning to the campus.

Local Scouts To Hunt Toys

Troop 2 Will Play Santa to Poor Children.

Troop 2 of the East Lansing Boy Scouts is planning to canvass the city during the first week of November to collect all toys that can be spared.

The scouts and their parents will repair and paint the toys before distribution.

Anyone having a garage or part of a basement where some of the toys can be stored until they are distributed is asked to call Mrs. Thaden, 2-4495.

This project will be one of Troop 2's good-turns for Christmas and the scouts will appreciate the co-operation of the townspeople.

The Athenians will hold a meeting Monday evening, Nov. 1, in the organization rooms of the Union. All members and girls who are interested are urged to come.

Whyte Opens Radio Trials Next Monday

Campus Scoured for Talent Suitable for Use in Broadcast.

Gordon Whyte, director of the Pontiac Varsity show, will arrive on the campus Monday to begin two weeks of rehearsals for the Michigan State version of the weekly coast-to-coast radio feature, which will be broadcast over the NBC blue network from 9 to 9:30 p. m. Friday, Nov. 12.

Auditions for the broadcast will begin under Whyte's direction immediately upon his arrival here. The campus has been scoured for vocal, instrumental, or any other type of talent suitable for radio broadcasting by a talent committee, headed by Robert Ritter.

SKETCHES NEEDED

Radio sketches of a humorous or satirical nature dealing either with Michigan State college—its history, its personages, the institution itself—or with other subjects of general interest, have been requested by Staley Haugh, script chairman, and in the radio writing class, taught by Ralph Norman of the journalism department.

Tickets to the broadcast are free and will be issued at a future date. Because the gymnasium will not accommodate all who wish to see the broadcast, on the day preceding the program, a preview will be held of the whole program. Invited guests and students will compose the preview audience.

FORMER ACTOR

Mr. Whyte, an Australian by birth, came to this country at the age of eight. After a taste of New York city's public schools he decided upon a stage career. At 19 he faced his first audience, continuing in the legitimate theatre, musical comedy and vaudeville for 12 years.

Leaving the stage, he joined Billboard, the theatrical weekly, first as a reporter, later as critic and city editor. The next development landed him the associate editorship of Metronome and the Musical Observer. Then he joined the radio department of an advertising agency, where he directed and collaborated in writing such shows as the Eveready hour, the Voice of America and the Canada Day program.

Publication Office is Being Remodeled

Remodeling of the Publications office in Ag hall was started Friday morning. The bid of H. G. Christianman Co., Lansing, was accepted.

New partitions, the upper half of glass, will replace the present ones. The job is expected to be completed in a week.

Campus to Wear New Neck Tie At Night

Boulevard lights all along the front of the campus will soon be installed, Secretary John A. Hannah announced Friday.

From Harrison road at the west end of the college property to Bogue street on the east boundary, 42 lights will be installed on the campus side of Michigan and Grand River avenues. "It will put a necktie on the campus at night," is the way Secretary Hannah picturesquely expressed himself on this new move.

But the hitch comes in here, fellows. In the area around the women's dormitories 12 new-style campus lights will dim the chances for the dark walks that lead to the dormitories.

The campus lights will be hung on modernistic metal standards. The lights will be much the same as those now lighting the doorways of Sarah Williams dormitory.

The campus and boulevard lights will be installed by the Lansing board of water and light engineers.

Grad Students Now Total 215

Dean Bessey Announces School Enrollment.

Dr. Ernst A. Bessey, dean of the graduate school, announces that there are 93 new graduate students this fall, as compared to the 79 new students that enrolled last year. This brings the total number enrolled to 215, an increase of 47 over last year.

Less than half of those newly enrolled in the graduate school this year are graduates of Michigan State college. The rest received their degrees from various colleges and universities throughout the United States. Also, two of those enrolled are from Canada, one from Puerto Rico, and one is from Japan.

Bird Club to Hear Three Speakers

Authority Will Show Stuffed Specimens.

The Michigan Bird-Banders will have three speakers at their next meeting. Dr. J. Van Tyne, who is curator of birds at the museum of zoology, University of Michigan, will bring some mounted specimens to illustrate his lecture.

The other two speakers are Dr. Janzen, representative of the Biological Survey of this district, and J. W. Stack, director of the banding work at the college station. The group will meet November 6 at 1:00 p. m. in the botany building. Those who are interested in nature studies are invited to attend.

Engineers Hear Talk

The local branch of the American Society of Electrical Engineers met in the organization rooms in the Union, Thursday night. A general business session was followed by a talk by F. V. Schultz on the method of prospecting for oil.

State Plays Kansas '11' Here Today

Spartans Seek Fourth Straight Victory Over Jayhawks.

By GEORGE MASKIN

There's going to be a better football game than most people originally expected this afternoon in Macklin Field, when the rival teams of Michigan State and Kansas clash starting at 2 p. m.

Kansas, which on paper appeared one of the setups on the State schedule before the season started, takes the field today as leader of the Big Six conference in which, among others, the crack Nebraska Cornhuskers is a member.

Victorious in three of their four games, which is more triumphs than the team totaled during both the 1935 and 1936 seasons, Kansas opposes State, confident of avenging three consecutive setbacks, two by overwhelming margins, to the Spartans.

STATE TWICE VICTOR

It doesn't appear likely State will accomplish what it did in its last two games with Kansas. Two years ago, the Spartans rolled up a 42-0 victory over the Jayhawks, while last year State missed duplicating its 1935 score by a single point.

Prior to those two decisive triumphs, State had downed Kansas 6-0 in 1934, so that in the three previous engagements between the teams, the Spartans have pined up 87 points, while holding Kansas scoreless.

The Hawks after dividing their first two games this fall began functioning in high gear to take Iowa State and then followed with a victory over Oklahoma. Oklahoma is the team which tied Nebraska, and the Huskers in turn whipped Minnesota.

Kansas will present virtually the same team against State today which performed so poorly a year ago, but the Hawks no longer are in the doldrums.

KANSAS IS STRONG

They have a strong, big and fast charging line, one of the best State will meet this season. The Hawk backfield, coached by Glenn Pressnell, former Detroit Lions star, is well fortified with good ball carriers, passers, kickers and blockers.

In beating Oklahoma last Saturday, Kansas took to the air to score two touchdowns. Most dangerous of the Hawk passers is Max Renigle, who throws them left-handed.

With Charley Bachman spending considerable time this week brushing

A Cappella Choir To Sing Vespers

This coming Sunday the A Cappella choir of M. S. C. will give an "evening of Vespers" in Pontiac. This will be given in connection with the centennial celebration of All Saints Episcopal church of Pontiac.

The A Cappella choir, under the direction of William Kimmell, consists of 24 singers who were brought together for the first time two years ago for the purpose of performing compositions impossible for larger choirs. They specialize in 16th and 17th century ecclesiastical and sacred music and later in the year will make a number of appearances in cities in lower Michigan.

Welcome!

Conventions are not a rarity at Michigan State, but it is seldom that those conventions include students from other colleges. Such a gathering is the annual meeting of the east central region of the National Student Federation of America which is on the campus this weekend.

The State News welcomes the delegates, members of student government organizations from other Middle West campuses, to East Lansing. The Student council has done everything to insure you a good time and a profitable one during your stay here. If the News or any Michigan State student can be of service to you, do not hesitate to call on them. The whole college is glad you are here, and wants you to carry away the very finest impression of Michigan State.

—SN—

The Trailer Situation

While the viewpoint of the Michigan State students who live in the trailer camp east of the city limits can well be understood, the city of East Lansing can not be blamed for taking its recent action to put an end to the camp.

The action of the council does not abolish the camp, but its refusal to permit a service station within the city limits to sell the campers water, makes it practically impossible for it to continue to exist. Petitioned by the students to permit them the right of water use until the end of the school year, the council was fairly lenient in granting them that right until the end of fall term.

In the first place, the city council recently took steps to prevent the founding of such a camp at the west edge of town, because most East Lansing people felt that a trailer settlement, opposite some of the finest East Lansing homes would be anything but an asset. For that reason, if no other, the city fathers feel that it would scarcely be impartial to permit the east side trailer camp the right sought.

One of the reasons for wanting to stay in camp, given by the students in their petition, is that five of them are married, and that high rents in East Lansing prohibit their living in apartments. While this is unfortunate, the city of East Lansing can not be held responsible for the situation. Surely the students knew of East Lansing conditions at the time of their marriages, when they should have considered the economic factors.

The students should not feel that they are being personally discriminated against by the city council. Members of that group have stated that the community maintained by the students has been very sanitary, that they have received only one complaint from neighbors. But as a protection to the city and in order to be consistent with their past policy, the action was necessary and unavoidable.

Ego-Inflater?

Probably no one subject has filled more space in collegiate editorial columns than useless honoraries. Frequently in past years the State News has urged that honoraries should either justify their existence or go. The issue is again raised with the proposed plan by Excalibur, senior men's honorary, which outranks any other honorary for men in prestige, to purchase expensive leather jackets for its members from the funds that they have accumulated.

The excuse that Excalibur gives for putting their money, gained for the most part from their recent dance, to such use, is that its members are so busy with other extra-curricular activities that they have no time to utilize it for the general good. It is almost inconceivable that this group, supposedly made up of the finest men in the senior class, lacks both the initiative and the unselfishness to find something better to do with its funds.

It appears that the organization has made little attempt to find out where its money could be used. Perhaps this is the result of little contact with the administration. Excalibur has no faculty advisers. Apparently it has never felt the need of any, for, surely, there are numerous men on the faculty who could do much toward making the group a vital campus force.

Naturally, it will require less effort for Excalibur to continue in the rut of inactivity which it has so long followed. But with slightly more effort the group might at least justify its being by establishing a scholarship. That would require very little of the time, of which members claim they have so little. Almost anyone connected with the college, either as a student or as a member of the staff, could at a moment's notice think of some place where Excalibur might put its funds to use for the benefit of the entire institution. If the members haven't time to think, they might ask that suggestions be volunteered.

There are many honoraries on the campus whose members, no less busy than those of Excalibur, still find time to make that honorary of some importance. If the men who belong to Excalibur feel that the organization isn't worth giving any time to, why have such a group? Certainly, there is no need for a mere ego-inflator.

Chance For Fame

Would you like to be famous? Would you enjoy that supreme thrill of having your name and "brain-child" spilled into the eager ears of waiting millions? Would you, for one brief moment, desire to toy with the idea that you are holding an entire nation within the grasp of your mighty genius?

Don't be bashful. Of course you would. Opportunity is knocking right here in the shadow of Beaumont tower. You who would answer its beckoning call take heed.

On the evening of November 12 Michigan State college takes the air. For one-half hour the Alma Mater will bask in the limelight of nation-wide approval (or disapproval). As the minutes between 9 and 9:30 tick away, the fate of this educational institution lies in the hands of a carefree student body.

You, fellow Spartans, will be held responsible for the success of that fateful broadcast. So by all the odds of fair play you must produce.

The answer—only this. Staley Haugh, chairman of the committee on scripts, needs material. Whether it be satirical or historical in nature is of little matter. But there is one catch. All scripts must be in the hands of Haugh or in the State News office Monday. On that day the director of the show arrives from New York.

Comments on the shows produced so far this year by Pontiac indicate that the colleges participating have had program ideas that were strictly O. K.

If you think you can turn out a script about four pages in length which has universal appeal but still deals with some phase of the college, get busy on it. Tuesday is the deadline.

If your script rings the bell you will receive full credit over the air. And if your dramatic skit clicks, you won't have to write home about your success. They will all know about it.—N. K.

"No mere cleverness can take the place of the painful processes of hard and unremitting work." Ralph H. Tapscott, president of the Consolidated Edison company of New York, returns to his alma mater to further depress the newest crop of freshmen.

In The Rough

With Harvey Harrington

Red Hot . . .

Eddie Flowers pined Bruce Peppler Monday night. Veiled in secrecy, nobody is supposed to know but the principals. My KKG stogie had a tough time ferreting it out, but finally uncovered the damaging evidence.

Larry Distel has finally supplanted that faded, ripped, and way-too-small jacket with a nobby overcoat, for which he paid $9.99 at Kelly's, or Sam's, or some place like that.

Flowers Again . . .

The Union board is planning an amateur show. Fond President Flowers will play the part of Major Blows. Auditions will cull prospective performers, give the big shots a general idea of what to expect.

Talent will be welcome, though unexpected. The main idea behind it all is to raise the union's stock, improve student productions.

Cosmopolitan will be the variety of talent. Nothing will be barred, nothing discriminated against. Hamlet's quotations will draw some favor as Cab Calloway's root-tootin's.

Poor Sandy . . .

Sandy Coggan received a post card containing this verse last week—is perplexed and slightly worried about it. Says he, "I'm an embryo electrical engineer, have had no time to sow wild oats."

My love has fleeced,
He did me dirt,
How was me to know
Him were a flirt?

To those in love,
Let I forbid,
Lest they be doed,
The dirt I were did.

She Sez . . .

Lottie Lee Lawson came to me and she sez (it's strange that she spoke to me, being as she flings a mean pen for the State Journal, local sheet with which the State News is at present feuding—"The Junior Service League Follies" will be held Nov. 12 in the Strand theatre).

The name sounded familiar, so I looked up "Junior Service League" I mused.

"Remember, they used to hold them every year—last time was when you were a freshman."

As I am a senior I deduced that was three years ago.

"But no kidding," she sez, "it will be swell. Ardis Price—she was a Kappa last year—and Peg Kileen will be in it."

Then she rushed off to ask someone else to be in it. Fine girl, Lottie Lee—and I was short of copy anyway.

Call a Hough-it . . .

Stogie 167½ (say, just who are you, Stogie 167½—you always write on the same kind of paper) reports that he happened to catch Julie Simmons and Staley Haugh in a swell embrace. It wasn't a rehearsal for "Another Language," either. As a result of the tussle, Staley has her pin.

The Human Fly . . .

Mary Maas wishes she had graduated with the class of 1909—you know, one of these naughty-naught girls.

Oh You Kid!

A couple of fraternities had a beer-bust Thursday night. Jim Foote belongs to one of them.

After the bust had died down, Jim reminisced "How nice it would be," he mused, "to see girl-friend Margaret Summery. Now Jim is a man of action. There was a capital idea, and he was going to act upon it."

So off to Mary Mayo he took himself, and started scaling the wall. At first he didn't make it. And at second he didn't make it. But "if at first you don't succeed, try, try, try again" is his motto, and he kept up. Of course, he made considerable racket, waking up most of the dorm occupants.

Whether Margaret finally persuaded him that "twas to no avail, or he found bouncing around on the concrete from five or six feet up didn't agree with him, is not known. But the truth is, he finally gave up.

And without a doubt, it is best for all concerned.

CORRECTION

In the Tuesday issue of the State News it was stated that Carl Estes, Kenneth Green, and Ruth Fagan won places in the state extemporaneous speaking contest. Instead, these three students won the local contest here. The state contest will be held at Albion, November 23.

THE REVOLVING STAGE

By Larry Distel

A year ago, as editor of this paper, we opened our guns on the management of the Union. Today, as a columnist with just as sincere intentions, we turn to extend our congratulations to that same management.

Never were we more direct in our criticism of any person than we were of Mr. Proulx last year. Never did anyone have more reason to complain of our methods. But, here and now we'd like to enter our vote for Mr. Proulx's method of answering those criticisms.

At no time were we told or asked to cease firing at the Union. We make this statement because we are sometimes asked whether we weren't directed, to do so "from higher up." The answer is an emphatic "No." Rather, as we stated at the time, we turned our efforts to co-operation with the honest efforts of Mr. Proulx to make something of the Union.

And, for all we can judge, Mr. Proulx has done a swell job during the past year. His study of other college Unions, together with that of local student wants resulted in fitting the available facilities to those wants. The successful, and are not yet complete, as constantly the management is aiming for more progress.

Most of this improvement in Union conditions can be credited to Mr. Proulx. His work is the best answer we could ever desire for the criticism we aimed his way last year. It is the best way we can imagine for one to prove he can "take it," and we certainly respect him for it.

Offhand quick we'd advise against the use of co-ed cheerleaders around any football team that has guys like Masny, Pearson, Gortat, Gargett, Olman, Asher and a few others around. In fact, it might be a good idea to keep women clear away from the game if we are to expect concentration on the matter at hand.

Good deed of the week: That Bay City jury's quick and just disposal of Tony Chebatoris, bank-robbing hoodlum who turned murderer when faced with apprehension.

Short bit: Harvey Harrington is really doing a good job with the Spartan, which continues to improve with every issue. Will someone please make an official announcement soon concerning the post-Thanksgiving holiday? There are a couple of pre-1925 banners up in the forestry building that have "S" on them, and the how come brothers at State, Michigan, Villanova, Tennessee and Notre Dame ought to win today.

Behind the 8 Ball

With JACK PARKER

Another weekend, and another edition of this radio review is about to get under way. We can't quite make up our minds as to just how to run this column—should it be a review or a preview? We really don't know. However, until a better suggestion comes our way, we'll just try to let you in on what's coming on your dial throughout the week.

Ma Ida Cantor, wife of the famous comedian, Eddie, will make her premiere radio broadcast tomorrow night, on the "Thirty Minutes in Hollywood" show. This program, coming direct from the Mutual studios in Hollywood, stars Georgie Jessel, Norma Talmadge and Tommy Tucker's orchestra. It's on the air at 6 p. m. over our local outlet, WJIM.

If you are a lover of thrilling drama you'll want to be tuned WJIR's way tomorrow evening at 8 p. m. It's the "Columbia Workshop," and the cast is presenting "Sweep." This happens to be a story about the people who have just missed winning sweepstakes prizes. Directed by Irving Reis, and presented in the novel workshop manner, this promises to be a bit of outstanding radio entertainment.

That jovial star of stage, radio and screen, Al Joelson, will be "guesting" Monday evening for Burns and Allen. George and Gracie are still vacationing and their program continues with guest stars holding down the topnotch mike positions. Al's clever wife, Ruby Keeler, will also be adding her talents to the show. It's on at 8 p. m. over WWJ.

We hear that Walter O'Keefe, the Broadway Hillbilly, will wind up his punch-hitting job for Fred Allen after his November 10 broadcast. If his present plans are carried out Walter will hop a boat right after the show and shove off for a well-deserved rest on the continent.

It's interesting to note at this point that little Johnny, the call-boy on the Philip Morris program, has achieved something that no other radio worker has ever been able to brag about. Little Johnny has been awarded a lifetime contract by his sponsors. That makes him the shortest radio star with the longest contract in history.

Friday night "Hollywood Hotel" will bring toe-tapping Fred Astaire back to air-planes with a preview of his latest film, "A Damsel in Distress." Included in the cast with Astaire will be those two kaleidoscope nit-wits, Burns and Allen. "Hollywood Hotel" has always held our nomination as topnotch—this edition of the show should be a grand way to entertain yourself. Try it Friday night on WJR at 9 p. m.

Just a few local shots in parting: WKAR marches along with Bob Ritter's early morning "Dawn Salute"—gaining popularity every day. All the latest football scores tonight at 6:15, WJIM. Play-by-play account of today's State-Kansas game for you "out-of-towners"—both WKAR and WJIM at 1:45. And now, one final blow—try "The Dunker's Club" on WJIM any morning at 7. It's the one time of the day when I'll really admit being behind the "8-Ball." Well, bye now.

City Council Disapproves East Lansing Trailer Camp

By BILLIE TELL

Penelope—more fun! We went out to see the kids living in the trailers. Why? Well, the East Lansing city council doesn't want them to stay there, so they're cutting off their water supply. How can they do that? Penelope, you're just full of questions today! It's this way—naturally they don't have water in the trailers and have to get it some place, so they buy it from a gas station that's near there. So the council says that after December 18 they can't be sold water.

Where are the trailers? They're right across the street from the Delta Chi house. There are six trailers out there and they're so cozy. Was I in them? Well, of course, silly. How else would I know? I was in two of them. None of the other kids were at home.

You want to know what they're going to do after December 18? That's something I can't tell you, Penelope, 'cause they don't seem to know themselves. One girl, yes, dear, there are girls, too. You see, five of the boys that live in the trailers have their wives with them. No, as I was saying before you stuck your two cents in—one of the girls said that she didn't know what they'd do, but that they'd probably go some place else. You see, they like to live in trailers. I don't know as I blame them; they're darling inside.

We suggested that they get together and dig themselves a well, but they didn't think it such a good idea. What? Why, Penelope, are you going back on me? I think it's a good idea, but let's not get into that now.

Bruce Murdoch, one of the boys said that if he can't live in the trailer, he'll probably have to leave school. Yes, I know it's bad, but maybe the city council will change their minds. They might if they went out and saw how nice everything was run on there. What did you say? You want a trailer? Oh, Penelope!

Haugh Wants More Talent

Announce Second Tryout For Independent-S.W. L. Radio Show.

The second series of try-outs for the Independent-Spartan Woman League's radio show will be held Tuesday night, November 2, in room 7 of the Union annex.

Staley Haugh, director of dramas for the Independent men, held try-outs last Tuesday night. However, he was not satisfied with the turn out.

"We want everyone that is interested in radio, whether it's acting, singing or writing, to try out," claims Haugh. "The more students that try out, the bigger and better the program can be. We're going to give everyone a chance on this program."

Approximately 25 students tried out last Tuesday night, and Haugh would like at least that many more this week.

The Saturday Matinee, as the program has been called since its inauguration over a year ago, will go on the air later in November. Auditions will be held in the radio studio later next week, and rehearsals for the first program will begin following the auditions.

"And remember, we want script writers, too," warns Haugh. "And incidentally, Bob Ritter, talent scout for the Pontiac Varsity Show will be at try-outs Tuesday to spot talent for the latter show."

Teaching at Cleveland college of Western Reserve university is a family affair to 12 members of the faculty. There are now six "husband and wife" teams teaching at the college.

Ghosts and Goblins To Cavort Tonight

On Full Party List

Delta Chis to Feature Old-fashioned Hayride Into the Country

Halloween—whatever heard of a halloween without a host of parties, complete with ghosts, goblins, stunts and all the trimmings? Michigan State students, true to childhood traditions, will celebrate the occasion this year at the various parties scheduled for this week-end.

Countless couples started the week-end by flocking to the Harvest ball last night, and spent the evening dancing in and out of pumpkins, corn shocks, and other rural decorations. The Phi Delta Theta open house found the guests merrily ducking for apples, with Prof. and Mrs. J. W. Shirley and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Alleman acting as patrons.

Full term parties for tonight include Theta Kappa Nu, Alpha Omicron Pi, Alpha Chi Sigma, which will be held in the little theater, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and Alpha Xi Delta. The Delta Chis are bursting forth with a regular old-fashioned hay ride, and will cart their guests out into the country.

Rochdale house girls will entertain formally for the first time in their new home at their fall term party. Beta Kappa, Hesperian, and Lambda Chi Alpha are all holding informal house parties tonight.

The entire second floor of the Union has been reserved for the annual President's reception. President and Mrs. R. S. Shaw will entertain all members of the faculty tonight.

North and South Sarah Langdon Williams girls are all ready and eager to show their guests through their new home, which will be dedicated Sunday. Everyone is invited to the evening open house from 7 to 9 o'clock, but the afternoon reception is only for those with written invitations.

Tea dances this next week will again be held on Monday and Thursdays, with the new orchestra, Don Hedstrom and his Dixieland band, providing the music.

"College Preparation for a Horticulturist" will be discussed by a faculty panel at the next Horticulture club meeting Tuesday, Nov. 2, in the horticulture seminar room, at 1:30 p. m. All freshmen and upperclassmen majoring in any of the three branches of horticulture are urged to attend.

The Missionary society will meet Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 in the women's parlors of the Peoples church. Mrs. Stephen Lloyd will be chairman of the thanks offering program. The hostesses will be Mrs. L. A. Wright, Mrs. Fannie Voss, Mrs. E. E. Young and Mrs. F. A. Gibson.

The patronesses of Mu Phi Epsilon met at the home of the president, Mrs. Bruce Hartsuch, for the luncheon and a business meeting Wednesday.

Mrs. Ruth Ryder is spending this week-end with friends in Kalamazoo.

Dr. and Mrs. D. L. McBride and daughter, Virginia, have returned from a trip to Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Fuller, 418 M. S. C. avenue, have returned from Levering, where they were called by the death of Mrs. Fuller's mother, Mrs. Angelina Gill. Mrs. Gill has visited the Fullers here many times in the past.

Research Work Holds Interest Of Botany Heads

Botany department heads besides classes are also carrying on research work in the labs of their building.

Those diseases of the oak and sycamore which cause the leaves to drop off prematurely are being investigated by F. C. Strong. He is also constantly on the look-out for the Dutch elm disease.

Doctor Muncie and his graduate assistants are working on cereal and potato diseases; Mrs. Strong is developing a strain of wilt-resistant tomatoes; Dr. R. P. Hubbard among other things is working upon the hollow heart of the potato; and Dr. Ray Nelson is one of America's foremost authorities on celery diseases.

Dr. E. A. Bessey, head of the department and dean of the graduate school, is one of the world's foremost authorities on fungi. Dr. E. F. Woodcock's interests lie with Michigan's poisonous plants, while the various physiological effects of ultra-violet rays on the soy bean are what interest H. C. Beeskov. Dr. Richard de Zeeuw, chief micro-technician, finds freshman botanists very interesting.

Many of the type plants, specimens which were collected in Michigan almost a hundred years ago are carefully preserved in the botany building's herbaria — one of America's best—which is under the direction of Dr. H. T. Darlington. The Real botanical garden, under the supervision of H. L. R. Chapman, furnishes a living herbarium of botanically interesting plants.

Theta Alpha Phi Holds Informal Initiation

Theta Alpha Phi, national dramatics honorary, held informal initiation for 11 new members on Thursday and Friday nights of this week. Formal initiation will be in the Little Theater Thursday, November 4, followed by a banquet at Sandy's.

The new members are Maxine Rouse, Doris McMenen, Celia Merrill, Gladys Armstrong, Lou Maystreck, Betty Hickey, Marian Moore, Eva Smith, Elizabeth Williams, Eugene Cummings and Robert Ritter.

At the informal initiation the active members wore long Grecian robes and masks, purple for the president, Larry Hamilton, and white for the other members. The colors of the society are white and purple.

Jere Kimball was in charge of the initiation, which was staged at different places on the campus, including the front of the Union building Thursday and the little theater, Friday.

DORM DEDICATION IS PLANNED FOR SUNDAY

Berkey and Mrs. Berkey of Cassopolis.

Other dinner guests will include President and Mrs. Shaw, Dean Elisabeth Conrad, Treasurer and Mrs. C. O. Wilkins, Dean and Mrs. F. T. Mitchell, Prof. Winifred S. Gettemy, representing Dean Marie Dye, who will be unable to attend, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl H. Cress, Ann Arbor. Mr. Cress supervised the bond issue which financed the new dormitory.

The dormitory housemothers, Mrs. Duda Thompson of the North wing and Mrs. Edith Gilhooley of the South wing, will be assisted at the afternoon reception by Miss Grace Richards and Mrs. Mabel Coburn, representing Mary Jay's hall; Miss Stella McDaniel, representing the Union, and Mrs. Curtis Beechum, representing North Hall.

Members of Alpha Phi Omega, Scout fraternity, will serve as ushers at both the afternoon reception and the evening open house.

Sarah Langdon Williams, in whose honor the new $477,000 dormitory was named, was the wife of Joseph Ricketson Williams, Michigan State college's first president. After Mr. Williams' death in 1861, Mrs. Williams returned to their original home in Toledo, Ohio, and in that city she was for many years prominently identified with public affairs and with women's activities.

Amateurs to Have Chance to Display Talents in Contests

Plans for Michigan State's first annual all-college amateur show are rapidly being completed, according to Ed Flowers, president of the Union board, which is sponsoring the affair. The date is definitely set for Sunday afternoon, November 21.

Those students who wish to enter the show are requested to first present themselves at one of the several auditions which will be held before the final performance. These auditions will be in the nature of tryouts, to determine what talent each contestant possesses, and how well he can perform.

The first audition will be held Tuesday afternoon, November 2, in the Union ballroom, from 4:30 to 6 o'clock. Dates for succeeding auditions for those applicants who are unable to appear on Tuesday will be announced later.

Musical selections of all kinds, vocal solos, duets, or group singing, tap dances, readings, stunts, all sorts of entertainment will be welcome on the program. A competent pianist will be provided for those contestants who desire accompaniment.

Flowers urges everyone gifted with any kind of talent whatsoever, and especially music students, to enter the contest. There are no rules governing the show, except that all participants must be students at M. S. C. In other words, anything goes. Contestants have only to present themselves at one of the several auditions before the final performance and show their qualifications.

Prizes, in the form of substantial awards, will be presented by a judging committee composed of students and faculty at the big final performance. The contest winners will have an opportunity to appear on WKAR's featured programs.

Block and Bridle club will hold its annual light term initiation at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in room 400, ag hall. It is important that all members be present.

NEWS ITEMS

East Lansing residents who have news items such as personal, social events, or club notices, which would not otherwise reach the State News may call them into the News office at any time from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays, or Fridays. Dial 5-9113, Ext. 376.

Omicron Nu Bids Six New Members

Omicron Nu, national home economics honorary, held pledging Thursday evening, October 28, for Jessie Barton, Marian Beardsley, Janet Fretz, Aileen Pearce, Elizabeth Sears, and Louise Shafer. Formal initiation is scheduled for November 16.

Because of the absence of two Omicron Nu officers, who are now attending Merrill-Palmer school in Detroit, two new appointments have been made by the president, Mary Mettetal Olga Ludwick is taking Ann Jean Holmblad's place as secretary, and Martha Lee replaces Alice Lee as editor. Other Omicron Nu members at Merrill-Palmer this term are Ruth Starke and Jeanne Mann.

Freshmen interested in trying out for the freshman fencing team are asked to report at the fencing room in the gymnasium Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

YWCA to Stage Get-Together

Barbara Tranter to Talk on National Set-up

Y. W. C. A. is staging an informal get-together for all its members at 5 o'clock, Wednesday afternoon, November 3, in the student parlors of the Peoples church.

At this meeting the girls will be told something about the organization of Y. W. C. A., and its plans for the coming year. Miss Emma Sater, area secretary, will present a few points regarding finance.

Barbara Tranter, president, will talk a few minutes on national Y. W. C. A., likewise Marjorie Tribe will talk on the world tour, and Margaret Stenton on social service. Virginia Thompson will announce the speaker and subject for the November 11 meeting of Y. W. C. A. Refreshments will be served.

Chase Building Sold

The Chase building at the corner of Grand River and Abbot road in East Lansing, has recently been sold by the Charles Chase estate to T. H. Goodspeed, a Grand Rapids financier. Mr. Goodspeed is also the owner of some of the other buildings in the block.

Marjorie Eldred To Address Forum

Miss Marjorie Eldred will speak at the forum at the Peoples church Sunday, October 31. The subject of her address will be, "A Year in an English Grammar School."

Miss Eldred taught in the Plympton grammar school at Devon, England, during the year 1936-37. She later went to England as an exchange teacher in the interest of furthering international friendship and good will. One of Miss Eldred's most interesting experiences during her stay in England was witnessing the coronation of King George VI.

The forum meets at 12 noon in the governor's room.

Central School

J. H. Alexanian, who has recently returned from a three months' trip through the Mediterranean, talked to pupils of the sixth grade and showed them movies he had taken in Egypt and Africa.

Yesterday was occupied with the annual Halloween parties which preceded by a parade around the school by all the pupils arrayed in costume.

On the same day, the sixth grade ventured into the fourth estate by publishing the first edition of their school paper.

Albion Whips East Lansing; Harriers and Frosh Teams Both Lose

Trojans Lose to Albion 'T' In Last Half

East Lansing Fails to Hold Early Advantage; Fourth Straight Defeat.

A last half assault that netted three touchdowns gave Albion High a hard fought victory over East Lansing Friday, 20-12.

Each of the Trojan scores came in the first quarter. On the first play of the game, MacKichan broke off his own left tackle and scampered 70 yards for a touchdown behind good blocking. A moment later, after an exchange of kicks, East Lansing gained the ball on the 50, from where a pass, MacKichan to Mead, was good to the Albion five. On third down MacKichan plunged over. The try for the extra point after each touchdown was unsuccessful.

ATTACK BOGS DOWN

After that the Trojan attack bogged down, and with the aid of some good punting by Brankavitch, Albion soon gained the upper hand. They were unable to score in the first half, but with the start of the third period they wasted no time, and with some good breaks pushed over two quick touchdowns.

Featured by the running of Gardanier, Albion worked the ball to the Trojan one yard line. Here East Lansing seemingly held for downs, but a penalty gave Albion the ball on the one foot line. Gardanier then dove over for the score. The try for the extra point was blocked.

ALBION SCORES AGAIN

The second Albion marker came after an East Lansing punt was blocked by Dickson, Albion tackle. A pass was called complete to the Trojan one foot line when Weaver, East Lansing halfback, interfered with Oliver as he was about to catch the ball. Gardanier again plunged over. The extra point was good on a pass, Brankavitch to Kingsnorth.

In the fourth quarter a short kick gave Albion the ball on the East Lansing 45. After a running play was smothered, Brankavitch fidded back and threw a pass to Oliver in the end zone for the final score. Zenther placed kicked the extra point.

Gardanier of Albion was easily the outstanding player on the field. Brankavitch also played well for the visitors. For East Lansing, Deavre, and Gardner turned in creditable performances.

State Fencers Begin Practice

Coch Tom Caniff, Michigan State's new fencing coach, at present is engaged in the task of re-building the Spartan sword team for the coming season with only two members of last year's squad available.

The all-college fencing tournament will be held December 2, 3 and 4, according to Caniff. The regular schedule is still in the process of being completed.

Seven men, three fencers, two sabremen and two epee-men, compose the team. Freshmen will start practice next Monday. All students interested in the sport are asked to report.

SPORT INTERLUDES .. Such Is a Coach's Life

by George Maskin

The collegiate football coach hates to see Saturday afternoon roll around in the fall. For that is the one day of the seven in the week, the coach really works.

Don't misunderstand us by gaining the impression the college coach sits back and rests from Sunday until Friday. Not by a long shot, but it is on the payoff day, the boss of the team comes closest to falling over from too much work.

Except for those on the bench, few of the thousands who attend the average football game have any idea what is transpiring around the coach. He is by far the most nervous man on the team, more nervous than the sophomore who is playing in his first big game.

Invariably a cooler hand usually sits along side of the coach. He is there to quiet down the coach, should at any time during the game, the excitement of the battle get the best of the team's leader.

Charley Bachman is no exception to the general run of coaches. Spartan players reveal all types of amusing incidents, all centered around their coach, which take place during the heat of the game.

For example, one veteran tells the story of Bachman throwing away a freshly lit cigar in the Marquette game last week.

"Bach rushed out and stamped all over the cigar, because one of our men missed a block," the senior smiled. "Then on the next play, Pingel got off for a long gain behind some swell blocking, and Bach picked up the crushed cigar and commenced chewing on it."

Calls for Steve Sebo, Instead of Szasz in Excitement During Game With Marquette

Later in the same game, Bachman turned to call Steve Szasz into the ball game, and in his anxiety to rush Steve onto the field barked:

"Steve, Steve, Steve Sebo, come over here."

It was purely unintentional, since Bachman is fully aware of the fact Sebo no longer is at State. Probably Bachman's thoughts temporarily carried him back a season or two to the days when Sebo was playing great football for him.

The story of Harry Kipke con-

They Have Fun in Those Fraternity Games and This Scene Brings Out the Point

Speaking of funny incidents in football, there was one in the Lambda Chi-A, E. Pi. fraternity game the other night which would take a prize in any comedy league.

With Lambda Chi in possession of the ball, Dave Goldsmith, the A. E. Pi. captain, noticed there was an extra man in his line, while the backfield was a player short. So he proceeded to order Herman Blum to move back to fill the gap.

Goldy, it appears, became rattled and got the names of his players mixed, bawling, "Milt, Milt, play back." Milt did as told. But it was a Milton Horowitz playing alongside of Blum in the line. Blum, meanwhile, failed to budge from his position.

Still confused in names after the next play had been run, Goldsmith raced to the line, pulled Blum into the backfield, and pushed Horowitz into the line. The latter two played their proper positions for only one play, and at the start of the next scrimmage, both were back in the line.

Again, Goldsmith shouted, "Milt, Milt, play back." Once more Horowitz faded from the line, and again Goldy pushed Horowitz into the line, at the same time pulling Blum back. The same procedure was carried on for most of the final half.

As the game neared its close with Goldsmith ranting and raving at the two players and still confused in the names, Blum about faced and pounding his chest, barked:

"My name is H-O-L-M-A-N."

It'll be a Big Day for Michigan Elevens With Three Leaders All Picked to Win

This being Saturday, we should peep into the magic crystal and see what is in store for Michigan State in its game with Kansas. We didn't pick a score last week, but the crystal this time says the Spartans will triumph by three touchdowns.

In other games, the 10-cent glass

ing up the State serial attack, it appears today's game will develop into a battle of passes. The Spartans have completed only 12 passes in their last three games, against 21 successful passes against Wayne and Michigan.

Besides Replogle, Divens, Meier and Ebling are considered good passers on the Kansas eleven. For State, Johnny Pingel and Gene Coles again will do most of the passing, although any of the other backs, with the exception of the fullbacks, may throw a few before the game is over.

INJURIES HURT STATE

It will be an injury-riddled State team which meets Kansas, with three regulars in the State lineup confined to the bench with injuries. Tommy Gorfat, guard, still is suffering from his knee injury in the Boston game, while Ron Ailing, center, and Howdy Swartz, right tackle, haven't recovered from Marquette game injuries.

Hoosier Ace Sets Record; Waite Sixth

Indiana Captures First Four Places in Decisive Victory, 17-38.

BLOOMINGTON, IND., Oct. 30—Paced by their famous Olympian, Tommy Deckard, Indiana University's powerful cross country team crushed Michigan State by a top-heavy 17-38 score here yesterday.

Deckard, flashing the most brilliant form of his career, blazed over the hilly four and one-half miles, for a new course record in the almost incredible time of 22:43.1.

This is an average of nearly five minutes per mile. Jimmy Smith, Melvin Trutt, and Harry Robins, other Indiana aces, followed behind Deckard.

State, ICAIA champions, failed to show the expected power from their veteran line-up. Harold Sparks was the first Spartan to come in, finishing 660 yards behind the galloping winner.

Captain Ken Waite was sixth, Dick Frey, Bob Hills, Jerry Boss, and Art Green came in behind Coorman of the Hoosiers in that order.

It was Indiana's tenth consecutive victory and at present no team seems strong enough to keep them from the national AAU crown.

Michigan team is in action wasn't made up. Kip began nibbling on the grass when he coached here and when he left for Michigan he took the habit along with him.

Although a veteran of 42 seasons, Pop Warner of Temple fumbles with his cane throughout a game. John Kobs spits enough tobacco almost to fill a pail when his State freshmen are playing.

One football game takes a great deal out of a coach. It isn't any wonder, the coach deserves a rest after his team has engaged in eight or nine tough football games.

Frosh Beaten

KALAMAZOO, Oct. 30—Two first period touchdowns carried Western State Teachers' college's freshman football team to a 19-7 victory over the Michigan State frosh here yesterday. It was the State yearlings' third straight defeat of the season.

to start Lyle Rosenbach at guard, Norbert Mikravich, center, and Fred Schroeder, tackle. Schroeder has been used at guard in recent games, but with Swartz out, Bachman has moved Schroeder back to his former post.

Pingel turned up with a bad cold Thursday, but was well enough to practice with the Spartans yesterday.

CHIEF SAYS: State Is Gunning For Victory

By Harry Speelman State Football Star

Today is "Jayhawker" day and I mean the boys are out gunning for more than just a victory. Because Kansas is leading the Big Six conference, a victory for State would help to regain some of the prestige that was lost at Manhattan.

Only a couple of touchdowns have been scored on this Kansas team, so the game should be a battle of two strong defensive lines and may have the team that has the hardest blocking, the fastest charging and the best tackling line win the game!

It is beginning to look like big tough Sam Nuzov is going to get his chance today. No one can say that old "Sammy" has not earned it, because he has had more than his share of tough breaks, and now that he is going to play I'll bet a week's growth of whiskers that the guy really has a good day.

At Diebold, quarterback, has stumbled over so many chalk-strips in the last couple of games that his team-mates are beginning to call him "Chalky"—that is, if they don't call him "Punchy."

Two Elevens Annex Frat Grid Titles

Eclectic and SAE Win Final Games and Clinch Playoff Berths.

The championship of two blocks in the fraternity touch football league, have been decided, and another team has virtually clinched its chance to get in the playoffs.

In the most important game Thursday night the SAE's defeated the Phi Delt, 6 to 0. The game was quite even except for the Phi Delt punt which John Baker blocked and fell on for a touchdown, and what proved to be the margin of victory.

This game sewed up the title of block three for the SAE's as they have completed their scheduled games.

The Lambda Chi made their hold on first place in block four more secure by defeating the A. E. Pi, 6 to 0, on a pass from Art Freeman to Cliff Altman.

The Ties are sure of a playoff berth because, by winning their fourth game last night they have completed their schedule undefeated.

The Eclectics defeated the Phi Taus, 26 to 0, in a free scoring game. Paul Moses was the star of the game, scoring three touchdowns, one on an 80-yard run-back of a punt. The other three were scored on passes by Jack Peterson, Art Jenkins and Howard Kraft.

Swim Drills Open

Michigan State's swimming team will start regular daily practice next Monday, Coach Russell (Jake) Daubert has announced. Freshman swimmers will hold their first workout the same day.
