"Easy, Dobbin"
That good riding will be limited in the future was decided in the faculty meeting Monday. Women who wish to ride must, after they have secured the regular pass from the military department, receive parental consent to ride, in case they are minors. Furthermore, no long rides will be permitted except to members of the cavalry. Women can ride only in Demolition hall or in the riding enclosure, out-of-doors, and must be with an instructor.

The new regulations were passed out because the faculty feels that many of the recent accidents have been the result of too many women who know little about riding doing so without sufficient practice or instruction.

The Teacher Sings
Fred Patton, head of the voice department, will be the guest soloist when the Lansing Symphony orchestra opens its concert season in the Lansing Eastern auditorium, Tuesday, November 6.

Lone Scream
Richard Cole, sophomore, recently ran into difficulties with the police when he tried to serenade the girls at North Hall. Rigging up a public address system from his rooming house on Real street, he directed the horns toward the girls' dormitory, and began to play recordings of dance music. After "Tiger Rag" and "Sugar Blues," all the coeds were leaning out the windows, and quite a crowd had gathered in the street. About that time the police arrived, and the serenade was suddenly ended.

Bright Answer
Recently, E. M. Banzer, assistant professor of sociology, asked one of his classes if anyone knew why the Oklahoma football team are called the Sooners. Some bright punster replied, "Because they'd sooner win than lose."

Look at the Records
A W. S. has developed a systematic means of keeping a record of the quality of work done by Michigan State women. Under the direction of Marian Pate, activities chairman, a form has been worked out to send each month to organization heads for recording the caliber of work done by their members. Peggy Shaw, Hilda Mae Lamoreaux, and Jean Coons have been named recently to assist Marian Pate with this work.

Date Changed
The Panhellenic banquet, originally scheduled for November 15, has been postponed till November 22 in order not to conflict with Joseph Hoffman's concert here. Miss Alice Lloyd, dean of women at the University of Michigan, will be the speaker.

Showing Off
Hungarian plates, Mexican bookends, Guatemalan materials, and Rumanian clothing are just some of the things to be found in the new building show cases this week. The exhibit, planned to show the handiwork representative of various nations, was put on display by a committee composed of Miss Gertrude Reis, Miss Helen F. Simmonds, and Miss Evelyn Marsfield. It contained articles loaned by faculty members, and by Miss Dalen, the student from Sweden.

International Club Holds
Roast at W. A. A. Cabin
Members of the International Relations club hiked and drove to the W. A. A. cabin Wednesday for a winter roast.

There were 15 history majors present and three members of the faculty. H. B. Fields, Mrs. Maybelle Ehlers, and Mr. Mulder, sponsor of the club, Mr. Mulder gave a talk on his experiences in Germany and foreign countries. Don Duke was in charge of the meeting, assisted by Bert Porinoff and Dorothy Colthrop.

Harner Gets

Ten Students Form Cast for "Joan of Arc"
The dramatic play, "Joan of Arc," will be presented at 2:15 p. m. today over WKAR.

Those taking part in this broadcast are Shirley Cook, Larry Hamilton, Marston Busch, Edmund Rudoni, Joan Rischman, Harriet Barton, Nolan Allen, Clifford Jenks, Albert Sims and Richard Hardy.

Dr. Hayworth reports that "Joan of Arc" won first place in the first radio dramatic tournament ever held. This was in 1931. Later, on the five hundredth anniversary of the death of this unfortunate martyr, the play was again presented over WTAM.

Wolverine Pictures
All student who wish to have their pictures in the Wolverine must return the proofs of their pictures personally to Versluis and have them checked by an attendant in the studio.

MSC "Facul-Ten"
Is Not the Same
As It's Faculty

Many Michigan State students probably would be quite surprised to know that there is more than one faculty on campus. In fact, according to Miss Ruth Godfrey, instructor in institute management, this has been true for eight or nine years.

However, this one is spelled "Facul-Ten," and originated when only faculty members were invited to the teas served by students in the beginning course in institutional management. For that's what a Facul-ten is, a tea room operated by students, open to the public from 3:30 to 5 p. m. on appointed days.

Every foods and nutrition, and institution major, is responsible for three teas during the term. She acts as tea room manager, works out a time schedule, plots the working schedule, and decides upon the general theme for the tea. In addition to selecting the menu, she plans the color scheme for the room, and designs the very menus used. As Miss Godfrey explained, this work gives them a wealth of practical knowledge and experience.

Dates for the Facul-teas are remaining in this term are November 3, 5, 9, and 12.

Harry Lott
To be Feted

Eastern Stars to Honor Grand Patron Saturday.

Harry W. Lott, recently elected patron of the Grand Chapter of the Michigan Order of the Eastern Star, will be honored at a reception to be held on Saturday, November 6, at 8 p. m. at the East Lansing Masonic temple. Mr. Lott was previously a patron of Red Cedar Chapter No. 434.

Several grand officers will be present from all over the state. They include Mrs. Grace Catterfield, worthy grand matron, Flint, Milton Miller, worthy grand patron, St. Clair Shores. Mrs. Florence Ryckman, associate grand matron, Detroit. Miss Genevieve M. Nauman, grand secretary, West Branch. Miss Gertrude A. Lewis, grand treasurer, Ashley. Mrs. Elsie Rowle, associate grand conductress, Battle Creek. Mrs. Edna Grills, grand marshal, Flint. Mrs. Margaret Jones, grand chaplain, Otsego. Mrs. Nell Horton, grand Martha, Manton. Mrs. Ivy Hoover, grand elector, Grand Lodge, Richard Brown, grand sentinel, Saginaw.

Miss Bonnie Redmond will play several piano numbers during the reception. Mrs. S. H. Dwight will sing. There will be dancing after the reception.

The hall will be decorated with a color scheme of red and silver and refreshments will be served. All Eastern Stars and Masons are invited to attend.

Tower Guard Will Collect Old Papers

Tower Guard, sophomore women's honorary, will collect used papers and magazines on Friday and Saturday of this week. These papers and magazines will be resold to dealers. Under the leadership of Doris Schulz and Roberta Applegate, assistant, the girls will ask the cooperation of campus offices, sororities and fraternities. Campus chairmen are Rebecca Lord and Virginia Stone, of South Langdon, who will collect papers from anyone who notices them to call for them.

Fire Department Called to Extinguish Leaf Blaze

The East Lansing fire department was called to put out a fire of burning leaves which threatened a garage on the Elizabeth alley between M. A. C. avenue and Charles street at 10:15 a. m. Wednesday.

Burning rubbish ignited the leaves and the wind drove the flames toward the garage.

Whyte Hears
State Talent
At Auditions

All Varsity Show Tryouts Are to be Completed Today.

Gordon Whyte, Varsity show director, arrived on the Michigan State campus Monday night, coming immediately from the South, where he produced similar programs at the University of Alabama and the University of Virginia.

Since his arrival, Mr. Whyte has been arranging for auditions, and he has already heard the musical organizations. The band, chorus, and glee clubs will form the backbone of the broadcast with individual numbers by students.

WANTS TYPICAL SHOW

The producers of the show are eager to present a program typical of the college, which will be of interest to listeners throughout the country, explained Mr. Whyte. To this end the committee is looking for representative talent among the students. An intercollegiate show, composed of the best individual and small group acts will be presented by the sponsors in New York City on New Year's eve. This performance will be chosen by radio editors of the United States and there is a possibility that Michigan State will be represented on the program.

The scripts will be chosen from those submitted by the radio writing class on the basis of originality and to avoid repetition. The dents who are interested in appearing in the show should see Mr. Whyte today to arrange for an audition, since a tentative program is being selected today and sent to New York for approval. This is necessary to check copyright privileges and to avoid repetition. The Varsity show office is in the Union building.

WILL TAKE PICTURES
Campus candid camera photographers will have an opportunity to earn three dollars for each accepted picture, by taking shots of tryouts of the show itself. If the pictures are chosen, they will be used to publicize the show.

Students, faculty, and townspeople will form the audience for the dress rehearsal Thursday evening, November 11, and also the program Friday evening, November 12, homecoming eve, which will be in the college gymnasium.

Gunn Reports
Outlook Good

Cattle Prices Continue on Rise for Year.

Continued good prices for livestock but not such a good prospect for agricultural products in 1937-1938. That is the general outlook for next year, as expressed by R. V. Gunn of the extension division of the economics department.

Mr. Gunn returned Tuesday from Washington, D. C., where he attended the 14th annual Agricultural Outlook conference, October 25 to 30, which met with a representative of the federal bureau of agricultural economics. He explained his remark by saying that prices and income for the crops which sell directly for cash are to be lower, while farmers who use their crops to feed livestock will be profiting through the continued good prices of stock.

The conference which he attended drew representatives from 44 states. On the last day a federal outlook report was published to show the general agricultural situation, the business situation, and the individual commodity prices for 1937-1938. This report will be published in summarized form by November 15, for distribution throughout the country. The full reports will be used by the state representatives in compiling separate state reports, probably by the end of December.

McMonagle is Judge

James McMonagle of the speech department, went to Shelby Tuesday evening to judge a public speaking contest of farm women, on farm problems. The contest was sponsored by a farm bureau organization.

Child Study Club
Hears M. Eldred

Miss Marjorie Eldred, teacher at West Junior high school, Lansing, entertained the Child Study club at its meeting last Tuesday with a talk on her experiences as an exchange teacher in England last year. Miss Eldred, accompanied by Marion Dondoro, sang several selections. Special guests at the meeting were East Lansing and Marlette district school teachers.

The school house in Princeton where Miss Eldred taught is 350 years old, and is the same building in which Sir Joshua Reynolds attended classes when his father was head master of the school. Miss Eldred also gave a colorful description of the Coronation parade. She told how she waited in the Pall Mall all night in order to see the parade and the next day sat on the curb as the procession passed.

College Band
To Take Trip

Will Compete With Temple Band for Honors at Saturday Game.

Michigan State college band will make the trip to Philadelphia this coming weekend to vie for honors with the Temple university band at the Michigan State-Temple football game.

The band is scheduled to leave the Pere Marquette station in Lansing at 2 p. m. Friday afternoon and to arrive Saturday morning at 8 p. m. Immediately following their arrival, they will leave on a sightseeing tour of Philadelphia, visiting all the beauty spots and places of historic importance, finally winding up at the Hotel Adelphi, which they will make their headquarters. The trip home will start at midnight, the band arriving at 5 p. m. on the college siding.

Two years ago, when the band was last in Philadelphia, it put on a very fine performance and was well received by the large crowd that filled the stadium. For their latest performance they have worked hard on some new formations which they hope will be received with equal enthusiasm.

This trip will constitute the annual out-of-state trip which the band is allowed. So far this year they have made three trips within the state, one to Ann Arbor and two to Detroit for the Lion's football games.

Amateur Hour
Tryouts Open

Candidates to Audition in Union Today

Second chance for aspiring amateurs who wish to enter the all-college amateur program is scheduled for this afternoon from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m. in the main dining room of the Union.

All applicants who were unable to attend the first audition are asked to appear this afternoon and try out. Ed Flowers, president of the Union board, announces that all kind of talent is welcome, from classical piano and violin selections to tap dancers and mimics.

Among the large number who turned out for the first audition were the Theta Trio, Marjorie Haselbring, Ruth Taylor, and Rosemary Jackson who harmonized together; Phil Ramirez and George Calhoun in duo singing; Herbert Sayres, impersonations; Robert Bishop, whistling; Arnold Hill, guitar and harmonica number; Vern Hinz, dramatic monologue; and Billie Lansing, tap dancing.

Plans for broadcasting the final show, which is open to the public, are now under way. Prizes are offered to contest winners.

Radio club will meet at 7:30 p. m. Friday, November 5 in room 111 Olds hall. Code practice at 7 p. m.

34 Spartans
Leave Today
For Temple

Alling Left Behind as Team Prepares to Face Warner Eleven.

By GEORGE MASKIN

Thirty-four strong, Michigan State's football team will leave here at 1:30 p. m. today for Philadelphia where Saturday the Spartans will attempt to knock Temple university from the ranks of the undefeated.

The Owls, under the coaching of Pop Warner, have won four out of their games this season, while scoring touchdowns in their other two starts.

Temple has defeated V. M. I., Mississippi, Florida, and Carnegie Tech to date, but could do no better than battle Boston college and Holy Cross to 0-0 ties.

Besides blasting Temple from the select circle, the Spartans also will be out to remain undefeated in their personal rivalry with the Owls. The two teams have met twice before with State winning 12-7, in 1935, and tying Temple 7-7 last fall.

STAY BEHIND

Left behind when the team leaves today will be Ron Alling, the team's regular center. Alling suffered a leg injury in the Marquette game, which is taking longer than expected to heal.

Cranbrook Artist
Will Display Work
At College Exhibit

Zion Sepeshy, of the Cranbrook Institute of Arts, will open an exhibit of some of his works in water colors, temperas, and drawings on Saturday, November 6. The display will last ten days and will be open every afternoon for 2 p. m. until 5 p. m. in room 400, Morrill hall.

His work is well known throughout this state and he has won five prizes in Michigan shows alone. He was awarded the Hudson prize of $300 in 1932 and the Art Founders award of $250 in 1936. The distinctive style of his work is individual and vigorous, displaying a realism achieved only by a thorough understanding of human beings. He is one of a group of more modern painters who are using tempera, a form revived from the Old Masters, as a medium of expression. With this a great richness of color and charm is realized. He mixes all his own paints and prepares all his own materials, an unusual procedure among artists.

The rare opportunity to ride noses with man-eating sharks and explore old ship wrecks, fathoms under the sea, will be offered to Spartans at L. E. Williamson's lectures tonight in the People's church. Mr. Williamson's lectures which will be given at 7 and 9 p. m., will be entitled "Into the New World Under the Sea."

Pictures for this lecture were taken during the Williamson submarine expedition to the Bahama, where Williamson and E. L. crew covered over a score of legends of the ocean floor. The transparent waters of the West India made possible vivid portrayals of the beauties of the marvelous undergardens.

Mr. Williamson's highest photographic perfection came recently when he produced the first undersea motion pictures in natural color. This enables him to take scenes as beautiful as imaginary fairylands. However, the ugliness as well as the beauty of the deep will be shown in the group of pictures that Mr. Williamson is showing tonight.

As the result of a special under water chamber designed and modified by himself, Mr. Williamson was able several years ago to take the first successful photograph ever made under the sea. This created such a sensation that the story, with its illustrations, was reprinted in all parts of the world and in every civilized language. In recent years since then, Mr. Williamson has been continuing perfecting his technique until he now takes pictures in natural color.

Provision for the entertainment of wives of the delegates has been made by Miss Margaret Partlow, instructor in textiles and clothing, in cooperation with Dean Marie Dye of the Home Economics department. Miss Dye has not yet returned from Charleston, W. Va., where she was injured in an automobile accident two weeks ago.

The women will meet at the Home Economics building from 11 a. m. until noon. They will go to the horticulture building at 1:30 p. m. to view a demonstration of the horticulture work being carried on at Michigan State C. E. Wildon, assistant professor and research assistant in this department, will be in charge. The group will be conducted on a tour of the dairy building and its laboratories at 2:30 p. m., by P. S. Lucas, associate professor and research associate in dairy husbandry. At 3:30 p. m., the women will be shown a dairy film in room 205 of the dairy building.

All members of the association and their wives will meet for a banquet in the Union this evening at 6:30 o'clock. The purpose of the supper, which will be followed by a program and an old-time dance, is to give members and their wives form various parts of the state an opportunity to know more about the organization. J. G. Hays, dairy extension specialist, will be the toastmaster.

All of the association's annual meetings have been held on the East Lansing campus.

East Lansing
Names Lott
As City Clerk

Maher, Barnhart, Newell Re-elected in Light Vote Tuesday

East Lansing turned out a light vote in an uncontested election at the polls Tuesday. A total of 121 ballots were cast in the two precincts. City Clerk Harry W. Lott was re-elected to office again for the eighth consecutive term.

Grover Barnhart and H. J. Mahers were re-elected as aldermen to the city council. Justice of the Peace L. F. Newell was returned to the justice's post again.

At Central school, voting headquarters of precinct No. 1, only 47 votes were cast. The name of R. H. Gilman was written on four of the ballots for city clerk and Harry Lott received the other 43. Maher, Barnhart and Newell were offered no opposition whatsoever in that precinct for the other offices.

At the Central fire station, polling place of precinct No. 2, a total of 74 ballots was offered. The name of Gilman was again written in on four ballots. Maher and Barnhart again received no dissenting votes in the alderman race. But Justice Newell was opposed by two ballots, one for S. Whittemore and one for Frank Mitchell.

These four city offices are filled at bi-monthly elections, while the mayor's post and several others are filled on alternating years.

Seniors Gain
Recognition

Collegiate "Who's Who" to List 12 Men, 7 Coeds From State.

The selection of 19 Michigan State college students for the 1938 "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" was announced yesterday by James Hays, president of the Student council.

Because two-thirds of the student body are men, 12 of those elected are men, all of them seniors. The seven women are also seniors. The honor is open only to seniors and seniors.

These students are all campus leaders selected on the basis of character, scholarship, leadership in extracurricular activities, and capability of future usefulness to science and society.

The students selected here are: James Hays, president of the student council; Harvey Harrington, vice of the Spartans; Edward Jones, president of the Union board; William Bell, president of the Interfraternity council; Kenneth Wate, captain of the cross-country team; William Ingleson, editor of the Wolverine; Robert Bell, business manager of the state News; Frank Gaines, president of the senior class; Howard Morris, vice-president of the Student council; Harry Speelman, president of the Varsity club; Larry Hamill, former member of the Student council and president of Theta Alpha Phi; Albert Under, president of Blue Key.

The girls named to this honor are: Olga Geiber, managing editor of the State News; Beverly Smith, red editor of the State News; Nancy Farley, president of A. W. S.; Louise Langdon, chairman of the Freshman Counselor system; Josephine Gardner, president of the Home Economics club; Barbara Tranter, president of Y. W. C. A.; and Dorothy Haselbring, queen of Agriculture and vice-president of the Home Ec. club. All of these girls are members of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary.

A biography of each of these students will be published in the collegiate "Who's Who." This directory is published in March at the University of Alabama. It is edited by H. Pettus Randall.

Physics Group Meets
The weekly meeting of the Physics Colloquium will be held today at 5 p. m. in Room 101 Physics building. David F. Bell will speak on "Some Aspects of High Pressure Phenomena." Staff members as well as advanced students of the physics and chemistry departments are invited to attend.

Don't be Bashful

Are you one of those persons who has often said to himself, "I haven't a face for the movies, but my harmonica-playing would certainly put me over on Major Bowes' show?" If so, Gordon Whyte, director of the Pontiac Varsity show needs you.

The talent scouts have found that too many people are bashful when it comes to admitting that they have some ability. They seem to be afraid that their friends will think them conceited if they try out for Varsity show. What if they do, probably those same friends haven't any such natural gifts.

If you really have some talent, this is no time to be hiding your light under a bushel. Mr. Whyte is especially eager to find some novelty numbers to pep up the show. If you imitate barnyard animals, play a zither, or are an artist at snoring, try-out for the show. This is the best chance you'll ever have to make a radio debut.

Looking Forward

No, it isn't too early to start planning courses to take during summer term. Perhaps it may seem so to students who still entertain the old belief that summer school is conducted solely for the benefit of "flunkers" who attend merely to catch up on lost credits, but the summer school has come to have a broader meaning in the last two years. In short, the summer session is rapidly developing into full term during which students may take as many credits as they do in fall, winter or spring.

With the extension of summer school a multiplicity of opportunities is opened to conscientious students. By attending three such sessions, some can squeeze four-year courses into three. Others will find opportunity to take many courses of their choice that are not included in their specialized curricula. Further, graduate students can, through use of the lengthened term, complete their projects in a much shorter time.

In one way the summer term is much more convenient than the other three: The four week "post session", initiated last summer, after the regular six week period, makes it possible for students to attend for either six or ten weeks, to suit their individual wants.

According to Prof. S. E. Crowe, director of the summer session, more features will be added if this term remains as popular as it was last summer. Crowe looks toward the day when the summer term will fill the college to capacity.—R. W. T.

Filling A Need

Alpha Phi Omega, now in its second year on campus, is establishing an enviable reputation for service.

This was demonstrated last week end when five members conducted a tour of the campus, which was considered one of the highlights of their visit here by delegates to the Student council convention; and on Sunday when 20 members served during the afternoon to show people through Williams dormitory, and a like number acted as guides in the evening. The members of Alpha Phi Omega do this service with no remuneration, and are at the call of any group.

The fraternity is unique in that it is not an honorary. The only requirement for membership is that a man shall at one time have been a member of the Boy Scouts of America. Thus, 60 percent of all men students are eligible for membership.

The record of the fraternity is even more remarkable when it is realized that it did not receive its national charter until late in winter term last year. Before that time it was a pledge group. The four-fold program of service . . . service to the college, service to the local community, service to the local Boy Scout council, and service to selves . . . sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega is one of which any organization might well be proud.

The founding of the chapter here resulted from the efforts of Allan Brightman and Richard Hammerstein, who had heard of the fine work of the organization on other campuses. With the advisement of faculty members, Russell Daubert, Duncan Stewart, Lloyd Geil, J. F. Thaden, and J. R. Duncan, the fraternity has already shown its capabilities.

There is need on the Michigan State campus for a strong men's service organization. The short history of Alpha Phi Omega indicates that it will supply that need.

Why Compulsion?

The Reserve Officers' Training corps established at Michigan State college is an institution which fulfills points inadequately covered by the ordinary college curricula.

It supplies collegiate youth with knowledge of discipline, organization and leadership; yet does not carry it to extremes as done in Italy and Germany. It enhances the necessary pride in one's country but does not carry such fervor to fanaticism. It provides the student with comprehension, interesting and useful, concerning the weapons of modern civilization.

However the methods of its administration, that of compulsion derides the very essence of democratic ideals. Military should be voluntary as compulsion distorts its meaning and infers glorification of war. Dislike for anything is caused by being "forced" into it.—E. R. G.

—SN—

Congenital Tardiness

As in years past, the registrar's office is publishing the student directory this year. And as of yore, it will be well into the term before it is offered for sale.

That the utility of the directory is all but completely lost by this late publication due does not seem to influence those in charge.

That the registrar should be compelled to do work immeminently more suited to the capacities of the publications department seems unusual, inefficient.

This year it was planned that the publications department would handle the directory, sell advertising to cover cost. After considerable planning had been done, an abrupt change in editorial policy decreed that no advertising would be sold, the publications department would declare a hands-off policy.

Therefore the whole mess fell back into the lap of the registrar. Hers was to start from scratch, considerably later than in other years, to do a job for which she has no facilities, no desires—for which she should have no responsibilities.

The directory will come out—late as usual. No discredit should be thrown at the registrar—she but does her job. When it does come out however, it will stand as a monument to inefficiency.—H. P. H.

"The chief hopes of America's escaping the rising tides of Communism and Fascism rests on our public schools," Carl Wilde, vice-president of the Indianapolis school board, has the same idea as the American Legion when he scores the "isms" as un-American. "Our schools . . . must be free . . . of political control and party propaganda."

No Parking

For various reasons this column has never touched on Bill Parkes' Spectator. To tell the truth, I rather admire Parkes for having the spunk to out with a mag, no matter how insignificant. And it is a grand feeling for a fellow to see his handiwork put forth upon the street, to sell and make money, and to feel that all the vasaals on the staff paid homage to the "Chief".

The first issue saw a prominent sorority rise up in arms over malice. Parkes, however, has not tempered his enthusiasm with discretion and ill-concealed bit of campaign mud slung at one of its members. For that, Parkes had to humble himself time and again.

So Bill, the safetyman, reversed his field and ran for a touchdown on a later issue. Alas—the touchdown was for the other side.

Space-filling, even on such a Lilliputian publication, seems to be one of Bill's chief troubles. It has been the little things plunked in to fill up the spaces that have brought down all the scolding showers upon his unprotected neck.

In his last issue—the one in which he pulled the double reverse on a furnished lateral, Bill crossed the Rubicon, however. And again it was an attempt to fill space. Bill didn't write it; at least, we will give him credit for not having done so.

One of Bill's stonies tried his hand at realism—hard, harsh, true to life. Bill's stonies attempted to convince people of the insignificance of the individual—how once you're gone, nobody will miss you. He made the mistake of directly applying the name of two State students in the article. That is not good taste, good journalism, good sportsmanship. The fellow who wrote that article is without doubt one of the most perverted worms in existence.

Bill, we still do not blame. Nevertheless, he is a lousy editor. At present, he is making a mad-dog sheet of a magazine which could, under proper handling, become something—maybe.

Experience on an already established publication is what he needs. But to offer his services as a reporter on the State News would be to come down from the lofty editorial seat he now occupies.

Stuff

"I love dogs, horses, and Mackrell," says Justice Dixon. Doris French has perhaps the best-looking back hair in this neck of the woods. Louise Kennedy wants to be known as "Greenville Flash"—sort of reflect the glory that Kay Tuttle gave the name. Margie Pemberton has landed Junior model Bill Carpenter. He took hold book, line, and snicker. Mary Jean Piper was embarrassed to ask when she told Housemother Richards to shut up—by mistake.

Phil Ramirez claims to be going steady with Marian Banks—that's what he thinks. Antha Geiler's Nick, who teaches in Stockbridge, looks onto the MSC horizon every Saturday. Donna Jean is watering Harry Speedman down to her size.

Behind the 8 Ball

With JACK PARKER

What with the Varsity Show less than two weeks off, we feel that we're justified in getting behind the "8 Ball" more frequently than once a week. From now on we're going to hit every issue and you can watch us for developments along the production line.

Gordon Whyte, radio tycoon for Henry Soudaine Inc., of New York, producer of this popular all-collegiate show, descended on our quiet little campus Monday afternoon, and immediately began turning things upside down in his mad search for prospective talent. This fiery, energetic director told us that he wanted to listen to every bit of available talent on the campus, excluding only the puny-toned artists. Already he has dashed from one border of the campus to the other listening here to a glee club, and there to a dance band, yet he goes on and on, never ceasing in that endless lot of listening to embryonic radio stars and starlets.

If you or any of your friends think you can whistle, imitate a squadron of bombing planes, or make noises like peanuts being shocked in a darkened theatre, then by all means pay a visit to that busy little office just down the hall past Dean Mitchell's hideout.

Mr. Whyte was director of the General Motors Symphony hour for three years, and has a long string of successful radio shows to his credit. He is overflowing with enthusiasm about State, and he, too, just like you, wants the State edition of the Varsity Show to be the best yet. Of course that is going to depend to a great extent upon the amount of cooperation given him by the student body as a whole. Let's make it go over the top with a bang—we can do it if we try. Remember, see either Bob Ritter or Gordon Whyte for your auditions, and we'll see you on Saturday.

Organizations Defined as Cooperative Banks by Speaker.

Offer Low Credit

Lecturer Says Obtaining Charter is First Step in Forming Union.

BY JACK SINCLAIR

A talk on the history, development and operation of credit unions was given by Karl Guenther, lecturer of Detroit at the luncheon meeting of the Michigan State college club Wednesday noon.

Explaining that credit unions are cooperative banks, Mr. Guenther pointed out that they have increased in Michigan in the past three years from 54 to 190. Of this number, 35 are among teacher groups. The two simple purposes of these unions are to encourage people to save money, and to provide a source of credit at reasonable rates for the members.

DESCRIBES OPERATION

In describing the operation of a credit union, the speaker stated that the first requisite is to make application for a charter to the state or federal banking department. Then those persons eligible, who agree to subscribe to one share of stock, join the union. Stock is usually priced at $5 or $10 a share.

The members then elect a board of directors, which functions much the same as the board of directors of a corporation. The directors elect the officers of the union from among their own number. The members also elect a credit committee and a supervisory committee. The first committee passes upon applications for loans, and the second group audits the books of the union.

LOSSES ARE LOW

There is a greater spirit of confidence in the credit unions than in some banks, Mr. Guenther said, as every member has a vote in elections, and operation of the union. Losses are as low as one-fifth of one per cent of loans made. The amount of interest and collateral for loans is optional with each union, the interest being limited by law, however, to one per cent a month.

The number of employees of a credit union is small, ranging from two to six persons. Members may borrow money from the union, and they may also deposit money with it. Money on deposit draws interest. Stock in the union pays dividends when a profit is made by the organization.

The club expressed interest in the subject of credit unions, and the speaker was called upon to answer a number of questions at the conclusion of his talk.

Relates Story Of Cathedrals

Gores Addresses Meeting of Women's Club

The development of cathedrals was traced by Prof. Walter J. Gores, associate professor of architecture at the University of Michigan, in an illustrated lecture at the meeting of the Women's club of East Lansing held last Monday in the parlor of the Peoples church.

Beginning with pictures of the Parthenon, Professor Gores went on through Byzantine, Romanesque, Gothic, and Renaissance architecture, showing pictures of several cathedrals of each period, and discussing the characteristics of each style.

Miss Marjorie Hoyt, violinist, played "Requiem" by Vayve, "Habanera" by Bizet, and "Spanish Dance" by De Falla, accompanied by Miss Mildred James.

Phys Ed Girls Take Study Method Trip

Twenty junior and senior girls who are majoring in physical education went to Detroit on Tuesday to observe the methods of teaching used in the schools there. Dr. Lydia Lightfoot, head of the women's physical education department, and Miss Ann Kuehl, who has charge of dancing here, accompanied them.

Most of the day was spent at the Brady elementary school, observing classes from the first to the sixth grade. The big problem in Detroit schools is the handling of very large classes in short periods.

and it is felt that State graduates will have better chances for work in Detroit if they understand the systems used.

KLEWICKI RETURNS

A month ago doctors said Herman Klewicki wouldn't play again this season after he suffered a broken leg in the Michigan game at Ann Arbor. But Herman has fooled the docs and the State coaches as well. When the Spartans turned out for practice yesterday, Klewicki was among those present, ready to go.

Preps Again Meet Elsie Team Friday

Seek Revenge for Previous Loss; Injuries Hurt Trojan Eleven.

By DON ANDERSON

With but two more games left on their schedule, East Lansing's Trojans hope for a win in at least one of them in way of compensation for a very disastrous season.

The Elsie engagement this week seems to be the best bet. Although defeated by Elsie two weeks ago, East Lansing was guilty of some poor football in that game and they are determined to be in reverse form Friday.

Chances for a victory against Alma, in the last game of the season on Armistice day, look to be very slim, for Alma has a strong team. So, if the Trojans are to win another game, Elsie offers the best opportunity.

With the injury line still riding supreme, Coach Shaver has let the team take things easy this week. He called a halt to all rough work, concentrating on signal drills and dummy scrimmage. His procedure seems to have brought results for with but one exception injuries are healed which means that the Trojans may be able to present their strongest lineup in week.

The one exception is in the center position. Dick Morris, regular center, has been inactive since the last Elsie game due to a head injury. His condition is still uncertain, while Hottel, his relief, sustained a bruised foot which may keep him out of the sidelines. Shaver has been grooming a sophomore, Dick Alderton, to fill the gap if the other two are unable to play.

The situation was relieved somewhat by the return of George Schaefer, guard, and Bob McCarty, halfback, both regulars. They were both out of the Elsie game last week because of sickness. Their presence in the lineup will greatly bolster Trojan hopes for victory.

It is expected East Lansing will line up with Gardner and State, with Pearce and Krentel, tackles; Schaefer and Kosh, guards; Alderton, center; MacKinnon, quarterback; McCarty and Mead, halfbacks; and Griswold, fullback.

Spartans Leave For Temple Game

right tackle, who missed the Kansas game with an ankle injury, will make the trip but coach Charley Bachman isn't counting on starting the veteran Timmy McShannock, who impressed Bachman with his work last Saturday, is slated to get the job at center while Fred Schroeder, the handsy man in the line, starts at right tackle.

REST OF LINEUP
The rest of the starting lineup probably will see Ole Nelson and Frank Gamers at the ends; Harry Speciman, left tackle; Lyle Rockenbach and Darwin Dudley, at the guards; Al Diebold, quarterback; Jack Pingel and Sam Norriss, halfbacks; and Uel Hanes, fullback.

Indications to Saturday's game being the best of the series thus far between the two teams. Both schools have strong eleven's this season, each of which is fighting to gain a place in the national spotlight.

Games are expected to fill the Owl stadium with the rival coaches spending considerable time in practice this week in brushing up their respective aerial attacks. As usual, Johnny Pingel and Gene Ciolek will do most of the throwing for State.

PAPPAS IS STAR
Temple will have Chris Pappas, its star back, Vance Renzo, Allet Nichols, and Joseph Bowles on the passing end. Pappas, who has played two bang-up games against State, at present is in the midst of another big year.

Pingel will have his job cut out for him when he faces Johnny Kovacevich, Temple's brilliant kicker. The game may develop into a punter's duel between the pair.

The Spartans will stage a brief practice here today before departing and will wind up their practice preparations for the game in Philadelphia tomorrow. The State band will follow the team east, leaving tomorrow afternoon.

SPORT INTERLUDES -- Points to One Meet by George Maskin

Within ten days, Michigan State's crack cross country team will head east to defend its Intercollegiate championship for the fourth straight year in New York City. According to information reaching us from the Atlantic Seaboard, the Spartans face a tough assignment if they are to repeat.

State's barriers, failed to run impressively in their dual meet with Indiana last Friday. The team lacked the drive and enthusiasm which has been prevalent during the past four championship years.

Lauren P. Brown, builder of State's cross country champions, isn't worried. Brownie has the knack of gradually rounding the team into shape for the big race in New York. He doesn't attempt to have the team in top condition for the various dual meets.

Brown is able to do what Charley Bachman and all the other State coaches can't. The barriers point to the 1 C. 4-A and what transpires before the race merely is in the nature of warmups for the classic race. Except for the Central Intercollegiate, the season virtually ends for the cross country men in New York.

In the other sports, the coaches must have their teams ready—there the first or second week of the season. Then they have a job on their hands to attempt to prevent the team from slipping after it plays an important game. But that is an impossibility.

State rises to great heights each year to meet Michigan. No sooner is the game played than do the players strike a slump, one which can't be explained. The cross country team faces no similar assignment. Their big day is in New York and they'll be ready for it.

In commenting on the various nervous traits displayed by coaches during the progress of a game in this column last Saturday, we pointed out Mr. John Herman Kobs was a tobacco chewer of top standing and filled a pail almost full with spit each time his team played.

Mr. Koby objected to that state, ment, however, insisting we were all wet (last spring, John), since he claims he never chews any tobacco on the bench or for that matter any place else. Jackie Kobs, the coach's son, agrees with his dad.

That being the case, we apologize to Kobs Senior for our mistake. It isn't the first error we have made as a pile of blue books in front of us are well pencilled with red marks.

Two shrewd football coaches will sit on opposite sides of the field Saturday when State and Temple clash in Philadelphia. The Owl's boss, Pop Warner, has long been a leading figure in college football, while Charley Bachman of State rapidly is gaining more prestige in gridiron wars.

The game will be a test of two of the most widely used football systems, the Warner double-wingback and the Notre Dame. It still is a debatable question which system is the better.

It's going to be a hell game Saturday, so let's go. We'd better head for the train.

Yearlings to Meet Albion

A budding freshman football squad of the entire squad is at a fine pitch and will go a long way in determining the outcome of tonight's fracas.

Coach John Kobs sent the freshman squad through a signal drill pointing out the faults which were brought to light in last week's game against Western State at Kalamazoo.

Delta Sigs Win to Stay In Frat Race

Best Delta Chi Eleven by Margin of One First Down.

Activity in the fraternity football league reached a new low Tuesday night when three games were played without single touchdowns being scored.

The Delta Sigs kept in the running in their block, if they win their appealed game with the Hespiers, by defeating their Neighbors and traditional rivals, the Delta Chis, 1 to 0.

The score does show the margin of the Delta Sig's over the Delta Chis because twice they scored touchdowns only to have them called back by penalties. The Delta Sigs finally managed to win out by the margin of a first down in spite of their inability to make a touchdown without having it nullified.

Until a decision has been made on the contested Hespie-Delta Sig game, the outcome in Block I will be in question. If the game is ordered replayed, the Delta Sig's have a chance, but if the original verdict is upheld, the Hespiers will enter the playoffs.

The FarmHouse forfeited their game to the Phi Delt's because no matter who won it would have no bearing on the championship of the block because the SAE's have already won it.

The Phi Tau's defeated the Theta Nu's 1 to 0 in another defensive game.

FRESH TO RUN

This afternoon the freshmen barriers go to Kalamazoo for the Eight Annual Western State Freshman run. The yearlings will attempt to revenge the football defeat the Hilloppers fresh handed the State freshmen last week. The following will make the trip: Fletcher, W. Gibson, Joseph J. Martip, Edward Aronson, Merton H. Jones, William W. Horn, Warren J. Anderson, Robert C. Tuck, Edward L. Mills and C. Franklin Souder.
