Vote Carefully

Editors of the Spartan magazine are buzzing around with a big idea. They propose to have a subscription to the Spartan ncluded with the regular tuition fees as the State News is now included.

But before the fancies of these editors are converted into facts, it will first benecessary for the student body to approve this boost in their tuition fees. Then the students have voted their aproyal, the proposition will be put before he State Board of Agriculture at one regular meetings. If then the State and approves the boost in fees, it be comes taw and all regular students will thereafter buy subscriptions to the Spar out their answers to the questions mentioned well in advance so their votes may e cast wisely.

To aid students whose knowledge of the Spartan magazine is limited, the State News is running a series of informative articles on the history and purposes of that publication.

Think carefully before you vote. -SN-

Best Dressed

Campus

We at Michigan State are wont to dress for classes in tailored suits, veiled hats, and fine textured clothes: a practice virtually unknown to our collegiate brethren an' sistern in many of the large eastern and western universities. Not that all of us array ourselves in the splender of stiff collars, veils, et cetera when we venture forth to attend a lecture, but there is a definite and large percentage among us who make a daily habit of dressing up.

State News correspondents of other colleges in assuring us that their campuses are different, say that campus apparel is selected for serviceability and not for style. To them the sweater or just plain sweat shirt takes the place of our suit coat; tieless colored shirts take the place of our stiff collars; and coeds wear hats only as protection from the weather. One eastern college man summarizes in a hyperbole: "Here each freshman buys a jacket and pair of creaseless trousers which he is expected to wear until gradu-
