Why Not Teach Studying?

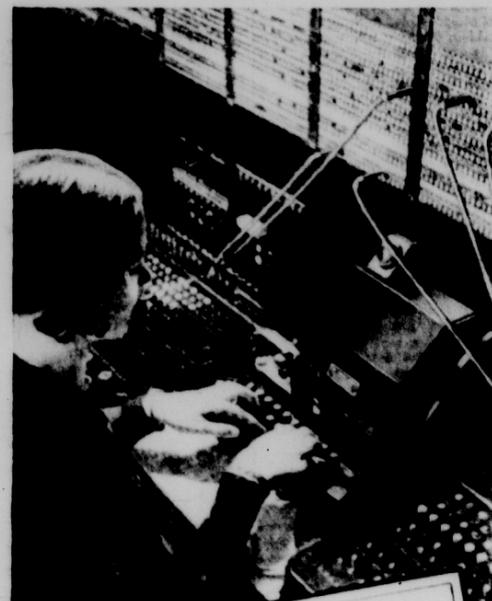

When midterm grades came out, one freshman adviser suggested that his students search through back issues of the State News for an editorial on "How to Study". It seems rather inadequate that the faculty should have to recommend a source separate from the college curriculum to a freshman so that he may learn the essentials of studying.

Professors realize the importance of good study technique, and they are also aware that most students are completely lacking in these habits. True, after a year or so, one may catch on about what one should study for examinations, how to organize blue book questions and such, but much time of both instructors and students is wasted.

Students also feel their inadequacy at preparing daily lessons. The majority of State men and women come from small high schools where study is supervised, and schedules are planned.

In hall sessions these students talk about their work and exchange ideas about how to study. As a result freak methods are worked out. One is to study for an hour and sleep two, throughout the night before an exam. Others advocate to work till the last minute, and then do it all at once, while a third group, after a few bitter experiences, says it is best not to study at all. In these same sessions, they gripe in certain terms about orientation lectures which they must attend.

Since Michigan State has an admirable psychology department, why not put it to a practical use? Small classes in "Technique of Study" could be conducted to replace orientation lectures for both men and women. If such a course were actually put into effect, then Michigan State college would be offering incoming students greater experiences in learning.

You can
through this board

It looks like a telephone switchboard—actually it's a Teletypewriter exchange switchboard. Through such boards—located in 100 cities and towns—already more than 11,000 subscribers to Teletypewriter service are being inter-connected.

Subscribers carry on 2-way typewritten communication across the street or across the continent. Whatever is typed on the sending machine is reproduced exactly, instantly, at the other end of the wire.

When you join the business world, you'll find many progressive companies use Teletypewriter service. Speeding the written word—as the telephone speeds the spoken word—it is one more Bell System contribution to business efficiency.

Impromptu Independence

Diary: Feel a smile on my face; got long-term in on time, but got sent violet to match the circles under my eyes. Bought Christmas presents already so I could use 'em for a while first.

Over-heards: "Horny Maratelli has his advanced military uniform, makes him look like a duck."
Fresh engineer: "I'm taking a course in forgery; we're studying steel."

Observation: A woman doesn't insist on having the last word when the word is "good-by"; she wants to say that one before he does.

MEETINGS
The times of the Independent meetings have been changed from 7:15 to 7 every Monday night. The meetings are held in the organization rooms on the third floor of the Union, and all men interested are invited to attend.

PINS
The lapel-button pins for all independent men have arrived and have been distributed among the zone chairmen and other members of the council. Those who have ordered pins and any others may get them from any of these men or in the Independent office.

SNOWBALL
The Athenians, the Independent women's organization, are anxious that no one be frozen out of their dance in the gym Friday night. They have asked us to remind every one who wants something new and different to go Friday night. Bill Porter's band will play.

RADIO
Doris McMehe and Dean Koch co-directors of the Independent Men-S.W.I. Saturday afternoon broadcast, announced that this Saturday's broadcast will be held in the Little Theatre of the Home Economics building and will be open to the public. Art Howland's band will play, but the program has not yet been announced. The show goes on the air from 2 to 2:30.

R. C. T. TAKES OVER
In another part of this paper you will read the detailed account of the rules and regulations for "carb stone cuties" who join the Registered Collegiate Thumbers. The Independent Men's League, under the direction of the national headquarters of the R. C. T. at St. Ambrose college at Davenport, Iowa, will sponsor the new organization at State. Student opinion on the plan will be welcomed at the Independent office.

Mardi Gras Gets Ten Posters

Ten art posters, advertising the Mardi Gras, being presented by the women's societies, Friday, December 2, at the Peoples church, were made by students of the East Lansing high school art class.

Kathleen Olfasson won first prize with her poster, and received $1.00. David Lucas won the second prize, and received a box of candy. Third prize, which was also a box of candy, was won by Phyllis Wooden. Students receiving honorable mention were Marcella Gibson, Arlene Clark, and Maxine Suther. Prizes were furnished by the women's society.

The posters were judged by Mrs. Norman W. Kunkle, former art teacher at East Lansing high school; Mrs. H. P. Tull, general chairman of the Mardi Gras; and Mrs. F. Ross Doolittle, representing the women's society.

Miss Madeline Grapes, art instructor at East Lansing high school, supervised the work on the posters.

Distribution of the posters covers Lansing and East Lansing. The first prize poster is on display at the Peoples church.

4-Lane Highway Is Sponsor's Goal

The four-lane highway with dividing parkway extending approximately 1,800 miles from Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, to Miami, Fla., and New Orleans, La., is the goal of sponsors seeking to streamline the Dixie highway.

Members of an organization embracing the nine states through which the new route would pass will meet in Lexington, Ky., on December 8 to discuss plans for presentation to federal officials with the idea of gaining government support for its construction.

Debate Squad To be Host

East Lansing's high school debate squad and Gavel club will be host next Saturday to about 20 of the outstanding debaters in the state when the local students will stage the first individual debate tournament that has been held this year among schools in the Michigan High School Forensic association.

The tournament will have two rounds of debates, one in the morning, beginning at 10 o'clock, and one in the afternoon, beginning at 1:30. Students at East Lansing high school who will participate have been organized into four teams of three students each. Other students on the squad and in the Gavel club, a junior high debate organization, will be chairman and timekeepers.

Michigan State college is furnishing the judges for the tournament. These have been secured through the efforts of Prof. James McMonagle, men's debate coach. Each college judge will offer a single critic's decision at the debate to which he is assigned. The question will be "Resolved, that the United States should form an alliance with Great Britain."

SCHEDULE ARRANGED

The schedule for Saturday's debates has been drawn up with the following pairings, with affirmative mentioned first in each case: 10:00 a. m. round, Marshall vs. Lansing Eastern; Flint Central vs. Lansing Eastern; X. Flint Northern vs. Marshall; Ionia vs. Lansing St. Mary's; Coldwater vs. Ionia; Lansing St. Mary's vs. Flint Northern; Lansing Central vs. Albion; East Lansing X vs. Flint Central; Albion vs. Lansing Eastern; Z. and East Lansing K vs. Coldwater.

Mat Tourney Dates Set

The annual all-college wrestling tournament date has been set for December 15, 16, and 17. As in the past, the bouts will take place in the gym.

The tournament is open to all men students except those lettersmen who have previously won this event. However, this affects only three men, Dale Stephenson, Steve Slezak, and Cliff Freiberger. Changes have been made this year in the first three weights. The first weight has been changed from 118 to 121, the second from 126 to 128, and third from 135 to 136.

Scoop Says:

By George Maskin

"They never forget," some one recently said of Michigan State's athletic teams.

And the Spartans don't forget. That much was proved Tuesday when State's football players gathered to select the honorary 1938 captain and at the same time vote for the annual group picture.

When the voting was over, the Spartans had picked not one, but two unusual heroes as their leaders. They had elevated to the top Allen O. Diebold of Jackson and David Diehl of Donaville, both seniors.

The names of Diebold and Diehl seldom made the headlines during the last three years. Yet, the pair were vital parts of the Spartan machine, Diebold operating at quarterback, while Diehl performed at right or left end.

Fine Quarterback

Fans rarely appreciated their fine play. They saw only the brilliant performances of Al Aggett when Diebold and Diehl first broke into the State lineup. Then when Aggett left, the great work of Johnny Pincel forced Diehl and Diebold into the background.

But State players were quick to admire Diebold and Diehl, and it wasn't long before they realized the two had a great deal to do with the Spartan gridiron success.

The Spartan coaches also expressed State was fortunate in having Diebold and Diehl on its side and not on the opposition front.

Diebold will go down with Dick Colina, a member of the 1934 and 1935 teams, as probably the two greatest quarterbacks in State football annals. Diebold, like Colina, could run the team and he knew what plays to call at the appropriate time.

Tops as Blocker

The Jackson player had no equal in the State backfield as a blocker. He was State's best defensive back and, above all, supplied the spark necessary to win football games.

When Diebold wasn't in the lineup, a noticeable lack of spirit and drive prevailed on the State teams.

Diebold shares the 1939 baseball captaincy with Sam Nunow of Foshburg. He is one of the few State athletes ever to hold down two captaincies.

Diehl Consistent

Diehl alternated with Nelson and played on the second team until midway during last season. Then Coach Charles Bachman moved the former boy to the first team.

Diehl is referred to by his team mates as "up to the snuff" in the final three games. I found Diehl averaging 10 minutes a contest after an injury forced Nelson to the bench. Diehl was better on defense.

Consistently, Diehl was steady as they come. He infrequently enjoyed a "very hot" or a "very cold" day.

Besides his football ability, Diehl long will be remembered, especially by the coaches, for his wit. Is Hay Pitcher

One of his best cracks came at the start of the 1937 season. "What did you do all summer?" Assistant Coach Tom King asked Diehl.

"Pitched," snapped Diehl. "I didn't know you were a pitcher. What kind of a record did you have?"

"I didn't pitch baseballs. I pitched hay," came back the player.

Acres Places Three Men On Team

Bealton Earns Two Spots on 'News' Star Eleven

By BOB DELISLE

The 1938 champions of the Men's Independent league, Briggs Acres, placed three men on the Michigan State News' all-star team. Bealton, the runner-up, placed one, as did Evergreen Manor. The Chem Kids and the Homesteaders also had one star selection.

Evergreen's rangy Marty Hutt of Basketball fame, played a heady game at end. He was a stonewall on defense and always dangerous under a pass.

Bob Stox of the Homesteaders nets first call for the center slot. He never was guilty of a bad pass and his alert playing on defense enabled him to make several interceptions during the season's play.

The other end post must go to Bing Miller, one of the league's high scorers. He figured prominently in Briggs Acres many goalward marches.

Bob Oien, also of Briggs Acres, was the spearhead of his team's attack. His accurate passes and general ability rate him as perhaps the league's best all-around back.

Bealton's B. Rice was also an important factor in his team's success. He proved to be a great runner who could pass almost as well.

J. Blyth of the Chem Kids was a tower of strength for his team. He was equally valuable, both on offense and defense.

M. Nyquist, of the champion Acres 7, rounds out the first team. Always a dangerous pass receiver, he distinguished himself in the final as a dangerous passing back, throwing strikes for five touchdowns. His work on defense rates him with the best.

KUPPENHEIMER - ADLER - ROCKESTE - BALTIMORE

Trojans Train For First Tilt

Evening's come slight improvement, Coach Cuddy Shaver's Trojan basketballers continued drills for their opening game with Charlotte Friday night in the East Lansing gym.

Charlotte brings an all-veteran team with them and one that defeated the Trojans easily early last season. The Oriole five is back intact with the exception of Elds Toutant, a high-speed guard. Bill Tracy and Paul Ladd, the two boys who caused the Trojans so much trouble last year, are both back and look like they are headed for a great season.

The Trojans will probably line up with Max Phillips and Johnny Fabian or Roy Dygert at the forwards.

All of these boys have plenty of experience and the starting choice will probably go to the two who are the best passers. Ronny Mead and Ronny Jean, a couple of potential long shot artists, apparently have the inside track on the guard positions, but Lee Cahill and Don Smith are pressing them for the starting jobs. At the post, either Buck Weaver or Jim Crozier look like the probable starters. Crozier's lack of speed is his greatest handicap and when he can overcome it he will undoubtedly give Weaver a taste for the center position. Friday's game is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

SHOP SIFTING

By MARY FRANCES BLEISS

Well, here we are with Christmas just around the bend of the Red Cedar and nothing yet for Mum, Dad, or the rest of the lot. It is to be tougher than ever for us intellectuals with only two days in which to perform our Santa Clausing. Can't you just imagine what Saturday before Christmas will be like. Don't you just picture yourself squeezing, squeezing and elbowing someone in the ribs in order to catch that red tissue paper in Kerage's late Saturday p.m. Looks like that is to be it this Happy Christmas season—unless we sorta get busy and go shopping in our free time. What free time? Why, those two hours between lunch and Psychology, of course. We would only sit in the Union and gab, anyway.

But the actual buying isn't the worst of the job, it is! At least not to most of us. What to buy for Aunt Minnie is the real problem—and when I say real problem, I mean real problem!

So as a Girl Scout gesture we will try to help you all out a bit by a few suggestions. Let's see—how about beginning with Mother and Dad? You want something specially nice and it seems we give them about the same thing time after time. This being a new gadget year, plus style, we ought to really be able to put one on—For Dad we saw the most practical traveling bag ever. Just the thing for those business trips. The one I saw was waterproof duck. It carries suits, guaranteeing against wrinkling and mousing. It zips all around and when opened hangs from a hook and the clothes are just as if at home in the closet. Observed numerous sections for this and that. Said to be an cushioned for clothes, and I believe it. Another swell gift if he plays golf (also nice for the younger generation) is the new English oval golf bag. They hang close to the body and are much lighter in weight to carry and hold one-third more. One was waterproof duck trimmed in cowhide. Saw a couple of loops and through curiosity found they were for an umbrella. Might put in one of those what-do-you-call-'ems—English sticks for sitting on. Also a place for a sweater and when opened forms a hood for the golf bag. Tricky!

—Bye now, more Saturday.
