If You Ask Me What Is This, A Grade School Or a College?

By Tom Greene

ABSOLUTELY INEXCUSABLE. Michigan State students Wednesday night were treated to one of the rawest deals that has on seen on campus in the last four years. Most of you know what that was. Women were refused permission by A.W.S. Judicfary board to attend the boxing meet held as part of the basketball program.

THE BOARD blithely ignored the fact that the program was paid for by student fees. Not only were the women deprived of a program they had paid for, but any men dating that night had to miss the boxing meet to see that their dates got in in time to sign a silly sheet for the board.

ANY MEN WHO wanted to see the meet badly enough to go back missed half of the matches and enjoyed two trips to and from the heldhouse on a night that wasn't the type conducive to long hikes, .

DEAN CONRAD Wednesday night said sehe learned of the board's action only by reading the note left on her desk. Board members offered a couple of lame excuses.

ONE WAS THAT two late permissions had been granted for Farmers' week events the week before. That has nothing to do with taking away entertainment that is paid fer. The second was that it was "mid-term week." What is this, a grade school? Haven't college students enough sense to know when they have to study? Anyhow, most midterms were either given before Farmers' week, or else during the week in direct violation of administration requests.

MAYBE THE BOARD thinks instructors should organize study halls to see that the kiddies do their studying. Maybe it doesn't think, and that is the most logical explanation.

NOW THAT STUDENTS have been robbed of what was rightfully theirs there isn't a lot that can be done. At least that will probably be the attitude. There should be a refund of money to those who suffered from the stupid blunder, but there

BUT THERE IS something that can be done. A.W.S. Judiciary board can come out from behind its suspicious protection of 'unwritten rules" and pass one in black and white. Pass a rule that states students have the right to see their own programs which they pay for. And make that rule final and definite. It's only common sense and it will be too little to do to make up

That question is academic. Most Spartans earn part of their way through school and filling a real need is certainly one of the best methods seen yet.

But the main question is: Whose parties are they? The party chairmen who direct renting of the building should have some thing to say about what goes on at the party. They want a photographer there.

They want a photographer because th students who are paying for the party want one. The college authorities can suspend their cut-and-dried rules this time in the face of strong student feeling.
