If You Ask Me

Maybe They'll Give Me Late Minutes By Tom Greene

HONESTLY, I DON'T always print letters to fill up space. In fact, a column was already written for this corner when this letter was slammed down on our desk. It represents some interesting views about the student body at Michigan State, held by at least one member of the board set up to govern coeds' hours, morals, stockings and slacks.

ANOTHER COLUMN of the State News gives the facts of the Judiciary board's action on late minutes. The board was big enough to admit a mistake. Here's hoping it won't make another, soon. And that it will continue to grant two (count 'em) late permissions for those exciting-Farmers' week horsepulling contests. There was just room for what the writer thinks of students, mainly. Anyone interested in her views of the writer of this column is welcome to drop in to inspect the letter in the asbestos file.

ABSOLUTELY INEXCUSABLE. A.W.S. Judicarp board in Thursday's State News was treated to one of the rawest deals that has been seen on campus in the last four years. Most of you know what that was Tom Greene took it upon himself, as he has many times before, to criticize and condemina decision made by a board about whose rules be knows very little.

HE BLITHELY ignored the fact that the major its pleasures in the major-ity of student fees are paid for out of the hard-earnest mency of the parents, and had the girls been forced to pay for the baxing match out of their pun money, there would have been very few girls who attended.

Local Draft Boards He Will Do Vocals P.40Fighters To Get Registration Cards of Students

Information Will Come from Them

Draft officials still cannot reveal how many registered last Monday, but they can clarify the question uppermost in the minds of the nearly 1,200 new student and faculty potential That question is: "What happens now?" and the best answer that can be furnished is: "Keep in touch with your numbers to the cards beginning at local board for information on your case."

One and continuing until all cards have a number. A list of serial numbers will be posted at the office of the local board or the reg-
