The biggest problem confronting the inhabitants of Hawaii bear in the defense preparation, is but of nutrition, since many necessary foods must come from the mainland. Classes are being held to instruct housewives in regulating diets and in the use of strates food products. Various articles are being printed on such timely subjects as meatless meals, food or children, and the use of strates where districting diets and canned meats, Miss Weaver wrote.

Since the German torpedoing of the destroyer Reuben James late in October, the American fleet has lost a total of 11 destroyers, all but two of which have been of the World War type.

Four of these old destroyers have gone down in Atlantic waters while five were sunk in the Pacific. Two others of more modern design, the Cassin and Downes, were sunk at Pearl Harbor by Japanese bombs.

The men were four miles from the rescued Capt. Charles B. Dunn said his vessel was abandoned within 10 minutes and disclosed that the radio antenna was destroyed in the action, making it impossible to send an SOS.
