Fort Sheridan, or Camp Grant

Almost two terms of suspense were lifted yesterday when the military department announced that Michigan State college's approximate 1,500 members of the Army Enlisted reserve corps, excluding senior advanced ROTC students, will be called into active duty sometime between April 12 and 15. Enlisted reservists will receive their papers at their respective homes.

Although the number of "free" days that will elapse following receipt of papers was not disclosed, ERC members will be summoned at the rate of about 150 per day, military officials said. Probable induction camps will be Fort Custer, Fort Sheridan, Ill., and Camp Grant, Ill., with 50 men going to each camp each day.

After completion of 13 weeks basic training, those men who were enrolled in school as engineers will then be given consideration for additional college training according to their merits, branch of engineering, and year toward graduation.

Announcement of the induction date confirms Col. Dorsey R. Rodney's request of Feb. 27 that all ERC men, except senior advanced ROTC students and others exempted, should not return to college next term, but should wait at their respective homes for their induction papers.

Word to the Wise-Cut Down Cuts: Dean's Record Is Silent But Sure

There is a gloomy little sentence in the least read book on campus, the college catalogue, which states: "It is expected that students will be in attendance at every class period." That is the administration's point of view on cuts.

WINDING CEDAR By Len Barnes

WHEN Thoreau said "Things do not change; we change," he couldn't possibly have visualized the metamorphosis colleges in general and Michigan State college in particular are going through. For the weekend coming up will be the last anywhere near normal weekend till a long time after the war is over.

Things are changing here, and rapidly. ERC men are moving out to don uniforms, and other already uniformed men will take their places.

No More Bull Sessions

Gone will be the night long bull session around the fraternity fireplace, or in the obscure off-campus room where as much real knowledge was exchanged as in the classroom. The sessions will be replaced by supervised study, and drill periods.

From now on the boys won't end their supper hour by singing "Down At Mary Ann's," The Night that Paddy Murphy Died.' They won't get the satisfaction of seeking a dark corner where the patrons can't see them at the term party.

Stiff shirts of tuxedoes and tails won't plague the boys anymore after the Senior ball tomorrow night.

ERC men who will soon be leaving for camps and far away battlefronts will long remember the familiar ring of Beaumont tower. Approves Tax Compromise

WASHINGTON, Mar. 10 (AP) An income tax collection plan making "pay-as-you-go" optiona 20 per cent withholding levy July 1, was approved today by the House ways and means committee.

Under the compromise, any taxpayer could continue the present method of paying in one year his tax based on the pre-vious year's income. Or he could "double-up" by paying off the last year in full and proceed tion rather than their convenon a current basis, with what he then pays through the withholding levy applying to his tax ob-ligation against the current year's income.

The withholding levy would be imposed weekly, semi-monthly or monthly against pay envelopes and salary checks regardless of whether such collections were credited against taxes on the last year's or the current year's income.

CUTTING (Continued from Page 1) has excess cuts (more than 25 per cent of the number of class meeting during the term) the student gets an automatic "F," said Linton.

He explained that often the instructor sends in a grade and al with each taxpayer, without the total absences and in such any tax abatement, and starting cases where there are excess cases where there are excess absences the grade is changed to

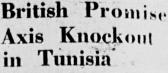

"I hate to emphasize the limit because students always take the limit; it is regrettable that students take the attitude that 'they are allowed' a certain number of cuts," Linton commented. He pointed out that the minimum is set for their protecience.

Indicating a possible remedy to the hated absence rule system Linton said that student and instructor morale should be such that cutting would be reduced and absence rules rendered unnecessary.

The registrar expressed belief that such a condition could exist under a plan devised to that end. He added that he is at present studying possible plans but un-der present abnormal conditions unable to institute them.

"gremlin" kid you!

"Gremlins" are strange little fellows who get airplanes all out of kilter and worry our fliers.

Sometimes those "gremlins" bother others, too. When you're telephoning, for instance, they'll urge you to talk a long while, and to use Long Distance a lot.

But pay no attention to them! Keep your telephone calls short, and don't use Long Distance unless it's really urgent. That's the way to keep lines clear for war calls . . . and to put "Mr. Gremlin" in his place!
