

Today's Campus

Beaumont Belles!

Someone should explain to the contingent of air corps cadets which marched by Beaumont tower at 4:30 p. m. yesterday that bathing beauties in May are not the usual thing at Michigan State college. Jean Lumsden and Marge Cheese Hovey, both L. A. '44, were having their beautiful legs photographed for the Foxhole Follies newscast, which will precede regular acts in the 1943 variety show.

Fortunate Femmes

Recipients of lots of looks of surprise these days are Jane and Madeleine Holmes, only female members of the Union boarding club. This pair eats with several hundred men, including all the senior ROTCs, in the former Union ballroom, now the campus' largest dining room.

Just a Swell Guy!

One of the air force squad leaders made sure that his men had no objection to going into the Dairy building yesterday. During one of the morning classes, he went down to the ice cream counter, ordered and paid for 25 frostbites. When 6:15 the hour was over and the men came down, in their precise order, each picked up one of the frostbites, laying out to form their lines and continue on to their next class.

Bum Steer

Somebody must have given somebody a bum steer the other day. Saturday the State News carried an item saying that a Holstein steer recently sold for $1,800 at an auction in the livestock pavilion. Actually, it wasn't a steer. It was a Holstein cow.

Annual Variety Show Will Feature Acts by 10 Women's Organizations

Ten organizations will take part in this year's variety show, "Foxhole Follies of '43" following tryouts this week. Director Don Buell announced yesterday.

Acts will be presented by Alpha Chi Omega, Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Xi Delta, Kappa Delta, Kappa Alpha Theta, and Sigma Kappa sororities. Also taking part will be two women's dormitories, West Mary Mayc and South Campbell hall, WAA, and Sanford house.

Tickets on Sale

Tickets for the Variety show are available now at the accounting office in Administration building, at the Union desk, and sorority and women's dorms, according to Gordon Hueschen, A. S. '45, co-chairman.

Co-chairmen Meribah Rowlette, L. A. '44 and Hueschen, also announced their committees this week. Working on art and

Army to Activate Senior ROTCs Today

Processing Scheduled Next Week at Fort Custer; Setup Unchanged

By Don Thornbury

The 240 senior ROTC men now living in fraternity houses will be placed on active duty by the army today under the army special training program, it was revealed in a joint announcement from Pres. John A. Hannah and *Col. Dorsey R. Rodney, PMS&T of Michigan State college, yesterday.

They will continue to live at fraternity houses and eat at the Union ballroom; beginning today, however, their meals, housing and medical care will be furnished by the army instead of at their own expense.

Final Activities

Sometime next week they will be taken to Fort Custer, at government expense, to be processed into the army, which will consist of being sworn in, a physical examination and being uniformed in regular army basic outfits, after which they will return to the campus.

To Be Sergeants

Their pay and allowances as sergeants or corporals, depending on when they enlisted in the ERC, will begin immediately upon their return from Custer.

To date there has been no change in the announcement made last term that they will serve as assistant instructors to the present army air force cadets and the 500 or more soldier engineers who are to come here at a later date.

British on Move Against Axis in Tunisia

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, April 6 (AP)—The British eighth army smashed forward today against Axis forces on the southern front in Tunisia, it was announced officially tonight.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British guns, tanks and infantry resumed their "hunt" of nearly 2,000 miles across Africa with a massive attack on Marshal Romel's makeshift line along the Wadi El Akarit, some 60 miles south of the vital harbor of Sfax.

The biggest event of the day was the double-barreled operation in which American Mitchells inflicted heavy damage on an enemy convoy in the Straits of Sicily, and whose American Lightning fighter escort, on the way home from the raid, intercepted a big German transport plane formation protected by Stukas and shot down 31 in all.

What, Again?

Lansing Citizens Vote to Move Clocks Back Hour

East Lansing, and subsequently Michigan State college, will probably follow the lead of the city of Lansing and move its collective clocks from standard to eastern war time this Sunday, according to Dean of Men F. T. Mitchell and East Lansing city councilman. He revealed that a special council meeting of the council will "undoubtedly" be called before that time to decide the issue. Mayor C. G. Card was not available for comment.

Voters of Lansing advised their city council in a referendum in connection with Monday's spring election that they want the clocks in their city turned ahead an hour, from standard to eastern war time.

Lansing's electorate approved the time change—limited to the period from April 11 to Oct. 1—by a vote of 2,842 to 1,851. If the council follows the voters' advice, considerable confusion will result in the state capital city, because the city will be operating on ast time and thousands of state employees will be working on standard time.

X-Ray Enrollment to Conclude Today

Two hundred and fifty women have made appointments for tuberculosis X-rays, according to Elaine Abbott, field worker for the Michigan Tuberculosis association, who is in charge. Registration will end today.

The registration booth was moved from the Women's Gym to the Union yesterday to speed up appointment making. All college women are eligible for the X-rays, to be given April 13 to 24. Women enrolled in gym courses should not register individually.

Women faculty members will also be eligible for the tests, which will be given on the nights of Monday, April 19 and Friday, April 23. Arrangements are being made by Miss Emma Sater for appointments for office secretaries, whose examinations will be given on the evenings of Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, April 20, 21, and 22, are being handled by Miss Dorothy Scott. Schedules for college employees are being worked out and are not completed yet.

Term Play Tryouts Slated for Today and Tomorrow

Tryouts for the spring term play, "Her Husband's Wife," will be held Wednesday and Thursday at 7:15 p. m. in room 130, Morrill hall and not Thursday and Friday, Prof. Don Buell announced yesterday.

The play, which has a cast of three women and three men, is a revival of a 1910 farce. This will be the first time that a modern costume play has been given in the spring. "Her Husband's Wife," by A. E. Thomans, was chosen because the scarcity of men on campus makes a larger cast impossible to fill. No suitable classical play requiring only a small cast could be found.

Election Adds Two Republicans to Ag Board

Republicans Sarah Van Housen Jones, of Rochester, and W. G. Armstrong, of Niles were awarded positions on the State Board of Agriculture by virtue of voters' preference Monday in statewide elections over Democrats Arthur Jewett, mayor of Mason, and Joseph P. Carey, of Mt. Pleasant.

In 3,291 precincts out of 3,754, Michigan voters accorded Miss Jones a total of 200,489 and Armstrong a total of 206,992 as compared to their rivals Jewett and Carey who polled 128,848 and 133,779 respectively.

PROP WASHINGS, From the 310th Aircrew (College Training Detachment)

By PVT. E. E. HALMOS, JR.
Room 211 Abbot Hall

(Editor's note—The State News welcomes and will print wherever possible the writings of aircrewmembers stationed at Mason and Abbot halls. Aircrewmembers wishing to write for their squadron should clip and fill in the box at the end of this column. At least one man from each squadron will be chosen as a correspondent.)

Turn in applications to Lt. F. N. Miller, Rm. 158, Abbot hall. As soon as contributions warrant it, part of a page will be devoted periodically to aircrew doings.)

PERHAPS we members of the uniformed student body of Michigan State should introduce ourselves. For we're a motley crew in origin, background, schooling and experience.

About 300 of us came here from the air force's basic training center at Atlantic City, N. J., and the rest arrived from Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

Our ages center in the early twenties, although the full range runs from those who have just turned 18 and shave twice a month to some of 26 and over. A few of us are married.

The New Jersey contingent can drill better than any other gang here, just as the Jefferson Barracks gang can drill better than any other gang here.

Accent Trouble Arises

Some of us have attended college and were called into service from there, while others were working. Some of us have flown a bit. Some of us own flying licenses. Others have never been in a plane, but we all want to fly.

We're having a bit of trouble right now among ourselves getting used to each other's accents, humor, and customs. The New Yorkers like to consider themselves a little quicker on the uptake. In the East we flatten out our words, and have practically no use for the letter "r."

IT'S NOT difficult for an outsider to judge what Michigan State students think of their own school, with the evidence of the obvious pride taken in the appearance of the grounds and buildings before him. We feel that the non-uniformed students ought to know that their alma mater is near paradise to the air forces men assigned here.

Possibly the ROTC contingent can lend a bit of chapter and verse to our own experiences with tough army life. The training we had before coming here was good—if somewhat heroic—and it took a lot of unneeded wind out of our collective ego.

No More G.I. Parties

But, have you ever attended a G. I. party? G. I. means either government issue or galvanized iron, as in the case of G. I. shoes. The dress was always informal. Accessories were brooms, mops, pails, and soap.

The affair was strictly stag, and the goal was to get the barracks clean enough to satisfy the most particular non-com.

That's why we're looking forward to the dance in College auditorium this weekend.

"K. P." Is Bone

So far, outside of the small task of morning bed-making and room sweeping, there's been no G. I. party here. After you've slept in a room with anything from six to 50 roommates not of your choosing you can appreciate Mason and Abbot halls.

After you've done kitchen police a couple of times and become expert at washing the numberless pots and pans used to prepare food for 2,000 hungry soldiers, and peeled your quota of potatoes, you can appreciate the announcement that there will be no "KP" in that sense out here.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By ELLIS BRANDT

PROBABLY the finest time of year at Michigan State is spring term, and probably the finest thing to do during spring term is canoeing on the Red Cedar.

Despite the subtle warnings of the Spartan magazine that canoeing isn't good until the banks of the river are dry, the canoeing season is officially open and the first couples have fallen in the river.

Race Ends Neck and Neck

The annual race for the title of First Couple to Fall in the Red Cedar While Canoeing (Spring, 1943, edition) ended neck and neck Sunday night when Barbara Shoemaker and Dick F. Dean, and Joan Grayson and George Betker dragged into the Delta Sig house QM barracks simultaneously, exuding several pails of water, to lay claim to the title.

When somebody asked them how it happened, the women just giggled. The men looked like a couple of drips, but proceeded to call a gentleman friend with a car. "The water came up to my nose," one of them said.

It Even Has a History

The history of canoeing on the Red Cedar goes way, way back in the annals of MSC, and legend has it that former Pres. Robert S. Shaw put the first canoe in the river back in 1857 when he was one of the leading young bloods hereabouts.

The ducks put up a squawk about it at first. But after a while they got used to it.

And the Ultimate Result . . .

We imagine that around the country lots of happily married couples with flocks of happy kiddies look back to evenings spent on the Red Cedar looking at the moon, and then paddling back home.

Canoeing, if it is done correctly, is a thing of beauty and a joy forever. If done incorrectly, however, it can dampen youthful ardor more quickly than anything known to man, and has been known to cause persons to give notice that henceforth they are paddling their own canoe. It's a tricky business.

ARMY traffic is getting so thick around Morrill hall that every hour on the hour looks like the rush in Macy's basement. They say that one poor woman was so confused by the squads of marching men that she forced a whole squad to detour to another door.

To prevent the army from cases of split squadrons and ruffled sergeants, women are advised to (1) be calm (2) stand close to a wall and (3) try not to be distracting.

A few engagements and pinning continue to weed out the single hearts. Peg McCollough, independent, has received her diamond from Al Jones, who is now in the air force in San Antonio, Texas. Bev Reed, Alpha Chi Omega pledge, now has

Coach, Eight Matmen Board Train for AAU Tournament

Group Seeks National Grappling Title for MSC

Coach Feildley Collins and eight wrestlers board the New York bound train in Lansing this morning for the national AAU tournament and the last fling at national grappling by this group of matmen for the duration.

The addition of one man to the lineup was made by Collins yesterday when he received word from tournament officials that teams could enter two men in one weight division.

Two Men in 145-Pound Class

Don Johnson, Detroit freshman and former Michigan state high school champion, will go along with Bill Maxwell as 145-pound representative in the big meet.

Co-Capt. Cut Jennings and Johnny Marks will be the other two men, with both wrestlers going on at 135 pounds. Others will be Don Ripberger, 115 pounds; Iggy Konrad, 128 pounds; Earl Boring, 155 pounds, and Mike Hathaway, 165 pounds. Bo Jennings has withdrawn from competition to favor a weakened team.

This national meet will be open to all amateurs in the nation, with many of the eastern states entering men experienced in athletic club and YMCA competition.

Impressive Records

A review of the records reveals that Cut Jennings won 40 42 bouts in his college career. He won two NCAA titles at 121 pounds and was prevented from defending the crown this year when the meet was cancelled. Bo Marks won the 128-pound title twice and piled up a record of 25 victories against four defeats in his first two years. The past season he was unable to compete in only a few meets because of an injury season operation.

Bill Maxwell, who will wrestle the AAU event in the 145-pound class, is an NCAA champion at 145 pounds. Maxwell's three-year career has yielded him 31 victories in 34 bouts. The trio forms the greatest wrestling combination in Michigan State's history, boasting a combined total of 99 victories against 11 defeats.

Cleveland to Drop from Pro Football

CHICAGO, April 6 (AP)—In a surprise move, the Cleveland Rams dropped out of the National Football league today for the duration, but the owners of the remaining nine clubs voted to continue in the face of a terrific manpower shortage.

The club owners of the pro league voted to allow the co-owners of the Rams, Major Fred Levy and Lieut. Daniel Reeves, to suspend operations on the plea they were in the armed services and could not conduct the affairs of the team.

Newspaper Writers Pick All-Star Squad for Hockey League

TORONTO, April 6 (AP)—Three of big league hockey's oldest players, Earl Seibert of the Chicago Blackhawks, Bill Cowley of the Boston Bruins and Lorne Carr of the Toronto Maple Leafs, and three comparative youngsters make up the 13th annual Canadian Press All-Star National League hockey team.

The other three first-string posts went to Goalie Johnny Mowers of the Detroit Red Wings, winner of the Vezina trophy as the circuit's outstanding netminder; Jack Stewart, Detroit defenseman and left winger Doug Bentley of Chicago, who equalled the league's scoring record with 73 points during the 1942-43 season.

FDR Victory in Bankhead Bill Veto Predicted

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—The Bankhead farm bill, vetoed by President Roosevelt on the grounds it is inflationary, tonight appeared headed for an uneasy resting place with the senate agriculture committee, possibly to be brought up again at some later date.

Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.) author of the measure designed to raise some farm price ceilings, conceded that the two-thirds vote necessary to override the President's veto was lacking.

Air Corps Cadets Have Little Time to Compete in Outside Athletics

As far as the air corps cadets here at State are concerned, their only sports consist of required physical education courses and what recreational sports that they may wish to engage in on their none too plentiful time off over the weekends.

The cadets are divided up into five quintiles consisting of 300 men each, and then into 12 groups of 25 each. Each quintile is engaged in one of the five phases of physical training which they receive while at Michigan State. They are staggered so as to undergo each phase while here, working up gradually to the more strenuous sports. The five main divisions are, games of lower organization such as badminton or group games; apparatus and tumbling; swimming; games of high organization such as basketball or volleyball; and lastly safety skills.

Plenty of Phys Ed Required

The air force phys ed hours are from 12 noon to 6 p. m. and the men are run through at the rate of 300 per hour. They are required to take physical education six times a week, one period on each of four days and twice on a fifth.

The air men must soak up on the average of 18 subjects in their five months stay here in pre-flight training and have little time for sports other than what they get in their physical training classes.

Frimodig to Provide Facilities

To accommodate any of the more energetic men who are still looking for exercise when their weekend rolls around, Intramural Director Lyman L. Frimodig is expanding the recreational facilities south of Mason-Abbot. At present there are seven tennis courts and a softball diamond. Frimodig is meanwhile readying another softball diamond and setting up volleyball and badminton courts, for the prospective aviators on their few free hours on Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

Women Plan Cadet Welcome at Term's First Social Event

Arrangements for the first social event of the term, planned to introduce air cadets to the students on campus, are nearing completion, according to Chairman Flossie Wilkins, H.E. '43.

A thousand women representing all the dormitories, co-ops and sororities are expected to attend the dance, which will be held Saturday night from 9 until 12 in the College auditorium.

Women will sign up to attend the dance in their residences and will go in groups headed by captains. Off-campus and town girls may attend even if they have not had an opportunity to sign up with a group, according to Miss Wilkins.

The band for the dance has not been announced as yet. Arrangements for the entertainment during intermission under Don Buell's direction have not been completed.

A planning committee headed by Mary Wright, H.E. '45, and made up of representatives from all the dorms, sororities, co-op houses, off-campus residence houses, senior ROTC, and civilian men plus representatives from each squadron of air cadets are now setting up a social calendar for the term, according to Miss Wilkins.

One big dance will be held every other week with smaller events planned for the alternate weekends. Some of the events which have been suggested are: canoe trips, community sings, picnics, baseball games and a bridge tournament. These affairs will be open to all men on campus.

maining in Governor Kelly's official family, naming in his place a Republican highway commissioner who will round out Michigan's first all-Republican state administrative board since 1932.

The post, long a keystone in the Democratic state organization, went to Charles M. Ziegler, former deputy to Grover C. Dillman, who lost the commissionership to Murray D. Van Wagoner ten years ago in the spring election that followed the Roosevelt landslide. Ziegler making his second campaign for the office, won all but a handful of counties from Lloyd B. Reid, the incumbent by appointment.

Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction since 1935, paced the Republican ticket in his successful quest for a fourth term. Unofficial returns gave him an advantage of more than 80,000 votes over Edward W. McFarland, Wayne university professor and former Democratic chairman of the state liquor control commission.

Unofficial returns indicated the election of R. Spencer Bishop Flint, and Ralph A. Hayward, Kalamazoo, to the University of Michigan Board of Regents over their Democratic rivals, Dr. Ira D. McCoy of Bad Axe and Charles P. Nugent of Wayne University law school.

Meet the suit that works
3 "Shifts"

"VERSATILE" is the word for Pan American, the handsome Hart Schaffner & Marx suit that's good for 3 "shifts." Wear your Pan American during the day and be prepared for some mighty nice comments on its easy, casual style. Keep it on that night when you're out visiting friends or off to a show... it's smart for your pleasure "swing" shift.

THEN WATCH it look like an entirely different outfit week-ends by the simple trick of wearing the coat with a pair of slacks... or the trousers of your Pan American as slacks with another odd jacket.

NO WONDER so many of our customers say, "What a honey of an idea!" Step in and see what a soft, comfortable, easy-to-wear suiting Pan American is... authentically styled and superbly needed.
