Today's Campus

Come One, Come All

Wanted one good ocarina player! This was the request of Jean Swengel, CDC soldier entertainment chairman, who is planning a series of programs this winter and wants unusual entertainers. All ocarina players, jugglers, tapdancers, etc., are asked to report tonight at 5 in the Little Theater of the Home Ec building for a checkup on talent. Only coeds and civilian students can be used.

Literary Tragedy

Sad was the experience of one of the few and far between men on campus when he attempted to close a window in the basement of the Union annex. His books flew out the window, the gardener-prexcellence of the local grounds proceeded to pick up the book and read it with great interest while the class within howled with laughter.

News in Brief

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—President Roosevelt, taking issue with critical statements made at recent senate sessions, declared today that maybe Russia isn't ready to go to war with Japan because she has something more important to do.

She has knocked the Germans down three or four times, the president said, and maybe if she knocks them down three or four more times they will stay down.

LONDON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Unconfirmed reports from neutral Stockholm and Switzerland tonight said the Germans were attempting to persuade Pope Pius XII to leave the Vatican and take up residence in northern Italy.

Catholic opinion in London, however, was that the Pope would refuse to leave the Vatican voluntarily, no matter how dire the battle raged.

AT THE SWISS-ITALIAN FRONTIER, Oct. 12 (AP)—Benito Mussolini's Fascist Republic government getting in step with the stern measures of the Nazi occupation forces, ordered the death penalty tonight for Italian civilians who fail to feed German and Fascist deserters.

The order was part of a program to quell patriot activities in northern Italy.

Underwood Plans Fall Carillon Concerts

Carillon concerts this term will be held from 1 to 1:10 p.m. each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, and on Sunday from 3:30 to 4 p.m. Roy Underwood, head of the music department, announced today.

Denzil Treber, Lansing senior, will be the carillonneur again this year. She is the first and only woman to play the carillon.

The program selected for Wednesday will be composed entirely of negro spirituals, which will include "Deep River", "Nobody Knows the Trouble I See", and "Little David, Play on Your Organ".

British Get Azores Air Bases

Courses in Varied Fields Planned by CDC Members

Instruction in six CDC sponsored emergency training courses starts tomorrow, according to Margaret Bullon, chairman of classes committee for CDC.

Instructed by qualified students, the courses offer training in airplane spotting, home mechanics, Spanish, lifesaving, Morse code, surgical dressings, and nursery school.

The airplane spotting class meets from 7 to 9 p.m. on Thursdays in room 106 of Morrill hall. The course will be taught by junior ROTCs, who will use model planes and other illustrative material.

Meet in Morrill Hall

Meeting from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday in room 101 of Morrill hall, the home mechanics class will teach its pupils how to make simple repairs around the home.

The class in Spanish also meets from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday in room 100 Morrill hall. It is to be a conversation course, teaching the fundamentals of speaking.

Lifesaving in Gym

Lifesaving instruction is to be given in the Women's gym from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesdays. The Morse code class meets at the same hour on Thursdays in room 15 of the Union annex. Telegraphic equipment is included in the instructional aids.

The class in surgical dressings meets on Tuesday evening from 7 to 9 in the student parlors of People church, and also on Wednesday afternoons from 2 to 5; nursery school classes are at 1:30 to 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Chamber Urges Sales Tax on Congress as Means of Revenue

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—A federal retail sales tax, coupled with rigid economy in government expenditures, was urged upon congress today by the United States Chamber of Commerce, as a substitute for the administration's badly pummeled $10,500,000,000 new revenue program.

Chairman Doughton (D-N.C.) of the house ways and means committee, interrupted presentation of the chamber's tax suggestions to say "I've never been able to reconcile the treasury's argument that increased income taxes would retard inflation, while a sales tax would increase inflation."

The sales levy, however, appeared to have run into a rising tide of opposition in the committee. There were no predictions that congress would pass such a tax.

Profs Attend Discussion

Dean E. L. Anthony of the Agriculture division, Prof. H. A. Berg, of the farm management department, and Prof. L. A. Schoemann of the conservation department will attend a meeting of the Upper Peninsula tourist association at Blaney Park, tomorrow, Friday and Saturday. Post war planning will be discussed.

Tiny Portugal Will Maintain Neutrality

LONDON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Portugal, in an agreement announced by Prime Minister Churchill in the house of commons, today granted Britain naval and air antisubmarine bases in the Azores, strategic Atlantic crossroads commanding all routes from the United States to Europe and the Mediterranean.

The new bases, made available to Britain immediately, will give the Allies valuable aid in the battle against the German submarine menace, expected to rise sharply again as the Allies prepare to invade the continent.

British forces will be withdrawn from the Azores at the end of the war, Churchill said, Britain for her part is to assist in furnishing essential material and supplies for the Portuguese armed force and for the maintenance of Portugal's national economy.

Churchill told commons that the new facilities will enable better protection to be provided for merchant shipping in the Atlantic, and "will prove an important factor in shortening the war."

Although the agreement was announced amid rumors that Portugal, Britain's oldest ally, was about to take an active role in the war, Churchill made it clear that the Portuguese government—in full agreement with Britain—desired to "continue their policy of neutrality on the European mainland and thus to maintain a zone of peace in the Iberian peninsula."

Paying positions as State News carriers on East Lansing routes are still open, according to Jane Walker, circulation manager. Women as well as men will be considered. Those interested should contact Miss Walker at the State News office today.

Red Army Makes Important Gains In Dnieper Region, Nears Vitebsk

LONDON, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Red army scored "important successes" in some sectors today in the great battle of the Dnieper, edged closer to the White Russian citadel of Vitebsk in the north and landed behind the German lines on the Sea of Azov in the south, Moscow announced tonight.

After the Soviet daily operational communique had announced the Dnieper and Vitebsk gains, the Moscow radio in a broadcast recorded by the Soviet monitor disclosed the Sea of Azov flanking move, saying the Russians beat off three German counter-attacks to effect the landing at the southern end of the long German eastern front defense line.

The landing was made by night, Moscow said, near Yalta, 20 miles southwest of Melitopol,

Berlin Announces Allies Abandon Balkan Plan

LONDON, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Berlin radio, despite continued Allied aerial attacks in the eastern Mediterranean and the operations of Yugoslav guerrillas, said tonight that the Allies now had abandoned a plan to land in the Balkans this year.

Berlin conceded that at the time of the Italian armistice on Sept. 8 the Dalmatian coast ports were in the hands of troops loyal to Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio or anti-Axis partisans. The broadcast described that period as the "most favorable moment" offered British and American forces for a land operation in the Balkans and added that an operation "seems to have been definitely abandoned in view of the approaching winter."

Audience of 4,500 Hears Lillian Gish

In spite of the fact that she said footlights were a barrier between the actor and the audience, Lillian Gish, stage and screen star, effected the "greater intimacy" she said she wanted to see between the two parties when she opened the lecture-concert series in College auditorium last night.

Before speaking about the personalities she has met in her work "From Hollywood to Broadway", Miss Gish introduced General Malcolm Gish, the white dog given her while she was touring Scotland in "The Old Maid."

Approximately 4,500 persons heard her tell about the impressions, experiences, and personalities of the "beautiful, witty, brilliant theater" and the "unique art form" motion pictures.

D. W. Griffith, General Pershing, John Barrymore, Garbo, Ronald Coleman, and William Powell entered what she called "The Odyssey of a Trooper."

Miss Gish told of her "debut in a barn" at the age of five in

THE LESS SAID

By NEVA ACKERMAN

THE BATTLE of the sexes is a perennial one and there is scarcely a man or woman who isn't ready to take up the debate for either side. As a controversy this subject has one outstanding feature—it never gets settled because neither sex will concede a point to the other.

The November Esquire presents this problem with a cross section of public opinion on both sides. The question asked the two sides was this: "Do women act crazier over men than the men act over women?"

Even if the discussion doesn't come to any conclusion it at least gives the woman the last word.

In presenting his side of the argument, the man says that women make fools of themselves over men. He further says that any woman asked the same question will agree with the statement with the mental reservation that by women she means "other women." But he says they are all alike.

This is supposedly a part of the three-way system by which women handle men: first, let men talk about themselves; second, flatter them; and third, let them think they're big brutes.

But the male, not willing to stop there, says that a woman has a belt-snatching instinct a million years old. She chooses her men according to what other women think of them, and no man is so dear as the one she has taken from someone else. Once she has The Man she hangs on to him possessively.

He goes on to emphasize that it is on this issue that women really begin to make fools of themselves. This Stone Age attitude makes women look stupid and when displayed over a man they don't especially care about looks doubly silly.

Then the male winds up with these two old saws: "I'll admit I don't understand women" and "men can't get along without women."

Left at this stage the debate may sound bad from the women's point of view but she is not slow to retaliate. First of all she says "Men don't understand women." If they did, they would want them less and get them more. But they don't. So they make fools of themselves.

She bases this argument on two reasons. Men are logical and try to treat love as an engineering problem which anybody knows it is not. They also think and act bromidically. They boast about their "technique" but their "technique" is based on phrases they heard in the movies.

Besides the small group of men whose "helpless" innocence makes women want to "mother" them, men may be classified into types.

The worst offender is the "creaky" type who is convinced that women try to outsmart him and wastes away the romance by trying to prove that she can't put anything over on him.

Then there is the "my-girl-is-different" type who acts as if his particular lady friend has seceded from the human race. He is usually the goat twice by idolizing her too much and then after the glamour has worn off, by condemning her too quickly.

Other types include: the man who falls in love only once in his life and really plays the fool; the man who takes out room-mates and wonders why there's no secrecy about his "technique" in either sector. (This one applies especially to coeds.) Last of all there is the "I want to get married" type who proposes on the fifth date. He will be dyspeptic at forty and takingumba lessons he doesn't want at fifty.

After this knockabout discussion the female really puts over her punch line. In answer to the question "What can be done about it?" she says: "Nothing—only a man would be so foolish as to think something could."

If the argument didn't draw any conclusions it at least gave the woman the last word which is after all a woman's prerogative. Women may continue to make fools out of themselves over men but they can always have the last word.

TODAY MICHIGAN STATE is holding its first victory loan Tag Day under the supervision of Student Council and backed by CLC, YWCA and Tower Guard.

Three times before State has held tag days with successful bond and stamp sales but this Tag Day is to be conducted in a different way. Instead of buying stamps or bonds contributions are to be made for the Spartan Victory loan fund.

The Victory loan fund set up last year is intended to be used for Michigan State men who want to return to school after the war.

This is a drive that all students should be glad to push because it has a personal meaning for all Spartans.

Americans Aided Hitler to Power

DETROIT, Oct. 12 (AP)—Adolf Hitler's rise to power in Germany was aided by American funds from as early as 1923, it was revealed today by Peter Gissibl, one of the founders of the German-American Bund and the first witness in the trial of six defendants whom the government is seeking to denaturalize as leaders in the bund movement.

Gissibl, whose elder brother, Fritz, took part in the Nazi beer hall putsch in Munich and who now is a leader of the Gestapo in Germany, testified that American sympathizers began making direct contributions to Hitler on March 2, 1923. In addition he said dues collected from members of the bund, then known as the "Free Society of Teutonia," were sent to the Nazis in Germany.

After several changes, the name of the organization was fixed as the German-American Bund, he related. Throughout these changes the membership and leadership remained the same.

had weathered the worst of the storm in Yugoslavia was contained today in a communique of the Yugoslav liberation army which announced that partisan forces "firmly held" the Dalmatian coast south of Split. This would place these forces in control of approximately half their country's coast line.

In an attempt to quell the opposition of liberation forces the Germans have threatened to destroy every city, town and village in Yugoslavia and to shoot an unspecified number of hostages, the war bulletin added.

It said this threat had been carried out on the town of Novomeste, which is 40 miles west of Zagreb and 10 miles east of Zumberak. Reporting the complete destruction of this town by the Germans, the communique said "not a living soul remains" there.

A German attempt to storm the important partisan stronghold of Tuzla, 100 miles southwest of Belgrade, was beaten off by columns of the first Bosnian corps, operating under the liberation army banner of Drug Tito, the communique related.

The actress continued with tales of acquiring an education in stations, dressing rooms, and in training of meeting Mary Pickford on tour and of the first movie studio she entered, a Broadway house on 14th street in New York.

Emotions had to be terrific, Miss Gish said, and continued to tell her experiences in learning human emotions. In Europe during the last war she was sent with other actors to watch private and forewells at Waterloo station, to scenes of recent battles, and to the front in France.

Miss Gish concluded by answering questions asked by the audience. She said: "Whatever the future of the theater will be like is in your hands, not mine."

In an interview after the lecture, Miss Gish remarked that she wanted young people to feel that they too could be a part of the theater, that it was not an ideal or impossible.
