

Thanksgiving Day Calls for Prayer and Meditation

By Dee Dearing

"And they gathered around and gave thanks," and since that time we have honored a handful of brave people who faced starvation and death for an abstract, seven-lettered word—Freedom.

Freedom . . . and let it ring. We sing that now, and we will always sing it . . . We sang it long back in the 18th century when we tilled the soil to make our crude homes, when we scratched the unwieldy ground to make our food. Those first years rolled by and we sang, setting aside one day of the year to give thanks because we were free.

And we gave thanks a few years later . . . for the freedom that George Washington and a frozen, enraged, stumbling group of men assured. That freedom could be traced by the bright red blood that glistened on the snow . . . glistening blood that spelled the word freedom. We gave thanks that year huddled around dying fires; we gave thanks with prayer . . . with tears . . . with hopes.

The years rolled by faster and faster; freedom was a big thing now. Thanksgiving was a bigger thing, for tables were loaded, sagging with the delicious food. And the people were happy . . . they were free . . . they thanked God for America . . . a united America.

Then 1861 . . . the year when the word freedom was shackled . . . and we heard . . . war . . . civil war . . . and freedom went through a dark era. The blood that had glistened began to flow . . . first a small stream, uniting and uniting with others until a whole river had formed . . . a river dividing the south from the north. Brother against brother . . . and that year we celebrated Thanksgiving with scorched land, with dead bodies, with the stench of war. But Honest Abe came along . . . Abe believed so much in that word that soon the blood dried up . . . soon the smell blew away . . . and we gave thanks in 1865 for a united nation.

Then came 1918. Johnny went marching away . . . tramp, tramp, tramp, the boys are marching . . . the Yanks are coming . . . the Yanks are coming . . . and in Flanders field the poppies bloomed. But Johnny came marching home and brought freedom back with him. Maybe he came back without an arm, maybe in a stretcher, and maybe in a coffin . . . but he came back and we gave thanks that year.

And this is 1943 and tomorrow is Thanksgiving. We are giving thanks for freedom that started with the Mayflower . . . freedom that has grown through the years until it means our very life. Tomorrow we will give thanks at MSC, at Rabaul, at Salerno. We give thanks because we know that our hopes and tears and prayers will be answered . . . by Freedom!

The use of elbow grease combined with the art of singing has been demonstrated by the students of Professor Patton of the music department. A desire to see the outside world prompted him to buy a bottle of window cleaner as a solution to Help in the B and G shortage. Wanted of helpers. As each student came for his turn he was presented with rags and cloths and instructed to remove the dirt from the inside pane of the window. The results are satisfactory enough because the remaining layer of dirt on the outside or maybe inside the next lesson.

We're on the Run

"Now what shall we sing?" asked Eddie Gable, instructor in home management and child development. The class was the five-olds in nursery school. A dead silence followed for a second or two; then, Eddie Foster, son of Emory Foster, Union manager, piped up, "Please, Miss Gable, let's sing 'Pistol Packin' Mama.' The music period suddenly ended and the story hour began.

House Votes Against Consumer Subsidies Despite Opposition

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—In a sledge-hammer assault upon the administration's "hold-the-line" program, the house late today passed and sent to the Senate a measure outlawing future use of consumer subsidies to hold down food prices.

Amid cries from subsidy supporters that the move would result in inflation, the opposition piled up a rollcall vote of 278 to 117—enough, if the lineup remains unchanged, to override an anticipated veto by President Roosevelt.

Friers to Present Mexican Travel Lecture Tonight

The "world's champion of vagabonds," Bob Friers, will describe his travels through Mexico in his illustrated lecture tonight at 8:15 in College auditorium, according to S. E. Crowe, director of the World Adventure series.

Friers, who has been working as Latin American correspondent for the Booth newspaper chain in Michigan, centers his activities in an area around the Panama Canal.

He began his travels at the age of 12 with hitchhiking and freight rides through the United States.

After he became interested in the "dream highway" proposed to connect Alaska with Argentina, he enrolled in the University of Michigan. He followed this with graduate work in Latin American history.

One of his later adventures was the result of a five dollar bet made by a college roommate that he could not thumb his way around the world. He started the trip with $82 in his pocket, and covered Ireland, Germany, the Balkans, the Arab world.

Marines Encounter Jap Resistance at Betio; Abemama Taken

PEARL HARBOR, T. H., Nov. 23 (AP)—Success of the first American offensive of the war in the central Pacific is assured. Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced triumphantly today.

Already the 27th division has captured Makin atoll. The capture of Tarawa, where the marines have consolidated their positions, is certain. Ambitious forces cracked the beach defenses of both places last Saturday.

The situation at Abemama atoll, 80 miles south of Tarawa, was reported well in hand. The marines' landing there was announced only yesterday.

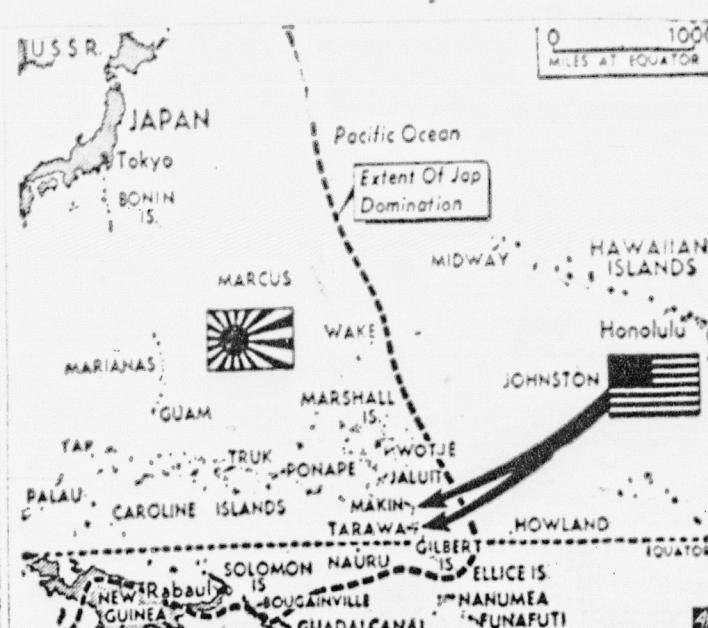

Airfield Available

An excellent bomber field within striking distance of strong Japanese bases in the Marshall Islands to the north will become available with the capture of Tarawa. Fighting on Tarawa was believed to be confined to Betio island, which has air base facilities.

The marines were making good progress on Betio, where it was indicated they had landed on the western end of the islet and had

THE LESS SAID . . .

By NEVA ACKERMAN

STUDENTS will take time out on Dec. 7 to pay tribute to Michigan State casualties of world war II and to honor the other thousands of former students now serving in the armed forces at an all-college convocation, the administration announced yesterday.

This will be the first tribute Michigan students have paid to Spartan war dead and Spartans at war since Pearl Harbor day has been set aside for this commemoration.

The second anniversary of the entry of the United States into the war has seen many changes on the campus in its conversion to a college at war. It has seen most of its men students leave for the service and the civilian students and the rest of them tightened up their school load.

Gov. Harry F. Kelly will deliver the address on Michigan's part in the war effort at the fall college convocation which is the first one of the year and the first one to which all army groups as well as civilian students on campus will get together for a bit of serious thinking on the role of colleges in wartime.

THE University of Michigan usually claims to be the pace maker with the cow college waddling along behind but for once Michigan State can claim to have "beat Michigan."

Following the system set up at State this fall, Michigan is now observing a "lights out" program for the women. The coeds are going to be put under the 11:30 curfew upon vote of PanHellenic council and the Women's Assembly.

The proposal was accepted as a means of saving health and saving fuel.

The plan is a direct result of the recent meeting of the deans of women and housekeepers at Michigan colleges held on this campus a few weeks ago. The housemothers and deans went home impressed and similar plans were considered for the other schools.

The setting up of such a system at Michigan does pose one problem for State women. They can no longer feel sorry for themselves as the only mistreated college coeds nor can they threaten to transfer to Michigan if something isn't done about the hour system.

And they can't say that this is the only college that treats its students "like children." The plan must have sounded good to outside ears or it wouldn't have spread to other schools.

There is one chief point of difference in the two systems. At the University the program is more mandatory. Here women are given more laxity of rules for studying in special study rooms after 11:30 but the M coed is just out of luck if she isn't finished with her studying by 11:30.

RESEARCH by a combination of Michigan State horticulture department and foods and nutrition departments will result in a new brand of pumpkin pie for future Thanksgiving dinners.

The "ersatz" pumpkin pies are made of carrots but look and taste just like real pumpkin pies. The carrots are ground and dehydrated into carrot powder and then baked into pie by a special Home Ec recipe.

It all started because of the ration on canned pumpkin and the difficulty in storing pumpkin on a large scale or for a long period of time.

So the horticulture men and the Home Ec's put their heads together and came up with a ration-free carrot pie.

Carrot pie that looks and tastes like pumpkin pie is all right so long as they don't start trying to make skinny jack-o-lanterns out of carrots.

Allied Leaders Prepare Military Psychological Blows Against Nazis

WAshington, Nov. 23 (AP) — Allied leadership is preparing to logically reach its climax with announcements from a British-Churchill-Stalin conference, though there has not as yet been any confirmation of this. Such an intensification of the arrangements for meeting have been concluded.

Among the other reports of them too substantial to be classed purely as rumors are these:

1. The Anglo-American leaders intend action to be taken further to the territories of the United Nations.

2. Gen. George C. Marshall, when he establishes an American supreme staff command for the final smash-up of the Nazis, will have the cooperation of the Russian command.

German Counter-Attack Takes Ukrainian Towns

Nazis Drive at Flank of Russian Kiev Salient; Red Troops Force Two Gaps in Line Near Smolensk Aimed at Orsha

LONDON, Nov. 23 (AP)—The German counter-attack in Russia, rising to new intensity, wrested several populated places from the Russians after hand-to-hand fighting and savage gun duels in which more than 100 German tanks were destroyed and 2,000 Nazi soldiers were killed. Moscow announced today.

The Russians failed to locate the tanks they evacuated, but the Germans were flinging masses of tanks and infantry in their counter-attacks in the Chernyakhov-Brusilov area in the southern Ukraine.

There, where the Russians had been the farthest west, and have retreated from Zhitomir, the Germans were smashing at the flank of the Soviet army's Kiev salient. Germans Near Kiev

Chernyakhov is 13 miles north of Zhitomir on the Zhitomir-Kosten railway, while Brusilov—mentioned for the first time by the Russians 36 miles east of Zhitomir and only 45 miles west of Kiev—suggesting new German gains toward the Soviet capital.

The Moscow midnight communiqué recorded by the Soviet radio from a broadcast, said the Germans were paying a high price for their assault as Soviet drivers, tankmen and gunners stiff resistance.

Russian planes struck massed German lines "and at times which were continuing at midnight" forced gaps.

But the Germans reported other Russian drives continuing which the Soviet communiqué was silent. The drives, which included in the German line, appeared between Rostov and Mogilev.

The Red Army was said to have made two large gaps in Soviet positions southwest of Kursk midway between Belgorod and Gomel where the leading is continuing."

Meanwhile, toward Orsha, the Red Army, the Russians had four infantry divisions and two cavalry—perhaps 450,000 men—the battle already

Yugoslavs Repulse German Attack on Balkan Front

LONDON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Sturdily carrying on their war of attrition, the Yugoslav partisan army still clung tonight to three islands off Flume after breasting for four days the shock of strong German attacks intended to clear the approaches to that most vital of Hitler's Yugoslavian ports.

This was the center of the fighting on the Balkan front during a day that brought British acknowledgment that Samos, the third important island lost to the Germans in the Aegean along the flank of Greece, had been abandoned.

Fighting spread from the three bloodily contested island—Kik, Cress and Losinj—to the nearby Croatian areas and it appeared that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's main objective at present was to clear the whole northwest Yugoslavia in an effort to open his line northward to Italy.

Allied Planes Hit Jap Strongholds on New Britain

S. W. PACIFIC ALLIED HQD. Wed., Nov. 24 (AP)—Allied bombers have heavily bombed Japanese centers including Gasmata, on the south central coast of New Britain. General MacArthur announced today.

One hundred forty-two tons of bombs were dropped and 35,000 rounds of ammunition were expended in striking the bases, starting numerous large fires. It was the third straight day of raids on Gasmata.

Allied bombers also attacked a 7,000-ton enemy freighter off Kavieng, New Ireland, forcing the crew to abandon the vessel.

Seven Japanese fighter planes were destroyed over Empress Augusta bay, on Bougainville Island where the marines and army troops have established a beachhead. The enemy planes came over to aid a bombing attack on Allied PT boats there.

MacArthur's communiqué mentioned no changes in the situation at Sattelite on Huon peninsula in northeastern New Guinea, where the Australians have been moving against Japs entrenched on a plateau or in Empress Augusta bay area on Bougainville.

General Patton to Retain Command After Apology to Seventh Army

ALLIED HDQ. ALGIERS

Nov. 23 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., who led the American seventh army through a brilliant conquest of Sicily, at the close of that offensive apologized in person to his army for having struck a shell-shocked soldier in a hospital tent in a fit of rage while the campaign was in a critical stage.

The incident led to an investigation to determine whether animosity of his men toward Patton was so great as to impair his usefulness as a commander.

This investigation apparently convinced Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and the war department that this was not the case, as Patton retained his command and was promoted in his permanent army rank from brigadier general to major general.

The incident was disclosed officially by Allied headquarters today three and a half months after it occurred.

RAF Bombers Cripple Berlin in Record Raid

Heaviest Aerial Attack of War Leaves Nazi Capital in Flames

LONDON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Berlin, the heart of the German war effort, tonight lay sprawled, smashed, smoking and trembling after the greatest aerial blow ever struck in warfare—a 1,000-bomber RAF raid last night during which more than 2,300 long tons of high explosives and incendiaries were hurled down on the Nazi capital from its center to the suburbs.

The Allies did last night what the Germans once dreamed of doing to London, but on five times the scale the Germans ever attained.

The record raid on the Nazi capital, which German leaders once boasted never would feel the terror of Allied bombs, was made despite bad weather, and the huge black night bombers of the RAF flying through thick clouds, not only smashed the industrial suburbs but hit government buildings in the great city with their record weight of explosives.

The previous record weight of just 2,300 long tons pounced down on Hamburg last Aug. 23.

Reports tonight from Stockholm said a heavy pall of smoke hung over the stricken Nazi capital all day, and tonight parts of the city still were in flames with fire fighters and other air raid workers, already weary from coping with a heavy attack four nights before, still toiling desperately.

Hannah Cites Need for New Buildings

Since 1929 there has been no substantial increase in the building facilities of Michigan State college, and in a recent speech Pres. John A. Hannah suggested the possible erection of many new buildings following the war.

Hannah listed a natural science building, poultry building, animal disease building, a new physics building, an electrical and also an agricultural engineering building.

Stating that new edifices can only be provided by appropriations from the state legislature and by personal gifts, Hannah suggested that nine million dollars would be needed for the bare construction of these quarters.

He also included additions for the dairy, agriculture, administration, and chemistry buildings. At least one new women's and one men's dorm would be necessary for the expected increase in enrollment after peace plans by Hannah in his speech before are settled.

The last facilities suggested the Lansing Rotary club, Nov. 12, were barns for 4-H exhibits, and also a new recreation building for entertainment of off-campus students.

Sigma Kappa took the volleyball championship last night for the second consecutive year by a score of 29 to 22 over Kappa Kappa Gamma. Both teams entered the championship game with a perfect record for their respective blocks.

The Kappas held the lead by a 15 to 14 score at the half. The Sigma Kappas came forward after the half to take the lead for the remainder of the game.

Competition was keen between the two evenly matched teams with neither team leading by more than 5 points at any time. Sigma Kappa won over the Kappa Kappa Gamma in the championship game last year by a close margin.

The volleyball plaque will be awarded to the Sigma Kappas at the fall term WAA banquet at the end of the term.

North Williams was final winner in block one but was defeated by the Sigma Kappas Thursday night. Kappa Kappa Gamma was the victor in block two while block three was cinched by the Sigma Kappas.

Nazis Strike Back at Canadian Units in Central Italy

A L L I E D H D Q R. ALLEGHE, Nov. 23 (AP)—Charging across a backdrop of burning towns and villages being destroyed by a "scorched earth" policy, the Nazis struck sharply at Canadian units of the elite Alpine corps northwest of Agnone in central Italian sector and pulled off a hard-won victory.

Throughout the rugged inland sector the enemy were bombing and dynamiting roads so he could not carry weapons or his powerful new guns across his defense line. Smoke obscured the horizon as the successive castles of Castel di Sangro, Agnone and Dena burned through the day.

Yesterday's counterattack of those cities evidently was designed to give the Nazi division squads time to complete their task of destruction.

While eighth army units repelled the thrust toward Agnone taken by Montenegro, three days ago, others repelled the enemy from heights overlooking Agnone from the southeast. The tanks were within a few hundred yards of the upper reaches of the town.

On Oct. 25 Oberstleutnant Lege celebrated his 25th anniversary.

We just bet you do, Tojo. Nothing would please you more than to see long distance circuits in this country cluttered with social calls. For the telephone system already is loaded with vital war calls that one by one—are helping build the "road to Tokyo" and Victory.

TO COLLEGE STUDENTS:
We well know the fun of telephone reunions with friends and family at holiday time. But please don't do it this year. War needs the wires never before...and you know the WAR KNOWS NO HOLIDAYS.
