Chief Rogers Resigns MSC Police Position

Richard Rogers, chief of the East Lansing and college police forces since 1940, has announced his resignation effective December 1. Rogers has accepted a position as chief of police of the Midland police force.

In 1929 he started working as a patrolman on the college police force fulltime, while attending classes part time. Rogers graduated from MSC in 1931, majoring in the school of business administration and continued working as a college patrolman.

Combined Forces

East Lansing and MSC combined their police forces in 1937, under one police chief and two lieutenants, and Rogers was appointed lieutenant in charge of the college police.

He maintained this position until 1940 when he was appointed police chief after this position was left vacant by the resignation of Harold Haun, who accepted the job as police chief at Battle Creek.

Attended FBI School

In addition to his college training Rogers attended the Federal Bureau of Investigation National Police Academy in Washington, D. C., for a three months course in 1939.

As yet no one has been appointed to succeed Chief Rogers.

Today's Campus

Campus Casualty

Casualties mounted swiftly in yesterday's military science classes as ROTCs saw an army movie which emphasized the drastic treatment of trench foot. Lt. J. A. Buford had his hands full when some of the audience turned tomb-stone white, gasped for air, and slumped over in their seats.

Moring Daze

An article in one of the State News stated erroneously that Ray Lamphear, new assistant manager of the Union, is a graduate of Michigan (instead of Michigan State). When the reporter attempted to learn Lamphear's reaction to the misprint, he was informed that the man was moving. Much to the writer's relief, he found that Mr. L. was coming from Cadillac to East Lansing—not leaving State because of embarrassment.

Morning Miseries

June McNutt, Detroit senior, was blissfully and painstakingly applying her makeup one morning, only to discover a window washer outside. He even thought it was too dark!

Let's Rally With Pep

Homecoming Weekend Starts With Alumnae Smoker, Pep Rally Tonight

Plans for homecoming weekend will get under way tonight with an alumnae smoker, the athletic council dinner, and the pep rally, according to Glen O. Stewart, director of college alumni relations.

The athletic council dinner in the Union tonight for members of the Missouri and Falcone, associate professor of music, will direct the 60-piece Michigan State band at this time. Joe Holsinger, backfield coach for the past 10 years is also expected to be here.

Alumni guests at the dinner will be George Gauthier and Chester L. Brewer. Gauthier, 1914 State graduate, was the Spartan's football coach in 1918 and is now director of athletics at Ohio Wesleyan university.

Brewer to Be President
Brewer, class of 1903, was director of athletics and football coach at State from 1903 to 1910, 1917, and 1919. From MSC he went to the University of Missouri to become athletic director.

Following the dinner, a smoker will be held at the Hotel Olds for all alumni and honoring former coach Brewer.

Also featured tonight is the homecoming pep rally at 6:45 p.m. After a round-up of students at each dormitory, cheerleaders will lead the group to the west entrance of the Union at 7.

Negotiations Between U.S., Russia Grow

Stalin Indicates Desire For Settlement About Japan, Balkan Issue

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—

Progress toward settlement of Soviet-American disputes over Balkan issues as well as control of Japan was reported by diplomatic authorities today as a result of intense negotiations between Washington and Moscow.

Here are the top developments:

1. It is understood that Generalissimo Stalin has indicated to the United States government his desire for an early settlement of outstanding Balkan issues as a part of the same pattern of negotiations involving Japan.

2. The state department announced that the Japanese problem posed by Russia's demand for an allied control agency at Tokyo is being decided by the big powers alone—that is, the United States, Russia, Britain and China and not by all ten members of the newly-created Far Eastern advisory commission.

3. President Truman announced that Ambassador Edwin Pauley will leave for Japan early this month to develop a reparations program designed to deprive the defeated enemy of resources for making war again. The President indicated that Pauley's mission is aimed at an eventual joint reparations program of the allied powers similar to that worked out for Germany.

4. The Soviet news agency Tass was quoted in reports from Moscow as saying that Russia favors a control council for Japan made up of big four representatives "under the chairmanship of the United States representative" who would presumably be General Douglas MacArthur.

Stalin's views were reported to President Truman and Secretary of State Byrnes by Ambassador W. Averell Harriman following two lengthy talks with the Soviet leader last week. Harriman's report has not been made public but it was learned that the Generalissimo developed the point that the question of Russian interest in the Balkan states paralleled that of United States interest in Japan.

Secretary of State Byrnes speaking in New York last night, sought to reassure Russia that the United States fully recognizes Russian security interests in such nations as Romania and Bulgaria and desires only that the peoples of those nations have an opportunity to choose their own governments.

Jim Kekeris, Missouri 330-pound tackle and Jack Bretlin, MSC's triple-threat fullback, were in rival teams in last New Year's Shrine game at San Francisco.

News in Brief

LANSING, Nov. 2 (AP)—Armistice day will be observed in Michigan on Monday, Nov. 12, Governor Harry S. Kelly declared today.

The governor said a state law provides that when Armistice day falls on Sunday the following day is to be observed as a legal holiday during which government offices and banks shall be closed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—A senate-house committee today called off a scheduled inspection trip to Pearl Harbor in connection with its investigation of the Japanese attack on the naval base in 1941.

Chairman Barkley (D., Ky.) said members decided it would not be very constructive for them to make the trip, at least until some hearings are held here. The group had intended to leave Monday.

LONDON, Nov. 1 (AP)—Britain's labor government tonight reached out for control of all British civilian airlines and a communication network operating throughout the empire in a sweeping expansion of its nationalization program.

Play Rehearsal on Schedule

By JILL LIPPERT

The cast of the fall term play, "Blithe Spirit" is having ghost trouble. Lois Banzet as Elvira and Pat Beechler as Ruth, have developed a "floating walk" to give the impression of ghosts. They are continually moving all over the set to add to the ghostly appearance and to give a marked distinction between them and the "real" players.

When the first wife, Elvira, comes back to haunt her husband, Charles, he is the only one who is supposed to see her or hear her voice. Because of the constant movement of her ghost the other actors have had trouble in ignoring and pretending not to see or hear her.

In one scene, when Charles is talking to Elvira, his second wife is there and thinks he is talking to her. In this three way conversation the timing and Ruth's reactions are very important to get the comedy across to the audience.

In another scene Dorothy Blasco, as the spiritualist, believes she sees the ghost and feels the davenport and part of the room for her, while the ghost is standing on the opposite side of the stage. Position and pantomime must be carefully worked out to get the most out of this scene.

Toward the end of the play some of the scenery falls. The actor's lines have to be timed exactly with the falling to create the right effect.

"Blithe Spirit" in many ways is hard to act out but the characters are enjoying doing the play and director Don Buel says rehearsals are coming along according to schedule.

Peace the Hard Way

President Truman has cited the keeping of world peace as a fundamental tenet of our foreign policy.

Though World War II ended V-J day, all is not yet well on the international front. Peoples, the globe over, are seething with unrest. Indonesian nationalists fight pitched battles with British troops in Java. A Chinese civil war is under way. Europe restlessly tosses and turns in its throes of reorganization. And there are those South American countries that find the establishment of a satisfactory government an illusive undertaking.

Since we have made it our business to prevent a third global conflict, we must become actively interested in the affairs of all peoples. The seeds of wars-to-come are being planted daily. The time is now to tear them out before they grow to maturity and bear more bitter fruit.

Indecision, half-hearted measures, or the failure to take a stand on important issues will surely let war come again. Our state department must be forthright and steadfast in its policies. We want, not peace at any price, but peace in a world of freedom and justice.

To the Editors:
All you loyal Spartans: Yes. State Yippie. It's time again for a big pep rally. The crowd wasn't very large last Friday night, but we had a big game. Tonight, though, we will have even a bigger and better time. It's homecoming week! Have you ever been to a homecoming game? Have you ever been to a pep rally? Come on out and join the fun. It's Spartan spirit time.

The football fellas have agreed to do their part to make this pep meeting a bang-up success. Will you do your part? Come and see the football fellas in action. (We've really made some new discoveries.)

You know what Missouri says: "You've gotta show us." O.K. let's show 'em. We've got that good ole' Spartan spirit—so let's go!

Red Cross Enrollment Opens For Workers

New courses are still being accepted for the Red Cross enrollment course, according to Lou Kinnear, Detroit senior.

The course consists of a background of Red Cross history and fields of activity. It offers training to those women who are interested in organization work, and opportunity for those who complete the course to work directly with the women of Ingham county chapter.

Enrollment is limited to 25 members.

INFORMATION

INTERNATIONAL CLUB

International Club will hold a meeting tonight in the Spartan room of the Union at 7:30. After the business meeting, Lyla Ghose will speak on India. All members are invited to attend.

F & N MAJORS

There will be a meeting of all junior F & N majors Monday at 5 p.m. in room 1 of the Home Ec building, according to Barbara Alexander. The purpose of the meeting, which was postponed last week, is to nominate new officers.

Mad As Hops

By JANICE HOPPS

BE it ever so humble, there's no place like home. And about tomorrow morning, some of us are going to see home done up brown like it's never been done up before.

Of course, we're on the inside looking out probably won't get the thrill out of homecoming festivities that our celebrating predecessors will. It isn't expected. But at the same time when those green and white girls start waving in the rhythm of the Spartan Fight song, I'll bet on State with plenty of odds that everyone puts a little extra pep on the line.

School spirit, on the part of present students and those who have known the song of Beaumont goodbye in past years, can't be beaten at the homecoming game.

A few seniors may remember when this day to honor the alma mater was day of days. The last time was back in '42 when State put on its last real fight for anyone at the Great Lakes game. The game, incidentally, was State's outstanding victory of the season.

The routine of the celebration has changed for the better since '42. That homecoming was more of a last gathering for a lot of seniors who knew that it would be some time before they had another. Compared, then, Alma Mater.

The Alma Mater itself was rapidly changing as a wartime status, reverting way from the MSC, the visiting former students had known. That homecoming was a big occasion, but everyone knew that the smile on every face was a contraction to the frown on every throat.

Tomorrow we'll see a homecoming in the true sense of the word as the great pour into East Lansing from all parts of the globe. They'll be coming back for a good time and just to make sure that the Spartans still fight on. For the most part, they don't know us personally, and we don't know them, but we all have MSC in common.

Students on campus today are going to be hosts for the parades tomorrow, so come rain or shine, let's go all out for the first postwar homecoming. We'll be setting a precedent for our own homecomings in years to come.

An added note on tomorrow's football game refers to another chapter of Spartan spirit, the homecoming game of 1941. The Missouri Tigers were our opponents for that game as they are for tomorrow's. They took us to the tune of 19-0 then, but maybe we've profited from experience.

Since we're on the football theme this is as good a time as any to mention last week's game. The game was superb, but I keep pondering over the half. Was or wasn't a square dance an appropriate salute to a school that's trying to live down the name one college?

Junior Farm Bureau Convention Slated For Tomorrow

Michigan Junior Farm Bureau, with an anticipated 1,200 attendees, will hold its tenth annual convention in the Michigan State College auditorium tomorrow. Roger F. Henning, Junior Farm Bureau director, announced.

The convention will start at ten o'clock Saturday morning with the picking of the contest finalists. Then the contests in speaking, parliamentary procedure, and demonstrations will take place. Following this, the officers for the coming year will be chosen.

Governor Kelly will be guest of honor and the main speaker at the dinner, which will take place at 6 p.m. The nine past presidents and secretaries of the bureau will also be guests at the dinner.

After the dinner a pageant, showing the bureau's ten years of progress, will be given under the direction of C. H. Nickle of the speech department, with Donald Phillips as narrator.

The convention will be ended with a dance in the ballroom at Demonstration hall.

Second Art Lecture To Climax National Art Week at MSC

National Art Week is scheduled for November 1st to 8th, according to the art department. It will be climaxed by the second lecture in the art series on Tuesday evening, Nov. 6, in the Music Auditorium.

"The Graphic Arts" will be the subject and will be discussed by Victor Hammer, a distinguished painter, book designer and printer.

The lecture is open to the public as well as to the regular subscribers of the art lecture series. Members of the Friends of the Library organization will be special guests at this lecture. Following the lecture an informal gallery reception will be held. The members of Beta Alpha Sigma, art honorary, will assist as hosts, as well as ushering on that evening.

The Graphic Arts exhibits will be in the Music building through the month of November. It was arranged by Charles Pollock, an artist member of the art department. A special display of fine books will be shown only on Tuesday evening, Nov. 6.

Tigers Threat To Spartan Aerial Game

Missouri To Transport Huge Team To Play For Homecoming

Chances for the Spartan football team to continue their winning series appeared good yesterday as Coach Chaney said the Missouri Tigers' team had been beaten as a result of the Missouri's biggest players had laid up because of injuries. Among those were 180-pound Neval Piepmeyer, and 230-pound Jim Dwyer.

Those who remained have been excluded from the game are Missouri's 200-pound All-American honoree Jim Kekris, 200-pound giant and Bob Ponsetto, the other remaining member of Tiger eleven.

Other Players Injuries

Michigan's doubtful list included two injured their touch-down runner Lloyd Brinkman, and halfback. Rothered by a sprained elbow, Brinkman will probably not be as effective as would like him to be in the game.

The biggest worry for the Gold and Blue is keeping the accuracy of their passing offensive sparked by left halfback Russ Reader, who leads the team with a 50% average completing 24 passes.

Michigan officials that witnessed the State-Marquette game went back convinced that they would have to do something in a hurry to stop this fast and accurate attack of the Spartans.

Dellastrazio's Rate

Michigan's star hope for the Missoula game is Bill Dellastrazio one of the best running backs in the field. He is a slippery half-back back that is reported to be a match for Breslin. About 180 pounds, Dellastrazio is Missouri's 189-pound punter that has been doing scaling for as much as a yard a crack in last Saturday's game.

On the way the Spartans is 180-pound Jim Kekris, Tiger tackle, who has been the man behind the Missouri touchdowns, opening key holes in the opponents line that stay open. It was Kekris that gave Missouri its 18-7 victory over Southern Methodist by place kicking the ball through the uprights at a difficult angle.

Two Promotions Made

In the Spartan football camp there were two promotions that Bill Krompovich and Harry Becker of the first string. In yesterday's practice Krompovich tackled halfback Russ Reader and fullback Jack Breslin and Becker to the first string. Becker has shown surprising ability in defensive work and has shown exceptional ability in getting the opponent's almost impossible sets underway.

Third Underway

The largest football crowd to ever fill Michigan stadium in three years will watch the Spartans and Tigers battle in the sixth of series between the two schools. It was the Tigers who

British Sugar Beet Inspectors Visit MSC Harvesting

Representatives of the British Sugar corporation visited Michigan State campus from Oct. 25 to Tuesday and were guests of the agricultural engineering department. Prof. A. W. Farrall, head of the department, announced yesterday.

The four men, technicians and officials of the above firm and the National Institute of Agricultural Engineering, spent several days inspecting results and tests of mechanical sugar beet harvesting.

These tests were staged by MSC's departments of agricultural engineering and farm crops, and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. They were centered about an outstanding machine which pulls beets, cuts the tops off, and delivers them onto a truck.

Farrall stressed the fact that Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson has warned that unless sugar beet harvesting is mechanized here within five years, Michigan won't be able to compete with production in other parts of the world.

Dr. Lee Contributes Articles on China For Publication

Dr. Shao Chang Lee, director of the Institute of Foreign Studies, is a contributing editor of "The China Monthly" and is writing a series of articles for it titled "Chinese Literature in Retrospect."

"The China Monthly" is published to help Americans know and understand the truth about China. For students interested in reading it, copies will be found in the assigned reading room.

Dr. Lee's colorfully-written articles show clearly that he is an authority on Chinese culture. The first of the series, published in the September issue, is an introduction to Chinese literature. Dr. Lee says, "Freedom of speech is one of the most precious things that has come down from the Chou period and since then the Chinese have exercised it with reason, which is their guide of life. By exercising this freedom with reason they have been able to express their ideas and ideals not only in verse and prose-poetry but also in books on history, philosophy and government, and in fiction and drama, all of which make up the literature of China."

Real Fight For Broken Jug Expected

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 1 (AP) — Warned by Coach H. O. (Fritz) Crisler that "a single mistake might mean the ball game," Michigan's Wolverines finished off scrummage preparation today for Saturday's "Little Brown Jug" football clash with Minnesota as university ticket officials predicted a throng of 83,000 fans would jam Michigan stadium for the big test game.

The Gophers probably will have four lettermen in the backfield and three in the line," he said. Since the club is classed as the equal of a fine pre-war eleven, one mistake can spell disaster for us," Crisler told his squad.

Defenses Looking Up

The Wolverines' first string, with a revised secondary made necessary by last week's leg injury to Quarterback Joe Ponsetto, displayed an improved defense against second stringers operating from Minnesota formations.

Freshman Fullback Dan Dworski paired with Center Harold Watts to back up the Michigan line in scrummage and Crisler indicated they would be used in that capacity against the Gophers.

May Miss Two Games

Ponsetto, regular line-backer who was withdrawn from the Illinois game last Saturday because of a third period knee injury, is expected to miss both the Minnesota and Navy games.

Tackles Bob Perleth and Bob Callahan, also hurt at Champaign, sat out the scrummage session and probably will see little action against Minnesota. Ponsetto and Callahan were the Wolverines' only place-kicking experts.

State Health Center Gets 4,595 Patients

A total of 4,595 persons entered the college health center during October, according to Dr. C. F. Holland, director. Of the above number, 128 women and 89 men were hospitalized for illnesses or injuries.

Dr. Holland stated that each team following vacations, an outbreak of many common diseases is noticeable. Colds prevail in the fall term, which accounts for the 747 upper respiratory infections treated this fall.

Del Bensen, White Cloud freshman, was admitted to the hospital Tuesday morning with pneumonia.

Indonesian Revolutionaries Refuse to Heed 'President'

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 1. (AP) — British planes struck at Indonesian extremists stepping up their attacks tonight against British forces in central and western Java despite orders from their own "president," Soekarno, to lay down arms.

With fighter-plane aid, the thin-spread Indian troops recaptured most of Magelang, 260 miles southwest of Batavia.

A British spokesman described the situation as "close to war."

A squadron of tanks arrived at still-tense Soerabaja, naval base where Brig. A. W. F. Mallaby was slain Tuesday night.

Leader Tries Calming Measures

Soekarno, head of the "Indonesian republic," met with Dutch leaders last night, and flew today into the interior in a yet unsuccessful mission to make his followers halt the fighting.

Soekarno conferred last night with acting Lt.-Col. Hubertus Van Mook. The Dutch information service here said Van Mook urged cooperation as serving the best interests of all concerned, and that Soekarno presented arguments for recognition of a de facto government headed by himself.

Radio Replies

Immediately after Soekarno broadcast his orders to Indonesians last night, the Indonesian-held Soerabaja radio station replied firmly that "real revolutionaries will not be any means except Soekarno's power talk."

The broadcaster, describing his station as "the voice of the people," asserted it was necessary to continue "killing all the enemies of the revolution with all possible means and weapons."

North Hall Returns to MSC Women After Three Years of Various Use

By DANE OLIVER

This fall coeds again are living in North hall, located at 217 Louis street, and they have completely moved in with their jeans and back-home-for-keeps pictures.

The designers of North hall originally planned to build it as an apartment house with a large court in the front. However, their plans were changed before the building was completed, and they erected a hotel instead. North hall served as the campus hotel before the present Union building was built.

North Hall Gets Women

Later, North hall was changed over for use as a women's dormitory. The last year women students lived in North hall was during the academic year of 1941-1942. Army trainees were quartered in it the following year and last year the dormitory was not used.

The building has been completely redecorated in preparation for the new feminine inhabitants and new irons and a new hair-dryer have been installed.

Two women are assigned to a room and each room contains a double-decker bed and a lavatory with hot water. The warden, Betty Lewis, Detroit, closets have been made over and freshened.

New Teacher Training Plan Put Into Use

A unique teacher training plan has been worked out by the Michigan State college division of education in co-operation with Holt public schools Ingham county.

This plan, begun as a one-year experimental project in an effort to improve MSC teacher training program, will be continued if it is successful.

Under the plan, the helping teacher is employed by the school with the approval of the college, and is paid jointly by the two institutions.

Grace Gutzler, who joined the Michigan State college staff this fall as instructor in education, has been assigned to the Holt school on a full-time basis as a helping teacher.

Teachers Classes

In this capacity, Miss Gutzler teaches demonstration classes to junior high social science classes, which may be attended by both student teachers and regular teachers as well as the pupils. She devotes the remainder of her time to working with the twelve student teachers from the college.

In the past, Albert J. Huggett and Guy H. Hill of the MSC staff supervised elementary and secondary school teacher training in the schools of this vicinity, which are used in the college program. With the helping teacher in the guise of a link between school and college, the administrators will be free to direct their efforts toward special problems.

Plan May Prove Best

Dr. Cecil V. Mcillard, education director at MSC, stated that he believes the new plan will be a great improvement over the plan now used. He emphasized that the role of the new teacher will be to help and not to supersede the other teachers in their work.

Miss Gutzler has had wide experience as teacher. For several years she was on the summer workshop staff of Northwestern University. She has also taught in the Park Ridge, Illinois, elementary and junior high schools. She holds the degree of Master of Arts from Northwestern University.

OPA Prices On Cars to Be Released

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1. (AP) — yesterday that they expect OPA to allow manufacturers price increases, and then fall on dealers to absorb them.

The OPA chief confirmed, however, that dealer representatives had been told that the agency feels they are in a position to absorb at least part of any increases granted.

The purpose of absorption would be to hold prices that the public pays to levels of three years ago.

Bowles also declined to discuss auto dealers' statements

21 Top Bankers Of Germany Arrested

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 1. (AP) — Twenty-one bankers of Germany's six greatest banks have been arrested on charges that they worked hand-in-glove with Nazi party "in a concerted effort to dominate the world," Hitler's armies and help exploit conquered nations army authorities announced today.

Twenty other tycoons powerful banks are sought.

"It seems pretty sure we will recommend trial of men as war criminals," R. A. Nixon, deputy director of the military government investigating cartels.

Acted As Spies

Nixon said the directors of "big six" banks began pouring money into German teams as early as 1933, and during the war "served as virtual tools of the economic and political fields."

He declared German bankers and German industry were interlocked so tightly that it was impossible to separate them, and the concentration of economic power by the "big six" was scope and dominance far beyond anything that has ever been seen in the United States.

Six Banks Named

He listed the six banks as Deutsche bank, the Dresdner bank, the Commerz bank, the bank der Deutschen-Arbeits-Reichs-Kredit-Gesellschaft, and the Berliner Handels-Gesellschaft.

The power of attracting lodestone possessed was as early as 600 B.C.
