New York Deal

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 (AP)—The high command of the United States military today announced that it is preparing to send a few troops to Italy and Romania, but ran into a new deadlock on the question of free navigation of the Danube.

Insurance Agent Advises Veterans About GI Rates

A Ray Krider, East Lansing insurance agent, advised veterans today to keep their GI insurance, at this week's American Legion meeting.

Krider emphasized that the advantage of government insurance is the lower rates, for the same or similar protection. The annual Armistice day religious service of the Legion will be held in St. Thomas Aquinas church tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. The East Lansing Riker Legion Post extended invitations to all campus legions.

Other topics covered at the meeting were the Political Action Committee and the American Legion for Democracy issues, and Legion membership dues to be paid next week. Robert Blot, Legion post commander, pointed out the difference of the opinion on the PAC and AYD.

It's On WKAR Today

Bus Station To Schedule Added Runs

Train Cancelled; Bureau Predicts Good Weather

By BOB ASTLEY
In face of the last-minute cancellation of the special train scheduled to take students to Ann Arbor this morning, the East Lansing bus station announced that it will make every effort to provide necessary transportation.

The first bus is scheduled to leave East Lansing at 7:25 a. m. Additional sections will be added as needed between that hour and 9:20 a. m. when the second regularly scheduled run leaves. After 9:20 a. m., still more sections will be added to meet the demand.

After the game, buses will leave Ann Arbor for East Lansing immediately and will continue running until all passengers are accommodated. Round trip tickets cost $3.45, and must be purchased here. No tickets for the return trip alone will be sold in Ann Arbor.

Where Buses Will Load.
All buses will load behind the Union and Home Economics building on the college drive. Frank DeRoos, manager of the East Lansing bus station, advises students to make plans to board an early bus to facilitate an even flow of traffic throughout the morning.

With the ticket office estimating total greater Lansing sales at 18,000 postcards, Michigan State police officials are looking for a mass automobile migration to Ann Arbor today.

They advise all motorists to exercise care in driving to the game with the suggestion that all drivers keep on the right of the center line at all times and avoid excessive passing.

Traffic Low In Morning
They also advise motorists to allow a minimum of two and a half hours for the trip, and their statistics show that the traffic flow will be between the hours of nine and eleven-thirty.

Finally, they suggest that fans from this section park their cars north of the stadium and west of Division street.

Good Weather
The East Lansing weather bureau reports fair weather with little change in temperature for today and this is expected to continue through the week.

This cross-country route goes many drivers over the Ann Arbor through Mason, thence by Michigan 36 to Pinckney where it meets Michigan 132. That route goes directly to Ann Arbor.

Other possible routes suggested by the American Automobile Association of Lansing include U. S. 16 to Brighton thence on U. S. 23 to Ann Arbor; U. S. 12 to Jackson thence on U. S. 12 to Ann Arbor; and Meridian road south to Michigan 36, Michigan 36 to U. S. 23 to Ann Arbor.

Car In Which Two State Students Died 'S' Students Lose Lives In Crack-Up

This is the remains of the 1941 Mercury coupe that piled into a tree early yesterday morning, killing two State students and critically injuring another. The wrecked automobile is on display on the Capitol lawn.

Two Killed When Racing Auto Hits Tree On Michigan

Two Michigan State men were killed and a third is in critical condition in Ed-Ward W. Sparrow hospital today following a high-speed crash early yesterday morning. A 1941 Mercury coupe, in which the three men were riding, crashed into a tree on the south side of the medial strip near the intersection of Michigan and Center streets in East Lansing at 1:25 a. m.

Two of the passengers riding in the front seat of the car, Edward G. Amos, 22, Yonkers, N. Y. junior, and Theodore Joki, 19, Detroit sophomore, were thrown from the car and killed immediately.

Robert Earl, 22, Ann Arbor freshman, who was riding in the back seat suffered severe lacerations and head injuries, and was removed to Sparrow hospital.

The automobile was judged by a witness to be traveling more than 70 miles per hour when it crashed.

America Cuts Political Ties With Albania

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—The government today announced plans for a new cruise by American warships into the eastern Mediterranean and severed political relations with Albania, one of the countries in the high tension area.

First, the Navy disclosed that three ships, including an aircraft carrier, will sail at Turkish and Greek ports in the next few weeks.

Then, the State department announced that the American mission in Albania is being called home.

But government officials familiar with both events said emphatically they are not related.

The State department said the Albanian mission is being withdrawn because the government of Col. Gen. Enver Hoxha had not agreed to accept as valid all previous Albanian treaties with the United States.

The United States proposed Nov. 10, 1945 to grant official recognition to Gen. Hoxha's Communist-dominated government if it would formally affirm the validity of the pact.

Hoxha indicated willingness to accept all so-called multilateral agreements, ones involving not only the United States and Albania, but other governments as well.

Sliphorn Artist Brings Band Here

That man who plays a scintillating sliphorn, Tommy Dorsey, will stage a concert of jazz along with his 35 piece band on the College auditorium stage Monday evening at 8:15 to an expected packed house.

Some tickets, ranging in price from $1.50 to $3.50, are still available at the accounting office.

Judging from the turnout Rumba King Xavier Cugat drew two weeks ago at a similar performance of popular music, there will be in all probability another sellout for Dorsey.

Vandenberg Restates U. S. Policy In Peace

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 8 (AP)—Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich.) told the United Nations in a post-election statement today that it could count on the whole-hearted cooperation of the United States in the quest for peace regardless of what political regime sat in Washington.

Social Doings At Low Ebb

With a large part of the MSC students hitting the highway for Ann Arbor this weekend, social affairs of the campus will hit a new low. But for those left there are still things to do and the rest who leave for Michigan today will find plenty of social life awaiting them.

The University's big feature of Saturday night will be a semi-formal dance at the Intramural building with Ted Weems and his orchestra providing the music.

Cosets from out of town don't have to worry about formals, they may wear street length dresses.

Dance At Union
There will also be dancing at both the Men's Union and the Women's League buildings, and the fraternities and sororities will hold open house after the game which members of the Michigan State chapters are welcome to attend.

Here on campus the Christian Student Foundation is having an informal get-together tonight from 8:30 to 11:30 in Peoples church. There will be records, singing, and refreshments, according to Eleanor Hommer, chairman of the affair.

Sever Announcements
Joe Boyer announced that the Union Board will sponsor a dance in the Union ballroom tonight, with Mr. and Mrs. C. Housen and Mr. and Mrs. Alan Scott as patrons.

Sunday afternoon the off-campus council is holding a tea for the housewives and one representative from each of the off-campus houses.

The tea will be held at the home of Mrs. Vora Parris, 294 Albert, between 3 and 4 p. m. This is the first of a number of social affairs planned by the council.

The interdenominational student program of the Christian Student Foundation of Michigan State college will be received by representatives from four denominations and the YMCA and YWCA on Saturday and Sunday in Peoples church.

Well known leaders in their respective denominations will speak to Congregational, Baptist, Methodist students.

In addition to group and individual conferences with the students such topics as "The Christian Imperative" and "The Church in the World Today" will be discussed.

Underdog Spartans Face Rugged Task In Traditional Battle

By CHUCK STRATFORD

This afternoon before an estimated 78,000 fans in Michigan stadium at Ann Arbor, Charley Bachman will send his Michigan State Spartans against a heavily favored University of Michigan team in the 39th gridiron meeting of the two schools.

Wolverine Star

JACK WISNIEWSKI, one of Michigan's three top-notch fullbacks, will probably cause plenty of trouble to Charley Bachman's "Flying E" when the Spartans and Wolverines meet at Ann Arbor this afternoon in the 39th renewal of the rivalry.

Today's clash will see the Spartans trying for their first victory since 1937. That year State tripped the Wolverines 19-14 to gain their sixth victory of the series which is regarded as one of the longest and most colorful in collegiate football. Only the war year 1944 saw a break in the traditional hostilities when the Spartans did not field a team.

Working much of the past week behind "closed doors" in preparing the Spartans for the year's big game, the coaching staff came up with numerous changes in the lineup along with something new in State offensive and defensive tactics which are regarded as a "secret weapon." Bachman has ready to spring on the Maize and Blue.

Bring Up '46 Game
Mention of a "secret weapon" recalls to mind the MSC-U of M. battle of 1940. Then, as now, it was an underdog Spartan team that went to Ann Arbor to play Michigan loaded with such stars as Tom Harmon and Forrest Evanshewski.

Bachman had what he termed a "secret weapon" that year and few who saw the game will forget the powerful Wolverines being forced to play right down to the final whistle to eke out a 21-14 victory over a team which wasn't in the same class with Harmon and his lines.

A tiny 150-pound halfback named Walter Pawlowski was the "secret weapon" that exploded on Fritz Crisler's high flying Wolverines that afternoon six years ago, and nearly broke the heart of many a Michigan rooster.

Scored Both MSC Ties
The little fellow scored both Michigan State touchdowns on passes, the second of which he caught on the Michigan 40 yard line under the nose of Harmon and outran "Old 99" over the Wolverine's goal line. Pawlowski up to that time had been an unknown. Bachman sprang him on U. of M. and he became the man of the hour in East Lansing.

Just exactly what "Bach" and his aides have up their sleeve in the form of a secret weapon today is not known even by many of the closest followers of MSC football.

Big Decontrol Move Awaits Truman Nod

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—Only an approving nod from President Truman was needed tonight to touch off a "grand sweep" of price and wage controls, to be followed by the resignation of Price Administrator Paul Porter.

Top level officials who have guided these war and post-war restraints said they expect government price lids to fall from everything except rents and the few foods still controlled, sugar, syrups and rice. Their definition of "everything" notably included building materials and automobiles.

As soon as the White house announces the decision, it was learned, Porter will ask President Truman to let him out at once.

Some informed officials had expected the president to discuss the impending decision at his first post-election cabinet meeting today. However, cabinet members told reporters afterward that there had been no talk about decontrol.

Late this afternoon Senator Johnston (D-S.C.) said after talking with White house that "all controls will be taken off the manufacture of textiles within the very near future."

Johnston told a reporter that "this will mean a great deal to South Carolina because one-fourth of the active spinners in the United States are operated in my state."

Controls of textiles include regulations requiring the production of cloth for certain low cost garments, and material for industrial and agricultural use.

New Guard Unit Will Receive 32nd's Colors

By DAVE ROOD

In an Armistice Day program that will take place in front of the state capitol in Lansing Monday, a color guard of Michigan's new 46th Infantry National Guard division will receive the division flag of the state's old unit, the 32nd "Red Arrow" division.

The program will be broadcast from the scene of the ceremony over the college radio station, WKAR, in a half-hour program starting at twelve noon, and will include an address by Gov. Harry F. Kelly, who will accept the colors and pay tribute to the achievements of the state guardsmen in combat.

General Craig to Speak
Major General Louis J. Craig, deputy commanding general of the 5th Army, will also speak.

The program will start with a parade at 11 a. m., which will proceed to the capitol. The University of Michigan band will play selections until 12, when the ceremony will start with the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

Colors On Display
The colors will be carried to the capitol by a color guard of regular army men, and will be accepted by a contingent of national guardsmen. Immediately after the program the flags will be placed in the rotunda of the capitol for display to the public.

Christian Foundation Will Hold Conference With Church Groups
The interdenominational student program of the Christian Student Foundation of Michigan State college will be received by representatives from four denominations and the YMCA and YWCA on Saturday and Sunday in Peoples church.

Western Technicolor Rates Series Spotlight Tonight

By PAT PATTERSON

After years of reproducing many sections of the world with his camera, Francis Line, one of our nation's leading photographers, will give State students the opportunity of seeing his latest technicolor movie, "Sheep, Stars, and Solitude," this evening at 8:15 in the College auditorium.

He claims that the subject material for this movie taken in western America is equally as beautiful and interesting as anything he has ever photographed in foreign lands.

For 40 days, Line followed one of the most important and most difficult sheep trails in the herd movements of all history. This sheep trail has occurred in central Arizona for over fifty years. Annually, thousands of sheep follow the Heber-Reno Stock Trail, a trail in name only, across wild deserts, snow-capped mountains, and turbulent rivers to reach their summer forage in the North.

Living the hard and simple life of the sheep herders, Line walked the entire distance of the trail filming the trek as he progressed. Besides the actual filming, Line's camera studies of animal and insect life along the way, of desert flora habits, and of Indian tribes encountered, all combine to give an intensely interesting picture of little-known Arizona.

According to Line, the Arizona sheep trail is an American epic and a knowledge of this strange and vital industry of the West is essential to a full understanding of the American nation.

Tentative changes in the Spartan starting line have Ed Schmitt replacing Warren Huxy at left end, 225-pound Bill Baldwin in at right tackle to replace Algie Connor who has been shifted to his guard post due to the loss of Ed Bagdon, and Jim Zito who has won the other tackle job with his outstanding play against Kentucky.

Waldron to Start
In the Michigan State backfield Bachman named Russ Gilpin at quarterback, Lynn Chandross and Don "Tony" Waldron as the wing backs with Frank Waters at full back, as a tentative starting quartet.

JVs Meet 'M' With Short Reserve List

In Ann Arbor this morning, the Spartan JV griders will meet the Michigan reserve squad, at 10:30 on Ferry field.

After drilling hard all week, the Kobsen hope to have two of their major problems solved for this tilt. The first is an adequate pass defense, especially against those deadly Wolverine laterals. The second is the experienced quarterback problem.

Mark Webber who took over that post last week may be a doubtful starter today because of his injury last Saturday.

Further handicap was added to the Spartans as Bob Kiesel got back in playing shape only to move up to the varsity. Earl Clapp, Milford Jones, John Paken, and Bob Miller are other backs on the injury list, while Warren Tipton and Pete Pinkowski are banged linemen.

The lineup will run generally as it has for the past few games. Main changes will be Dick Poole back at left end, Chuck Smith at center, Jim Westby at right half, and either Joe Tarasewicz or big John Gilman at full back. The Spartan lineup:

LT—Dick Poole
LE—Bob Kiesel
C—Chuck Smith
RT—Joe Tarasewicz
RH—John Gilman
QB—Mark Webber
RB—Earl Clapp

Harriers Meet Badgers, Iowa

The Spartan cross country squad, under Coach Lauren P. Brown will compete in a triangular meet today, meeting the harriers of Wisconsin and Iowa on a four mile course at Madison, Wis. The Spartans hold a record of one victory and one defeat in their dual meet competition this season and took second place honors last week at the Loyola Invitational meet in Chicago.

Freshman star Jack Dianetti was the first of Coach Brown's squad to cross the line, finishing

All those interested in trying out for the pistol team are asked to report to Sgt. Crawford, at the State hall rifle range, from 8 to 5 daily and 8 to 12 on Saturday to five competitive scores.

In third place to boost the Spartan tally to 47 points, just four points behind the winner, Illinois. There were nine teams participating.

Next week the Michigan State hill and dale team will compete in the ICA five mile championships in New York City.

'44 Art Grad At NYU Working For Ph.D.

Word was received by the Art department recently that Miss Betty Lyons, who obtained her Master of Arts degree at Michigan State college in 1944, is continuing her work for a Ph.D. at New York university. She lectures at the Metropolitan Museum where, until a discontinuation of special services, she was Oriental specialist. She also teaches two days per week at the Barnard college for women.

Good Weather Predicted For Irish-Army Classic

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 (AP) — Even the weatherman joined tonight in the conspiracy to make tomorrow's meeting of the football titans, Army and Notre Dame, the greatest pigskin extravaganza in memory of living man.

Any possibility that the climactic spectacle would be marred by rain or a soggy field disappeared with the official announcement that the day would be crisp and fairly clear, and that the greensward at Yankee stadium would offer firm footing for the fleet backs of both teams.

The conditions, in other words, will be those for which Army's partisans have prayed. Coach Earl Black had feared that wet going would badly handicap his touch-down twins, Felix (Doc) Blanchard and Glenn Davis, and afford a tangible advantage to the heavier Irish squad.

Record Sell-Out
A crowd of about 74,000 will be crammed into every seat of the big ball yard when the two great undefeated, untied units clash at 12:30 (CST).

Tickets have been virtually unobtainable for many weeks, and speculation in the prize pasteboards has been perhaps the wildest in football history.

Struck by the fever, fans today still were wiring friends in New York to try to pick them up a ticket "at any price." Most of them were doomed to disappointment.

Final Workout
Both squads spent tonight on the approaches to the battle site, Notre Dame at Bear Mountain, a short distance up the Hudson, and the Cadets at Knollwood Country club in Westchester County. Army held its final light workout at the stadium in the afternoon.

It appeared certain that Notre Dame's bright particular star, Quarterback Johnny Lujack, would be able to play the greater part of the game, though it was not so certain he would be at his best. The right ankle he sprained on Wednesday was reported still painful when he pivoted on a run or tossed a pass. In any event, he was not expected to take part in the kick-off, but to enter the a surprise starting assignment and turned in a sparkling performance with his forward passing. Chandross who has been a fixture at right half since the season began, played his finest game of the year against the Wildcats.

State's line will average 202 pounds which will give the Spartans a weight advantage on the Wolverines of from seven to ten pounds in the forward wall.

Mad as "M" War
Up front for the Michiganders, the stoutest lineman will be Elmer Madar a light weight end who is certain for All-America mention. What this under-sized flanker lacks in weight he makes up for in speed and defensive prowess.

Against mighty Army early in the season he was the star lineman on the field.

Big guns of Crisler's backfield are Gene Derricotte, Bob Chapin and Bob Weiss, a pile driving fullback.

These are the men the Spartans will have to stop and that's a big order for any football team, but this is a game steeped in tradition and in traditional games the unexpected is not an uncommon occurrence.

WOMEN'S SPORTS

By ILLIAN RADKE

Favored by good weather the sophomore - junior soccer team has managed to keep its fresh-senior team groveling in the dust with five victories and one tie. Sparked by Aileen Carey and Ruth Arner, the soph-junior squad has kept their opponents scoring to a minimum throughout the season. The last game was an 8 to 0 shutout for the top team.

The situation is reversed, but to a lesser degree, in the close hockey tournament where the freshmen-senior team leads the field with two ties and no defeats against the sophomore and junior teams.

More progress has been made in the volleyball tournament with the completion of another round. Kappa Delta rates top in back one. They downed their chief competitors, South Campbell, 30-23 and are undefeated. Also in the running are Pi Beta Phi and Chi Omega, both winning from South Williams and North Campbell respectively.

Henson-Sanford house provided another victory for Gamma Phi Beta when they lost 12-36 boosting their wins to four, with no defeat. Other victories were made by Delta Gamma over North Williams 44-24, Alpha Gamma Delta vs. Alpha Omicron Pi 42-24 and North Hall 2, Delta Zeta 0.

West Mayo and Kappa Alpha Theta are still on an even level in Block three. West Mayo increased its wins when it triumphed over Kappa Kappa Gamma 34-28, while the Thetas easily overcame Alpha Xi Delta 40-22. In the same block the Alpha Phis were winners over East Mayo 48-29 and Ewing House won by default from Zeta Tau Alpha.

ATOs Plan Touch Grid Contest At Michigan Saturday Morning

Alpha Tau Omega is also entering into the Michigan-Michigan State football rivalry. The Epsilon Eta chapter has scheduled an intra-fraternity touch game with the Ann Arbor Alpha Tau at 10 a. m. this Saturday.

Local intramural manager Russ Crafts feels confident after having won the block championship from the Omega Alphas on Tuesday. He plans to use John Blanchard and Jack Sprague at the ends, Ernie Kerkonen at center, and Bill Gaylord Ralph Mason and Russ Crafts in the backfield.

Spartan ATO reserves will be Dick Masachus Al Martin Bob Wiseman and Hal Wright.
