TODAY'S CAMPUS

Nothing Like

By that knock for details that Philadelphia lawyers furnished but whether this fellow had the bar (legal) we couldn't tell.

Monday night an unidentified party called long distance from Philly to the State News office and requested the following information:

"What time did the MSC-OSU football game start? Are the game run by quarters or halves? What was the halftime score?" We did not ask the timekeeper's last name.

Unwritten News

Every paper makes typographical errors once in a while. But they can often be embarrassing. Did the Lansing State News make a mistake? If so, they have a grudge against college professors? There's a paper entitled Prof. Paul "Bogard" to the "Department of Written and Spoken English."

Fie On She

Supporter writer Joan H. turns up in the Newsweek magazine as an Ex-WAC at New Hampshire University. She says, "I'm getting more out of my studies now (than before the war) and enjoying them more." Which just goes to show you please all the people all the time.

State Blocks Tax Revision Repeal

LANSING, Feb. 18 (AP) — The Michigan legislature today killed Governor's plan to repeal the sales tax. The legislature also immediately urged the legislature to put a general revision to the constitution on the April 7 ballot.

Following slightly his previous statement that the legislature had defeated his plan for the revision of state financial difficulties, Crowe said, "While it's in the legislature, I want to say everything I can to strengthen our financial position. We're not going to let it go today to see where it goes."

DELTA TAU DELTA RETURNS

Omega Alpha Will Go National Feb. 28

By CAL BOLLWINKEL

Members of Omega Alpha, local social fraternity, will long remember Friday, Feb. 28, 1947, for on that day they will become part of Delta Tau Delta, national social fraternity.

Delta Tau Delta was the first fraternity ever represented on the State campus being established here as Iota chapter in 1872. They have been absent from the campus for 50 years. The new chapter will also be known as Iota.

First Anniversary. Omega Alpha celebrated its first anniversary on campus just last month. Organized by a group of men living in Abbott hall last winter, the society leased the house at 335 E. Grand River during exam week of spring term. The 10 member, who moved into the house for summer term, spent some time improving the property. The house was completely painted and the grounds greatly improved. Through the summer, Miss Laura Heminger, professor of English and owner of the property, served as house adviser.

With the start of fall term, the fraternity began active participation in college and fraternity affairs. Non-voting recognition was given the group by the IFC council. They took part in the interfraternity touch football league and at the present time are competing in the bowling league. Officers of the group are: Arthur Stadelmeier, Saginaw sophomore, president; Raymond Pantak, Saginaw sophomore, vice-president; Lawson Brown, Flint senior, secretary; and Howard Gerlaugh, Louisville, Ky., senior, treasurer. Faculty adviser is Ted Kennedy, professor of English and member of Delta Tau Delta.

Conducting the initiatory service will be the chapters of Delta Tau Delta from Albion, Hillsdale, and Michigan. Many of the alumni from Michigan and surrounding states will attend the celebration here, which is to be climaxed by a banquet and dance in the evening. Guest speaker at the banquet will be Dr. Herbert L. Spencer, president of Bucknell university and nationally known labor arbitrator. He is a member of Delta Tau Delta and a graduate of Carnegie Tech.

Other famous Delts who will appear on the speaking program include Thomas J. Herbert, governor of Ohio; Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, senior retired bishop of the Methodist church and former president of DePauw university, and Norman MacLeod, public relations executive.

Marshall Cuts Russia Short On Protest

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP) — Secretary of State Marshall, in a pointed lesson on the American democratic system, today rejected a Russian protest that Undersecretary Acheson had made remarks "crudely, slanderous and hostile to the Soviet Union."

Marshall's reply, delivered to Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov in Moscow, staunchly defended Acheson, as having spoken "in line of duty" in telling the Senate atomic committee that Russia's foreign policy is "aggressive and expanding."

The statement was not volunteered, Marshall said, but was in response to specific questions by a member of the Senate regarding Russia's territorial ambitions and how they might be developed by possession of atomic bomb secrets.

"You are thoroughly familiar with the constitutional system of this nation," Marshall told Molotov, "including the separation of powers between the legislative and executive branches of this government."

In accordance with our system, an officer of the executive branch called before a committee of the legislative branch, is under a duty to answer frankly relevant questions. Not involving a matter of secrecy incompatible with the public interest. Such an exception did not exist here.

The conduct of the Undersecretary, therefore, in answering the question frankly, can not be described as inadmissible.

The Livestock pavilion will be the scene of activity Friday afternoon and evening as the first post-war "Little International" gets under way.

The evening show, "Farmer's Frolic" beginning at 8 p.m., will be open to all students. Activities of the evening include everything from a Broom Pole game between Veterinary students and Foresters to a Bag Square Dance after the show. Marsh's Frolic, chairman, said today.

Main feature of the evening performances will be the Deans Cow Milking contest, with six teams from different divisions on campus taking part. Deans Anthony, Rather, Crowe, Emmor, Henry, and a substitute for Dean Giltner of veterinary medicine will compete.

"They will milk for a three-minute period, and the winner will be the one who has the most milk when the whistle blows," Langelmeier said.

Dogs On Show

Carl Bradford of Wooster, Ohio, famous trainer of Working Cattle dogs, will put on a sheep dog demonstration. Bradford will bring along three collies, all of which are nationally known. The dogs were featured in a 20th Century Fox sports picture, last summer.

Friday afternoon, more than 100 short-course and regular students will compete for prizes and awards in the livestock show. The dairy show will be held in one end of the pavilion while at the other end, classes of beef cattle, swine, draft horses and sheep will be judged. The afternoon contest will begin at 1:00 p.m., Emmor, chairman, said.

Informal Dances Make Up Board's Aid To Weekend

Adding variety to social activities for the weekend, Union Board is sponsoring two informal stag or drag dances Saturday. Party-party, weekly informal tea dance will be held in the Union ballroom from 3:45 p.m. to 5:15 p.m. Edna Mack and his 12 piece orchestra will play for continuous dancing.

An after-the-game frolic will be held Saturday night from 9-12 in the ballroom. Records will furnish music for stag or drag dancing.

Union Board announced that petitions for membership will be ready Monday at the Union Desk. Any student who is interested in becoming a member of the Board may fill out a petition. The blanks should be returned to the Union office no later than March 7.

Students are asked to fill out the blanks completely and be specific in their interests and abilities.

Twenty Listed Dead As Heroic Stories Tell Of Injured

ALTOONA, Pa., Feb. 18 (AP) — A Pennsylvania railroad train, nearing famed "Horseshoe Curve" with most of its passengers asleep, carried 20 or more persons to their death and injured about 117 others early today as it plunged over a 150-foot embankment.

Coming into Bennington curve, two miles west of the Horseshoe in the heart of the scenic Allegheny mountains, the 14-car "Red Arrow" enroute from Detroit to New York, suddenly left the rails. In a matter of seconds it was a mass of twisted steel and the cold clear air was rent by the cries of its stricken passengers.

The railroad said that the dead included 11 passengers, four of whom had not been identified, six mail clerks and three of the four engineers and firemen who manned the two locomotives in the train. The train, over the mountain, cornered Daniel M. Repleigh, said that 22 bodies had been recovered from the coaches and sleepers that lay scattered along the under-covered embankment.

Many were the stories of heroic deeds as the scores of injured were attended in either Altoona's two hospitals or emergency wards set up in the Penn Alto hotel and at the First. There was Rabbi George N. Lieberman, 36, Canton, O., who led prayers in one car. The Rabbi in turn praised the work of a porter known to him only as Jackson for his calm spirit which stopped panic.

Port John Murphy, 18, of Detroit, en route to Camp Hill, N. J., and several other soldiers broke windows and helped a mother and baby to safety. Toler, were told of how another soldier severed several fingers trying to break a window. The left arm of a Pittsburgh girl, identified by her fellow-passengers as just Sally, was pinned in the wreckage but she kept the spirits of others high.

The two locomotives plunged from the rails, tore up several hundred feet of the two west-bound tracks and then dived to a gum tree hollow. With the two engines went a combination coach and baggage car, one diner, and three sleepers. Another coach and combination baggage car and coach coupled over on their sides along the rails while three other sleeping cars were derailed but remained upright. The last four cars of the train—two sleepers, a coach and an express car—stopped on the rails.

His disclosures, made before a packed house of commons, evoked an immediate reply from Winston Churchill, who accused Bevin of "protraction and delay" in disposing of the bloody troubles of the Holy Land.

Bevin told the house that Britain had decided to turn the matter over to the United Nations.
