Moscow Policy Shift
On Pacific Bases
Raffles Marshall

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP) — In a surprise move, Russia has stamped its cordial approval on a plan for American control of the 623 Pacific islands selected from the Japanese mandate Secretary of State Marshall disclosed today.

A Moscow note took the position that the United States would control the islands because the blood was on the Japanese side in the Pacific war.

Contrast Disagreements

The note contrasting so sharply with Russia's frequent disagreements with this country, set the stage for a new conference when he thought Moscow would accept a precedent to justify the Soviet's own postwar land-hungry demands.

Question of Delay

Marshall gave a news conference yesterday in which he made no mention of delay in communication arrived from Moscow.

Policy Changes

There has been no change in general policies of the United States on terms of a European settlement from the announcements of former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes last fall at Yalta and the American position at the 1945 Potsdam conference.

Members Ask

Group To Alter
Constitution

Deliberating that the present Student Council does not adequately represent the student body, Sigma Chi President John Cox last night asked the council to consider amending its constitution.

Notice

Senior graduation invitations and announcements are being ordered now at the desk in the lower lobby of the Union Feb. 28 is the last day for orders, and students are urged to place theirs as early as possible before quotas are filled.

Trailer Residents

To Organize
Community Group

Starting with what might be called a civic council, residents of the trailer section met Monday night to organize the foundation of a community group for their community.

Trailer Residents

Need for this move was expressed by Roy Lamphear, head of the housing project, who states that the trailer community is almost a small city and yet they are missing important social and athletic functions.

Murder, Violence Await Playgoers On Opening Night

'Winterset' Will Commence
Four Day Stand Tonight

By HARR WEIL

Violence and murder are in store for the audience at the opening night performance of "Winterset" in the Fairchild theater this evening. When the curtain rises at 8:15 p.m., the cast, directed by Don Baell, will enact the Maxwell Anderson story which scored a hit on the Broadway stage and in the local theaters as a movie.

Quonsets Open

To Men Living
Off-Campus

With men in Quonset Village transferring to Snyder hall at the end of winter term, space in Quonset Village will be available for a limited number of off-campus men. Stan Kessler, veteran housing director, announced today that the transfer will be made on a first-come, first-served basis.

Students desiring to move into Quonset Village should apply as soon as possible as housing applications for some are still being received from new students. Applications should be made in the Housing Office in the basement of Snyder hall, the campus housing director.

DX Dream Girl

To Hold Sway

Red Cedar Co-op Store

Combats Rising Living Costs

Actual proof that the cost of living for college students can be combated successfully is found in the example provided by the new Red Cedar Co-op store, which is the end of its second successful month of operation.

Although only an idea in the minds of a planning committee last July, the co-operative became a reality on the second of January when the small store first opened its doors. Since then a well-stocked meat department has been added, making the store as completely equipped as any modern grocery market.

College Women Scare Bob Hope From Shows

Joe Callaway, college director of radio education, received a letter from Bob Hope yesterday in response to his efforts to book a radio comedian to air his show from MSC.

"We abandoned the idea of playing at colleges," the letter read, "because we had a couple of bad experiences (squealing girls), and the sponsor became alarmed."

"He thought the program began to sound too much like the Sinatra show and we changed back to regular civilian audiences."

Communications Swamped As Frantic Parents Call

LAFAYETTE, IND., Feb. 25 (AP) — Purdue university, a school with a host of engineering experts on its faculty, set out today to learn the cause of the collapse that tumbled 3,500 basketball fans into a tangled heap from which two persons were taken out dead and 250 others injured.

Of the injured, 142 remain in two hospitals and the university infirmary, and at least nine of them were reported in critical condition.

Bleachers Fall

The bleachers fell last night at the half-time intermission of the Purdue-Wisconsin basketball game as the fans rose to cheer the home team, which held a one-point lead over the Badgers, leaders in the Big Nine race.

Dr. Frederick L. Hoyde, 39-year-old president of Purdue who headed the government's rocket development program during the war, took the lead in ascertaining the cause of the accident. In a preliminary report to Gov. Ralph F. Gates he attributed it to "structural failure of materials."

Used in Football Season

Dr. Hoyde informed the governor that the wooden bleachers, 100 feet long and arranged in a tier of 42 rows, was "bought from a reputable company" and had been used during the football season last fall.

At Indianapolis Governor Gates sent a special message to the Indiana legislature, now in session in which he gave all the information received from President Hoyde on the tragedy. As suggested by

Although Spartan students have no need to fear a repetition of the Purdue university fieldhouse disaster when they fill the bleachers at Jensen fieldhouse, E. E. Kinney, B and U superintendent stated yesterday, MSC fans can be doubly sure by cooperating in bleacher etiquette.

New Bleachers Coming

Additional bleachers for use in Jensen fieldhouse are expected sometime in March, B&G Director Kinney stated. These bleachers will be used on the north and south sides of the fieldhouse, and will be suspended from the balcony.

APO Formulates

Plans For Sing

Plans for the eighth annual Interfraternity sing are being made by the sponsors Alpha Phi Omega. The event is scheduled for Monday, May 12 in the bandshell. Invitations have been sent to all social fraternities. Entries must be turned in to the sponsors by March 8. Each fraternity is limited to three songs of fraternity origin, not including the "Alma Mater" or "Fight Song." Another requirement is that the three songs must not consume more than eight minutes.

THE FLOOD

Bulletin: Bleacher Crashes

By BILL JOHNSTON

Most news breaks which rate a "Bulletin" or "Flash" report over Associated Press teletype printers manage to occur at a sensible hour for newspaper editors—an hour or two before copy deadline. But now and then, although Hollywood would have us believe that it happens all the time, late news breaks occur which cause profane mutterings throughout newspaper offices.

Not that hard-litten editors are unemotional to disasters such as the Purdue university bleacher crash Monday evening. But after going through many reports of murder, war, revolutions and just plain death in the course of a normal newspaper evening, all news becomes rather impersonalized.

Thus, when the first "Bulletin" on the Purdue-Wisconsin cage game bleacher collapse at Lafayette came over the wire Monday evening, we have to admit that our first thought was one of inconvenience. It meant that the front page had to be reshuffled.

But as succeeding "Bulletin" matter came through, the terrible drama of the bleacher collapse and its relations to our field house bleachers drove out all thoughts of inconvenience.

The first report Night Editor Bob Astley received came through just before 10 p.m.:

BULLETIN
LAFAYETTE, IND., FEB. 21—FAST BLEACHERS IN PURDUE FIELD HOUSE CRASHED TO THE DIET FLOOR TONIGHT, INJURING SCORES OF THE 4,500 SPECTATORS CROWDED INTO THAT SECTION. THE ACCIDENT OCCURRED BETWEEN HALVES OF THE PURDUE-WISCONSIN BASKETBALL GAME. (ED: PLEASE PICK UP BULLETIN MATTER) A433PES

Then followed bulletin paragraphs to be added to the bulletin board. Astley waited until a rewrite story on the bleacher tragedy was filed about 10:30. At 12:30 Tuesday morning, while Astley was making up the front page, Pat McArthur, another State News editor, brought to press a late rewrite filed through the Chicago circuit.

The last story stated that at least two students were killed and possibly five. This necessitated a further change in copy. However, Astley would feel proud that his issue of the State News contained probably the latest Purdue disaster news in any Michigan morning newspaper.

Purdue university seems to have had more than its share of athletic accidents. According to Ralph Young, Spartan athletic director, Purdue had another front page disaster about 11 years ago.

An inflammable tape-remover exploded in the training room of the Purdue football team during pre-season practice, killing two grid stars and severely burning many more. The accident occurred in a temporary building at the Purdue training camp, away from the campus.

And in 1908, a special train loaded with Purdue university students going to an Indiana football game at Bloomington, was wrecked enroute. Twenty grid players were killed and many students injured.

Jenison fieldhouse is almost an exact replica of the Purdue fieldhouse. In fact, our athletic center was modeled after theirs. Jenison is approximately 25 feet longer, however. The bleachers in Jenison fieldhouse are only 15 rows high, while those at Purdue are 42 rows from bottom to top. Compare this with Macklin Stadium, which is only 46 rows high.

Wooden bleachers 42 rows high should have caused raised eyebrows among Purdue university officials long before this. But in spite of all safety measures, even a five row high bleacher stand can collapse. It all depends upon how the bleachers are used.

Spartan fans can do themselves a favor by observing a few simple precautions when sitting on the bleachers in Jenison fieldhouse. Don't sway, don't jump, and don't rough-house on the bleachers, and the wooden stands will do their part in giving you an enjoyable evening.

32 Will Join

Delts Friday

At Ceremony

Thirty-two actives of Omega Alpha, local social fraternity, will be installed as members of Iota chapter of Delta Tau Delta, national social fraternity, Friday morning in the Brown Room of the Hotel Olds.

This is the highlight of the installation program which will begin Friday morning with registration and conclude Sunday afternoon with an open house at the fraternity's chapter house.

Representatives from all campus fraternities and sororities, student organizations, faculty members, and representatives from the State Board of Agriculture have been extended invitations to the installation ball.

Friday evening an installation banquet and ball will be held in the Grand Ballroom of the Olds. Present will be members of Delta Tau Delta from all over the country plus many distinguished guests including Governor Kim Sigler and State Treasurer D. Hale Brake who is a Delta alumnus.
