Bus Company Alters Kalamazoo Schedule To Add To Services

Vets From Harrison Area Drop
Service Commission Petition

By DWIGHT JAREL

James A. Gibb, president of Inter City Coach Line, announced Friday revision of the new schedule, effective Sunday, June 22, on the Kalamazoo-Harrison bus line servicing large students living in the trailer-quartet-apartment area.

The original schedule which went in effect Sunday provided service from 7:15 to 8:15 a.m. with service then interrupted until the afternoon hours from 4:15 to 6. At 6 p.m., bus fares are again stopped until 9:15 with buses then running until 11:50 at night.

Revised Schedule
The revised schedule provides for an additional three buses leaving Kalamazoo street and Harrison road at 10:00 a.m., 12:05 and 2:05 p.m. (See Revised Schedule on page 2)

Inter City Coach line officials expressed hope that the added service would meet the demand of downtown shoppers from the college home area, but R. D. Lamphier, manager of married housing, said the added service would not solve student inconveniences caused by lack of bus facilities from 6 to 9:50 at night.

Lamphier said he hoped bus service would be provided for students taking in Lansing stores and movies during evening hours.

Immediate plans for petitioning Michigan Public Service Commission for a hearing regarding an increase in the new schedule now in effect have been reported dropped for the time being.

A spokesman for the protesting student group said a bus was provided at 7 or 7:15 p.m., a majority of students would consider the schedule adequate enough to meet the needs.

Talking to Registrar R. S. Falt, he said:

"I go to an enormous amount of work to work out a hand showing the difficulties of registration, and then go and get nation-wide publicity on how easy it is at Michigan State."

Brazilian Soprano To Sing
Tonight In Folk Concert

By FLO BELINSKY

The second program of the summer school lecture-concerts, featuring Olga Coelho, Brazilian soprano, will be presented in Fairchild theater at 8:15 p.m.

Miss Coelho, an accomplished interpreter of Brazilian songs, plays her own accompaniment on the guitar.

An enthusiastic audience welcomed the first concert of the summer Monday night in Fairchild theater when they heard Josephine and the Chicago Song Ensemble in a program of songs and semi-classics.

With Dance
The ensemble opened the program with the "Dance of the Celts," by Smetana. Miss Coelho then sang three songs: "The Nightingale," by Debussy; "Non so piu," from "Marriage of Figaro," by Mozart; and "Caro Nome," from "Lohengrin," by Wagner.

The ensemble closed the concert with a group of five selections: "Duet from the Ballet Suite 'Les D'Amour,'" by Glazounov; "Perpetual Motion," by Debussy; "The Last Spring," by Liszt; "Pavane," by Debussy; and "The Last Spring," by Liszt.

For the first time, the language department is offering intensive courses of study each the 12 week and six week sessions. First year courses in French, Spanish, and German are given in the 12 week session, while second year courses are given in the six week session.

$10,000 Gift To Become Trust Fund

Total Donations
Reach $16,000

Rep. Jesse P. Wolkott, from Michigan's 7th congressional district, topped the list of donors as the State Board of Agriculture met Thursday.

Representative Wolkott, of Port Huron, received the Collier's 1946 award for distinguished Congressional service, and turned the $10,000 award over to Michigan State.

Permanent Fund
The $10,000 is to be invested by the college as a permanent trust fund, the income to be used each year for payment of the Wolkott scholarships.

The awards will be made available yearly to at least two students who are residents of Michigan, at the beginning of their sophomore years. The students will be selected by faculty scholarship committee and the Dean of the Basic college on the basis of need and demonstrated ability.

Other gifts received by the State Ag board include $1,400 from the Research corporation of New York city for the continuation of the Frederick Gardner Cottrell grant for research on the ionization produced in gases by electrons of energies less than 2,000 electron volts. The physics

Dancing On the Union Board

Date night and the Union board dance brought together Evelyn Van Steenburgh, Rochford, Illinois, junior, and Dan Gies, Cleveland Heights sophomore to sample the Joe Cappa rhythms. Norma Lou Brady, Grand Rapids junior, and Charles Berry, Grand Rapids junior, are the "out-of-the-world" couple working their way past the band stand.

Summer Dance Session Lacks Student Support

By ARNOLD BRANNEN

Joe Cappa and his orchestra opened and closed the Union board summer orchestra dance session Friday evening, with less than 60 couples present. The lack of response will effect the proposed record dances for the remainder of the short session, according to Leslie Scott, Union manager and Etyle White, director of activities.

The loss on the dance will be covered by the Union board funds but this policy is not to be continued as in previous summer sessions due to the heavy union building program.

No Response
The lack of enthusiasm shown by the student body will cause a revision in the activity schedule of the social director. The reduced membership of Union board was held pressed on the original schedule, but now will have an easy job, Scott said.

Peg Farrall, East Lansing junior, and member of Union board executive council, felt that the lack of student participation may have been due to the early date.

Week-End Events
The events set up to answer requests for weekend entertainment met with half-hearted response and disinterest. The response to the next affair will determine the policy for the remainder of the semester.

A meeting of the Union board members is planned to discuss the situation.

The new Union annex will contain many of the recreation answers for the student with bowling, billiard room, card and game rooms. The browsing library is planned in conjunction with the 105 foot mixed lounge above a similar sized main lobby. Art and music rooms will be available in the new structure.

The library will be open from 7:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. from Monday through Friday and from 7:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturdays. The assigned reading room will be open until 5 p.m. on Saturdays.

Denison To Supervise Michigan State Press

College To Publish Textbooks; Plan Will Be Self-Sustaining
James H. Denison, administrative assistant to Pres. John Hannah, has been named as first director of the newly established Michigan State College Press by the State Board of Agriculture, governing body of MSC.

The Press was established by the State Ag board at its meeting last week. It will publish and sell textbooks, journals and other publications.

The Press will limit its publications to instructional material, such as laboratory manuals and syllabi, developed by faculty members for use in their classes.

To Use Printers
It is hoped to expand the activities of the Press into more general fields. The Press does not contemplate the development of its own printing plant, but will rely upon the services of commercial printers. Secretary Karl McDowell stated.

The general policies of the Press will be established by a faculty committee. Philip May, college controller, Jackson E. Towne, librarian, and Dean Ralph Huston, of the graduate school, will be members of the committee.

Each of the seven undergraduate schools will also be represented. Denison will be chairman of the committee.

Basic Material
Much of the material which will be handled by the Press is being developed for the Basic college, and represents pioneering in higher education. Many other colleges have followed the lead of State and established courses of study similar to those required in the Basic college. These schools may constitute a substantial market for textbooks developed here.

The Press is expected to be self-sustaining financially.

Many of the major educational institutions in the country carry similar enterprises, to extend their services to the public, and to provide outlets for scholarly material which is of little interest to the commercial publishers.

Hunt For New Office
Specific studies with which the "Summer Council" is charged include finding a new student council office, surveying campus organizations with a view to eliminating inactive groups, and surveying the local tax rate structure.

The tax rate survey is being undertaken as a result of continuing complaints that students have been asked to pay widely varying tariffs for rides over identical routes, or routes of the same distance. The possibility of an appeal to city officials to compel installation of meters has been discussed at previous meetings.

Chief Pegg Warns Campus Drivers
Police chief Charles Pegg issued a warning to campus drivers yesterday when he reminded faculty employees, and students that all cars must be registered with the college police department.

Summons will be issued to motorists beginning June 30, he said. Only new students with cars, or others driving on campus for the first time, should be affected, as old registration tags will continue to be valid until fall term, when new regulations regarding vehicles on campus will require complete re-issuing of permits.

Enrollment Gains
Shown In Short Course Institute
During the second year just ended, the attendance in short courses increased 47 per cent over the previous year, according to Ralph Tenny, director of the institute of short courses. The college handled 7,783 persons in short courses and conferences compared with 5,281 the previous year.

General short courses in agriculture and home economics, attended by 373 students, an increase of more than 50. Training courses, such as those operated for elevator and farm supply, farm equipment and service, forestry practice, landscape management and floriculture, showed an increase from 81 to 189 students.

Special courses enrollees increased from 207 to 256, and conferences for which there was special instruction and registration attendance jumped from 4,352 to 6,833.

School Maintenance

The 14th annual public school maintenance conference opens at MSC tomorrow. It will be broken up into four groups of public school personnel.

Highlights of the conference will be a talk by football coach Biggie Mann, and the speech of E. Glenn Featherston from the United States Office of Education in Washington.

Lamentations

Citizens Learn Democracy

By JERRY KENNEY

Nine hundred Michigan high school students, aged 16 and 17, have now completed one of the finest training schools in practical democratic government that can be found anywhere.

The youths were citizens of the tenth annual Wolverine Boys' State which wound up its activities last Friday after eight days of political campaigning and legislative activity.

The boys were selected to attend Boys' State by their high school principals and teachers, and are sent to the state by local Legion posts and service groups like Kiwanis and Rotary. The Michigan department of the American Legion sponsors Boys' State. The activity is also held in some 10 other states.

As an experiment in democracy, Boys' State works remarkably well. It is reassuring for those who can watch the young citizens perform. They are divided into two political parties upon their arrival and then move swiftly through no number of conventions to city, county and state elections. Membership in the two parties, Athenian and Trojan, is evenly divided among the boys, yet the elections are seldom close. This year the Trojan party won all the state offices and most of the city posts besides.

The only Athenian party member to hold a major post at Boys' State this year was the lieutenant governor, Ray McNamee, a Negro from Detroit who had a larger plurality than any other official. The governor was Roy Milton Goethe, an Ishpeming lad.

The chief measure that the legislature of the "19th state" considered was a resolution favoring compulsory military training.

Perhaps to show its independence from the American Legion, the house of representatives first passed a resolution opposing UMT. Later in the week, legislation favoring the compulsory service passed both the house and senate.

Every citizen of Boys' State has a post of some nature, from governor down to city fire chief. Each of the citizens is fully aware of his civic responsibility and well he might be, for Boys' State "state police" and county sheriffs are on constant look out and city and state courts abound. Punishment upon conviction for crimes, like forgetting to wear an identification badge, range from 15 minutes to an hour in the handball courts in the basement of Jenison gym.

Nightly assemblies, daily swimming and softball are sandwiched between meetings of government groups to provide a full schedule for the citizens.

The most unfortunate feature of Boys' State is that the number who can attend must be limited. Training in practical democracy and friendly living such as the citizens receive would be cheap at any price. It represents a remarkable testimonial to the American system that 900 high school students can elect capable leaders and then govern themselves with good will, good sense and good judgment.

The history of mankind is little else than a narrative of designs which have failed and hopes that have been disappointed.

Parke-Davis and Company of Detroit also gave $1,400. The gift will be used for the continuation of research work in the department of chemistry on physical-chemical problems.

The Michigan Association of Farmers' Cooperatives of Lansing provided a grant to be used by the department of sociology and anthropology to analyze the membership relations problems faced by farmers' cooperatives.

The Great Lakes Steel corporation gave the college the unassembled parts of a quonset hut. The structure will be used by the school of agriculture as a bull barn and research laboratory.

Botany Research Fund

Other gifts included $600 from the General Chemical corporation for botany research work on plant pathology. Money was also donated for research work by the soils science department and the horticulture department.

The Michigan Blueberry Growers' association of South Haven also provided a grant for a graduate fellowship in the entomology department to conduct a study of the insect fauna of blueberry plantings.

TO the Editor

We wish to thank all those who participated in the Austrian Clothing drive last term.

Through the cooperation of East Lansing residents, who sent donations to Newman house, and of students from the dormitories, fraternity and sorority houses, Catholic students on campus collected 70 bags of wearable shoes, suits, and dresses to be sent overseas.

The great success of this drive reflects the liberal and sympathetic spirit of the donors at a time of human suffering and is a credit to Michigan State as a whole.

The Newman Club

Art Student Show Features Exhibition

"...Twixt Cup And Lip"

Chick Harbert, Battle Creek pro, is shown above swinging the club for a bogey five in the third round of the National P.G.A. tournament at Plum Hollow. Harbert went on to win and advanced to the final where he meets Jim Ferrier. In Monday's semi-final round Harbert eliminated Vic Gherst, 6 and 5. Ferrier tied an old P.G.A. mark by blasting Art Bell, a Kansas City "unknown", 10 and 9, in 27 holes.

Paces MSC Golf Tourney

Don Van Time
Shoots First
Nine In Par

By HILL GABLE

Freshman Don Van Time jumped into the role of pacesetter for the Michigan State delegation to the NCAA golf championships at Ann Arbor. In the first 18 holes of the 36 hole qualifying round, Don fired a five over par 77 on the 6,000 yard course.

Van Time went out with a brilliant par 36 to lead the field but ran into trouble on the back nine and was forced to settle for a 41. Van Time's chances for gaining a berth in the 64 man match play championships remained high as he fell only five strokes off the pace.

Spartan Brien Charter had just the opposite luck of Van Time. Charter bogied going out, turning in a 41, but romped through the back nine with a two over par 38 for an 18 hole total of 79.

A third State entry, captain Ben Billing was in trouble throughout the entire round and finished with a high 87. Bob Tansey and Duncan Fisher, the one-two punch on the Spartan squad, have yet to turn in scores. Both men shoot consistently in the seventies. Stanford, the defending champion, took an early lead in team scores with a four man total of 364. Michigan was not far behind with an unofficial 310.

Two freshmen, Bo Winniger, of Oklahoma A&M, and Bob Harris, of San Jose State, led the 303 man field with first round scores of par 72. Charley Lind, of DePaul, last year's runnerup and this year's favorite, was close on their heels with a 73.

The qualifying round ends today to determine the team championship. Individual match play starts Thursday with the first round being played Sunday.

Frost Fighter Meets Acid Test With Ease

By EIL RACETTE

The agricultural engineering department of Michigan State college is declaring open war on "Jack Frost." The supreme commander, in charge of "Operation Frostbite," is F. J. Hassler of the college's agricultural engineering department. Main offensive weapon of the operation is the infrared ray machine, developed by the authorities of the department last year.

It was revealed yesterday that the first real test of the machine was conducted in the MSC apple orchard during the heavy frost in mid-May.

Operational Tests

Operational tests had been carried out, on the three test units, the college has built, during the winter months, but the machine received its acid test under battle conditions last month. The three units were placed in the college orchard for three nights. Protect An Acre.

Frost formed on all the leaves and buds in the orchard except the three acres protected by the Frost Fighters.

"Commander" Hassler stated yesterday that plans to accelerate perfection of the unit are of utmost importance. It is the desire of the department to produce an effective unit for the farmer. We are looking forward to placing the machine on commercial production, but there is no intention to do so until it has been completely perfected.

WKAR Asks For Talent In Drama

Experience Is Prerequisite

Students interested in taking part in radio dramatic shows over the college station should see J. Kenneth Richards, production supervisor. Richards' office is located in the auditorium building just above the main studios.

There are several dramatic parts that need filling during the summer months. They include juveniles, mature men and women, and some character roles. No dialects are required.

To qualify, persons must have some previous experience either in stage or radio dramas. Do not apply unless you have a background in one of these fields.

Richards is not interested in training talent, but will be glad to help those who show definite ability and interest. Work in the dramatic shows at the college station is offered only to those who have plenty of time for extra work during the summer months. All dramatic acts, at the college station, are non-remunerative.

Richards will be glad to interview all who are interested at his office any afternoon between 2 and 4:30.
