Crittenden Announces Point Plan

Dale Crittenden, Flint junior and Student Council member, released last night a draft outlining a proposed system which would limit the number of activities in which a male student could participate.

This draft, if put into action, would automatically set up point evaluations for student activities and have a maximum number of points per student according to his year in school.

Crittenden has been working with a committee composed of

Student Council members Arnold

Branderup, Lansing junior, Bill

Staples, Jackson junior, and Fred

Hoffman, Benton Harbor junior.

Men's Council Next

The committee recommended that the draft be given to the Men's Council for polishing and then to the Student Council for approval.

Under the proposed system,

freshmen could accumulate 75

points, sophomores 90, and juniors

and seniors 105 and 120

points respectively.

The top time-consuming possition rate is A plus and count 80 points. These are managing, as includes sports and picture film

for the State News, editors and business managers of the Wolverine and Spartan, and president of the Student Council.

Activities Classified

Position A is worth 60 points

and covers presidents of IFC

Union Board, USA Men's Council

and all the members of Student Council.

The other letter ratings are B to points C-30 points, and D-20 points.

Open Letter To The Athletic Council

Dec. 18, Michigan State 43—Michigan 38.
March 6, Michigan State 28—Michigan 69.
That is the record of Michigan State's basketball fortunes during the 1947-48 season.

What is the story behind this fall from grace?

Somewhere something went wrong with a team that might have been headed for national honors. The Spartans won five out of their first seven games. They almost beat one of the nation's top teams when they were edged out by Kentucky in mid-season.

Since that time the season was a nosedive, except when they came up for breath once and beat Notre Dame. The fans knew something was wrong at the DePaul game here.

The demonstration was—in part a protest against notoriously poor officiating; but there was a striking parallel with the conduct of the fans during the 1946 football season. There was a definite demonstration of the loss of confidence in team and coach.

Despite the clamor for coaching changes that post-war student bodies have made all over the country, there are a couple of considerations. One is "Being a good loser." We don't think a charge of poor sportsmanship can honestly be leveled at Michigan State fans. They are credit to the college.

Another is the question: "Why can't we have a winner?" We don't believe in the win-or-else philosophy. The students simply want to feel that the five best basketball players at Michigan State and the best available coach are working together to represent the college on the basketball court.

A lot of them don't feel that this has been the case during the past season.

Unfortunately for Coach Van Alstyne, the team looked better when he wasn't coaching it.

The story has persisted that the team was looking for leadership all season and did not find it in Van Alstyne.

Coach Van Alstyne has had a good record since he took over in 1937. Top-flight basketball coaches are admittedly scarce. Even the best known basketball coaches are probably anonymous when compared with top football coaches. Coaches with "good" records are not cut loose at the drop of a hat.

But the matter stands. The basketball season is over. Planning for the next season must start immediately. It is up to the Athletic council then, to consider these things:

1. Are the team-coach relations what they should be?

2. What happened to a team that could beat Michigan by five points at the beginning of the season and lose by 11 points at the season's end?

3. Is a new basketball coach the solution?

The student body is awaiting the answers to these questions.

clude class presidents, Union Board directors and members of all varsity athletic teams.

Members of minor athletic teams, presidents of social organizations and class officers other than president receive a "C" class activity chairman; all campus organizations and members of band, orchestra or glee club rate in "D" class.

Crittenden stressed that under the plan students may be members of any number of clubs exclusive of the ones named above, but could not accumulate more than the maximum number of points allowed.

If this activity point system goes into effect, it would require supervision of the type done by AWS for the women students. It would, probably be a duty of Men's council, Crittenden said.

Stanley E. Crowe, dean of students, said yesterday that the Men's Council should continue only if they have a definite thing to handle such as an activity point program.

Dale Faunce, assistant dean of men, believes that the proposed program should not be placed in action before fall term of 1949. He believes the system will strengthen organizations, improve the students' glasses and produce more leaders.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

To the Editor:

The recent decline in commodity prices on the Chicago market is having spectacular effects in East Lansing. Certain items are now selling over the counter in the Union cafeteria at below zero prices.

Peas, for example, were recently being offered at the unheard-of low price of minus 13 cents a pound.

This may make haste to point out, is not the regular sale price of 16 cents as a saving to those who indulge in the Blue Seal Peanut Special? Recently the writer of this letter who objects to the bill, pointed out to the manager of the Blue Seal that butter was twice as expensive as margarine.

The real issue which faces Lansing and Washington is whether margarine and butter shall be allowed to compete fairly each with the other product.

The question is asked, "But makers always color their product, why shouldn't oleo manufacturers color theirs?" The answer is simple. Butter is colored as a means of standardization, not to imitate another product.

Color vision experts tell us the human eye can distinguish more than 10,000 colors and shades. Is it strange when there are 10,000 colors to choose from oleo manufacturers would not like to take Butter Yellow?

Now the Jaxson colored oleo is so primitive or discriminatory. It is simply a means of protecting smaller firms unfair competition from those who would enter the trade mark.

Ray O. Zeiter

To the Editor:

In the past few months the margarine industry has spent millions of dollars in an attempt to repeal federal and state laws to repeat federal and state laws.

So cleverly worded is this mis-information that many editors of progressive publications have added their voices to the campaign.

This editorial is typical of all other propaganda in that it con-tinues the issue by quoting facts.

Jamaica Team Fences Top Wayne, Detroit Aims At Four In Season's Final Dual Meet Olympic Titles

By G. BROWN

DETROIT—Jamaica fencers defeated Wayne Saturday by winning 20-12, ending the season's final dual meet.

The Jamaicans, following a score of 15-12 while Detroit second, were second in the performance of the two-way competition.

It was the second win for the Jamaicans, who had lost to Wayne in their first meeting. They have now won four of their six contests.

The Jamaicans' victory was due to the fact that they had four fencers who were not injured, while Wayne had only two.

Arthur N. Wilson, Arthur W. McRae, and George L. H. Wilson, and McRae, were the Jamaican fencers.

United, America, and Canada, were the other fencers.

Wayne fencers were: Captain Charles E. B. Gifford, Josephine Gifford, and Robert C. Gifford.

Both fencers were unattached except for Captain Gifford, who was attached to the Jamaican fencers.

Boxers Take Fourth Loss Against LSU

Squad Below Peak After Tosses With Illness, Weather

By GERRY KING

Tossed by air sickness and bad weather, the travel weary Spartan boxers have returned from Louisiana State University with a 10-10 loss. The Spartans have not yet lost four and are thus second best.

Michigan State coach Van Alstyne said, "The team is better than it was and the other is dead. And we just don't have a half game," the State page editor said.

The story of the Spartans' record has been put out now.

MacDonald Learned Arias At Age Four From Phonograph

By JANET SOUTER

Jeanette MacDonald, star of screen, concert and grand opera work will appear in a concert tonight at the College auditorium at 8:15 as part of the lecture-concert series.

Miss MacDonald's three-day visit to the Spartan campus is part of a 22 city tour. Upon completion of these visits, she will return to Hollywood to continue her movie career.

Her concert tonight will include works of Grieg, Mendelssohn, Chopin, Massenet, and Puccini. She will give the same program Thursday.

Song For Servicemen

During the war Miss MacDonald sang for millions of service men and women all over the country and in Great Britain. She donated all the proceeds to the Army Emergency Relief fund.

She started her operatic career when she was four years old by memorizing arias word for word from the family's old phonograph in Philadelphia. She made her American debut in "Romeo and Juliet."

Topped Obstacles

In her early career Miss MacDonald remembers two "stumbling blocks" in her path to success. The first was when she was 13 and facing an appointment with a Broadway producer. After sing her up, he decided to contact use her.

Not to be dismayed she started through a few dance steps and fell flat on her face. She finished the dance, the producer howled, and she got the job.

The same thing happened in an audition for a musical show. A stage hand remarked loudly "That kid has spunk," and that prompted the producer to give her the job.

Campus Groups Sponsor Student Fingerprinting

Fingerprinting of students will again be offered at spring term registration, March 29, 30, and 31 by the Police Science club and Alpha Phi Omega.

Purpose of the service is to provide records of prints for possible future identification. The service is to provide impersonal, reliable files.

The prints are not placed with the FBI criminal files.

Three Sets Taken

Three sets of prints are taken. One is filed with the Michigan State police, the second with the department of Police administration, and the third with the civil identification section of the FBI.

The FBI files serve as a central clearing house of fingerprints for the United States. By this service any person in any state requiring identification may be served. Statistics show that one in 10 persons meet sudden, accidental, suspicious, or violent deaths. Fingerprints are often necessary for identification and investigation in such cases.

Many Taken Already

At winter term registration approximately 800 students, the majority seniors, were fingerprinted. An effort will be made at this registration to fingerprint remaining seniors and juniors.

Rural Youth Leadership Meet Begins

Truman Hat Now In Ring If Chosen

Leadership and bee keeping are in the agriculture agenda with horticultural and farm building conference items.

The Michigan State faculty is conducting an intensive two week course to develop rural leaders this coming week, which began yesterday. Sessions classes in speech, community living, leadership, planning, public relations, social problems, program planning, and rural organization.

P. H. Kelly, agricultural extension specialist and D. P. Barrett, chief apiculturist for the State Department of Agriculture, will talk on beginning problems and honey production methods.

A conference on present and future market for agricultural products will be held in Fairbank Auditorium Wednesday.

Eklund To Speak On Insurance

Gov. Eklund, president of M.A.C., will speak to Dr. Hardin's agricultural class today at 10 a.m. in room 106 of the horticulture building.

Eklund is the sales manager of the Equitable Life Insurance company and will speak on selling about farm freight and safety and yet more study is the only cure. The smart answer is to be prepared, to be prepared so that roughly that you know your material as well as you know your name.
