Americans' ideas of life in Arabia will be altered some by the Arab club's presentation of "A Festival Day in an Arab Town."

Roque Vargas, Peruvian special student, will perform tricks with a bull whip. Richard Erhalt will assist him by holding a cigarette in his mouth while Vargas cuts it to pieces with the whip.

A Mexican dance will be presented by Magdalena Castillo, Mexican student.

A Philippine group will do a dance from their homeland.

Four Hawaiians, Donald Awai, Richard Chun, Dennis Wong and Harold Wong, will sing three Hawaiian songs. They sing both in English and Hawaiian. Shirley Lee will present a Hawaiian dance.

The type of dancing popular in Lebanon will be portrayed by Sania Hamady, Lebanon graduate student.

Following the festival the audience will be able to talk with students from all the foreign countries represented on campus.

Individual Displays

There will be displays of maps, pictures and other articles of interest from each country at the back of the auditorium.

The principle idea of the festival this year is to point out the similarities between the countries in the world. The six preceding festivals have shown the way other countries differ from the United States.

House Group Asks Funds for MSC

Enrollment Drop Prompts Request

The house ways and means committee yesterday recommended legislative appropriations for MSC staff salary increases and to make up for fees lost through declining student enrollment.

The bill supplements previous grants for the period from January 1 to June 30 of this year.

It provides $568,138 for salary increases retroactive to January 1. The State Board of Agriculture voted the increase in December dependent on a grant from the legislature.

The committee recommended the full amount requested by the college.

Also provided in the bill is an appropriation of $398,175 to compensate for funds lost when enrollment declined below the estimate on which the current operating budget is based.

MSC operating funds for the fiscal year beginning this June are now being considered by the ways and means committee which should make its report late in May.

MSC to Play Host to State School Heads

Michigan State College will play host today for the State conference of elementary school principals. Approximately 300 educators from all parts of Michigan are expected to attend the conference in the Union.

Main speaker will be Ernest O. Melby, dean of the school of Education, New York university. His subject will be "Elementary Schools Face Reality."

A panel discussion on how the elementary principal spends his time in 1951 will be the main feature in 1951 will be the main fea- by's speech is scheduled for the afternoon session.

The conference is sponsored by the Department of Elementary School Principals, with the cooperation of the division of education.

An education convocation sponsored by the education students of MSC will also be held today. Dean Melby will be the main speaker at this conference. He will speak at 9:15 this morning at Fairchild theater.

The afternoon program will consist of group discussions in the Union.

All education students are urged to attend the convocation. Education classes will be dismissed today in order to permit the students to attend.

An MSC student was injured yesterday afternoon in a fire that gutted the maintenance shop on trailer village.

William Barnes, Flushing junior, the injured student, was released from the college hospital yesterday after being treated for first degree burns of the face and second degree burns of the hand.

Richard Bernitt, MSC fire inspector, gave the cause of the fire as "attempted horseplay that didn't work." He said a lighted match was thrown into a can of gasoline, setting off the blaze.

College Aptitude Tests Now Ready

Nearly 1,000 application forms for the college aptitude exam have been distributed at MSC according to Colonel Dorsey R. Rodney, co-ordinator for military affairs.

However, Rodney said he felt that students were lagging in picking up applications.

"Students should hurry and file their forms so they may be able to take the test early," he added.

Frosh Men Must Live on Campus

Ag Board Passes Ruling for Fall '51

All freshmen and transfer students must live in the dormitories their first year of residence at MSC, according to a ruling passed by the State Board of Agriculture yesterday. The regulation goes into effect fall term, 1951.

The new ruling will apply only to men students. A similar regulation for coeds has been in effect for a number of years.

Exceptions to the new regulation must be approved by Tom King, dean of students. Students may by-pass the rule under the following conditions.

Some Cases Excepted

If they live with parents or close relatives, if they are married or 25 years of age, if they need to live in private homes to earn room and board, if it is recommended by the college health service, or in other cases where there is ample justification.

Commenting on the new regulation, Dean King said, "Spending the first year in college housing will provide a better start—a smoother adjustment—for new students."

Crucial Period

He pointed out that the first year of transition to college life is a crucial period for the success or failure of the student in his college career. This is particularly true now, that older veteran students have departed, he said.

Blood Drive Starts Today on Campus

Donations to Go to Korea, Local Bank

A campaign to enlist donors for the Red Cross blood drive starts on campus today.

Blood collected from MSC students will be sent to Korea, and used in the local blood bank.

The project is sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity.

A mobile unit of the Red Cross will be in the Union April 30, if there are 200 promised donors on campus. All blood collected that particular day will be sent directly to Korea, according to Clifton Rastola, chairman of the donor drive. This blood will be used to fulfill the Lansing quota for Korea.

Desperate Need

Need for blood is desperate, according to local Lansing Red Cross Director Benjamin F. Hennink.

"A look at the headlines shows a growing number of casualties in Korea and it is unthinkable that we should let our fighting men down," Hennink stated. "Night and day lives are being saved by the availability of blood. The need for this whole blood is urgent," he added.

Hennink concluded, "We hope that every student on campus who is physically able will donate a pint of blood."

Letters have been sent by Alpha Phi Omega to all living units on campus, requesting that their members participate in the drive.

Votes for UMOC

Each pint of blood donated is also worth 1,000 votes for the "Ugliest Man on Campus" contest. The donor receives a card from the Red Cross showing he has donated and when voting for UMOC starts, the donor may present his card and be given an affidavit for 1,000 votes.

All donors under 21 years of age must have permission slips signed by their parents to turn in when they donate blood. Slips have been sent to the living units and will also be available in organization room 2, Union.

Viewing MacArthur Speech

Exceptionally quiet students are shown in the Union grill yesterday from approximately 12:30 to 1:15 p.m. watching General MacArthur on television as he spoke to congress. Five TV sets, loaned to the Union by Benson's hardware for the event, were placed in the grill, music room and mixed lounge.

Married Students Ask College Control Animals

Residents of married housing areas will vote on a proposal next Wednesday to put pet control under the college administration.

Barracks apartment residents will cast ballots at the married housing office. Those living in trailers will vote in Recreation hall. Balloting will run from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The referendum is the result of complaints from parents in barracks apartments that their children have been bitten by dogs running loose in the area.

Committee Organized

"In the past two months we have had at least six complaints of children being bitten. This doesn't include postmen and others who are molested by strays," George Monaghan, chairman of the referendum committee declared.

In March, a committee of married housing residents organized the plan to switch control of animals to the college administration. The group is headed by Monaghan and John L. Norton as co-chairmen.

Register All Pets

Their proposal stipulates registration of all pets with the married housing office and confining of all pets in enclosures unless taken out on leashes.

Excessively noisy dogs, dirty enclosures, and abusive treatment of pets will be deemed a nuisance.

When complaints of nuisances are lodged, the manager of married housing or the Campus police will be authorized to take corrective measures.

Pets Impounded

Pets found running loose will be impounded by Campus police. Violations of the enclosure stipulation are fines, removal of the

MSC Council to Attend Meet

MSC student council members will attend another student government conference this weekend at the University of Michigan.

Every college in Michigan has been invited to send student government representatives to the conference which is sponsored by the Michigan region United States National Student association.

The conference was called at this time because the war situation has changed the university community and the area of student government control, according to the student's association bulletin.

Consideration will be directed to the draft and class speed-up programs as well as problems of student government.

MSC Panel Slated to Speak at Flint

Dr. Milton E. Muelder, Dr. Hans Leonhardt, and Dr. Alvin Bennett, political science instructors, will take part in a panel discussion on "New Problems and Responsibilities of the United States in Relation to Europe," Thursday, April 26.

The discussion is sponsored by the alumni clubs of Genesee county and will be held at 8 p.m. in the General Motors institute at Flint.

Major Albert Sobey, retired president of the General Motors institute, and recently announced recipient of a 1951 Alumni award for distinguished service, will be moderator.

The discussion will be followed by a question period.

Pick to Speak at Hotel Day

Albert Pick, Jr., president of Pick Hotels Corp., will be guest of honor at the annual Hotel day ceremonies at MSC today and tomorrow.

Pick will address a Saturday luncheon in the MSC Union on "Young Men in the Hotel Field Today," according to Prof. Bernard Proulx, head of hotel administration at MSC. George Poid of Horwath and Horwath, Detroit, will present his company's annual award to the outstanding MSC hotel student.

Other prominent hotel businessmen are expected for the two-day affair, designed to provide for formal and informal meetings of MSC hotel students and hotel personnel.

Police Continue Lansing Probes

No new developments were reported yesterday in the investigation of Lansing's two mysteries.

According to Capt. Charles Stragier of Lansing police, the hunt for two possible suspects in the murder of LaVerne G. Roose April 6 continued.

Police also continued to search for two three-year-old children missing in Lansing since April 4.

Petitioners Get Special 'Day Grace'

In a surprise move, Student council election committeemen decided late last night to reopen petitioning for nine class and Student council posts open for spring election. Petitioning will be extended in these areas until 6 p.m. today.

Petitions may be obtained at the Union desk and must be handed in at the Student council office, Dave Miller, elections chairman announced.

The nine areas in which eligible students may petition for candidacy are: senior class treasurer, and Student council representative from Snyder, Phillips, Mason, Abbot, and West Shaw (men's dormitories); Mayo and Campbell (women's dormitories) and the men's co-ops area.

Only Approximate Total

In the closed areas, Miller and his staff could give only an approximation of the total petitioners. Last minute petitioning confusion, the first training conference, and candidate eligibility checks prevented presentation of an absolutely accurate total.

The close estimate given showed the number of petitions for each office this way: senior class—president 4, vice-president 5, secretary 2, and treasurer 1; junior class—president 6, vice-president 5, secretary 6, and treasurer 4; sophomore class—president 2, vice-president 8, secretary 6, and treasurer 2.

Mac Claims Chiefs Agree on His Policy

General Holds Tight to Defense Pattern

State News Associate Editor

Members of the congress saluted Gen. Douglas MacArthur's speech yesterday as a masterpiece of eloquence. But they divided sharply over whether what he said was right or wrong.

Most Republicans said they felt that the general had given the country a bright beacon to follow in its world-wide struggle with communism.

Many Democrats doubted the wisdom of some of his words. They said there were some great questions still unanswered.

Shared by Chiefs

MacArthur, in his speech before congress yesterday asserted he believed his views on far eastern strategy were fully shared by "our own joint chiefs of staff."

He retreated not an inch from the pattern of Pacific defense he has been advocating for many months—a set of policies that finally brought his abrupt discharge by order of the President.

Two Issues

Associated Press Washington correspondent John M. Hightower said that in the debate on far eastern strategy, which MacArthur's speech brought to a dramatic climax, two vital issues have now emerged with razor sharpness:

1. Would an extension of military measures against Red China result in a general expansion of the fighting and perhaps bring on World War III?

2. To what extent and under what conclusions, if any, have the joint chiefs of staff, the body which makes this nation's military policy, shared or supported MacArthur's views?

Partial Answer

A partial answer to the second question came last night when the Pentagon said that President Truman removed MacArthur from all his commands "upon the unanimous recommendations of the President's principal civilian and military advisers, including the joint chiefs of staff."

The Pentagon, however, did not deny MacArthur's statement that the chiefs of staff "shared his views."

'Internal Subversion'

In a speech before the DAR yesterday, MacArthur lashed out at "internal subversion and corruption and detailed regimentation over our daily lives."

He mentioned no names, but it was obvious that he was striking at the administration.

Meanwhile, New York prepared a reception for MacArthur that may well be one of the biggest mass welcomes ever given anywhere at any time.

Music Program

The Union Board will sponsor its first music program of the term on Tuesday in the music room from 4 to 5. The public is invited.

Out for Blood

What d'ya want, blood?

As a matter of fact, the Red Cross does. It wants MSC students to pledge 200 pints of blood by April 30.

Alpha Phi Omega, national service honorary, is sponsoring a blood drive on campus beginning today. Between now and April 30, they need pledges for 200 pints of blood. This quantity will enable the Lansing Red Cross mobile unit to take the donations on campus.

APO is urging all campus organizations and living units to boost the drive, to urge members to sign up for a donation, and to see that they give the blood. Individual students are also asked to contribute.

Blood donated in the drive will be sent to three places of major need. Some will be flown directly to Korea and will aid wounded GI's within a month. Some will go to Percy Jones hospital to treat war casualties. The rest will remain at the regional blood bank for those in need of plasma and stockpiled in case of an A-bomb attack.

Plasma is one of the few life-saving treatments for victims suffering from severe atom burns.

APO will give all persons donating a pint of blood 1,000 votes for their candidate in the Ugliest Man on Campus contest, a part of the Campus Chest drive.

Students wishing to pledge a pint of blood should leave their name on the list provided in organization room 2 urging them to participate, and can mail in a list of members who will donate.

The need is urgent; the need is great. Let's show the Red Cross that there are very few turnips among the student body.

A Statesman Dies

He wasn't afraid to admit he was wrong. That quality made Arthur H. Vandenberg one of the nation's leading internationalists.

Senator Vandenberg did a complete about-face between World War I and World War II. He worked hard to defeat United States membership in the League of Nations. He kept the same isolationist position until Pearl Harbor.

Then Senator Vandenberg took a second look. He saw that no isolationist or "unilateralist" policy could save his country from unrest and aggression.

Unhampered by traditional party attitudes, Senator Vandenberg became a leader in formulating U.S. bipartisan foreign policy.

His position as one of the nation's elder statesman was assured because he had the courage to reconsider.

That courage was evident long before Senator Vandenberg went into politics. He had it when he entered the University of Michigan with $2 in his pocket.

And it took courage a year later to admit that he was fighting a losing battle for his education. His law studies, coupled with the work he had to do to stay in college, were too much for him.

He went back to Grand Rapids, where he was born, and worked his way up from office boy to editor and general manager of the Grand Rapids Herald.

Under Senator Vandenberg, the Herald's editorial page became politically mature and powerful. It reportedly influenced the late Chief Justice William Howard Taft to modify a speech in Grand Rapids advocating the League of Nations.

As a freshman senator, Arthur Vandenberg had the courage to defy the seen-but-not-heard tradition and block a move to abandon Selfridge Field, an air force base near Detroit. In World War II, the field proved invaluable.

In 1948 Senator Vandenberg learned he had a tumor in his lung. His doctor advised an immediate operation.

But the North Atlantic treaty and the Inter-American treaty were up for congressional approval at that time and the senator refused to leave Washington before they were safely through.

Senator Vandenberg could have left Washington for the operation, but he felt that the welfare of the United States was more important.

The decision to put country before self is the most courageous any man can make. There is every probability that the senator would be alive today if he had decided otherwise.

But he leaves the framework for clearer international understanding and a lasting peace. He could have no better memorial.

Joe Doakes Welcomes MacArthur

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Copyright, 1951, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON — Dear General MacArthur:

Welcome home!

It's been a long time.

You come back with the roar of the multitude in your ears.

That is a tribute to a great general. The many voices that are joining now as one in that tribute divide, away from the parade, into as many separate voices in tumultuous babel about the great issue that you have raised.

We try to do it with good humor. But ill will has been creeping in since you and the President came to a parting of the ways. There's no reason, however, why we shouldn't preserve our good humor. You and the President have a responsibility there now.

It is not the purpose here, though, to go into the differences about policy and military strategy in Asia. They are not as simple as some would make out. You and the President and the experts and congress will have to do that, and it will take time.

In the roar of the multitude you may not detect the still small voice—the real voice of our people—nor the purposes of some among us who would use you contrary to the best interests of our people—and yourself.

Some among them would use you as a front and symbol because of the great admiration and affection for you in our people.

You should know that.

You should know also that they do not speak for our people. The great majority of our people are for the course of continual progress and improvement upon which we set out, in your watching, back in 1933. They don't say much about it, but the still, small voice has spoken thunderously in five successive elections.

Seductively the selfish, but powerful, minority talks about our people being coddled by government, and looking to government for everything, and losing their initiative.

You, yourself, should know how truly absurd that is since you saw our people, working 72 hours a week, turn out during the war—that vast and endless stream of things you needed and which won the victory in the end. They are doing it again now, as you know.

Our enemies called us "soft" and said we'd never fight. You saw the answer to that—in the big war in the Pacific and in the war now in Korea. Your troops were not professional soldiers, just American boys pitching in when called upon, American boys from American homes.

You are back home now where they come from.

Respectfully, Joe Doakes

Pardon My Accent

He Has Returned!

By Phed Vosniacos

He has returned!

MacArthur's apotheosis reached its climax yesterday noon when he addressed a joint meeting of the congress.

The 71-year-old great military leader in an emotional voice told his side of the story.

Maybe people take for granted what happened in the national scene these last few days. Maybe people on this side of the Atlantic dismiss the whole thing as being part of the American way-of-life.

This Greek stopped and thought when he heard the general talk. He looked back to Europe. Looked back to the countries behind the Iron Curtain and the countries outside it. He looked back to his country.

Then came the realization that watching the television of MacArthur's speech was in itself a great thing.

Democrats and Republicans joined in applause when the general entered the solemn chambers in Washington. Before that, millions had welcomed him home in a frenzy of cheers and applause.

Yet, the general had just been ousted by his commander-in-chief from one of the highest military posts any general in history has probably held.

President Truman had his reasons for the dismissal. That was one side of the story.

MacArthur's speech yesterday was the other side.

People on both sides of the fence listened. They heard the elected head of the country. They heard yesterday the story of a demoted hero.

And this is democracy at work for the world to see.

When MacArthur stepped down from the rostrum yesterday he gave the signal for another "great debate" to start. A debate on the U.S. foreign policy toward Asia.

A couple of months ago another great general stepped up the rostrum in congress to close by his report another great debate on the U.S. foreign policy in Europe.

No matter where one stands in this issue, he has to realize that it is these very things that make one proud of a country that preaches democracy and practices it.

Only good can come from such a debate. The same good that resulted from one awhile ago.

And when people as a whole take part in forming policy, there is the core of democracy.

Civil Rights Violated on U.S. Campuses

By The Associated Collegiate Press

The status of civil liberties on the nation's campuses is not all it should be, according to a survey released last month by the American civil liberties union. A total of 17 out of 33 college newspapers reported instances of civil rights curtailment.

Among the rights which were reported violated were: controversial speakers on campus; alumni attempts to check teaching material; faculty loyalty oaths; investigations; pressure on certain campus political groups.

Eight universities and colleges, including Stanford, Michigan, and Columbia, reported difficulty in securing controversial speakers. Six institutions reported they had loyalty oaths—California, Michigan, Notre Dame, North Carolina, Maine, Smith college, and New Hampshire.

All student editors reported complete freedom of the college press. There was no indication that a student was ever expelled because of political opinions.

State Golf Captain Tower of Strength

By JOHN RANDALL

Saturday, MSC opens its 1951 golf season against Western Michigan college at Kalamazoo.

A tower of strength will be found in the long-driving, par game of team captain, Don Perne.

Don (last name pronounced Per-nay) is a history major from Lansing with a snap-wrist and now going into his last season for the Spartans. He has a squint in the eye that has come from seven years around golf courses; always asking questions, learning, playing.

Sexton Graduate

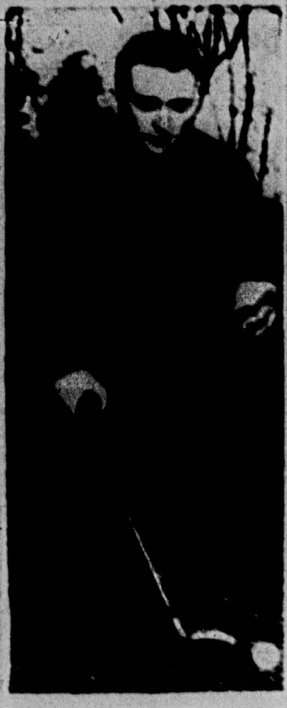
A graduate of Sexton high school, Don played three years on the team there and while a senior he was team captain. He is now playing his third year on a State golf team.

In 1949, Don won the Lansing championship at Groesbeck and has twice won the Tourame open.

No Favorites

Don says that he doesn't have a favorite club because "you have to like 'em all." However, "I guess that I save most strokes with a putter on the green."

As to the best course that he has played on, he thinks that it is Pinehurst Country club in Salem, N.C. Said Don, "It's rough."



CAPT. DON PERNE

Spartan Bowmen

The Spartan Bowmen Club will hold a field shoot at Rose Lake on Sunday, April 22. Members are asked to meet in front of Jenison Gymnasium at 1 p.m. Transportation will be available.

All club archers are urged to attend.

All persons interested in being baseball managers are asked to contact Coach Kobs or Coach Massuch at Jenison fieldhouse.

Competition Tough

Sophs Vie for Grid Gaps

When football practice got underway this spring, Coach Biggie Munn said that one of the big jobs would be finding someone to fill the shoes of such standouts on last year's squad as Sonny Grandelius, Dorne Dibble, LeRoy Crane, Jesse Thomas, John Yocca, Hank Minarek and John Tobin.

Don McAuliffe is the leading candidate for the left half position vacated by Grandelius, but he is being given stiff competition by LeRoy Bolden, Don Cutler, Bob McMackin, Louis Smith and Gene Lekenta.

Al Dorow is calling signals, but John Wilson, first string defensive left half on last year's team, is giving him a tough battle. Sharing the quarterbacking with Dorow and Wilson are Willie Thrower, Tom Yewcic, Ivan Cindrich, Alan Jones, Rex Corliss and Bill Fate.

Vince Pisano, last year's regular right half, and Ray Vogt, a defensive halfback last season, have been sharing the right half post. They are backed by Ellis Duckett, Bill Wells, Roy Gustafson, Harlan Benjamin and Tom Brogan.

The defensive backfield is dominated by newcomers. Corliss, Harry Tamburo, Jim Ellis, Art Ingram and Brogan appear to be the leading contenders.

As last year, the MSC offense will be a mixture of single wing and T-formation plays, with the emphasis on the single wing. The quarterback and left halfback will handle most of the passing.

Yewcic, Dorow, Lekenta, Corliss and Brogran have handled most of the punting so far this spring.

Coach Dawson said that although most of the offensive backfield positions are dominated by veterans now, they may have to battle to keep their posts when some of the newcomers become accustomed to the Spartan pattern of football.

CAPT. VINCE MAGI — COACH JOHN KOBS

State Nine to Open Schedule Tomorrow

Bob Carlson was named by Coach John Kobs yesterday as the probable starting hurler against Wayne tomorrow in the Spartans' home schedule opener at 2:30 in Old College field.

The Spartans suffered what might be a disastrous blow in yesterday's last minute drills when Corky Ghise and Darrell Lindley suffered ankle injuries.

The extent of their injuries was not immediately known.

Lindley was a likely candidate to start in one of the outfield berths and is one of the top hitters on the team with a .400 plus batting average in intra-squad tilts.

Ghise was a top prospect to start at second.

The lineup in tomorrow's opener will probably have Bob Ciolek at first, Jack Hofstetter or Ghise at second, and Dick Blanchard at third.

Jablonski Probable Catcher

Chuck Jablonski will probably get the nod for the catching chores. Joe Rivich will probably round out the infield at shortstop. His hitting has been one of the brighter spots in the Spartans spring training.

Capt. Vince Magi, State's hard-hitting outfielder, is almost a sure bet to start at center with Herb Schroeter, a converted pitcher and Lindley, if he is ready, filling out the rest of the lineup.

Wayne Short of Vets

Wayne's coach, Joe Truskowski, has had quite a problem this spring getting a starting lineup together.

Only three lettermen returned from last year's team. Frank Verbanac, an outfielder, hit over .300 for Wayne last year and pitcher John Wingo was their only winning hurler.

Four Gridders Appointed as Munn's Aides

Thomas F. Martin, Michigan State graduate student and former Spartan tennis star, was appointed yesterday as acting tennis coach and assistant intramural director by the State Board of Agriculture.

Martin replaces Harris Beeman, who was recalled into the army April 16. Beeman, given a leave of absence, in all probability will report back to the MSC campus as an ROTC instructor.

Also approved by the board were the appointments of four former football stars as assistant grid coaches. George Smith, Don Mason, Hal Vogler and John Poloncak will help handle the large squad now in spring training.

All ended their playing careers in 1949. Mason won All-American honors at guard while Vogler captained the Spartan eleven. Smith was the teams' place-kicking expert and Poloncak starred in the backfield.

The appointment of Wayne Tinkle as intramural director is expected in the near future to fill the vacancy which was also held by Beeman.

Martin played under Beeman in '47, '48 and '49. In '48 he helped the tennis team run up an impressive record of 12 wins against one loss.

Assigning Chest Jobs

Need Some Wallpaper?

Papers Crowd Council Office, Linton Plan May Bring More

If all the "official papers" in the Student council office were stacked up, they could be used to wallpaper most of the rooms in the Union building. And that doesn't include all the paper work done outside the office.

A large percentage of the papers are in the twin council files. The two five-drawer cabinets contain all the council council correspondence, and records of just about every imaginable activity. Reports, minutes, constitutions, and general information of all types is placed there in folders and on file cards.

Many more papers cover the council's bulletin board. Paperwork on the board is tacked under special headings such as "bureau news," and "public relations."

More Paper

Three desks in the office hold additional piles of paper. Several special "box files" in the room also contain records. Lastly, piles of newspapers from other Big Ten schools are arranged on top of the files.

The recently adopted "Linton plan" and the proposed new Student government pattern (if adopted) would necessitate additional paperwork, Student councilmen believe. It has been tentatively suggested that the council have a full-time filing clerk, but no action has been taken as yet.

Winston Named Solicitations Head

Lincoln Stegman, Buffalo, N.Y. junior, resigned Wednesday night as solicitations chairman for Campus Chest. Stegman has recently been appointed business manager of the Wolverine, and has asked to be given an advisory position on the Chest, of a position taking less time.

Harry Winston, Birmingham senior, will take over the solicitation chairman's position. Winston is president of the Ag council, and is well known through his travels abroad. He has conducted studies in many foreign countries on the subject of dairying.

Guard Inspector to Speak Tonight

Brigadier General Harold T. Weber, state National Guard inspector, will be the guest speaker at the Scabbard and Blade initiation banquet tonight, Albert T. Teller, captain of the MSC company of Scabbard and Blade announced yesterday.

The military honorary fraternity will formally initiate 68 pledges into active membership immediately preceding the banquet, Teller added. Nine of the ROTC department staff officers will also be initiated as associate members.

pet from the area, or recommendation to the dean of students for disciplinary action.

Any pet biting either child or adult shall be voluntarily removed from the area at the time of the offense. Pet owners will take all responsibility in cases where children are bitten.

Administration Control

The move to place pet control in the administration's hands came after a breakdown last year of the married housing student government, Monaghan said.

If the measure is passed by married housing residents, it will go to the State Board of Agriculture for approval. If passed by the Board, control will be vested officially in administrational hands where it can be efficiently administrated, he said.

The Chivor-Somondoco emerald mines of Columbia produce about 100,000 carats of fine stones a year.

Freshmen Plan May 10 Rally

Plans for a frosh rally to be held May 10, the eve of Frosh-Soph day, were made at the freshmen class meeting held last week.

The rally planned to arouse freshmen interest in the annual mock day of battles between the freshmen and sophomore classes, will feature two pep orchestras, Warren Bowne, frosh class head said. Freshmen will also hold a dance sometime this term, he said.

Glee Club Slates Varied Program

Selections from Handel to the Alma Mater will be presented by the Women's Glee club tonight at 8:15 in the Music auditorium.

The women will sing "The Nightingale Song," "Mr. Frog," selections from "The Nutcracker Suite," the "Alma Mater," and other selections.

The concert is under the direction of Dr. William R. Sur of the music department. Jean Pumphrey, East Lansing graduate student, and Jeanette Vier, Farmington, Ill. junior, are student directors.

The Glee club will be accompanied by Constance Raether, Detroit sophomore, and Nancy Cope, Battle Creek junior.

Tickets Available

The Press Pass ball scheduled for the Union ballroom 8:30-12 Saturday night will be open to all interested students, Dick Goodrow, J-Council president said yesterday. Tickets for the informal affair will be available at the door as well as at the State News office, he added.

Club to Assign Garden Plots

Garden plots for this year will be assigned to members of the Spartan Gardens, Inc. at an organization meeting tomorrow at 4 p.m. in room 33 of the Union, according to Merrill R. Pierson, secretary.

Spartan Gardens is an organization composed of approximately 85 faculty, students, and East Lansing members who are interested in gardening. It was organized in 1942 as a victory garden group and has been active ever since.

The group rents large areas of ground and divides them into 50 by 50 plots which are then rented to the members. The use of the ground, some fertilizer, plowing, and rough preparation for planting are all included in the fee of $2.50.

The organization gardens an average of 125-150 plots each year. Members who had plots last year may rent the same ones.
