

Judiciary Postpones Decision on Tax Vote

Awaits Student Government
Report on Voting 'Irregularities'

By FRANK BUTKOWICZ

The All-College Judiciary failed to hand down a ruling yesterday on the charges of "tax voting irregularities" in the recent student tax vote.

John Ringle, chief justice, in explaining the Judiciary's decision, said:

The Judiciary feels that in order to render the fairest decision regarding the issue of tax voting, it must wait until the Student Government Elections Committee has its report to the Congress before deciding whether or not to take any action.

Gene McDermott, senior president, set a Friday noon deadline for the card poll on commencement yesterday.

Some 1,299 cards, out of 2,000 sent out, were returned to the Record Office yesterday afternoon.

Registration officials said they felt a representative portion of the class had voted, when 50 per cent of the cards were returned.

Still very few cards state reasons for the choice of either Saturday or Sunday.

"Seniors shouldn't have to state reasons on their cards," McDermott said. Enough reason for requesting a Sunday commencement were given by Senior Council, Excelsior, and other class groups to give weight to the poll without individual reasons added, he declared.

The administration previously stressed that valid reasons for changing the date would be needed to give the poll weight.

McDermott said class reasons for Sunday graduation outweigh arguments against a Saturday commencement given by the administration.

Witnesses Reluctant To Answer

DETROIT (AP)—Balky witnesses slowed the progress of the House Un-American Activities Committee inquiry into communism in Michigan yesterday.

Five of the seven men put on the stand in the second day of the non-televized hearing refused to answer virtually all questions. The bulk of them dwelt on Communist affairs.

A result was the berating of one witness by a committee member—with the absence of television pointedly referred to.

The denunciation of a witness came from Rep. Potter (R-Mich.), who has assailed Democrat House Speaker Sam Rayburn's ban from Washington on televising the hearing.

For almost all of his 40 minutes on the stand Raphael W. Haskell, 37, auto-factory employee and University of Michigan graduate, had turned back questions with "I refuse to answer."

Like the other reluctant witnesses, he said he was standing on his constitutional rights. Just before Haskell was to be excused, Potter seized the table loudspeaker at his elbow.

"Your testimony here today," he said, turning toward the witness, "is evidence that television is needed for hearings of this kind so that as many people as possible can perceive the hate in the eyes, the contempt on the lips, and the conspiracy in the heart of a Communist witness."

Seven ZBT's Get Probation For Escapade

Five pledges and two actives of Zeta Beta Tau fraternity were placed on disciplinary probation yesterday for their part in a "kidnapping escape," Tom King, dean of students, announced.

The probation includes no participation in extra-curricular activities or athletics, and continues for an unspecified period. The students will report periodically to Lyle Torburn, counselor for men, who can revoke the probation.

The penalty resulted when the actives were stranded in West Branch and reported to State Police that they had been kidnapped by the pledges.

All seven were turned over to college authorities for discipline when the actives explained they had given false information to the police, King said.

Since the fraternity should be responsible for its pledges, the group was put on ten weeks probation, King said.

Legislators Dim Hopes for New MSC Library

State Deficit Discourages
Appropriations for College

By JIM SMALLEGAN

State News Associate Editor

Hopes for a new $1,875,000 MSC library dimmed yesterday when college officials and members of the State Board of Agriculture attended a joint session of the Senate Finance Committee and the House Ways and Means Committee at the Capitol.

The meeting was called to discuss the college's request for a $438,581 supplementary appropriation made necessary by a seven per cent cost of living increase granted to college employees. The funds are needed to cover the cost of the increase from January 1, to June 30.

The Legislators offered no encouragement to the college administrators, pointing to the huge deficit now being accumulated by the state.

Senator Charles S. Brady (D-Detroit) brought pressure to bear on the Board to open their meetings to the press. In return Board Chairman Clark L. Brady said: "If you have your meetings open, you have your real meetings the night before. As for taking the position that the public be damned, that isn't so," he said.

Included with the library request were other proposed capital improvements, bringing the college total to $844,000.

"All these projects have been taken under consideration by the Subcommittee on Capital Outlay and they will have to be deferred until some other time," Rep. Arnold Engstrom (R-Traverse City) head of the subcommittee said.

Along with the library request the Board asked for $3 million for an annual industries building—$200,000 to move the sheep and cattle barns so that the new building could be placed where they now stand, $80,000 for a seed storage building, and $200,000 for rehabilitation of the Bacteriology and Botany buildings.

The present library was originally planned for 2,500 students, according to President Hannah. "The library on our campus is one of the poorest, most inadequate of any university in the United States," Hannah told the legislators. Hannah said he would be glad to get just enough money to start the building, as long as the ground work for the library could be started.

"Suppose the Legislature cannot find the money to pay these wage increases, what will you do?" Rep. Harry Phillips (R-Port Huron) asked. "We will just say we cannot pay you now, but eventually we will if we can," Hannah said.

It will be an obligation of the state that will be met in the future even if we have to go without pay checks for a month or so," Hannah added.

Controller Robert F. Stradman, Governor Williams' budget director, said: "Salary increases are being paid. Whether you appropriate money to cover them or not they are still going to be paid."

Group Plans Carnival

Quaker Group
Offers Work
Opportunity

Barbara S. Grant, who represents the American Society of Friends (Quakers) spoke at the International Center yesterday, discussing summer seminars in Europe, Mexico and the U.S.

Miss Grant explained that although the organization was founded by the Quakers it is non-sectarian in its selection of students and project leaders.

The prime aim of these seminars is the abolition of strife and war throughout the world. The Society feels that the best way to carry out this aim is to spread a feeling of brotherhood wherever they go by helping people in their needs and doing whatever community service they meet.

A typical summer session was held in North Carolina last year. The society assisted a group of tenant farmers in a swamp clearance program that the town people couldn't do by themselves because they had to spend all their time working to stay alive. With the aid of the society the project was completed.

The society felt a double lesson was taught. The town people found out that there are people who are willing to help others without material gains for themselves and the students gained the valuable experience of helping others and realizing what problems people face.

Workers are chosen from colleges across the country from such interest fields as Social Science, Public Welfare, Labor Relations, Education and Agriculture. The Project Leaders are chosen from different faculties and act as coordinators rather than outright directors.

The cost of the sessions runs from $450 for the European seminar to practically nothing for some that are held in the U.S.

Interested students may write to her in care of Box 273, Bexley Branch, Columbus, Ohio for additional information and applications.

Coffee Hour Slated
By Spartan Mug

Sophomore and junior advertising majors are invited to attend a coffee hour sponsored by the Spartan magazine, today in Old College Hall from 4 to 5:30, according to Don L. Smith, Spartan business manager.

This meeting is to interest students in working on the Spartan advertising staff, Smith said.

Shortage of college-trained engineers may prove a severe bottleneck to civilian and defense production by 1955, U.S. industry already operating with fewer engineers than it needs, will be $9,000 short by 1955.

A floor plan of the areas allotted to participants is now posted in the Campus Chest office and will be available in Jenison a week from Saturday.

A central public address system will be set-up to direct construction and give general information, Pingry said. Allocation of spotlights, tarps and electrical supplies will be made the same day and recorded by the priority numbers of each entrant.

Spartacade committee members will wear arm bands and be on hand to supervise construction all day. Requested needs and supplies will be provided by the committee.

Winners in the three classes—participation, shows, and games of chance—will all be announced at 4 p.m. Sunday, March 9 when cleanup must be completed. Participants not complying with this rule will not be judged.

Each organization has deposited an entrance fee of $10. This fee will be forfeited if cleanup rules are broken.

Areas will be designated for cleanup March 9 to dispose of all-leaved equipment and waste material.

Bridgetenders
Stuck 100 Feet
Above River

PEKIN, Ill. (AP)—Two bridgetenders took turns perching 100 feet above the Illinois River on a bridge span that went up, but wouldn't come down yesterday.

A 75-foot span of the Pekin highway bridge was stuck. One of the tenders, 74-year-old George Risinger of Pekin, raised the span at noon to let a boat pass and then couldn't get it down.

For several hours he stayed in his cab, driving to work the machinery to get the span back in place and answering curious people who telephoned.

Late he climbed down to try to help mechanics get the machinery working. But at 6 p.m. EST, he was relieved by the night man, 69-year-old Frank Grover, who climbed up to the top of the bridge, mechanism was broken, and it would be stuck for 7 weeks or longer.

State highway engineers said a crew shift and a collar of the bridge mechanism was broken, and it would be stuck for 7 weeks or longer.
