

Talks Continue in Phone, Steel Wage Disputes

Bell System Strike Set To Start This Morning

Government mediators met with company and union officials yesterday in continuing moves to stave off widespread strikes in the telephone and steel industries.

Federal mediators in the telephone industry dispute said New York they were prepared to work "all day and night if necessary" to prevent a Western Electric Bell System strike.

The strike, scheduled for 6 this morning, threatens to knock out telephone service in 43 states. Long distance service in the Lansing area would be affected.

George McGahan, federal mediator, said he was not optimistic about the meetings yesterday, and that the meetings were far apart.

A note of cautious optimism was sounded in the steel dispute yesterday with a government official guardedly reporting "gradual progress" in understanding between the opposing factions.

Both sides in the steel dispute involving the CIO Steelworkers union and the nation's big steel producers met in New York yesterday for the first time since Tuesday.

At that time the union turned down a wage offer described by company representatives as "rocking." The union threatened to strike midnight tomorrow.

The Steelworkers Union reported it had reached agreement with the Marmon Steel Corp., which employs some 3,000 workers in Pennsylvania plants.

In a third industry, Western Union reported a "mushrooming" picket-work movement among working workers, but a union leader called the statement a "sigh."

Professor Lauded For Composition

A composition by Dr. H. Owen Reed of the music faculty was chosen by the University of Chicago band at the recent Music Educators National Conference in Philadelphia. Dr. Reed, who was at the conference, was given a claim for his work "Mexicana." The movement titled "Carnival" was played by the U. of M. band. Part at MSC has been played in the work.

Lansingites Fete Foreign Students

Fifty foreign students were fêted at a tea sponsored by the Lansing Council of Church Women at the International Center yesterday. Entertainment was furnished by vocalists Dan Kearney.

Background music was furnished by Marilyn Hamill, Lansing sophomore, and her sister, Laura. Guests from MSC faculty included Dr. and Mrs. Cordrey and Dr. Louise Carpenter, who work with the foreign students.

The meeting is open to all interested.

Thurston Speaks To 400 Principals

The people of Michigan are pleased with their school system, said Lee M. Thurston, state superintendent of public instruction, at the elementary school principals' Friday at the Kellogg Center.

Thurston gave the group results of 20,000 school questionnaires distributed in 35 communities.

The questionnaire shows that 90 per cent of the people believe teachers are well trained for their jobs, he said.

Saluting has become a part of the training for Army ROTC students, according to Col. Clarence C. Cleaden, commandant of the army training unit.

In addition to saluting all commissioned officers, the cadets of the Army ROTC will exchange salutes among themselves, according to Cadet Col. Dick Meyer.

An Air Force students are required to salute instructors while in uniform, but Air Force commanders have not acted on the courtesy saluting among cadets, according to Col. G. S. Bond. Cadet saluting is expected to be approved shortly.

Foreign Aid Sessions to Open Today

Truman Speech
Also on Program

Pres. John A. Hannah will give the opening address this morning at the National Conference on International Economic and Social Development in Washington.

The conference will last through Wednesday. It features addresses by some of the nation's top business, agricultural, industrial, governmental, labor and educational leaders.

In a recorded press interview in Washington Saturday, President Hannah, chairman of the conference, said that it will try to awaken national interest in international development programs.

Although he expressed a personal view that the U.S. can't exist for long and remain oblivious of the problems in underdeveloped areas of the world, he denied that the conference would be a sounding board for government propaganda.

"We haven't a ready-made program to offer," he emphasized. "We simply hope to stir up discussion about this national challenge."

Speakers on the program include President Truman, Secretary of State Dean Acheson, W. Averell Harriman, head of the mutual security administration, and Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

The basic philosophy of Point Four will be discussed, President Hannah explained, "but so will a lot of other things. This is an outside-the-government conference to encourage discussion in the state of the United States in the development of underdeveloped areas."

President Hannah outlined the situation internationally to be discussed at the conference—as involving three major questions.

"What is the situation today; what is the U.S. stake in that situation; and what should be done?"

"If enough Americans can do thinking in this area," he said, "they are likely to come up with a program that will serve the best interests of the United States."

He made it clear that the conference will approve no resolutions, take no position on any subject. It is simply designed to "stimulate discussion" and interest in a matter of concern to Americans," he said.

"We are in a war with Soviet Communism," he declared, "and we've got to do something to win the hearts and minds of the men of the world."

More than 500 delegates from 41 states, including half a dozen or more prominent businessmen from Michigan have been recorded in advance registration for the conference, President Hannah said.

Those attending the conference from MSC are James H. Demson, administrative assistant to the president in charge of public relations; Dr. Lawrence Witt, professor of agricultural economics; Dr. Milton E. Mueller, director of the office of research development; and W. Lowell Treaster, director of the department of information services.

Author to Speak

Symposium Slated On 'American Way'

Dr. T. V. Smith, professor of philosophy at Syracuse University, will open the 1952 "American Way" symposium series April 16 in the Auditorium at 10 a.m.

The symposium series began last year when Max Lerner, author and editor, and Ralph J. Bunche, UN trusteeship director, spoke here in March and May.

Professor Smith will speak on the subject, "Discipline for Democracy," title of one of his books.

In addition to teaching at Texas Christian University, University of Chicago, and Syracuse, Dr. Smith was a member of the Illinois state senate from 1935 to 1938. He chaired the Illinois legislative council in 1937 and 1938, and was a member of the U.S. Congress from 1939 and 1941.

Among his books are "Democracy and Dictatorship," "Democratic Way of Life," "Lincoln, Living Legend," and "Politics and Public Service." He co-authored "Foundations of Democracy" with Sen. Robert A. Taft.

The symposium program takes in many facets of democracy and world problems.

Dr. Lerner and Bunche last year discussed hopes for a Korean peace, the UN's part in preserving peace, needs for world understanding and brotherhood, and communism, as well as problems centering in the U.S.

Stalin Anxious for Meeting

Red Peace Offensive Analyzed

By the Associated Press
The pattern of the current Soviet peace offensive, now apparently at its peak of intensity, is beginning to emerge more clearly.

In simple terms, it appears to be this: Secure the parts of the non-Communist world and then offer a gleam of hope that catastrophe can be avoided.

Stalin has now let it be known, through the Indian ambassador to Moscow, that the USSR is anxious for talks in a top level meeting of the great powers. He has permitted the impression to be created that he thinks no major problem dividing the Eastern and Western worlds today is impossible of solution.

He has chosen to let this impression be created through a

Gilchrist coeds are finally convinced their dorm was not raided a few days ago. The housemother has explained that a warped latch prevented the closing of a door, and required the calling in of campus police quite late at night to force the stubborn door shut.

Plato Lecture Set Tomorrow

Ralph Merriam, Chicago attorney, will speak on "A Layman's Plato," in Room 206, Horticulture Building tomorrow evening at 7:30.

The lecture is sponsored by the Departments of Foreign Languages and Philosophy and students are invited to attend.

Merriam calls this a "layman's Plato" because he is not a professional classical scholar, but he tries to tell why Plato has a strong appeal to him as a lawyer and mere layman. His primary purpose is to arouse the interest of students in the classics and in other fields of lofty speech and thought.

Good Friday Program Set

Good Friday will be observed in the Auditorium at 3:15 p.m., on Friday when the MSC chorus and augmented orchestra present "The Passion of Our Lord According to St. Matthew," by Johann Bach.

Solo parts will be taken by James Martindale, as Christus; David Mactell, as the Evangelist; J. Herbert Swanson, Ruth Russell, Kathleen and Ethel Arneling, as Peter and other characters. James Hiblock will take the solo violin part, and Emily Hills will play the continuo.

Block-Bridle Show Draws 9,000 Fans

By BEN BUSCH

Horses from all over the state put their best hoofs forward for MSC's fourth annual Block and Bridle show Friday and Saturday.

The event highlighted exhibitions of a dancing and trick horse and an eight-pony hitch. Also featured were a champion six-horse hitch and rider of a dressage horse.

Pointe, three-year-old Bernadette O'Connor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald O'Connor of 83-A Chestnut St., acted as queen.

Approximately 4,500 spectators packed the Livestock Pavilion during the two-day show. Professor Richard B. Warren of the Animal Husbandry Department and advisor of Block and Bridle, called the crowds "very responsive and favorable."

Trophies donated for the show by clubs and individuals throughout Michigan were awarded to winners of 12 classes.

Senior Receives Grad Scholarship

Margen Spalding, Lansing senior, has been awarded a resident graduate scholarship to Bryn Mawr, Pa. for the school year 1952-53.

The scholarship, valued at from $500 to $800, was given to Miss Spalding to do work in the field of sociology and anthropology. She will graduate from MSC in June.

Rookie Police To Train Here

Rookie policemen and a few veteran officers will gather here tomorrow for the opening of the fifth annual police training program.

Nearly 30 men from municipal police and sheriff departments are expected to attend.

The month-long school is designed to provide training for departments which do not have their own training program.

The courses offer everything from scientific police work to ordinary patrol duties.

Criminal law, court procedure, and accident investigation will be offered in the program handled by Charles F. Rhodes of the Continuing Education Service.

Seven Convos Set for MSC

Approximately 300 persons are scheduled to attend conferences on the campus this week. The meetings are scheduled in the Kellogg Center, the Union Building and the short course dormitories.

The Michigan Frozen Food Locker Operators will hold their conference today. Beginning their meetings today also are the graduate nurses workshop.

Dairy and food inspectors conference starts tomorrow and the basic science refresher course in health and a refresher course in vision begins Wednesday.

Communication skills workshop will hold their meeting Thursday, and the Insurance Institute will be April 13-19.

All conferences are sponsored as part of the college's Continuing Education Service.

School Children To Meet Magician

(This is the first in a series of articles describing WKAR dramatic presentations in which students participate. J. Kenneth Richards, station production manager, announces that new talent is being sought for these shows.)

At 10 a.m. today, more than 400 school children from nearby communities will arrive at the Music Auditorium to travel with Mary and Johnny and their magician friend "Kisimi" on another imaginary informative trip.

The children will watch "Adventures in Music" radio actors retell the story of Easter, and listen to correlated music. This half-hour music-dramatic program has been heard each Monday morning ever since WKAR began its broadcasts, and now has a listening audience of over 200,000 Michigan children.

J. Kenneth Richards, WKAR production manager, is seeking new student talent to participate in this and other college station shows.

Rehearsal time for a production such as the "Adventures in Music" show involves three hours Saturday morning and from 8 a.m. until 10 a.m. "air time" on Monday, Richards said.
