53 Opening Planned;
Eating Set-Up Unique

By SARA MURRAY

Construction on four new women's living units housing 53 coeds will probably begin this fall, according to Karl McDonald, college secretary.

The living units, which will hold 250 coeds apiece, will be built on the southwest corner of Harrison Road and Michigan Ave. across from the Kellogg Center.

300 Advisers
Plan Four Day
Conference

Approximately 300 advisers to students studying in the State will meet here for a four-day conference Wednesday through Saturday.

The conference agenda is wide ranging from immigration regulations to discussions of high school and college educational exchange. Foreign student advisers from throughout the nation will attend the conference. It is the annual meeting of the National Association of Foreign Student Advisers.

Dr. Howard Wilson, associate director of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, will speak on "Foreign Universities and World Peace." He will speak at 7 p.m. Thursday in Kellogg Center ballroom.

Principal speaker at the opening sessions Wednesday will be Karl Deutsch, assistant professor of history, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The problems which will receive attention throughout the sessions will be the problem of foreign students how to get along in the U.S. A feature of the program will be a series of exhibits on foreign student life in Michigan colleges.

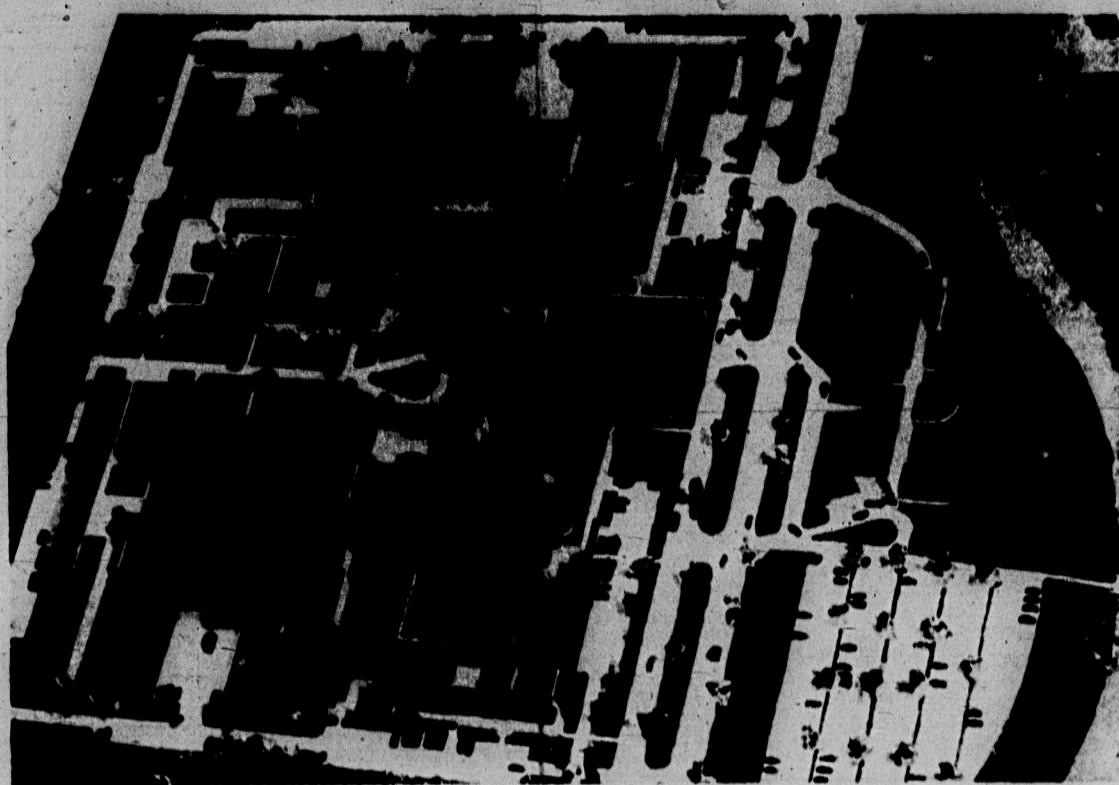

Dr. Gerald, MSC counsellor of foreign students, is chairman of local arrangements for the conference.

Representatives are requested to submit final plans of their float plans, with preliminary schedule, April 29 to 2 to 5 p.m. in the Wolverine.

Recount Gives
Extra Votes
To Student Tax

Yesterday's recount of ballots in the recent student tax election added two affirmative votes to totals released by Congress election officials.

A committee of Nick Pagan, assistant counselor for men; Lytle Thorburn, counselor for women; Miss Joan Munger, secretary to Nick Pagan; and Bob Bole, student congressman, counted 4,500 "yes" and 4,239 "no" ballots.

Student Congress members delegated the committee to conduct the recount at last Wednesday's meeting.

The ballots, which have been kept at President Hamann's home, will be destroyed.

Statements of the recount results will be submitted to President Hamann, the Student Congress, Dean of Student, Tom King and Counselor for Women, Miss Isabelle Gomon.

Alumni Director
Returns From Eastern Club Tour

Start Keesler, director of alumni relations, returns today after a week's tour of Eastern alumni clubs. Cities visited by Keesler included Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Hartford, Boston and Philadelphia.

Manatee County alumni were hosts to John McGoff, assistant director of alumni relations, Monday night.

Dr. Conrad Pozz, of the Basic English Department, will accompany McGoff Wednesday night to Midland. Pozz will give a humorous talk on "Why Do We Say Such Things?" He will also narrate the Ohio State football film.

Atomic Test Set for Today

ATOM BOMB SITE, Nev. (AP)—An atomic bomb, one of the two most powerful ever to be detonated within the United States, will burst today at a record altitude of 3,000 to 3,500 feet above a battlefield where soldiers and weapons are deployed.

Dr. Alvin C. Graves, test director, set the time of the shot for 9:30 a.m.

Air Force ROTC
Parade Canceled

Due to the Federal inspection for the ground force, ROTC basic and junior members of Air Force ROTC are excused from parade today.

AFROTC seniors, in uniform, will meet in the ice rink at 4:30 to go over future parade plans. Attendance is required.

Senior Comp
Rule Changed

Third-term seniors taking basic courses will not have to wait an extra term for graduation, according to a new recommendation approved by the college's Administrative Group.

Previously, seniors taking basic courses were required to take the comprehensive examination during the regular term period and so could not graduate that term. As a result they had to take finals in all their other courses.

AWS Officials
To Attend Convo

A delegation from Michigan State will leave Tuesday for Penn State to attend an Intercollegiate AWS regional convention. The convention, which is for the eastern region, will be held Wednesday through Saturday.

The theme of the conference is "Our Future Is Now." Those attending are Olga Torok, AWS Activities Board president; Jeanne Bachelder, AWS Judiciary Board president; Margaret Pugh, AWS Activities Board representative; and Miss Mabel Peterson, assistant counselor for women.

Draft Test Changed
To Fairchild Theater

The Selective Service College Qualification test will be held in Fairchild Theater instead of Berkeley Hall as previously announced.

All students who have admission cards for the April 24 test should report to Fairchild at 8:30 a.m., according to the Board of Examiners' office.

Correction

Senior Swingout will be Monday, May 26, at 7:30 instead of Saturday as stated in yesterday's State News.

Seniors can order caps and gowns in the Union book store until May 16.

Date Set for Annual Sale of Celebrities

Deans, Queens and Presidents Offered at Campus Chest Auction

Deans, queens and presidents will be offered to the public in the annual Campus Chest Auction to be held May 3 at 3 p.m.

Some of the celebrities to be auctioned include President Hamann, Dean of Students Tom King, Ralph Young, athletic director, and Pete Newell, basketball coach.

Campus queens, including Mary Lonn Trapp, Homecoming Queen; Dol Samuelson, Homecoming Queen court; Donna Quist, Porpoise Queen; and Amy Jickling, will be included in six groups of four girls each to be auctioned off.

Green Helmet, sophomore men's honorary, is sponsoring the event. The auction block will be placed in the south entrance of the Union Terrace, according to Ken Berman, president of the honorary.

Prominent football and basketball players will be on hand to donate their services to purchasers. Some of these will be Bob and Bill Carey, Gordon Stauffer and Sonny Means. Gaylord Sheets will lead a group of student government officers for sale. Campus police officers will also be "on the block."

The Phi Kappa Tau society will be auctioned for a weekend party. Bicycles contributed by the campus police will also be sold.

State Treasurer
To Speak Tonight

D. Hale Brake, State Treasurer, will be the principal speaker tonight at the organizational meeting of the Young Republican Club in Room 31 of the Union.

The meeting, scheduled for 7:30, will hear Brake discuss "The Principles of the Republican Party" and "Differences Between the Two Major Parties."

One Inmate Dead;
11 Guards Held

By BOB POPA

JACKSON—One prisoner is dead, 11 guards are being held as hostages, and a large portion of Southern Michigan Prison lies in shambles today following riots which broke out early Sunday evening.

Darwin Millege, a 44-year-old convict, was killed in an afternoon encounter with State Troopers when he resisted attempts to herd him back into his cell. Millege was serving a 15 to 20-year sentence for statutory rape.

In Cell Block 15, a solitary confinement ward, 101 inmates held the guards as hostages and gave every indication that that's where they intend to stay until Warden Julian S. Frisbee guarantees to conduct an investigation of "brutality" and poor dental and mental care.

Following Sunday evening's riots, the outbreaks spread over most of the prison. The prison laundry, gym, chapel, library and other buildings are either a total loss or severely damaged as a result of fires set by the prisoners. Debris of all sorts is scattered about the prison yard, and approximately 235 State Troopers have been called in to stand guard.

A detachment of 400 National Guardsmen have been alerted and are ready to move in if Governor Williams issues the order. Some guardsmen are already on the scene and have set up field kitchens because the prison's kitchen was also destroyed by fire.

In Cell Block 15, Earl Ward, spokesman for the inmates said, "We are holding guards as hostages because many prisoners who should be in Jonia Reformatory are mixed in with other prisoners. They are 'psychos' and should not be here."

There are "good" guards in the mental wards who are brutal to prisoners and we also object to other brutalities. As evidence, Ward showed reporters some rubber hoses and chains supposedly taken from the guards.

Ward added, "We have bargaining power (the hostages) and we are sincere in trying to settle this situation. We don't know whether the warden is sincere or not, however he has kept his promise and given the other inmates food. This is no joke. We want to settle this problem as soon as we can and without more trouble." Then he added, "this is the largest riot in prison history isn't it?"

"Crazy Jack" Hyatt, another leader in the rebellion, was transferred to Southern Michigan Prison after he tried to break out of Marquette Prison using Governor Williams as a hostage in July, 1959.

With Ward and Hyatt is another notorious figure, in Johnny Crockett. Crockett has studied law while serving his sentence and his appeal for a retrial is up.

Gets Close
Look at Riot

By BILL MCGRAW

After 27 hours of spasmodic rioting at Southern Michigan Prison, 179 men are still barricaded in the detention block with the lives of 11 guards in their hands and as observer you wonder about the thoughts in the minds of these convicts.

Most of the 6,459 inmates have been returned to their cells but the ring leaders and their hostages maintain a silence almost as oppressive as the four-story structure that houses them. The prisoners' "fort" is situated in the yard surrounded by the main prison and the hostages represent what the inmates call "bargaining power."

Evidences of the riot are everywhere. Musical instruments are broken and scattered about the yard in front of the chapel which is almost totally destroyed by fire; the library is in similar condition and the institution's books are either burned or thrown on the ground outside; gymnasium equipment is demolished and the gym floor is covered by six inches of water. You are shocked by the amount of damage and then you are told that the first buildings on which the prisoners' fury was vented are the buildings that the convicts have furnished with their own funds.

These men have destroyed all their recreational facilities. Recreational facilities which they paid for themselves. And again you wonder about the thoughts of these men.

To some of them it seems to be nothing more than a Fourth of July picnic as they yell, whistle, and throw burning paper in their cell blocks. Some boast of their good looks and suggest, "Take my picture for the paper," or "Mention me in your story."

To others it is a serious business and they are deadly serious about it. Ring leaders in the detention block are not being jovial. Men like Earl Ward, the spokesman for the group, say, "This is no joke." Men on the upper floors of the building held by the prisoners shout at you to stay away from the building "or we'll cut off a guard's head and throw it down to you." Others in the regular cell blocks promise another outbreak next week and call for

Baseball Team Set For Tartar Opener

Kobs Names Carlson as Starter

By DON CAMERON

Michigan State's baseball team takes to the road today for its season's opener against Tartar of Wayne University in Detroit's Northwest Division at 3 o'clock.

Coach John Kobs got a final change in Saturday's lineup, naming Carlson as starter.

Carlson, a sophomore, is still licking its wounds from a 24-pounding abdominal blow it took last season's Tartar game. Carlson was struck on his arm by a line drive while standing behind home plate.

Veteran right-hander Gus Carlson has been chosen by Coach John Kobs to hurl today's opener against Wayne University in Detroit. Last year Carlson won three and dropped one for the Spartans.

Flint Star Shines

Duckett's End Play Sparks Grid Drills

By TOM RYAN

Ellis Duckett, who ranked behind Vince Pesano and Billy Wells at right halfback last season, may develop into a top notch pass receiver next season if spring football practice is any indication of his ability.

Duckett, who was an all-state halfback for two years at Flint Northern High school, was shifted from his backfield position to end in the spring drills because of the wealth of backfield material. The coaches regard him as a good football player and felt the shift from right half to end could be made without weakening the former position and in turn, strengthen the pass receiving department.

So far the experiment has worked out to the satisfaction of everyone, including end coach Earle Edwards.

"Duckett is a fine receiver, a good blocker and has grasped the plays very well," Edwards stated after practice yesterday.

Duckett had just finished grabbing several of quarterback Willie Throck's passes and had out-run the defense. He also snagged several short passes over the center and did his share of blocking when the backs ran the ball.

Coach Biggie Munn had his two backfields running against the defensive unit, with quarterback Tom Yewic directing and Throck running the "pony" backfield.

The Billboard

By BILL MCGRAW
State News Sports Editor

Michigan State's baseball team opens its regular season today and if the Southern tour results and Saturday's romp over the Alumni squad are any indication, Coach John Kobs has an outfit that is going to be pretty tough on Big Ten opponents.

The Spartans picked up eight wins in 12 starts in Dixie and then gave the alumni aggregation a thorough 13-2 pasting last weekend.

An encouraging sign was evident in the alumni contest as the varsity squad ganged up on three hurlers for 11 hits. During the Southern swing the team had a meager .253 batting average and the wins were generally attributed to top-flight pitching but perhaps the previously muffled Spartan bats are beginning to produce.

The mound performances Saturday were impressive, as they have been so far this season. Bob Dangel, Rog Howard, Don LaPointe and Bob Carlson held the grade to seven hit, and only alum pitcher Lou Bloch hit for extra bases.

Bloch, star twirler for the MSC squad in 1950, teed off on one of LaPointe's pitches for a sixth inning double to deep right that drove in the first alumni run. "Fireballer Lou" incidentally, turned in a fine five inning start and kept varsity batters on their toes with a baffling variety of pitches.

Today's game in Detroit against Wayne may not tell too much about the team's possibilities for the year. Wayne dropped a "narrow" 11-0 decision to Michigan last week and may serve as a "yardstick" for comparison but mainly the contest should sharpen up the varsity for the three games this weekend, one with Ohio State and a pair with Illinois.

Ohio State is the defending Big Ten champion and is healthy showing against the Buckeyes would be a very encouraging sign for Coach Kobs' crew.

Those long faces you see around campus probably belong to Detroit Tiger fans who are somewhat upset by the performance of the clawless Bengals there far in the young American League season.

The Tigers have never finished in last place, but they are making great strides toward achieving that questionable goal at present. Red Rolfe, addicted to the use of left handed hitters against right handed pitchers and vice-versa, finds himself a victim of a plague of general lack of batting power although his pitching is doing about as well as expected.

The next logical move, if the front office will not market the players is to market the manager. Maybe someone else can do "more with what we got" than the thus far unsuccessful Mr. Rolfe.

Late Sports Wire...

CHICAGO (AP)—The Illinois State Athletic Commission ruled yesterday that welterweight Chuck Davey's Chicago Stadium bout with Chico Vejar May 7 had precedence over Davey's scheduled match with Carmen Basilio at Syracuse Thursday night.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Phil Cavaretta's Chicago Cubs spoiled Rookie Ronnie Kline's Major League debut last night by whipping the Bucs 7 to 1 in the season's first night game at Forbes Field.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The New York Giants unloaded an extra base hit barrage that included a pair of home runs and three triples last night as they blasted four Philadelphia Phillies pitchers for a 10-4 victory before 14,609 fans at Shibe Park.

Billy Wells, star right halfback on Michigan State's football team, won the inter-fraternity diving competition in his first serious try at the sport.

Wayne Surprises in Pin Win

Last place finishers in the previous two matches, Wayne University's bowling team took a liking to the MSC Union Alleys and walked off with top honors Saturday in the third match between Wayne, Michigan State, Michigan Normal and the University of Michigan.

Wayne topped 2,755 pins to runnerup Michigan State's 2,735. The Spartans carried a 43 pin lead into the final game but slumped to an 851 game while the Tartars shot 914.

Bob Conger paced the Wayne bowlers with 205, 189 and 202 for a 596 series. Ralph Miles, Wayne anchorman, had 189, 225 and 179 for 593. Wayne's games were 941, 900 and 914.

LeRoy Smith, Spartan lead-off man, topped the MSC leggers with 200, 209 and 193 for 602. MSC's Jack LaBelle tossed the high game for the Spartans with a 222 middle game in a 580 series.

Other Michigan State scores were: Don Siegan, 519; Ted Poniatowski, 335; and Stan Kurzman, 499.

Michigan, winner of the previous match, found the going rough and finished last with a team total of 2,417.

Dick Barnhart of Michigan had the high series of the match on 192, 224 and 203 for 619.

Michigan State's team leaves Thursday for Minneapolis to compete in the Big Ten tournament.

Bowling in the team event will be Smith, Siegan, LaBelle, Kurzman and Poniatowski. Ed Courtemanche will be an alternate. In the doubles will be the following pairs: Kurzman and Poniatowski will pair, Smith and Siegan, and LaBelle and Courtemanche.

New League President Installed

Catherine Black House Honored With Plaque

Margaret Sanford, Milford junior from Concord House, was installed as the new president of the Women's Co-operative League at ceremonies in the Union last night.

A new Dean of Students Scholarship Plaque was awarded to Catherine Black House at the ceremony also. Members of Catherine Black Co-operative had the highest scholastic average among co-operatives for fall and winter terms. Evening House got permanent possession of the Plaque last year after winning it three times in a row. The plaque was awarded by Mrs. Isabelle Gorton, counselor for women.

Students from co-operatives who have maintained a "B" average for fall and winter terms were awarded handmade awards by Dean of Students Tom King.

The featured speaker of the evening was Sarah VanHousen Jones, member of the State Board of Agriculture, who spoke on "Women's Place in the Modern World." Before the ceremonies Miss Jones had dinner at Robinson House and toured the other five women's co-operative houses. Former housemothers and co-operatives were also honored. They were Mrs. Elizabeth Munday, Mrs. Maude Robinson, Mrs. Thelma Lundquist, and Mrs. Gertrude Shaw.

Other guests were Miss Mildred Jones, women's dormitory manager; Miss D. J. Parker, co-ordinator of activities in women's residence halls; Miss (Greta) Hansen, manager of co-operative houses; Mr. and Mrs. William Sweetland, WCL officers; Miss Mabel Peterson, assistant counselor for women; Olga Turska, president of AMS Activities Board; Rosalie Nash, representing AMS Judiciary Board; and Mrs. Lorraine Lee, advisor to men's co-operatives.

Members of WCL Council who were installed at the ceremonies are: Carol Gaudin, vice president and Editor Rapids journal; Maude McRobert, recording secretary; and Adrian (Fredman) Carl. Nowhere, corresponding secretary and Case City freshman; Sally Edson, treasurer and Stoughton junior; Frances Wilson, Stoughton freshman; Marie Lee Anderson, Swartz Creek junior; Verma Grant, Pickford freshman; Nancy Bonnick, Jackson freshman; Marilyn Skidmore, Hastings freshman; Beatrice Johnson, Macomb freshman; and Marilyn Roe, Parma freshman.

In the danger area below St. Joseph, Mo., no heavy general rain was in sight. Not enough new water was coming down to threaten Kansas City. But the weather map was full of uncertain spring showers.

A hot-busting rain can come anytime in the midlands under such April conditions.

While the record upriver flood spread over the lowlands, levees still held at the $3,500,000 Sherman Air Force base at old Fort Leavenworth. Army engineers thought they could save it.

Farther upstream at St. Joseph, Rosecrans Field was deep under 14 feet of water.

The Army District Engineer at Kansas City estimated that more than 9,000 persons, were homeless between Rulo, Neb., and Kansas City, and another 3,000 persons displaced below Kansas City.

Col. J. J. Linton said 386,000 acres of land were under water between Rulo and the mouth of the river.

More than 3,700 soldiers and 2,200 civilians were battling the surging waters between here and St. Joseph. The 31st Engineer Combat Battalion from Camp McCoy, Wis., is being held as a reserve.

Displaced persons from all over the world find job opportunities at Michigan State.

Currently there are 22 displaced persons working on campus. Nineteen are from Latvia, one from Hungary, and two from Poland.

Ten of these displaced persons are food service helpers in the dormitories, Union or Kellogg Center, while others work as custodians or housekeepers. One is employed as a lab technician.

Due to language difficulties many of these people are having trouble at jobs quite different from those they were trained for in Europe. Seven of them attended European universities.

A course in Continuing Education is offered to help the DP's with the English language.

L. H. Gaudin, director of personnel, praises the efficiency of the work and claims "All are excellent employees."

State Troopers Await Developments in Prison Riot

prison officials or reporters to hear their complaints. They ask newsmen to listen to them if they want the "truth" about the conditions in the prison. Others demand to hear the radio or to be fed. The rioters have ruined the dining hall and must be fed by army field kitchens. These men, like Ward, consider this affair no joke.

Neither do the inmates of Block 11 where the main floor is covered by water and debris. In the fourth floor of cells they ask you take a picture of the blood splattered over the floor and down the stairs to the next landing. This, they tell you, is where State Troopers shot a convict.

They are insistent and businesslike in their demands in the detention block. Ward and the other leaders of the mob holding the hostages talk through barred windows but then decided that they will not discuss anything further. They are given food supplies and newspapers and are prepared to play a waiting game.

They have their guards for bargaining power and are firmly entrenched in a building that defies invasion. It may be a long wait.

Prison authorities described Ward, the leader, as having surprising intelligence for a person with only an eighth grade education. He is serving a 15 to 30-year sentence for armed robbery.

All hopes for settling the dispute last night seemed dim as the prisoners declined to talk any more until this morning.

Michigan State Police and a prison guard wait nervously for some new development in the prison mutiny at Southern Michigan Prison last night. The heavily armed troopers and unarmed guards wait in front of cell block 12, directly across from block 15 where the desperate convicts barricaded themselves. The smoke-filled yard between was hot except for police and reporters as prison officials waited the night out with vigilance.

Students Plan Retail, Office Clubs Convo

High school and college students throughout Southern Michigan will attend a Retailing and Office Clubs Conference in Fairchild Theater today.

Dr. Paul Bagwell, head of the Department of Written and Spoken English, will deliver the principal address. His topic will be "Hats Off to the Past, Coats Off to the Future."

Margaret Ewert, Detroit junior, will welcome the group. The program for the conference will include a series of skits on selling methods and office procedures presented by each of the participating groups.

Delegates from 19 high schools, three junior colleges and from Western Michigan College of Education and MSC will take part.

Publications Dinner Slate

Between 250 and 275 publications staff members and editors will attend MSC's annual Publications Banquet May 20.

The banquet will be held in Union Ballroom at 6 p.m., according to Sara Murray, banquet head.

Featured speakers of the evening will be Pres. John A. Mah and Prof. A. A. Apple, Journalism Department head.

The Michigan State Spartan Engineer, Spartan Wolverine will give skits representing their respective publications, with an award given the best presentation.

Awards for the past year be mentioned in the printed program, and not given out in previous years. Top position points for the publications will also be printed, rather than announced.
