Truman Blasts GOP Leaders, Candidates in Whistlestop Tour

BOARD TRUMAN TRAIN (AP)—Whistle-stopping Truman lambasted the Republicans in a campaign from Minnesota to Montana Monday, picturing Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as the "front man" for big lobbies declaring:

"An uninformed president, clinging for the big-time jobs who run the Republican party, shouldn't be in the White House."

"This is the worst combination I think of, but that is what we are trying to sell you this 'Don't you buy it.'"

"This second leg of his whistle-stop tour on behalf of Democratic national ticket, he compiled a series of diatribes on Eisenhower, the presidential nominee, with a view of the "common man special interests" theme that through his own successful for the White House in

Planning Stage For New Dorm Nears Windup

Plans will be completed within the next two weeks for the new $11 1/2 million dormitory to be constructed west of the Kellogg Center, according to Emory Foster, manager of Dormitory and Food Services. Bids for construction will be submitted in November.

The dorm, to house 2,700 male students, will be built over a long-range plan and will consist of six units and a central dining unit when completed. Only three residence units and the dining unit are to be constructed at first, and it is estimated that they will cost $7 1/2 million.

Financed on a self-liquidating basis, income from the new dormitory will pay for the construction and maintenance of the building, Foster added.

Ground will be broken this fall and part of the residence hall will be ready for occupancy by fall term of 1953.

R. Cobb Dies Attempt to Break Redboat Record

CH NEAS, Scotland (AP)—A 32-year-old man died in an explosion here today as he attempted to break a record for a redboat race.

The boat, which was disintegrating on a beating trip on Lake Erie, was hit by a wave of 176 feet, and an hour set last July by the crew of Seattle, Wash.

Verine Sales Record Peak

Verine sales during registration week reached a record according to Dick McCluskey, promotion manager. Total sales to 713 Wolverines, the 125 over last year's sales.

Verine saleswoman was Mimi Kellen, Birmingham, who sold over 10 per cent more than last year. Others high in sales were Kellen, Birmingham and Elaine Taylor, Berkeley.

Souvenir Hunter Air Force Brass Loses Chaperau To 'Hat-napper'

WASHINGTON (AP)—An appeal went out Monday for the return of a 50-hat, Air Force Association said.

Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, air chief of staff, lost his hat at an association luncheon in Detroit last month when the general appeared as the main speaker.

The association said the hat was "unique and unmistakably identifiable and encrusted clear around with silver lightning." It blamed an "over-zealous souvenir hunter" for the hat-napping.

The general is willing to forgive and forget with no questions asked and no names required, the association said, if the hat is returned.

A basic air ROTC student gets his new blue uniform, replacing last year's khaki outfits. Distribution of more than 1,500 uniforms will take place in the new supply building in Quonset Village. This building was formerly the Huddle.

STUN Asks Registration Of Textbooks

Student demand for used textbooks is high this year.

STUN, or Student Textbooks New and Used, has requested more MSC students to register used books that they want to sell, according to Chairman Connie Alfonso, Charlotte senior.

Books to be sold can be registered at the Union Desk. Then prospective buyers contact the owners of the book. Registration cards can be obtained for five cents.

Miss Jennings stated that the need for basic course books is especially high.

STUN is sponsored by Associated Women Students.

Cadets Don New Garb Campus Gets Glimpse Of AF Blue Uniforms

The Air Force ROTC Department began issuing blue uniforms to basic students yesterday at the new supply building in Quonset Village.

More than 1,500 uniforms will eventually be issued to first and second year Air Force ROTC students, who formerly wore regular army khaki, according to Col. Graeme S. Bond, professor of Air Science and Tactics.

The uniform consists of service cap, coat, trousers, shoes and socks, shirt, belt, tie and accessories.

Since the Air Force converted to blue uniforms, supply has been short. Now, colleges throughout the country will provide basic as well as advanced students with the new blue.

In the case of advanced students, the Air Force appropriates funds to the college on a per student basis. The college then buys uniforms, enabling newly commissioned graduates to keep their uniforms.

The basic uniforms are an "issue in kind," Bond explained. This means that the Air Force provides the uniforms directly through the ROTC Department.

Bond added that issuance of the uniforms will continue until all 1,500 basic students have received them.

Spirit Committee Requests Talent For Pep Rallies

Talent to be presented at pep rallies is being sought by the Spartan Spirit Committee of the Student Congress.

Events for anyone interested in working with the committee will be held Thursday night from 7 to 8 in the Tower Room on the fourth floor of the Union.

According to Elaine Jennings, sophomore member of the committee, vocalists, comedians, tap dancers, pianists, and acrobats are in special demand.

Entertainers selected by the spirit committee will be invited to perform for students at pre-game pep rallies.

Journalism Prof To Join Education Research Project

Earl A. McIntyre, assistant professor of Journalism, has been named to work on an education-research project jointly sponsored by MSC and the University of Chicago.

The project, the first of its kind in the nation, will study relations between public education and the press and radio.

Public opinion research and content analysis of press and radio will be the first steps in the project, McIntyre said. These will be followed by study to determine where communications between educational institutions and the press and radio break down. An extensive program of public education through press and radio and a final study of effectiveness will complete the program.

Oct. 1, the Journalism Department will coordinate an extensive study of education-press-radio cooperation. The Michigan Communications Council will work with the universities.

Dr. Francis Chate, director of the Midwest Administration Center of the University of Chicago, will serve as general consultant of the program.

Fund Drive Begins On Campus, Oct. 6

The Greater Lansing United Health and Welfare Fund Drive will begin on campus Oct. 6. As in previous years workers will not seek pledges from students who contribute through Campus Chest.

A new feature of this year's campaign is the inclusion of the American Red Cross in the participating agencies. This change will mean the elimination of a separate fund-raising campaign later in the year.

Harold E. Spornberg, director, said that he will announce challenges for the various college divisions soon and that they will meet this week to discuss campaign quotas.

Injured Students Reported 'Fair' In Howell Hospital

Two MSC students were reported in fair condition Monday at the McPherson Hospital in Howell after being injured in an automobile accident on US-16 near Howell Saturday afternoon.

The students, Robert M. Brooks, 25, of Adrian, and James Felix Burkholder, 20, of Flint, were on their way to the MSC-U of M football game at Ann Arbor.

Killed in the same accident was another MSC student, Donald M. Bernacker, 21, of Flint.

Funeral rites for Bernacker will be held in Flint at 1:30 today.

Staff Meeting

A meeting for all new State News staff members will be held tonight in the Tower Room, fourth floor, Union. All freshmen and new student interested in working on the State News are urged to attend.

The meeting for people interested in editorial work will be held at 7 p.m. in the Tower Room. Advertising people will meet at 8 p.m. in the same room. Former advertising staffers are also asked to attend.

Influence Sale Denied by Adlai

Defends Use of Fund Which Cut 'Financial Sacrifice'

CHICAGO (AP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson said yesterday night none of the Illinois state officials whose pay he has supplemented could have been improperly influenced.

Addressing a nation-wide television and radio audience, the Democratic presidential nominee said he gave the officials the supplementary pay "and I could have discharged them any time."

Stevenson opened his address with a new defense of the fund he has used to help reduce what he termed the financial sacrifice which men of "real competence" make when they leave private employment to enter state service.

The fund to which the governor referred was made up of a balance left over from his 1948 gubernatorial campaign, plus subsequent contributions from a group of Chicago businessmen.

Stevenson, in his speech Monday night, recalled that in his inaugural address as governor, in January, 1949, he said that a lot of government positions don't pay enough to attract the right kind of men.

"Too often," he declared at that time, "the reward is abuse, criticism, and ingratitude."

The Democratic nominee told his TV-radio audience that some of the men he has brought into the state government came in at great personal sacrifice from the financial standpoint.

"At least four," he added, "have had offers in private employment, double or more the money they could have earned in public employment."

Stevenson spoke from a closed studio at the Midebakey Theater. No audience was present.

Stevenson said he had no brief for the method he had used to help state employees, but said it is the only one he could have used.

He said that he long has felt that candidates should disclose their financial records so there should be no misgivings about their positions and whether they are independent.

Stevenson said that he had discussed the cost of living, labor problems, farm questions, conservation, civil rights, corruption, economy in government, and the over-shadowing issues of war and peace.

"I have done the best I could," he said, "to talk sense to the American people."

The Democratic nominee said See STEVENSON, Page 4.

Stevenson's Challenge Unheeded

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Richard Nixon's press secretary said Monday the Republican vice-presidential candidate does not plan to make public his income tax returns or further details of his finances.

It was Nixon's own radio-TV broadcast of his finances—which did not include details of his income tax returns—that evidently prompted Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson to tell Sunday night how much he has earned and how much federal income taxes he has paid in the past 10 years.

Stevenson's running mate, Sen. John J. Sparkman of Alabama, said he would make a similar report.

And Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican presidential nominee, promised Monday to make public a full report on his own financial affairs.

Ike Schedules Brief Lansing Appearance

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is scheduled to make a 45-minute "whistle-stop" in Lansing Wednesday afternoon as part of his campaign tour for the office of President of the United States.

Eisenhower's stop will be one of six scheduled for Michigan that day, and is part of a campaign tour that will carry him through 28 states. He will begin with a speech in Bay City in the morning and wind up with a stop in Grand Rapids.

Both the Lansing police department and the Ingham County Sheriff's Department are anticipating large crowds at the speech and steps have already been taken to supervise the people and traffic in the area. A request has been submitted to the Lansing City Council asking that all parking on South Washington Avenue between South Street and the Red Clubhouse be prohibited in order to provide a maximum of room for those interested in attending.

The 18-coach Eisenhower train is slated to arrive in Lansing at 2:50 p.m. and will pull out at 3:35 p.m. The General will speak from the platform of the observation car.

250 Expected To Attend MSC Cancer Meet

Two training conferences for Volunteer Workers of the American Cancer Society for Lay Workers and the Fourth Michigan Cancer Conference for physicians in the field will be held simultaneously on the MSC campus Oct. 2-9.

About 250 Michigan cancer workers are expected to attend the two meetings at which leading specialists in both medicine and cancer education will bring members up to date on the latest cancer control methods.

Robert B. Thorpe, director of public education for the American Cancer Society, will speak on "Education—The Key to Cancer Control" at the training conference.

The Michigan Cancer conference will feature speakers Dr. R. J. Hubbell, Kalamazoo, president of the Michigan State Medical Society; and Dr. C. Allen Payne, Grand Rapids, pathologist for Blodgett Memorial Hospital.

They will discuss "Some Aspects of the Cancer Problem in Michigan" and "Is Progress Being Made in Cancer Control" respectively.

The conferences are sponsored by the Michigan Medical Society, the Southeastern Michigan and Michigan divisions of the American Cancer Society and the Continuing Education Service.

Clouding the Issues

Regardless of the outcome of the coming presidential election the campaign tactics of 1952 will long be remembered. The historians can evaluate them in future years and decide on the relative merits of "confessions," charges of corruption in high office and countercharges of use of the "big lie" technique.

The recent issues concerning the now-famous (or infamous) trust fund of Sen. Nixon and the somewhat similar funds doled out by Gov. Stevenson have captured the attention of a public already highly involved and interested in the coming election.

Optimistically, it can be pointed out that anything that arouses the somewhat lethargic voters in our democratic system is for the best. In 1948 only about 52 per cent of our eligible voters cast their ballots and if it takes a smear campaign to jolt the public into action, then perhaps the end justifies the means.

However, this attitude has its pitfalls. A confused voter has little or no more value than a non-voter.

Nothing, politically or otherwise, lends more to confusion than doubt and if candidates in both parties are accused of shady dealings, where are we to turn?

Actually, the muddling thus far has probably accomplished very little in the line of changing voters' minds or influencing their opinions.

California's Sen. Nixon squirmed for a few days in water that was a little too warm for comfort but the tub was in the Republican camp and when he emerged it turned out that he had just had a refreshing bath that left him even clearer in the eyes of his colleagues than before the plunge.

In an unprecedented television version of the prodigal son story, Nixon reaffirmed the GOP faith in him with a dramatic performance that must have turned Johnnie Ray green with envy.

After the smoke has cleared it appears that the Republican voter echoes Eisenhower, saying, "You're still my boy" and the Democrats are going to stick with Stevenson.

Stevenson, of course, represents another facet of the same situation. Attacked by the GOP, the Democratic standard bearer stumbled, hesitated and then won back his doubting voters with a disclosure of the fund and an explanation.

So with all the hubbub of attacks, confessions and absolution no one has suffered except the little man who marks the "X" on the ballot. He is even more confused than he was before the front page was filled with stories of questionable practices by men seeking the high offices in politics.

In the meantime the real election issues have gone unmentioned by Joe Average. Crowded into the background were the viewpoints on foreign policy, civil rights, fair employment practices, fiduciary rights and the other differences of opinion in the party platforms.

On most occasions the real issues are in the fine print—not in the glaring headlines or the sensational stories which have much emotional but little rational value.

Public officials are chided, scolded and blasted for irresponsibility if they are lax in carrying out the functions of their offices but the voter goes unmolested if guilty of the same thing.

Joe Average has a responsibility to his country that is just as important as that of his representative. To know the issues and to vote intelligently is not an easy task. The responsible voter will take the time to check the real issues instead of being unduly influenced by the emotional impact of political "smears" or trust fund "confessions."

Letter to the Editor

Reader Advocates Help Week

THE EDITOR
A recent article in the September Readers Digest entitled "The Metamorphosis of Hell Week" expressed an idea which every fraternity (and sorority) on campus would do well to consider.

This article very effectively points out the value and ultimate benefits of changing the last letter in the Hell Week to a "P." In other words make Hell Week Help Week.

If a generally accepted idea that the fraternities on campus are not, exactly in the loving good graces of many others in the campus community.

This situation can and should be changed and each fraternity has an excellent chance to change it by starting now to take concrete steps to inaugurate Help Week here at MSC.

A few fraternities have already done much to further the cause. However, much more can and should be done. Instead of the useless (except to satisfy the sadistic urges of some) games and often dangerous hazing and "initiation" of pledges, why not give them a chance to prove themselves worthy of fraternity membership by engaging in some worthwhile and beneficial activity which would not only be helpful to the fraternity but to the entire community.

There are many things in need of doing. Imagine the resultant good will if a group of fraternities pledge to wash the windows or sweep the walk of the merchants of East Lansing. Many civic organizations and churches could well use the potential manpower at the disposal of the fraternities. The Lansing Salvation Army has just issued a call for recreation leaders. A community survey would undoubtedly show that hundreds of opportunities exist for fraternities to help.

Many universities have initiated this program with excellent results. The respect and good name of those fraternities have increased a hundred fold.

Let's get started at MSC, now and do the fraternities the best favor they've ever had done for them by changing the "H" to a "P."

MODERN TRIANGLE A BOY... A GIRL... TV
Let's face it. Living rooms are still in style. But a third party is making its way in to form a crowd.
And no wonder. Few can resist this miracle that has brought the world and set it down in front of you. Living history, flowing past your eyes. Politics, U. N. sessions, Sports. Spot news. Personalities.
We in the Bell System help to put you in this front-row seat on history. Bell Laboratories research contributed to TV development. Now our radio-relay system and coaxial cables carry the images between cities and across the country.
Our part in TV transmission is only one among dozens of activities that keep the front line of modern communication. They are all reasons, we believe, why college people should find out what the Bell System has to offer in the way of opportunities.
Why don't you ask your college placement office about it?

Coach Duffy Daugherty, Oregon State in its first game over Utah a week ago, said that he had expected the Spartans to win.

State mentor Kip Taylor, who coached the Michigan games, said he had data on Spartan line play.

Coach of Portland will be in the modern series.

Webber. The Spartans lost to Oregon State 25-13. It is this defeat Munn's squad forget.

Breniff, a junior from Maumee, O., was inserted in the offensive guard slot filled last season by Dean Garner and Frank Kapral. He saw little service last year but was given the first string guard post in spring practice and has held it since.

Breniff was a key blocker for Prince ton's All-American Dick Kazmaier while in high school at Maumee.

These two new names are beginning to become familiar to Spartan fans because of their yeoman service against the Wolverines. And as the season wears on other new players are bound to catch the notice of the fans.

Best bets to break in are Bob Zagers, a halfback from Cadillac, and John Matsock, a Detroit soph-more, who is listed as the most likely center for Jim Ellis' attack.

A couple of tackles, Mopie Murphy and Randy Schreengost, and Don Culler, a rugged 195-pound tackle candidate from East Jordan, also have a good chance to see action.

Michigan State's 13-0 before having 27-13.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Halfback Billy Elly, who was shelved for the season by a knee injury Monday, accentuating Illinois' ball-carrying problem in its crucial Big Ten opener.

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Halfback Lloyd Israels was shifted to the No. 1 fullback spot Monday as Northwestern started preparations for Vanderbilt's invasion Saturday.

Grants Accepted for MSC Total More Than $100,000

Twenty-three staff changes were approved recently for MSC by the State Board of Agriculture, according to Karl H. McDonel, secretary.

Gifts and grants totaling $107,049.24 were received for the college also.

Dr. William H. Roe, assistant superintendent of the school facilities survey, Michigan Department of Public Instruction, was appointed associate professor of education beginning Oct. 1.

Robert Sharr, chief of the adult education section, Michigan Department of Public Instruction, was appointed an associate professor in the MSC Continuing Education Service.

Charles A. Laughhead, M.D., was reappointed to the college Health Service as a staff physician. Dr. Laughhead has been in private practice in Lansing for the past two years; and was a member of the college staff prior to that.

Marston Kinet, psychology; Willard G. Warrington, Board of Examiners; and Mrs. Yerna Sloan, mental hygienist, Health Service; and Roland E. Rowell, director of the Kellogg Fred Research project, to be stationed at the Kellogg sub-station, Hickory Corners.

Truman

The slogan brought cheers and laughter from a crowd of at least 7,500 at Fargo. Eisenhower has a sign on his campaign train reading "Look about, neighbor."

The President also upheld his own administration, saying "the record is good."

They crushed the Communist conspiracy in this country and they've stopped the advance of Communism all over the globe."

More than 50 prospective staff members of the 1953 Wolverine, MSC yearbook, attended an introductory coffee hour yesterday in Old College Hall of the Union Grill. Editorial and business staff heads for the book were introduced, and various phases of Wolverine sales and production were explained, according to Bob Scott, business manager.

Professor to Aid National Program

Dr. James W. Miller, associate professor of political science at Michigan State College, has been named associate director of the Citizenship Clearing House of New York University.

The appointment of Dr. Miller, who is on leave from MSC, was announced recently by Russell D. Niles, dean of New York University's Law Center, with which the Clearing House is affiliated.

Dr. Miller will work with Director George H. Williams, associate professor of law at New York University, to carry out a national program of conferences, workshops, and publications designed to prepare college students for the political responsibilities of American citizenship.

Stevenson

(Continued from Page 1) He also had hoped that his opponent would do likewise. Instead, Stevenson said, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is saying such things as that only he and his running mate can insure clean government in Washington.

"What the general believes on most questions, I don't know," the governor declared. "With one exception—agriculture. He jumped off his platform and onto ours, but most Republicans in Congress won't follow him."

Stevenson said that he finds that there are four big issues in the minds of the people. The war in Korea, the question of huge surpluses, the Communist danger in this country, whether prosperity is in jeopardy, and how to get the greatest efficiency in government.

'War Baby' Village Post Office Lacks Customers

Quonset Village Post Office may, in less than a year, find itself a ghost office. Originated in May 1947 for the convenience of single men then living in Quonset Village, the small yellow post office on Willow Lane served 1,456 quonset hut residents.

Today, there are no full-time students living in the Village. Since the quonset huts are now used exclusively by short-course students, adults seeking convenient housing, and those people who were forced to vacate the State Department Building after it burned, business handled by the clerk-in-charge, Mrs. Wrennah McGhee, has hit an all-time low.

Due to the situation, the unit may have to close in short order, July, 1953, unless the United States Postal Department finds that the business and services carried on there have increased considerably in the intervening months.

Those who use the post office, as well as Mrs. McGhee herself, have expressed the hope that business will increase so that the Postal Department will grant another two-year extension to the South Campus branch.

The location of the post office, one block east of the Michigan State Police Headquarters, seems a bit out-of-the-way for students, but a look at any map

Nine Courses Scheduled for Night School

Nine courses have been scheduled for the fall term non-credit adult evening school which will begin tonight. Registration for the courses can be completed by mail or by attending tonight's opening sessions.

Included in the schedule are courses in fine arts, public speaking, English, reading, and horticulture.

Mail registrations should be addressed to Harold J. Dillon, head of the department of education and community services of the MSC Continuing Education Service.

Following is a list of the courses being offered for non-credit this term: Drawing and Composition, Ceramics, Effective Speaking, English as a Foreign Language, Flower Arrangement, Fuels and Lubricants, Improving Your Reading Ability, and Quality Control by Statistical Methods.

Dorms, Off-Campus Housing Filled by Large Enrollment

With more students enrolled than anticipated by the housing department, MSC's living units are filled nearly to capacity, reports Lyle Thorburn, housing director. Approximately 180 men and 170 women are being housed in short course and temporary living units.

There are 1,500 married students, and the waiting list for married housing is large. No openings are foreseen in the near future.

Off-campus houses for women are completely filled while there are very few vacancies for men. Dormitories for men accommodate 3,250 while women's dorms facilitate 2,500.

Plans are in the making to construct another men's dormitory across from the Kellogg Center some time this fall.

Even Preps Rebel At Cost of Learning

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—All of Austria's several thousand university and high school students refused to register for the winter term Monday because the government increased tuition fees by more than 200 percent, the secretary of the students' organization in Vienna announced.

Netters to Meet

The meeting for freshmen tennis prospects is tonight at 5:30 in room 209 in Jenison Gym instead of yesterday as previously announced.

Need Managers

Freshmen and sophomores interested in becoming football managers are urged to attend a meeting tonight at 7 in room 215, Jenison Gym.

of the campus discloses that for men living in Shaw Hall, the south campus unit is just as close by as the East Lansing office, Mrs. McGhee has found.

Mrs. McGhee adds that the new men's dormitory, construction of which is expected to begin in 1953, will be located in the same general district.

The post office has adequate parking space, and the only services not offered, according to Mrs. McGhee, are the writing of international money orders and the shipping of packages.

Concerning the quality fountain pens at the window, Mrs. McGhee says: "We are very proud of that we have post office that write legibly."

The post office is open days from 8:00 to 12:00 from 1:45 to 5:00. The schedule allows students attend their postal duties the lunch period. Hours are from 8:00 to 11:00 a.m.
