Union Changes

Some comment has arisen recently concerning new procedures in the Union grill and cafeteria. Criticism has been aimed at the method of payment in the cafeteria.

Prior to the change in procedure, patrons of the cafeteria were given cash register checks which were paid at another cashier's counter before leaving the cafeteria.

The new plan requires that the patron pay as he leaves the serving area before eating. This causes inconvenience, say the critics, for people who have guests for lunch or dinner and wish to pay all of the checks.

Mike Dmochowski, Union manager, explained that it will take people a little time to get used to the change but that in the long run, they will save time because they have to stop only once rather than waiting out two separate lines. He also says the process is further stepped up by the addition of extra cashiers.

It requires that dinner parties stay together when leaving the serving area but this same system is in general use in most cafeterias.

On the other hand, grill patrons have generally praised the addition of the new snack bar which is set up for people who want just a cup of coffee or a doughnut and don't care to back the regular grill order line at the main counter.

This counter is designed to relieve some of the congestion that results during peak periods in the grill. By and large, it is accomplishing this purpose successfully.

Community Chest Drive

Community Chest is conducting its soliciting drive this week in the Lansing area. The goal is to "give a little more" because the Red Cross had been added to the 50 other agencies benefiting from the drive.

The merits of the once a year drive which now is truly only once a year, since inclusion of the Red Cross, cannot be overemphasized. The multitude of good work is done by the organizations with this one "hit".

A breakdown of some of the amounts to be given to the major groups is: Red Cross, $70,000; Boy Scouts, $41,000; Girl Scouts, $26,000; Greater Lansing Visiting Nurses Association, $20,000; Family Service Organization, $49,000; and Child Aid Society, $42,000.

Michigan State College employees have always either met or bettered their quota. This year the campus quota is $22,250. College employees have until Oct. 24 to meet the quota. Campus headquarters are in Room 317 of the Administration Building.

Professor Accused of Coercion

PA System Use At Game Hit By 4 Readers

TO THE EDITOR

The game Saturday proved something else about our Student Government. The public address system for which $200 was spent was introduced to the crowd. AND HOW. This abortive attempt to arouse school spirit in good old Student Congress form was basically a good idea. But to put the microphone in the hands of an "unforgivable blunder" was an unfortunate blunder.

The public address system did succeed in rousing the student but only with an intense desire to cut the microphone out of the tube from the amplifier. We feel to lead the students in cheering is one thing but to push them into it is quite another.

After all it was much more concern to the crowd to hear "stop sitting on your hands like a bunch of old ladies" or "get your arms from around your girls and bring them out of the huddle" than for that physician in the stadium to be able to hear that he was wanted in the emergency room of Sparrow Hospital. After all, who cares if your grandmother dies of chronic encephalitis as long as we bring 'em out of the huddle.

TO THE EDITOR

The following incident occurred on campus last week. A student wore a button endorsing one of the presidential candidates to class.

On seeing the button her professor said, "Young lady, you are going to fail this course for the year." Then he proceeded to present his political views favoring the opposing party.

The professor's threat to fail the student was probably intended as a joke. Nevertheless, she expressed some concern about the effect this incident would have on the professor's attitude toward her and the grade she would consequently receive.

However, this incident has more far-reaching significance than whether a single student passes or fails a course. It disturbs our sense of justice—that a professor should coerce and even threaten a student into changing her beliefs to conform with his opinion.

It really concerns us with a stake in freedom of thought and expression, a people who value the right to evolve and adhere to opinions independent of authority, academic, political or otherwise. Our growth depends on the free and open exchange of ideas as much as plants require sun and water.

On the outcome of unimportant everyday events such as the one reported daily on the thousands of campuses, factories and offices of our wide land, involving just such average people as our professor and his student depends the democracy of our country. For democracy is not irrevocably purchased by the heroism of its defenders on the field of battle. It is nourished and strengthened by private citizens actively pursuing its principles.

Bombs from a Marine Corps fighter bomber (center) burst on a Communist-held hill and anti-aircraft position on the Western front in Korea where heavy fighting has again flared up.

Mountain Warfare Enters Eighth Day

SEOUL (AP)—Victorious South Korean troops holding the crest of White Horse Mountain last night cut down Chinese Communist suicide squad attackers and pounded the Reds' last foothold on the hill mass.

Fighting raged into its eighth day on the key height overlooking the Chorwon Valley route to Seoul.

Chinese thrusts were growing weaker, front reports said. However, the Red attacks were not expected to end until Chinese strength was completely spent.

In eight nights and seven days of almost constant fighting high Allied officers said the retrained South Korean Ninth Division had inflicted a staggering defeat on the Chinese Communist 38th Army Corps, regarded as one of the Red Army's best.

Estimates of Red casualties ran as high as 10,000 killed and wounded. Probably three Chinese divisions, numbering 23,000, were crippled in the week-long battle.

Gen. James A. Van Fleet, U.S. Eighth Army commander, who has retained the entire Republic of Korea army, called the Ninth Division's stand a "tremendous victory against superior odds."

ROK casualties were not announced, but were described as "considerable."

In last night's action, the ROKs attacked three knobs, the last Chinese hold on the northwest slope of the two-mile long ridge. Allied tanks, artillery and flare planes supported the drive.

In desperation the Reds hurled a half dozen suicide attackers carrying Bangalore torpedoes—dynamite stuffed into pipe lengths. ROK machine guns and rifles cut them down before the charges could be exploded.

Two Red platoons, screaming as they charged, followed the suicide squad. They were thrown back in a short, sharp battle.

Earlier in the day, the ROKs blasted the Chinese off one knob on White Horse and occupied two other enemy positions on the northwest slope, the Eighth Army said.

On the Central Front Eighth Army troops at Finger Ridge, west of the Pukhan River, duelled at hand grenade range with Chinese Reds for an hour before dawn, and drove them off the ridge.

The Chinese, counterattacked and fought for six hours before retreating. During this period Red artillery fired a massive barrage of more than 6,000 mortar and artillery shells on Allied positions.

Allied planes circled the front lines throughout yesterday, stinging repeatedly at Red staging and supply areas. U. S. Sabre jets tangled with Communist MiGs over Northwest Korea but claimed no damage.

Convicts

An anonymous tip set police onto the house in Lansing's east side. When 10 patrolmen led by Capt. Ward A. Rainwater called for the brothers' surrender, they replied hastily:

"Don't shoot! We'll come out!" Later, at the Lansing jail, Claude wept but Lewis talked unemotionally.

"We figured we might as well be free as long as we could. We were in there, the Flint jail, on a bum rap," he told newsmen.

It was not known at the time whether the still-free Billings had picked up more of an arsenal in his flight.

Search for him first was turned to the Ingham-Shiawassee County area when a car similar to the one stolen in Bay City appeared at a service station. The attendant said he saw several shotguns in the rear seat.

Later Monday morning, when the car was recovered just north of the village of Perry, officers found three shotguns in the vehicle.

Just about the time the two Smiths were captured, authorities thought they had Billings cornered. A farmer said he saw a person answering Billings' description run into a barn near the intersection where the car was found.

State Police drew up reinforcements, leveled their guns and advanced on the barn with tear gas bombs ready. They combed through the building but found no fugitive.

Billings, a native of West Branch, has served three prison terms, one in Leavenworth for transporting a car across state lines. He also has served another term in a state prison for car theft and one at Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson for burglary.

Billings

(Continued from Page 1.) render without getting a reply. Babcock and Murray then jumped into the ditch and grabbed the object. It turned out to be Billings.

Billings was turned over to Lt. Frank Jones of the Flint police for return to the jail from which he escaped by jamming an apparently smuggled automatic pistol into Besteman's belly Sunday.

Oklahoma

The part of Jud Fry, the villain who tried unsuccessfully to woo Ismaire, was handled deftly by Alfred Cibelli Jr. Although he was convincing as the hostile brute with a chip on his shoulder, he also showed that Jud was actually a lonely and unhappy man.

The dancing and singing chorus gave a big assist in making the night a success. They did full justice to Rodgers-Hammerstein songs including "Kansas City," "It's a Scandal, It's an Outrage," "Out of My Dreams," and "The Farmer and the Cowman."

Although everybody was having fun, one of the most enthusiastic of the group was the conductor, Peter Laurini. He inspired his musicians with the vitality and sincerity that characterized the entire show.

43% of Family Goods, Services Remain Under OPS Control

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nearly 43 per cent of the goods and services included in the average family budget now are under full price control, the government reported today.

The Office of Price Stabilization, OPS, figured ceilings have been removed or suspended on about 42 per cent of the budget items, with the other 15 per cent still under partial control.

The survey considers an average family to consist of four persons. The budget items included are those priced monthly by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, BLS, in 56 cities to compile its cost of living index.

Of the 42 per cent of these items not under control, the OPS divided it this way:

1. About 35 per cent—including all fruits and vegetables—have been exempted from controls by Congress.

2. OPS itself has voluntarily lifted controls from about seven per cent.

Of the seven per cent less than three per cent of the items have been decontrolled outright, including fresh and frozen fish, sugar, ice, eyeglasses and hospital charges.

Controls have been suspended on more than four per cent of the remaining items in this group, including some home furnishings, practically all shoes, television sets and table model radios, cigars and hosiery. OPS has said that if these prices are controlled, currently the items are selling below ceiling.

Television

Hunter explained. The only station in the country operated by an educational institution at the present time is located at Iowa State College.

Construction permits have been granted to Southern California, University of Houston, Kansas State College and six of 11 proposed stations on the New York State Educational network.

In radio, the trend is towards manufacturing combination AM and FM receivers and the number of FM stations is increasing, although at present most Americans listen to stations.

In the television industry a similar switch is taking place in that manufacturers are producing sets adaptable to Ultra High Frequency radio's FM, UHF will be prior reception. However, most TV sets in use today operate on VHF.
