A Loss for MSC

Seventy-six years of administrative service to Michigan State College will be missing from the roster when the college opens its doors for the 1953-54 school year.

Three men, who have devoted that much time to serving MSC, begin retirement furloughs July 1 of this year. Dr. Ernest L. Anthony, dean of the School of Agriculture; Dr. Boris G. Miller, dean of the School of Engineering; Dr. Harrison R. Hunt, head of the Department of Zoology, all bid farewell to active administration as of that date.

For these men, MSC was not just a fleeting four-year glimpse of a growing college. MSC began, for them, as a school which had just shed the "Agricultural" and replaced it with "State." It began as a school with about 2,000 students and less than 200 faculty members.

Michigan State was just moving from the small college ranks to the large college ranks, and the three men had ample chance to look behind the scenes at the growth of a "cow college" into the ninth largest university in the United States.

So they grew with the college and experienced a college's growing pains. And they absorbed the Michigan State scene and advanced to the top, as heads of two of the oldest schools in the college and one of the fastest growing departments on campus.

To these men belong a great deal of the credit for the excellence of their particular curricula. They helped Michigan State grow in academic stature while Michigan State was helping them grow in academic stature.

So, along with the news of President Hannah's departure to new horizons, comes the news of the planned departure of three other men who stood behind the scenes and pulled some of the strings that built Michigan State College.

The shoes of these men will not be easy for Michigan State College to fill.

It never rains but what it pours.

The Right Step

The recent college decision in the case of a student involved in a series of campus thefts shows a step in the right direction.

MSC officials refused to press criminal charges against the student on the theory that "he needs treatment instead of punishment."

Although his criminal activities resulted in thefts of articles with a total value of $5,800, including $4,000 worth of photographic equipment stolen last term, officials took an admirable outlook on the situation.

According to Tom King, dean of students, the student "undoubtedly has a fine technical mind and could be an outstanding student."

Rather than sacrifice these abilities to uncorrective detention and the possibility of a life of crime, the college decision offers a chance for the student to be adjusted to normal standards of behavior.

Too seldom does the public share this view and the results of the emphasis on punishment rather than rehabilitation for young criminals is clearly shown in prison and parole board records. The percentage of repeated offenders could be sharply reduced if public opinion were consistently in line with the attitude displayed by the college in this instance.

Just About Anything
More Kiss Research

By PHIL GUNBY
State News Associate Editor

Dr. Emile Malespine of Paris is a man after my own heart. He's spent almost 30 years in doing research on kissing.

Now, don't get the idea that all I think about is smooching, but it seems to me that the good Frenchman's findings are as important as those of the Baltimore bacteriologist I told you about last term.

As you may recall, this Maryland researcher concluded that—unless you're a Typhoid Mary or a Smallpox Sammy—kissing is relatively harmless as far as germ-passing is concerned.

Getting back to Doc Malespine—he records the weight and pressure of kisses, then checks the results with hand-writing samples from these same subjects. The pressure variations from each action can be correlated, says the doctor.

Using these records, the doctor classifies his subjects by personality type, emotional stability, and forcefulness. All of this research on the kiss is a little frightening. Until now, it has always been a simple little act which usually brought pleasure to both participants.

Now, suddenly, it becomes an indicator of how many germs you're lugging around and what is going on throughout your nervous system. Imagine the way or gal you've just had your arms around stepping back, hastily checking some instruments concealed under his or her coat and saying, "Aha! Your bacteria count is . . . and you're the forceful, highly emotional type. Furthermore, by checking your kiss pressure and your handwriting, I find indications of forgery in both."

It could lead back to the bygone era of shaking hands at the close of a pleasant evening.

Ponder well, my friends. Has science gone too far?

Cursing Curfews

The traditional 10 p.m. curfew at Cambridge university was dealt a blow recently by the vice-chancellor of England's famous institution.

"It is perhaps strange," he said, "that in the mid twentieth century, authorities should have to seriously consider whether 10 o'clock is a respectable hour for young men and women to be abroad." He called the early curfew "a burden" and "exceedingly irksome to young men."

Young men at MSC have been known to state that they find coed curfews more than "exceedingly irksome."

Grad Student Criticizes Librarian's Letter for 'Incredible Assumptions'

TO THE EDITOR:

In his rejoinder to a misquotation of his first statement about missing MSC library books (TSC-5) Mr. Jackson Towne makes the following statement:

"I am certain that I made quite clear to your student reporter . . . that only a microscopic number of our micro books have been taken by members of the faculty, and in these instances there was no intentional dishonesty, merely carelessness. We cannot be absolutely certain, but it has always been my opinion that of the 1,496 books found missing in the inventory last spring, about a dozen may have been carelessly carried off by faculty members. The remaining 1,484 I assume have been stolen by graduate students or undergraduate students posing as graduate students."

The number of graduate students about equal to the number of staff members. Does Mr. Towne believe that the dishonesty is more between graduate students and staff members is 1:1?

If, unfortunately, that books disappear and micro books should be found by check their disappearance, but who benefits from the publication of incredible assumptions about a group of students' assumptions for which no support has been shown? Unless Mr. Towne can sufficiently back up his assumptions, I have to take his statement as a slap in the face, not only to graduate students, but to everybody who places confidence in statements made by college officials.

Student Freedom Suffers Blow

Much is said about student freedom and more is said about the lack of it. A recent example of this is the shooting of a student by a police officer. Three students were shot from the front of a school bus. It was said that the students were on their way to a political demonstration. The shooting was a blow to student freedom. The students were not given a chance to be heard. The police officer was not given a chance to be heard. The result was a student's death.

Tankers to Swim Against Bowling Green in Opener

By STAN STEINBOEN
Michigan State's swimming team starts off a big weekend of activity in winter sports when it meets Bowling Green at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Jensen Pool. The meet is the opener for the Spartans mermen.

Coach Charles McCaffree will send both an A and a B team against the Obolians in simultaneous meets. The visitors will compete in the middle two lanes while the Spartans work in the outer four.

Bowling Green has never beaten an MSC A team in seven years of competition. The B team dropped its match with Bowling Green last season, 48-45, while the A team walked away with an easy 66-27 victory.

Bowling Green is expected to be led by three returnees: Phil Slaymaker, John Bruce and Fred Gerbing.

Coach McCaffree expects Bowling Green to present a well-balanced squad which should give State good competition.

Competition will be in 11 events, including fancy diving. Individual events get five points for first place, three for second and one for third while first and second in the medley relay will count six and three points and first and second in the freestyle relay will add eight and four points respectively.

Bowling Green is coached by Samuel M. Cooper. The team's co-captains are Herb Scogg and John Bruce. State's acting co-captains are Charles Baldwin and Roland Ford.

Students will be admitted to the pool on their activity books with seats going on a first-come, first-serve basis. The seating capacity is 800. The match will be broadcast over WKAR.

Pro Gridders Work in Rain

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Professional football's hardest warriors disdained drizzly skies Thursday and went about their work preparing for the National Football League's annual Pro Bowl battle Saturday.

The game in Memorial Coliseum will be televised nationally by NBC at 4:30 p.m. EST.

Face Gophers Minus Lord Icemen Skate for Elusive Win

By JACK ROSE
Still seeking that first elusive league victory, Coach Amo Besone's hockey squad will open a two-game series in Minneapolis tonight against the Gophers of Minnesota.

The pucksters received another severe setback Wednesday night against Michigan when aggressive Co-Capt. Dick Lord sustained a painful hip bruise after a hard check. Word from the college hospital late yesterday revealed that Lord will be shelved for at least a week and possibly more if x-rays show a fracture.

tans have gone down 13 times before a Gopher onslaught. Last season Minnesota beat the Spartans four straight times although three of the contests were extremely close.

With Lord out, Besone will be forced to put most of his hopes for victory on his first line, which has Weldie Olson at center and Steve Raz and Ray Brooks at wings. Raz played brilliantly in a losing cause against the Wolverines, making several fine passes which were missed.

JOHN MAYASICH
Flashy Gopher center.

To take up Lord's slack on the second line Besone will probably move Gordie King up to the second line with center Jack Mayes and wing Bob Revon.

State's defense, which was far below par against the Wolverines, will try for a comeback and will depend on Co-Capt. Dick Northey, big Jack Thomas, Henry Campanini and Derio Nicoli.

The Gophers will present a squad that has split with both Colorado College and league-leading Denver this season. Minnesota rests in fifth place in the conference with three points.

Leading the flashy Gopher offense will be sensational sophomore center, John Mayasich, who is rated as one of the finest players in college hockey today. Mayasich led his team and placed second in the conference last season.

Defensive bulwarks for Minnesota squad are Capt. Wegleitner, Jim Tichols, rookie Windy Anderson.

The Spartans will close their series Saturday night and arrive back in East Lansing Sunday night.

Hall Works First Shutout for Wins

DETROIT (AP)—Glen Hall, rookie goalie, worked his first shutout in 107 games as a professional hockey player last night as the Detroit Red Wings boosted their National Hockey League lead to six points, 4-0, shutout over the Bruins.

The record for the longest goal in the National Hockey League is 54 yards, kicked by Glenn Presnell of Detroit.

Opener for Both Gymnasts Tangle With Wisconsin

State's gymnastic team under Coach George Szypula opens its current campaign Saturday evening in the house immediately after the Iowa basketball game against Wisconsin.

The Badgers have been humbled by the Spartans on all three occasions when the two teams have met in Big Ten competition.

Szypula is anticipating a match because of many eligibility troubles which beset both squads.

Spartan performers in the individual events include line, Ken C. Blake, Jr., Doran, Joe Stager, and John Walker, sophomore horizontal bar, Eric A. Jim Williams and Jeff H. parallel bars, Harry F. Furry and Williams, vault, Walker, Furry, and Williams tumbling, Bill Rose, Furry, Walker.

Headlining Wisconsin will be co-captains and twins Don and Dave Schneider. The third key man for the Badgers is Don Rose. Last year the lads from Madison posted a 4-3 mark and an eighth position in the Big Ten.

Standouts in the State include Walker, who performed tumbling and on the line, Wilkinson, a capable individual on the parallel bar, on the flying ring and he who spread his talents over events.

Each state has a conference. Each conference has a champion. Each champion is crowned by the Big Ten. Each champion is crowned by the Big Ten. Each champion is crowned by the Big Ten.

Aggers Hope to Break Fourth-Place Tie Against Iowa

Awkeyes to Show Wares in Jenison

By KEITH MILLER

opportunity to break out of a three way tie for place in the Big Ten basketball campaign lies before State and Iowa in their 8 p.m. encounter at Jenison, tomorrow.

Michigan State Buckeyes, Paul Ebert, share the lead in the Big Ten, with the Spartans and the Hawkeyes tied for fourth place.

Both teams have won three games and lost one.

Michigan State has a 15.3 average while Stackhouse ranks 16th with a 12.3 average.

The Brooklyn sophomore has hoped 61 points in the Big Ten competition with 108 fumbles in seven contests.

Both Ferrari and Stackhouse have hit on 32 free shots.

While Armstrong isn't among the top scorers, he is doing extremely well at the important pivot spot, according to Newell.

Newell points out that the tall sophomore has faced such great centermen as Kansas State's Dick Knostman, Ohio State's Paul Ebert, Indiana's Don Schlundt, and Minnesota's massive Ed Kalafat.

Armstrong worked especially well against Ebert and Schlundt.

Newell remarks that Stackhouse is scoring less than last year, but is playing better ball.

In addition to the chance to rise in the standings, the Spartans hope to end the Hawkeyes' domination of last winter. Iowa dropped the Staters 61-60 and 64-52 in their last two meetings.

Each squad has a conference play, but the Spartans have defeated both the Hawkeyes and the Staters.

Sidelines Fall Graduation

By STAN KURZMAN
State News Sports Editor

Fall term graduation took its toll of the Michigan State athletes including a pair of stars that have kept themselves and their school in the headlines during their careers.

Both Clark Scholes and Chuck Spicer have completed their college careers after piling up outstanding collegiate records.

Scholes was the number one collegiate sprint swimmer at 100 yards for three years. He won the NCAA 100-yard free style championship three years, the NAAT, two years out of three, and the Big Ten, the past two years. Last summer he added to his and Michigan State's glory by winning the 100-meter Olympic championship, setting a new record of 57.1 seconds. He earned the title of the fastest swimmer in the world.

Chuck Spicer, now a professional boxer, won two NCAA crowns at 175 pounds while enrolled at MSU. He also was a member of the United States Olympic team in 1948 and again in 1952.

Other Spartans that graduated fall term included two past basketball captains, Bill Boxer, who also was a basketball forward, captained the Michigan State team in 1952, while Vince Magi was the Spartan captain in 1951.

Other athletes on the graduation list were Doug Hobbs and Bill Carey, football; Bob Cholek, football; and basketball, List Carlson, basketball; Cornell Glass, basketball; Don Barrett, wrestling; George Kuznetsov, gymnastics; and John Sabado, hockey.

Biggest vacation news for Spartan grid fans tested in the play of the many MSU football players that participated in the post-season contests.

Starting off were Frank Kush and Johnny Wilson, who saw action in the North-South shrine game Dec. 25. The game ended in a 24-14 tie.

Kush got back on the winning side in the Senior bowl which the Staters won, 28-13. Playing with Kush were Don McAuliffe and Dick Tamburo.

McAuliffe distinguished himself with a 12-yard end run that accounted for a North touchdown.

McAuliffe also scored in the East-West shrine game to help Blagie Munn, who coached the East to a 21-20 win.

Paul Dekker and Tamburo also got into this game, with Dekker breaking the passes received mark for the shrine classic. He grabbed nine tosses to break, by two, the record set in 1937 by Elmer Dohman of Nebraska.

Michigan State players finally became connected with a loser in this Blue-Gray game at Montgomery, Ala. The Blues, with Ed Timmerman, Wayne Benson and George Serr in the line-up, lost 28-7.

In Opening Big Ten Match

Grapplers to Battle Hoosiers

After dropping a 17-9 match to Pittsburgh last Saturday, the Spartan wrestlers hope to hit the victory column against Indiana Saturday in a 3 p.m. Jenison Fieldhouse engagement.

This will be the Spartans initial Big Ten match. Next Saturday Ohio State will host the Green and White.

Against the Hoosiers, Coach Fendley Collins may make numerous changes from the lineup which lost to Pitt. Heavyweight Larry Fowler, Lansing Junior, and 147 pounder Jim Knottis, may both see action. Other possible changes include: Robert Gunner at the 130 pound mark and Ruben Shehltan at 125 pounds.

Two matches that will offer a great deal of fan interest will be between State's Bob Hoke and the defending Big Ten 147 pound champion, Jim Ellis, at the 157 mark and Fowler and the Hoosier, Harry Jagielski.

Collins believes Ellis will probably wrestle at 157 pounds in Saturday's match. If Ellis does perform at that weight, he will find himself pitted against Hoke, who was runner-up in the Big Ten at 157 pounds last season. Hoke compiled a 12-3 record in all competition.

In the other feature match, Fowler will probably wrestle Indiana's 240 pound defensive tackle, Harry Jagielski.

Indiana defeated State last year 14-12. Thus far this season, the Hoosiers have pinned Ohio State and matched before Ohio State.

In the loss to Pitt, the Spartans won three of eight individual matches. At 137 pounds, Ed Chas, also pinned Indiana's Mithew. In the count of 3-2. By the narrow margin of 4-3, Hoke defeated Chuck Dorn at 157 pounds and Ralph Gull State's closest decision over Harvey Krause 7-6.

Snively Fires Verbal Barbs At Munn Fete

WASHINGTON (AP)—Carl Snively, unemployed president of the American Football Coaches Association, criticized college leaders Thursday night for making the coach the scapegoat of the game's abuses.

In an address prepared for the Coach of the Year dinner honoring Michigan State's Biggie Munn, Snively referred to the continuing fight against overemphasis and professionalism in football.

"Too often," he declared, "the (the coach) has been designated as the cause when actually he has been the victim."

Munn, who led Michigan State through an unbeaten season to the mythical national championship, was named Coach of the Year in a poll conducted by the New York World-Telegram and Sun and the Scripps Howard Newspapers.

He received a plaque at a dinner attended by hundreds of his cohorts. The plaque was presented by Vice President-elect Richard M. Nixon.

your opportunities for advancement are unlimited.

ARE YOU ELIGIBLE?

To qualify as an Aviation Cadet, you must have completed at least two years of college. This is a minimum requirement—it's best if you stay in school and graduate. In addition, you must be between 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in good physical condition.

YOU CAN CHOOSE BETWEEN PILOT OR AIRCRAFT OBSERVER

If you choose to be an Aircraft Observer, your training will be in Navigation, Bombardment, Radar Operation or Aircraft Performance Engineering.

New Aviation Cadet Training Classes Begin Every Few Weeks!

HERE'S WHAT TO DO:

1. Take a transcript of your college credits and a copy of your birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station. Fill out the application they give you.
2. If application is accepted, the Air Force will arrange for you to take a physical examination.
3. Next, you will be given a written and manual aptitude test.
4. If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet Training Class. The Selective Service Act allows you a four-month deferment while waiting class assignment.
