MSC Library— Close Quarters

MSC is slated to have a new library. But until the building is in more than the planning stage, student and faculty must rely on the limited facilities available in the present library.

Inadequate space has been a problem for some time, preventing a more complete catalogue of books and references. It is a problem that can only be remedied by a new building. As long as present conditions must be endured, however, every effort should be made to see to it that the library offers the best possible service.

Winter term, as the freshmen know and the other classes remember, is the time for that big term paper. Communications classes spend hours looking up references and compiling bibliographies. And those who are along in years, have perhaps two or three term papers to do each quarter. This all means students crowding to the circulation and reference desks to seek books and information.

The atmosphere in the library this year has been bad. Conditions have been equally bad. Librarians, perhaps because they do not have enough help, have been reported by students as hostile. The students claim they are hesitant to ask for help in finding a reference.

Others reported that they had to wait for perhaps an hour to get books because of the number of students waiting at the circulation desk. Another complaint was that pages have been ripped from magazines in the bound general periodical room. Whole sections on such subjects as capital punishment have been torn from several magazines.

It seems as if all concerned with the library are at fault. There is no reason for students being subjected to curt and hostile librarians when they seek help.

When a person has a job to do, especially a job in which he or she meets the public, it is the duty of that person to hide personal irritations and maintain a civil attitude. Librarians are there to serve those using the library, and they should not resent giving assistance.

Students, too, are in the wrong, in tearing articles from references. Perhaps someone had a paper to do on capital punishment, but he could have done his work in the library, instead of claiming the references in this manner.

It would seem that in order to get along until the new library and new facilities become a reality, someone could put forth a little more effort to make conditions as satisfactory as possible. Certainly selfish actions and self-centered concern are not going to help.

A cooperative effort is needed on the part of students, faculty and librarians alike.

Just About Anything

Angry Aardvark

By PHIL GUNBY
State News Associate Editor

A groundhog walked into the S'News office Thursday, a groundhog with a cold.

"I have a statement for the press," he spluttered, between sneezes.

"Now don't get the idea I took all this calmly. Columnists who hear groundhogs talking to them usually wind up writing pieces for the Psycho Ward News. But who has the heart to ignore a groundhog with the sniffles?"

"Get this," the rodent barked. (He also had a touch of the croup.) "I don't care if I couldn't spot my shadow Monday. I'm still going back in my hole, and the weather be hanged."

I shuddered. Groundhogs with a tendency toward anarchy are to be regarded with suspicion. What had caused this woodchuck to chuck tradition?

"I know what you're thinking," the furry little fellow wheezed. "You think I'm a traitor. But let me ask you this, brother (possibly the fact that I hadn't shaved fooled him). Do you think any health-respecting groundhog deserves to be out in this now-hot, now-cold never-consistent climate?"

Since I was lost for an answer, he rumbled on.

"With half the students on campus supporting germ-colonies, and the other half about as healthy as the pneumonia ward, I'm getting out while the getting's good."

With that, he turned on his hind paw, and stalked out.

If you have any questions about this unusual interview, drop around and I'll try to answer them.

You'll find me in the College Hospital. I think. You see, I caught his cold.

Wait'll I catch that groundhog six weeks from now.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

We, the undersigned, feel that it is our privilege and duty to let our feelings be known on the proposed switch of stadia with the University of Michigan next fall. College football is supposedly played for the benefit of the student body, not for the commercial gains that may be wrought from the payment of ticket fees.

Any idea that has arisen in the mind of a Detroit sportswriter, who in the past has been notorious for his partisanship toward our sister institution at Ann Arbor, should be weighed with an exceedingly critical eye. Sensationalism has occasionally been one of his by-lines for many years.

Let it be known to all who read this that the STUDENTS OF MICHIGAN STATE COLLEGE want their home games played at home as originally intended. We have paid fares to Ann Arbor for the past four years and when the chance to see a good game at home comes around, we don't want it taken away. Again, college football is for the students, not for the commercial gains to be made by extra ticket sales.

What has happened to the de-emphasis of football which has been handed around so much in the past few months? At the writing of this letter we have it from reliable sources that the game switch has already been agreed upon by Messrs. Young and Crisler.

Let us all hope that such an outrageous lack of consideration for the student body of Michigan State College does not reach the final planning stage.

The Men of Delta Upsilon
A. K. Anderson, President

P.S. Copies of this letter have been sent to seven leading Michigan newspapers, the Chicago Daily Tribune, plus Mr. Crisler and Mr. Young.

To the Editor:

I would like to address this to the "Names Withheld by Request" from Shaw Hall in the State News (Feb. 3) who were griping about the heat and food.

Where do you live, in one of the kitchen ice boxes? That is about the only place I can think of where it would be cold enough to gripe like that.

The only other explanation that I can think of is that the writer hasn't learned yet to close his window or turn on the radiator. I find my room very comfortable and I even open the window a little without any ill effect.

As for the food, in my estimation the students here at school are just too fussy. They expect to pay a little and get a lot. Even the state of Michigan can't get food for nothing. It costs money and a lot of it.

There is also a big difference between cooking for four or five people as is done in the average home and the 1,400 meals that must be cooked three times a day as they are here. Think it over and you will see what I mean.

Name Withheld by request

To the Editor:

We wish to bring to the attention of the students and faculty the significance of April 1, 2, 3, the days of registration.

These days are congruous with Holy Week and immediately precede Easter. The conflicts and inconveniences to both are innumerable.

These days include special services and obligations on the part of most people. In addition, many will be unable to spend Easter with their families. These conditions will possibly result in excessive late registrations.

At this time, we are wondering if anything could or should be done.

We ask for and hope for the opinions of others.

Sound of Hoofbeats

A major milestone in Americana went almost unnoticed Jan. 31 when the Lone Ranger rode out of the west again to make it 20 consecutive years of hearty "Hi-O-Silver's." The famed program is the oldest half-hour show on radio. Along with "tiny kernels shaped like the little letter 'o'" — the guardian of law & order in the wild & woolly west has done more for Rossini and the William Tell Overture than any man alive.

1953 J-Hop Continues In Annual Tradition

L-C Series Plan Made Year Early

Shows Expected To Break Even

The Lecture-Concert Series hasn't just grown like topsy. Instead it is the product of months of planning, phone calls and letters.

The 1953-54 program began taking shape last December. Dean Stanley Crowe, head of the Lecture-Concert Series, explained. The final schedule, subject to minor alterations, is finished by March 1.

In December Crowe attended a convention of concert heads from the major universities and colleges and of the concert programs in large cities throughout the nation.

They discussed the programs available from Europe and those in the United States with the companies' agents. Each concert head chooses the group he would like to hire. Then the matching of schedules of the various programs begins.

Each group must contribute in order to have the organizations in the proper area so each community will have a home at their events. A request on the Lecture-Concert Series are sought outright. Prices range from $1,250 to $2,000.

Dean Crowe said he tries to schedule 14 major events, eight lectures and six travel lectures each year. This is supplemented by the special series with on-boards on a commission basis. The sponsoring companies take the largest share of the intake.

The Lecture-Concert Series is planned to just about break even, Dean Crowe said. "But we like it if we can keep a little more money," he said.

Dean Crowe has been concert director for Michigan State for 15 years.

Clubs Praised Activities Termed Important

By MARY LOU BERNHEIMER

Extra-curricular activities are a vital part of a college education. Dr. Clifford Erickson, dean of the Basic College, told 300 student organization leaders and advisers at the first annual Leadership Clinic.

Dean Erickson said extra-curricular activities give students a chance to express themselves and get along with others.

Universities are successful in training specialists but are not doing as well in helping students get a well-rounded college education, he said. Dean Erickson pointed to extra-curricular activities as a solution to the problem.

Stressing the need for more students to participate in extra-curricular activities than the norm, he stated that 76 students dropped out of school after fall term because they were discouraged, confused and lonely. If more of these students had been working with others on organization improvement projects in organizations, fewer would have dropped out of school, he said.

The financial investment for four years of college education is approximately $21,000 for each Michigan State College student.

Only eight per cent of the day is spent in class. The average student, A student must consider to what extent he is investing 92 per cent of his time to additional educational experiences, if he wishes to reap the ultimate benefits of his education, he said.

Hosie W Proposal Congress

By J. W. W.

Proposal four to hold the year was withdrawn Friday (Fraternalism).

Hosie said: "At this time with all the other amendments, congress and it needs more operation."

The proposed amendment to Student Congress election was half of the congress elected spring term. The half would term the election half of the members of every congress would be selected.

Under the constitution all members are elected spring term. In Congress all members are elected in one election or appointment.

The withdrawal of the proposal leaves three other amendments to come before the Congress Wednesday. Two of them deal with the election of the president and the other with alternating manner by which the congress may be amended.

Proposal one is the attempt to change the election of the president to a permanent position. It was introduced and backed by the Student Government. The Student Government Committee, headed by Dr. East Lansing, is committee on the proposal.

Proposal two is to change the election of the president to a permanent position. It was introduced and backed by the Student Government. The Student Government Committee, headed by Dr. East Lansing, is committee on the proposal.

The second proposal was introduced by Bob Bolo last Friday and he withdrew support of it at the same time.

Hosie said, "I'm still looking for a form of election. (the so-called) See HOSIE, Page 6"
