Hosie Withdraws Proposal Four from Congress' Agenda

By JOHN CLANCY

Proposal four to hold two Student Congress elections per year was withdrawn Friday night by its sponsor, Rep. Don Hosie (fraternities).

Hosie said: "At this time the proposal would be confusing with all the other proposed amendments coming up and it needs more consideration."

The proposed amendment to [illegible] Student Congress elections would have half of the congressmen elected spring term and the other half winter term. In each of the elections half of the representatives of every congressional district would be selected.

Under the constitution all congressmen are elected spring term. Vacancies in Congress are filled by election or appointment as they [illegible].

The withdrawal of the proposal leaves three other proposed amendments to come up before the Congress Wednesday evening. Two of them deal with the election of the president and the other with altering the manner by which the constitution may be amended.

Proposal one is the amendment [illegible] election of the student government president by an all-college election. It was introduced by Hosie and backed by the 12-member Student Government Improvement Committee. Headed by [illegible] Meyer, East Lansing senior, the committee drew up the amendment.

Hosie's amendment would permit all juniors to petition for the student government presidency. In an all-college primary in April the student body would select two candidates for the presidency. They would face a final all-college election in May. The losing candidate would automatically become a voting member-at-large of the Student Congress.

The second proposal was introduced by Bob Bolo last Wednesday and he withdrew his support of it at the same meeting.

Bolo said, "I'm still for the old balanced form of electing the president (the set-up now used)

"Water Birds" is another of the true life adventure shorts filmed in color that the Walt Disney studios has produced successfully in the past.

Performances for the twin bill start at 7 and 9 p.m. with tickets on sale at the box office.

On hand to greet the first Big Ten Conference queen were Bob Bolo, student government president; Horatio Lewis, Student Congress speaker; Blue Key members and representatives from MSC's living units. Joan Branten, representing Kappa Alpha Theta, presented Miss Means with a bouquet of roses.

Goldsmith's Drama Goes Musical

Old Lyrics Uncovered for Play

Music will be the feature of the student production of Oliver Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," directed by Stuart Chenoweth, assistant professor of speech.

The play is set for Fairchild Theater, starting Feb. 19 for three nights.

The lyrics were written by Goldsmith, but in the original production were not used, as the leading lady did not have a singing voice. Following productions of the classic have also omitted the songs.

Chenoweth discovered the songs when he was doing research on the play. He said since there are a number of good voices in the cast leading actors will present songs between and during scenes in the 18th century tradition.

Joan Brown, Morrice junior, female lead, will sing a song intended for the star, and two other ballads of that period, "Love Is a Folly" and "Love Thy Demeanour Vary."

The leading men, three bass-baritones, will each present a ballad. Frank Serreseque, Detroit sophomore, will sing Bach's "Has a Father With His Children," with new lyrics written for the play. Charles Zwerner, Marquette junior, will sing Purcell's "Man is for the Woman Made," and Lee Hanow, Birmingham senior, will do "Oh, the Pretty Creature."

Ethel Armeling of the Voice Department is helping with the music. Dr. Zack York has designed special sets of a "drop and wing" design. Ralph W. Duckwall Jr. is in charge of costumes.

A Loss for Michigan State

Michigan State today mourns a president who was a stranger to most of the student body, yet his influence is clearly visible in all corners of State's beautiful campus.

During President Robert S. Shaw's 39 year connection with the college, he gained the reputation of being a practical but colorful educator.

Many MSC graduates remember his cheery "hello" when he encountered them on campus. And they remember, too, that he practiced as well as stated his theory of a friendly campus, which grew into a tradition.

When he came to State in 1902 from the University of Montana, MSC's enrollment was a meager 700. During his 13-year term as head of the college he saw State's enrollment soar from that of a midwest "cow college", to one of the fastest growing institutions in the country.

Throughout this rapid rise in enrollment the campus retained its friendliness, mostly through the efforts of Dr. Shaw.

His farsightedness is partly responsible for the growth of the college to its present size and rank in the educational world. Besides laying the groundwork for erecting buildings on a self-liquidating basis, he also made sure the campus would have room to expand.

The purchase of more than 1,000 acres of land adjacent to the Red Cedar made possible the development of large farms that have been important to the institution's agricultural research program.

His genius guided MSC through the depression and eased the college through various financial difficulties. He was responsible for bringing top-flight talent to this campus. Many of the present administrators owe their start to Dr. Shaw.

His pride and joy was the college's intensive beautification program which led a national horticultural society to name State's campus second only to Cornell in natural beauty.

Addition of several college departments was a major accomplishment of his administration. Among these were speech, languages, art, hotel management, music and physical education for women.

Other academic advances made by the college under his administration included the creation of a graduate school and addition of the offices of dean of men and dean of women.

The recent dedication of one of the world's largest dormitories to the popular president is only a small share of the tribute that MSC owes Dr. Shaw.

Letter to the Editor

J-Hopper Criticizes Band, Entertaining

To the Editor:

Here's my peeve and I put it in the form of a question: "What, a J-Hop?" or "May Come What?"

Let's start off with Billy May's orchestra. He was lousy. He must think we pay $5 just to listen to him. (I suppose if my date and I had been dressed informally we could have jitterbugged to his pieces.) It would have been nice to dance to his music but it was just a little too fast.

Maybe my logic is wrong, for when I go to a formal dance I like to dance and not stop and listen to the music with the fear that if we try to dance that my girl might step on her formal slip or end up throwing a block into some other poor soul.

In short, Billy May would have been great if he had played for a dance and not as a name builder of great jazz masterpieces. We like to dance here, Billy May.

Next, during the intermission I thought that for a change we were going to have something worthwhile to watch and enjoy until the "Whip Dance." All I can say is that it was too out of place.

Maybe they can get a job in a burlesque show. The art wasn't quite up to par for a formal dance. "Too suggestive" might be the phrase. Maybe I'm wrong, but it didn't seem like "good entertainment" to me.

No, my outlook isn't completely bad. I thought that the decorations were very unique. Since I'm in the advertising field I noticed many things that deserved compliments ... the three silver discs with the shadow effects on the roof and the shadow effect on the backdrop "J-Hop."

The lighted tubing on the balcony along with the very interesting mural also suggests very modernistic or futuristic setting. I offer my congratulations to whoever did the decorations. I did enjoy that.

The dance was a disappointment to me due to Billy May's music and the below-average entertainment. I hope that next year the band which is chosen is not just another "one night stand" band.

Better luck next year.

Education, Anyone?

The March of Time

(The following is reprinted from The Saturday Letters, a publication by Dean R. E. Manchester, Kent State University, Kent, Ohio.)

Once upon a time, long, long ago, in a kingdom by the sea, there lived a man who said to his son: "You are about to leave for college and I wish to give you a few words of advice."

So, the son sat, with round eyes fixed on his father's face and with cow-lick sticking straight up in anticipation, while the sermon lasted.

"You will live with Mrs. Phillips on East Street. That is where I lived when I was a student. She will also give you board. Your room will cost $1.50 a week and your board will be $3. You will send your laundry home and I shall give you $1 per week for spending money.

"When you are located and get unpacked, call upon President Wilkens and pay your respects. He will help you arrange your studies.

"Take your English with Prof. Jamison, your history with Prof. Hampton, your French with Prof. Anderson and your science with Prof. Bird.

"You may come home at Christmas and again in June."

Not so long ago in a kingdom at 2171 West 192nd Street, Big Town, the son gave advice to a new son.

"Here is $500. Take the convertible. Arrange for your Federal funds. Get a program that will not be too strenuous—appreciation of English, appreciation of history, appreciation of art, appreciation of science, appreciation of democracy, appreciation of foreign relations, etc.

"Come home this weekend for the country club dance, get tickets for the Army game and pledge Pinka Plunka. Well, I guess that's all. Have fun and remember to keep your nose clean."

And at a future time in a kingdom in Westchester County, forty miles from nowhere, a son of a son may be too tired after a party to give advice and as a result, the son of a son of a son may miss college entirely. Could be!

Congratulations, Dee

Congratulations are in order for Dee Means, MSC's representative, who was named "Miss Big Ten" this weekend. Miss Means was selected over seven other nominees in a contest which was judged on beauty, poise, talent, etc.

The two colleges not in competition were Wisconsin and Michigan. At Wisconsin there is a limit on the number of "queens" that can be picked yearly. They have reached that limit.

Michigan, strangely enough, wouldn't enter because they say at Ann Arbor that this type of thing is "commercialism" which they don't approve. And that 97,000 capacity stadium?

We can't go along with Michigan's attitude. Nice going, Dee Means!

Secret of Success

A study done at the University of Minnesota casts some new light on the causes of student disciplinary cases.

In the study, entitled: "What Kinds of Students Become Disciplinary Cases," it was disclosed: "Much of the misbehavior seemed to take the form of transitional readjustments as students moved from relatively simple hometown life to the independent self-adjusting freedom of a university."

You see, that's all there is to it. Just adjust yourselves to this "independent freedom" and you can stay out of trouble.

Ivan Lapish, Roger Abdella and Jerry Gillis test the experimental light in their room. The light, also shown in the insert, is better for reading, they say.

New Light Brightens Shaw Life

Three West Shaw men are really in the limelight these days.

Jerry Gillis, Saginaw freshman, Roger Abdella, Bay City sophomore, and Ivan Lapish, Port Huron junior, recently have had 300 guests or one time or another come to visit in Room 152. Their room sports an experimental indirect lighting fixture, the only one of its kind in the dormitories.

The fixture, which contains a 300 watt light bulb surrounded by three circles, is being tested for efficiency and expense. It will be kept in the room long enough to see what the benefits, if any, are.

The three were chosen by Emery G. Foster, director of dormitories, to let their room act as an experimental area for the light.

If it proves successful and if it meets the requirements of the students and the [illegible], this type of light will be [illegible] the new men's dormitory, now under construction across from Kellogg Center.

Honey-Hunters Still Get Stung

By LESLIE ADAMS JR.

Better let that honey bee be, for she's still got a stinger.

Recent articles have told of new strains of stingless bees being developed in England and elsewhere. But they don't get a buzz from MSC's bee expert, Assistant Professor of Entomology E. C. Martin.

"I don't believe a stingless honey bee has ever been developed," he said. "They have probably just developed a gentler strain which is less inclined to sting. But even a well-behaved bee can lose her temper."

Prof. Martin, who graduated from the University of Toronto and got his M.A. in Entomology Agriculture from Cornell University, has worked with bees since 1929. He came to MSC in 1950.

Actually bee stings are more of a minor aggravation than a serious problem to commercial bee-keepers, Prof. Martin said, although a few allergic persons have died from a single bee sting. He has never heard of a bee-keeper getting stung to death.

He admitted he had been stung 25 or 30 times in one day himself, however.

Some experimenting has been carried out by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Prof. Martin agreed, but no stingless bee has been produced so far.

He said two strains of wild stingless bees have been discovered in South America. Some attempts have been made to modify them into honey bees, he said, but they cannot be crossed. He added that their only use would be in the pollination of plants.

And you wouldn't want to cuddle up to one of those cushion-tailed South American bees either, he said. "They bite hard, like an ant."

Lady Electrician Sparks Comment In 'Man's Field'

Virginia Kueny, North Muskegon freshman, has proved that it's no longer a man's world.

The idea of a possible career in the field of electronics does not seem out of the ordinary in the least to Miss Kueny, whose engineer father also looks upon his daughter's choice favorably.

"I see no reason to select a major which does not appeal to me," she said. "I couldn't apply myself to subjects which didn't interest me."

Remarks such as "what's she trying to prove?" or "what does she want—her MRS degree?" are common but haven't discouraged Miss Kueny's enthusiasm.

High school instructors and speakers encouraged Ginny to consider electrical engineering seriously when she expressed a desire for the field. At the present time the opportunities for women are numerous, and those people with whom Miss Kueny has discussed the possibilities seem to feel that the trend will be even greater in the future for women.

College Sniffs at Ads For 'Green Magic'

By HELEN ELIAS

Chlorophyll doesn't seem to be the answer to problems of "offending."

On and near the Michigan State College campus, it has been hinted that the green wonder isn't all that the advertisements have it cracked up to be.

Cliff Archart, pharmacist in a local drug store, said that personally he doesn't [illegible] chlorophyll is what some advertising has made it appear.

"People think it does them good evidently, because we sell many chlorophyll products," he said, however.

Dr. F. W. Fabian, professor of bacteriology, referred to a recent newspaper article by Prof. Alsoph H. Corwin, head of the Department of Chemistry at Johns Hopkins University.

"Chlorophyll derivatives taken by mouth to deodorize perspiration and other odors probably do not get into the blood stream in sufficient quantity to deodorize, and if they did, they would be extremely dangerous in making their users sensitive to light," he said.

About 100 chlorophyll items are on druggists' shelves today. The list extends from shampoo, foot powder, [illegible] to cigarettes, toilet paper and dog food.

In regard to this Dr. Chester V. Lowry, assistant chief of the Bureau of Dentistry of the Michigan State Health Department, agreed with an article in the January journal of the Michigan State Dental Association, which states:

"At the present time some very seriously misleading advertising is being directed to both the laity and the profession on behalf of chlorophyll products."

MSC Aids Those Hurt On Campus

No Law Holds College Liable

If you are planning on breaking a leg, better not do it on campus.

Michigan State has been "more than generous" in every accident case, according to Dr. Charles Holland of the health center, but the college is still not legally responsible.

According to law, neither a state nor a state college can be sued without its consent. MSC has never been sued in an accident case, Merrill R. Pierson, assistant comptroller and treasurer, said.

The college does, however, often feel a "moral obligation" and goes out of its way to help an accident victim.

Two years ago a student broke his neck in a fall from a trampoline during a physical education class. He was hospitalized and treated at the college hospital for a year, during which time Michigan State paid all the expenses. According to Dr. Holland, other injuries received through gym classes and athletics have been equally well cared for.

Turning from sports to the more common accidents, a State News carrier who broke his arm while returning home after delivering his papers had his doctor bills paid by the college.

Some years ago a workman with two injured arms ran an elevator here. He had originally been a janitor, but had been permanently hurt in a fall while at work. The college, knowing that he would have a hard time getting another job, kept him on in the elevator capacity until his retirement.

All workmen on the campus are covered under the Workmen's Compensation Law, but [illegible] [illegible] always been more generous than the insurance, Pierson said.

Music Head Plans No Jazz Courses Here

By TED RAKSTIS

College courses in jazz may be a future trend, but it's not likely that Michigan State College will fall in line.

Though several major American universities have given it a try, Underwood, head of the MSC music Department, says the rage will probably fade.

"It might attract a few more students," Underwood said, "but we can't see any particular need for it. It's not that we're trying to stay on the 'longhair' side of the fence, but there's so much controversy involved in the way of styles that we wouldn't know where to start.

"If you've got ten people in the class, you're likely to have ten contrasting viewpoints. Nobody wants to sound like the next fellow in the creation of jazz."

Underwood said that the basic instruction in instrumentation and theory now offered is a good foundation for any musical structure, jazz included.

"George Gershwin and Paul Whiteman never had instruction in jazz. But they had sound training. However, anyone who wants to learn about jazz can get plenty of information at the library. If we did try to offer a course we wouldn't be able to give much more than is already in those books."

A recent article in a nationally-read women's magazine listed experimental courses being conducted at New York University, Northwestern University and the Juilliard School of Music. The University of Minnesota is also considering its inclusion in the music curriculum, according to the article.

The author notes that the first serious interest in jazz being displayed by universities comes at a time when the living tradition of jazz is seemingly at its lowest ebb. Despite all the jazz talk being circulated and the fact that new jazz music is apparently having revitalized interest, the author says that the great jazz audience of today is primarily a listening one.

"The people most interested in jazz today," he says, "are, with very few exceptions, what you might call 'listeners.' They have no urge to dance; they get their kicks by listening."

Spartans Lose Only One of Eight Bouts

BY STAN KURZMAN
State News Sports Editor

Criticized earlier in the year for their lack of a knockout punch, Michigan State's boxers showed both the critics and Penn State their prowess as they whipped the Nittany Lions, 5½-2½, Saturday night in Jenison Fieldhouse.

Coach George Makris' under-rated Spartans pounded out two TKO's, won two decisions, and held three to draws in eight bouts against the Penn State crew.

It was State's third straight dual meet win of the year and tenth straight over a two-year period.

The Nittany Lions have been ranked as one of the East's most powerful boxing outfits.

Herb Odom, at 147 pounds, and Bill Greenway, at 156, won the two TKO's for State.

Odom caught Penn State's Stan Engle with a looping overhand right in the first minute of the opening round. Engle held on for another 30 seconds, but he was out on his feet, and the referee stopped the bout at 1:50.

With a minute and a half gone, Greenway belted Hank Arnold with a short right that stunned the Penn Stater. Twenty-two seconds later the referee stepped in to award the bout to Greenway.

Penn State's Tony Flore was his squad's only winner as he took a one-point decision over Bob Hoffman.

Hoffman drew the first and third rounds, but lost the second, which cost him the bout.

Julian Bass of MSC and Sam Marino, Penn State's 125-pound Eastern Intercollegiate runner-up last year, opened the night's action with a draw.

In the night's second bout, Max Jozwiak, in his first fight for the Spartans, showed a powerful left hand as he took a 29-28 decision over Joe Reynolds in the 132-pound weight division.

At 165 pounds, Michigan State's Tom Hickey belted out an easy decision over the Nittany Lions' Dick Cameron.

Hickey won every round in his easy triumph.

At 178 pounds, Al Tsakiris, undefeated Spartan boxer, faced Adam Kois, Eastern Intercollegiate light heavyweight champ, and came out with a draw.

Tsakiris, who has shown improvement with every fight this year, lost the first round but came back strong—drawing the second and winning the third.

In the final bout of the night—a heavyweight clash between State's Wayne Keller and Penn State's Bill Andresevich, Keller opened a cut over Andresevich's eye. The bout was stopped and, in accordance with college rules, called a draw.

The Spartan boxers will now have a two-week layoff before they travel to Minneapolis for a return engagement with the Minnesota boxers, Feb. 20.

In their opening meet of the year, the Spartans upset the Gophers, 4½-3½.

Sextet Beats Tech; First League Win

Huskies, State Split Two-Game Series

Michigan State's hockey team finally won a conference game but failed in its chief mission—to get out of the league basement.

The Spartan pucksters nipped Michigan Tech in Houghton Friday night, 2-1, for their first league decision in 11 tries, but the Huskies came right back Saturday afternoon to dump State, 5-2.

Tech apparently didn't like it down in the cellar all alone and played some inspired hockey Saturday before a capacity crowd attending the school's mid-winter carnival.

The win was also the first for Tech in the Midwest Collegiate Hockey league, but the Huskies have played four less league contests than the Spartans.

Leading villain as far as the Spartans were concerned was brilliant Tech goalie, Harry Taylor, who stopped 72 shots in the brace. Friday night he kicked out 39, several of them sensational, and Saturday he thwarted 33 Spartan attempts.

Both contests were extremely rough and there was seldom a shortage of men serving time in the penalty box.

In Saturday's game, Tech built up a 3-0 lead in the first period and coasted the rest of the way. The Huskies led, 3-1, at the second intermission, and outscored the Spartans in the third stanza, 2-1, for their winning margin.

Capt. Lloyd Hautola, Ron Nettell, and Bob Monahan registered for the Huskies in the initial period.

Jack Mayes came back for the Spartans at 14:40 of the second period when he nailed one with an assist from Co-Capt. Dick Northey.

Joe DeBastiani got one unassisted at 3:40 and Spartan Co-Capt. Dick Lord shoved in Gordie King's pass at 4:00. Ray Puro poked in the last tally at 10:05.

The Spartans, who arrived back on the campus early this morning, will travel to Ann Arbor Wednesday.

Tom Hickey, Spartan 165-pounder, sends the Nittany Lion Dick Cameron back on his heels in their fight Saturday nig Hickey easily won the decision from the Penn State boxer.

Trackmen Place in AAU Meet

The Spartan thinclads are back at work today after a vain attempt to beat the Wolverines in their own lair.

Michigan ran away with the Michigan AAU meet Saturday in Ann Arbor in record breaking fashion as they smashed four marks during the course of events.

Michigan State salvaged two first places with their efforts. Russ Olexa got the Spartans away to a flying start when he captured the only afternoon event—the broad jump. Olexa soared 22 feet, 9 inches to outdistance his nearest competitor by slightly more than four inches.

The shuttle hurdle relay team scored the other first place but were forced to share it with Michigan as the event finished in a dead heat. The quartet comprised of John Corbelli, Henry Gilis, Bill Brendell and Jim Lancoln snapped the tape at 25.7 seconds.

The distance medley relay team finished third behind Michigan and Loyola. Gilis also brought home a third in his event—the 65-yard high hurdles.

Steve Little managed a fifth place in the 660-yard run.

Arnold Smith, Bob Dust and a Michigan man shared third place in the pole vault.

Del Hyde, a Michigan State freshman running unattached, notched a second place in the mile run with Jack Boughton of MSC finishing fifth.

The Spartans picked up a second and a third in the two-mile and mile relays respectively.

Besides helping the shuttle team, Corbelli picked up a fourth in the low hurdles.

Ed Brabham and Travis Buggs, both Spartan freshmen, showed great promise for the future as they racked up first and second, respectively, in the novice 60-yard dash.

Jim Vrooman tied for fourth in the high jump with several others and Jerry Zerbe picked up a third in the two-mile run to round out the scoring for MSC.

Matmen Lose, 17-13 To Wolverines for First Big Ten Defea

The University of Michigan wrestling team tagged th selves as possible favorites for the Big Ten crown as t whipped Michigan State 17-13 Saturday at Ann Arbor

The Spartan won three decisions in the eight bout c Two other matches ended in draws.

It was the first defeat for MSC this year against conference competition. They also have lost to Pittsburgh.

Michigan State's highly-rated 157-pounder, Bob Hoke, was held to a draw by Michigan's Myles Lee, and Larry Fowler and Michigan's Dick O'Shaughnessy battled to a draw in their heavyweight clash.

The Spartan's wins came in the 123, 167, and 178-pound divisions.

Bob Gunner opened the dual meet with a 4-1 decision over Michigan's Joe Atkins, to give State a short-lived lead.

At 167-pounds, State's Vite Perrone completely outclassed the Wolverine's Bronson Rumsey with a 7-0 decision.

Michigan State's 177-pound wrestler, Ralph Gill, took a close decision from the U. of M.'s Hal Hole, 5-4, for the final Spartan win.

Michigan's Andy Kaul pinned MSC's Dick Gunner in the 139-pound weight division. The pin came at 5:22.

Joe Scandura, Wolverine 147-pounder, won by default over MSC's Jim Knotts. Knotts suffered a re-occurance of an old knee injury and couldn't finish the bout.

Another surprising defeat for Michigan State came in the 132-pound class when Michigan's Norvard Naion outpointed MSC's Ed Casalicchio.

The summary:

123-pounds: Bob Gunner (MSC) dec. Joe Atkins (M), 4-1.
132-pounds: Norvard Naion (M) dec. Ed Casalicchio (MSC), 3-1.
139-pounds: Andy Kaul (M) pinned Dick Gunner (MSC), 5:22.

178-pounds: Ralph Gill (MSC) dec. Hal Hole (M), 5-4.

Gymnasts Lose Again; This Time to Gophers

The Spartan gymnasts dropped another conference decision to Minnesota at Minneapolis Saturday by a score of 56-40.

The undefeated Gophers won four events, tied another, and lost only the sidehorse to the Spartans.

Leading Minnesota to the win was Ken Bartlett, who captured three firsts, one second and a fourth. His final point total was 24.

John Furry and Carl Rintz picked up eleven and ten and a half points for State, respectively.

State's only first place winner was Rintz, who was credited with 288 of a possible 300 points. One of the meet's officials called it the best performance by any gymnast at Minnesota this season.

Most of the individual matches were close as evidenced by John Walker's performance in tumbling and on the trampoline.

Bert Johnson edged Walker in the tumbling event by the narrow margin of 262 to 264. On the tramp Walker lost by a score of 277 to 284.

After the meet Coach George Szypula commented, "Rintz is coming back to form after his knee operation. He has been a key figure in our winning of meets and his return to form will make a big difference in the remaining meets on the schedule."

Former MSC Coach Accepts Hillsdale Post

Bachman, who resigned as state's head coach following the 1946 season, declared that he was delighted to return to football. He will start his 32nd season of coaching. Previously, Bachman coached at the University of Florida, Kansas State and Northwestern in addition to state.

"I am delighted to return to the game as a coach. Hillsdale has something [illegible] that offer a challenge to me," Bachman said.

Winners of the Intramural weightlifting championship held Thursday in Jenison gymnasium were left to right: John Latimer, Bill Cannon, Nick Gavrila, president of the MSC weight lifting club, Manuel Hidalgo and Harry Esline. Latimer won the heavyweight class lifting a total of 1043 pounds. Cannon was the middleweight winner, Hidalgo the lightweight and Esling the light heavyweight.

George [illegible] of Mississippi and Art Weiner of North Carolina share the record of 52 pass receptions in one season. Poole caught his record total in 1947, Weiner two years later.

Cagers Face Iowa Tonight

By KEITH MILLER

The Spartan cagers will attempt to get back into the win column tonight when they face the Iowa Hawkeyes in Iowa City.

As a result of Saturday's conference action, State resides in fourth place compared to the Hawks' eighth place position.

In a previous tussle at Jenison Fieldhouse, State dropped Iowa despite the efforts of high scoring forward Deacon Davis, who possesses an average of 17.8 points per game.

Other Hawkeyes who have a great ability to hit the baskets are Ken Buckles and Herb Thompson. Buckles has a 13.5 conference average while Thompson has been hitting at a 12.3 clip.

A combination of a Spartan loss to Ohio State and a Minnesota victory over Purdue dropped Pete Newell's crew into fourth place while the Gophers vaulted into third. State now has a six won-four lost conference mark, while Minnesota [illegible] an eight won-four lost mark.

An Ohio State scoring spree of 18 points in the final 14 minutes of Saturday's game at Columbus Fairgrounds Coliseum gave the Buckeyes a 73-62 triumph over the Spartans.

With approximately four minutes remaining in the third quarter Michigan State held a 42-35 lead. Then the Bucks tied the score at 42-all on field goals by Paul Ebert, Merrill Hatfield and John Cook and a charity toss by Hatfield.

Keith Stackhouse put his mates ahead with a free shot before Bill Wilks added two field goals. Cook scored a free throw and then he stole the ball from Al Ferrari in the last seconds of the third frame and raced in for a two pointer which put the Bucks ahead 49-43 entering the final 10 minutes.

The Spartans kept pawing at the lead and tied the game at 53 points with 4:59 seconds to play.

Ebert then took matters into his own hands, meshing seven consecutive Buckeye points while Bob Armstrong scored a field goal.

That gave the Scarlet and Gray a 59-54 margin with less than four minutes to go.

The High Streeters coasted to their fifth conference triumph in the remaining minutes.

Percentage-wise the Bucks had a torrid .489 average in their field goal attempts, hitting on 24 of 49 shots. The Spartans scored on 26 of 68 shots for a .383 percentage. At the free throw line the Buckeyes made 25 of 38 to the Spartans' 10 of 19.

Newell's squad kept pace with the opposition just as long as Ebert was held in check. In the first three quarters the talented pivotman tallied but eight points. However, Ebert broke loose with 12 fourth period scores, which gave him 20 for the evening. Second high scorer was Cook with 18.

Ferrari, Armstrong and Keith Stackhouse accounted for 48 of the Spartan total as the members of the trio scored 17, 16 and 15 points respectively.

All of Stackhouse's markers came in the final half.

On several occasions in the last quarter and a half of play, the referees detected guards Rickey Ayala, Bob Devenny and Jim Schlatter walking with the ball. This carelessness cost the Spartans several points as evidenced by the Buckeye surge in the last half.

'Kid' Readies for Fight

CHICAGO (P)—Kid Gavilan, whose battering fists carried him from the humbleness of the sugar cane fields to the stature of a national hero in Cuba, does not intend to let his worshippers down.

The gritty little Cuban has a pride to uphold as well as a welterweight championship when he clashes with challenger Chuck Davey in Chicago Wednesday night. It will be his fifth title defense.

Gavilan, 27, is rated around Chicago as a 2-1 favorite. Many arriving experts say the odds are way out of line. They think Gavilan should be favored anywhere from 4-1 to 8-1, using this rate as an expression of how well they like the record of the Cuban Hawk.

IF YOU CAN WIN THESE WINGS YOU CAN EARN OVER $5,000 A YEAR AFTER GRADUATION

Important facts about the opportunities for YOU as a Commissioned Officer—Pilot or Aircraft Observer—in the United States Air Force

Must I be a college graduate to be a Pilot?

No. But you must have completed a minimum of 60 semester hours or 90 quarter hours toward a degree. In addition, under the new Aviation Cadet Pilot training program, you must be between the ages of 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in good physical condition—with high requirements for eyes, ears, heart and teeth.

How long before I get my commission?

60 calendar weeks. You will receive the finest aviation training in the world—training that not only equips you to fly modern military aircraft but prepares you for executive and administrative work as well. At the completion of your training, you will have acquired a commission as a 2nd Lieutenant and won the coveted silver wings of the United States Air Force.

Where do I take my training?

Pre-flight training will be at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas. Primary, basic and advanced training will be taken at any one of the many Air Force bases located throughout the South and Southwest.

What happens if I flunk the training course?

Every effort is made to help students whose progress is unsatisfactory. You can expect extra instruction and whatever individual attention you may require. However, if you fail to complete the course as an Aviation Cadet, you will be required to serve a two-year enlistment to fulfill the minimum requirement under Selective Service laws.

What pay do I get as an Aviation Cadet? And after?

As an Aviation Cadet you draw $109.20 a month pay. In addition, you get summer and winter uniforms, flight clothes, equipment, food, housing, medical and dental care and insurance . . . all free. After you are commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant you will be earning $5,300.00 a year—with unlimited opportunities for advancement.

Are all Aviation Cadets trained to be Pilots?

No. You can choose between becoming a Pilot or an Aircraft Observer. Men who choose the latter will become commissioned officers in Navigation, Bombardment, Radar Operation, or Aircraft Performance Engineering.

Do Aircraft Observers get flying training, too?

Yes. Aircraft Observer Cadets receive approximately 200 hours of "in the air" instruction. The primary phase of Aircraft Observer training is the same for all branches: navigation, bombardment, etc. The basic and advanced phase of training varies, depending on the specific course you wish to pursue.

What kind of ships will I fly?

You will fly jets. The Pilot Cadet takes his first instruction in a light, propeller-type plane of approximately 180 horsepower, then graduates to the 600 horsepower T-6 "Texan" before receiving transition training in jets. You then advance gradually until you are flying such famous first-line aircraft as F-86 Sabre, F-84 Thunderjet, B-47 Stratojet, B-50 Superfortress. Observer Cadets take flight instructions in the C-47 Dakota, the T-29 Convair and the TB-50 Superfortress before advancing to first-line aircraft such as the F-94 Starfire, B-47 Stratojet or TB-50 Superfortress.

Will my commission be in the Regular Air Force or Reserve?

Aviation Cadet graduates, both Pilots and Aircraft Observers, get Reserve commissions as 2nd Lieutenants. Some outstanding graduates in both programs will be offered Regular commissions.

How long must I remain in Service?

After graduation as an Aviation Cadet, you are tendered an indefinite appointment in the United States Air Force Reserve and are called to active duty with the United States Air Force for a period of three years.

What recreation and leisure time will I have as a Cadet?

Discipline will be rigid—especially during the first few weeks. However, it's not all work. You'll find swimming pools, basketball courts, movies and other forms of recreation on the post. After your first 4 months, your commandant may allow you to apply for overnight passes.

Where will I be stationed when I get my commission?

You may be stationed anywhere in the world . . . Hawaii, Far East, Europe, Puerto Rico, elsewhere. During your tour of duty, you will be in close touch with the latest developments in new flying techniques. You will continue to build up your flying experience and later, should have no difficulty securing a CAA commercial pilot rating.

Your future is assured if you can qualify! Here's what to do:

1. Take a transcript of your college credits and a copy of your birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station. Fill out the application they give you.
2. If application is accepted, the Air Force will arrange for you to take a physical examination at government expense.
3. Next, you will be given a written and manual aptitude test.
4. If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet training class. The Selective Service Act allows you a four-month deferment while waiting class assignment.

Interviewers Crowd Placement Bureau Daily

Interviewers from companies all over the nation are crowding the Placement Bureau interview offices every day to talk with the March and June graduating seniors, Tom Dutch, placement assistant, said Tuesday.

Graduating seniors should contact the Placement Bureau for future employment, Dutch said. The Bureau contacts major companies throughout the country which send representatives to the campus to conduct interviews. Students can make contacts much faster this way than by going to offices of large corporations, Dutch emphasized.

The greatest demand right now is for graduates in the technical fields, such as chemists, physicists and engineers. Accounting, home economics and physical education for women are fields in which there is also a shortage. Michigan State graduates in Hotel Administration have the edge on graduates of other institutions due to the publicity centering around Kellogg Center, Dutch said.

Women will find it easier to enter teaching, especially elementary education and home economics, the technical fields or accounting. A secretarial minor is helpful to break into most fields, Dutch said. Women have the hardest time entering the foreign service due to the overcrowding in that field. Men get preference, Dutch said.

The Placement Bureau has sent notices to all housing units on campus notifying them of companies that will be here to interview and types of jobs that are available. They also notify various departments when jobs come up in their fields.

ating system of new building projects was set up.

Mary Mayo Hall, completed in 1932, was reportedly the first self-liquidation college dormitory in the United States.

Other structures erected during his presidency include Mason-Abbot Hall, Williams Hall, the band shell, Olin Memorial Hospital, Campbell Hall, Jenison Fieldhouse, Music Building, college Auditorium, the livestock Pavilion, an addition to the veterinary clinic, and the bridge over Red Cedar River. The stadium also was enlarged during this period.

Immediately after his appointment as president a major reorganization of curriculum was effected and a graduate school set up. New departments were added as the college grew.

The staff grew during his presidency from 331 in 1928 to 680 when he retired in 1941. Enrollment jumped from 2,813 to 6,776.

Dr. Shaw served as dean of agriculture and director of the college experiment station before becoming president.

He was born in Woodburn, Ont., July 24, 1871. He received the degree of bachelor of science in agriculture from the Ontario College of Agriculture in 1893, and came to the United States in 1898 as professor of agriculture at Montana Agriculture College.

In 1922 he received the degree of doctor of agriculture from what was then Michigan Agricultural College.

Variety Show Seeks Talent

All-college talent is needed for the variety show. Interested students should sign up in the Union Board office by noon Feb. 10, according to Peggy Martin, East Lansing junior.

Auditions will be held Feb. 10, 11 and 12 in the Union Ballroom from 7-10 p.m. Applicants will be notified the time for their audition.

A meeting will be held Saturday from 1-4 p.m. in the Ballroom to arrange acts and props for the show. All students interested in working on staging, costuming and make-up are urged to attend.

Trigger-firer

Prevents Frostbite

Student's Invention Aids Korean Troops

By BOB MYRSTEN

The men fighting in the frozen hills of Korea can thank John V. Polomsky, Cleveland, O. freshman, for their warm hands this winter.

Polomsky, 22-year-old mechanical engineering student now, was a Marine sergeant in Korea during the winter of 1950. He learned that you couldn't fire a rifle or a carbine while wearing heavy gloves. If you took off the gloves in 30 degree below zero weather frostbite struck, putting fingers and hands out of action, sometimes for good.

When cold weather came in 1951, Polomsky was ready for it. He had made a device which enabled him to work the trigger of his rifle while wearing heavy gloves. His adapter was considered so important that most of the front line troops were using a cold weather firing device by January 1952.

The adapter is simple in design and was made from a discarded canteen cup handle. It works on a spring lever idea with its base fastened to the rifle stock just behind the trigger guard. The other end of the adapter is bent to form a spring which is interlocked with the trigger. Squeezing the piece upwards puts strain on the trigger and fires the rifle.

The Marine Corps, realizing a need for such a device as this, studied Polomsky's drawings and samples and improved them till they finally worked out a model which they call the "Bell Crank."

This model is shaped like a wide spread inverted "V" and is fastened at the point of the "V" to the back of the trigger guard. A roller at one end of the "V" moves against the trigger when pressure is applied to the other end. The "Bell Crank" is now standard cold weather equipment in the Marine Corps.

Polomsky, a member of the Marine reserves since 1947, was called to active duty in August 1950, one month after UN troops were committed to Korea.

He received the Purple Heart medal for shrapnel wounds in the back and shoulder and two letters of Commendation with Combat V's. Later he was promoted to staff sergeant for meritorious service.

'Go Ahead' Spirit Acclaimed

MSC Praised in Study

By TED RAKSTIS

A visiting Briton, studying registrar's methods at 22 American colleges and universities says that the liaison between Michigan State College and high schools is one of the closest he's seen.

John Hodgkinson, assistant registrar at England's University of Birmingham, said Friday after a two-day visit here, that the MSC system in relation to high schools is "extremely well organized," he said.

"I've visited 16 of the schools on my travels in the States, and I believe the system here compares very favorably with any other that I've yet seen. The close co-operation built up by your arrangement has obviously created much good will and made a very valuable contribution to the school."

Prof. Guy H. Hill is co-ordinator of the Office of High School Co-operation.

Hodgkinson said that his six-month tour of the United States has been very revealing, but that "the more I see of American registrar's offices, the happier I am to be in an English university!"

He explained that in contrast with the problems involved in holding three registration periods and issuing three sets of grades a year, schools in England hold only one registration and issue but one set of grades per year.

"Though we operate on a basis of three 11-week terms in a similar manner to your system, the year is the unit that we operate on," he said. "It certainly makes the registrar's job an easier one."

Contrasting the American registrar's office with its English counterpart, Hodgkinson said that the British universities delegate more duties to the office of the registrar. He said that some of the chores that would normally fall under the Dean of Students Office or the assistant on academic affairs are instead doled out to the registrar.

Hodgkinson, who intends to return to England Mar. 21, has been connected with the University of Birmingham for four years. The university, he said, has about 3,000 students. Birmingham, England's second largest city, is a major industrial center.

Following his departure from MSC Friday afternoon, the visiting Englishman left to study methods employed at the University of Michigan's registrar's office. His previous stops included a two-month study at Stanford and visits to the University of California, UCLA, University of Denver, Colorado University, Johns Hopkins, Howard University, Cincinnati, Purdue, Illinois, Wisconsin, Chicago and Minnesota.

Hodgkinson, who stayed at Kellogg Center during his two-day pause at MSC, also had a few words of praise for the Spartan campus.

"This place is very much alive," he said. "It has got a 'go-ahead' spirit that hasn't been evident in every school I've visited."

Snow Predicted Today: Cloudy Skies to Follow

Weather news was not so good for the J-Hop, and it's not today. Rain or snow this afternoon or tonight is the weather prediction and Sunday's cloudiness and temperature should increase.

I'm in favor of a strong central government with a strong executive with technological knowledge running it." He said that he did not favor either of the two proposed amendments and that an all-college election would turn into a popularity contest. The second proposal is being backed by Rep. Mary Jo Maguire (North Williams).

The proposal would open the presidency to members of the executive and judiciary branches as well as congressmen. It requires, however, that they serve six months in the student government before they are nominated.

Congress would select nominees by secret ballot if the proposal were passed. In order to be nominated, a candidate would have to receive 35 per cent of the votes of all congressmen. Then the president would be picked by an all-college election from the two nominees and the loser would become a voting member-at-large of the student Congress.

Under the student government constitution the president is elected by Congress on secret ballot and candidates must be congressmen.

The third proposed amendment, supported by Bolo, would change the process for adopting amendments and is designed to make their approval easier. It provides two methods for proposing constitutional changes:

1. By a two-thirds vote of Congress amendments could be put before the student body for a vote.

2. By petitioning 15 per cent of the student body an amendment could be put before the student body for a vote.

Under the present article an amendment must be proposed by Congress plus a petition signed by 10 per cent of the student voters.

Bolo's amendment would change the section requiring amendments be submitted to the student body at an all-college election.
