After Wilson's Visit Emmons Foresees End of Probation

By JACK KOLE

State News Sports Editor

Hope was raised Wednesday by Dean Emeritus Lloyd C. Emmons that the recently invoked one-year athletic probation on Michigan State by the Big Ten would be lifted before termination of the stated period.

Dean Emmons presented his views after conferring with Big Ten commissioner, Kenneth E. "Tug" Wilson, who visited the campus Tuesday afternoon for a "routine" check.

Emmons is head of the MSC athletic council and also the Spartans' Big Ten faculty representative.

Wilson spent the afternoon and evening with Emmons and Claud R. Erickson, former president of the now defunct "Century Club," the organization that supposedly raised $33,000 for the benefit of Spartan athletes.

According to Dean Emmons, Wilson was following up on the original charge, first announced to the public from the Western Conference headquarters in Chicago, Feb. 22.

Charges had been pending, however, since May 27, 1952, but a thorough investigation was made before the final penalty was given.

As a result of the visit, Emmons commented, "I think we can have definite hopes of having the probation lifted before the full year is up."

Emmons said that Wilson wanted details on money spent for the benefit of Michigan State athletes. He said that the three men conferred on "certain details" of the recent probation.

He got most of the information he wanted," continued Emmons, "and therefore we may not have to endure the hardships of the Big Ten as long."

When Wilson visited Spartan football drills with Emmons and Erickson Tuesday afternoon, speculation arose that the Big Ten chief was scrutinizing the spring gridiron system to check on any possible violations.

But Emmons squelched those rumors and said that it had been his own idea to take Wilson to the drills and that the Big Ten chief was not there.

Wet and Warm Mercury to Go Up But April Showers May Come Down

More long-delayed spring weather can be expected today. The weatherman has predicted a high of 62.

Police Take Daily Check At Abbott Rd.

Plan to Alternate
No-Turn Hours

Effects of the no-left-turn experiment during rush hours at Grand River and Abbott Rd. are being checked daily by East Lansing police. The police department is planning to alternate the experiment hours for more complete results.

No left turns will be allowed today, Friday and Saturday between 4 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. On the three preceding days this week, traffic was checked between 5:30 p.m. and 5:57 p.m.

The intersection of Grand River and Abbott Rd. has been a hazardous corner for accidents and traffic violations for a period of years, Sgt. Steve Nacri said.

This has been especially true during the evening rush hours. Traffic bottlenecks occur there each on Friday night regularly.

Portable no-left-turn signs are posted during the experimental hours each night and one traffic officer is posted to enforce the law. Tickets will be issued to any motorists violating the rule.

If the results of the 30-day test prove favorable, the city council and traffic commission will make the ordinance permanent.

North Winds Storage Barn Razed by Fire

A large storage barn at the North Winds farm on US-16 east of East Lansing was destroyed by fire Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Noma McKinley, the owner, estimated the damage at $20,000. No livestock was in the barn out a large amount of hay and farm implements were destroyed.

Highway US-16 was blocked to traffic for nearly half an hour as firemen ran hoses across the main highway.

History Group Honors Book By MSC Author

"America Rebels," a historical anthology edited by Richard M. Donovan of the MSC History Department, has been chosen for their monthly selection by the American History Publication Society.

The selections in the anthology were collected by Donovan from early diaries, journals and letters written at the time of the American Revolution, and give eye-witness accounts of the War of Independence.

Professor Donovan has also authored two books of folk tales and legends, "Davy Crockett: American Comic Legend," and "Jonathan Draws the Long Bow."

Dr. Walter Adams, associate professor of economics, and Dr. Audrey A. McAuley, assistant professor of natural science, were awarded Ford Foundation research fellowships in a nationwide program to aid teaching in American colleges and universities.

Dr. Adams will study administrative law particularly as it affects the relationship between government and the private economy. Dr. McAuley plans to work on the history of science with emphasis on zoology. The two men will spend the 1953-54 academic year at Harvard University.

Don Thomas H. Osgood of the School of Graduate Studies stated that only six received these fellowships in Michigan and 253 in the country.

Lecturer Calls Ibsen 'Essential' to Drama

By AUDREY LLEWELLYN

State News Feature Editor

All roads in drama either lead to Henrik Ibsen or come from him, Prof. Francis Bull of the University of Oslo, told his audience Wednesday evening.

Prof. Bull, in America on a traveling fellowship, has taught at the University for more than 30 years and is active in scientific and literary work in Norway. Brought here by the English Department, he spoke on "Ibsen: The Man and the Dramatist" to an audience which had to move from 111 Berkey Hall to the Auditorium of the Horticultural Building to be accommodated.

International Show Expects 15,000 Visitors

The ninth annual International Festival, expected to draw 15,000 visitors this year, will be held May 2 at Jensen Fieldhouse, according to Prof. G. L. Thomas of the Speech Department.

Students from 42 foreign countries and Hawaii will present entertainment and preside at booths containing art work, literature and costumes representative of their respective countries.

Features of this year's festival will be a troupe of Polish dancers, and a Hawaiian band, or hula. The dance group will be brought in from Hamtramck, and cooking rocks for the hula will be flown in from Hawaii.

The festival is being held on a Saturday this year in hopes that a larger number of high school students will be able to attend. High schools within a 125-mile radius are invited.

Primarily the festival is an attempt to create better understanding between cultures and peoples of foreign and American backgrounds, Prof. Thomas said.

The International Center Committee, made up of MSC faculty members, sponsors the festival. International Club members, mostly students, participate in the entertainment.

Agree to Include Recent Captives

Exact Number Still in Doubt;
Prisoner Exchange Continues

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Communists Thursday promised to free more than the 605 Allied sick and wounded pledged originally for the historic first prisoner exchange of the Korean War.

Rear Adm. John C. Daniel, chief Allied liaison officer, said the Reds, at a brief liaison meeting Thursday agreed to release more Americans than scheduled originally and that these would include not only sick and wounded POW's but men captured recently.

The good tidings came amid thunderous reverberations as a big gun duel shook the hills around the Panmunjom plain where the disabled captive exchange rolled into its fourth day.

Fourteen Americans, five Australians, six Columbians and 25 South Koreans were handed over to the Allies at 7 p.m. EST Wednesday. Fifty South Korean disabled were to be released later in the morning.

U.S. Studies Atrocity Reports

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R-N.H.) said Wednesday administration officials have agreed to collect all possible evidence of Communist atrocities in Korea for possible war crimes prosecution in the future.

This report came after Bridges' appropriations committee had closed itself for two hours with officials of the State and Defense Departments.

Bridges said the witnesses confirmed "the general information about atrocities and speaking generally said they were probably to a large extent sadly and unfortunately correct accounts."

He was referring to the spreading reports from sick and wounded U.S. prisoners released by the Communists under the agreement reached at Panmunjom.

These released POWs told harrowing details of forced death marches across the frozen Korean countryside with U.S. soldiers falling dead of exhaustion and exposure. They said some Americans were bayoneted and beaten to death.

Bridges called a hurried meeting of the committee so that senators could get a full on what the administration knows about the reports.

When the Reds first set their figure, Daniel protested that it was too low.

Time for Action

The InterFraternity Council has elected a new slate of officers—one of the most representative in some time. Those at the annual banquet said a spirit of enthusiasm and optimism for the future was very evident.

We hope this spirit will continue, and that the IFC will not slowly sink into a morass of vague plans and postponed projects.

With enthusiastic and practical leadership, the IFC could be a vital force in strengthening and expanding the fraternity program here.

A strong program of this sort would in turn be beneficial to Michigan State College, by providing outlets for creative energy.

Congratulations, gentlemen. We'll be looking for bigger and better things from you.

We Could Lend Them One!

Voting on a double ballot, Hillsdale College students repeated their existing student government constitution, then failed to pass a new one. As a result, all student government-sponsored activities, including the school paper, are considered to be non-existent.

Commented one student leader: "We've committed political suicide."

Interpreting the News

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

The problem presented by the stories of returning Americans from Chinese prison camps, indicating that the Communists are operating the exchange with no more sincerity than that to which the world has become accustomed from them, can highly complicate the prospects of a full truce in Korea.

The widespread story is that the Communists have chosen prisoners for repatriation with an eye to appearances, and that they declined to list many who were most badly off.

It is to be presumed, and the Communists have only themselves to thank if the world believes the worst, that they are retaining many, and that they are the ones whose physical conditions and stories would make the worst propaganda for the Reds.

The agreement was that all sick and wounded would be exchanged. Allied authorities quickly labeled the small number offered by the Communists as "incredible." But the Allies have gone ahead with the deal on the grounds that half a loaf is better than none.

Rep. Dewey Short, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, already has suggested that the Communists be required to open up their prison camps to international inspection before U.N. negotiators go any farther with plans for resumption of general truce talks.

As Senator Cooper, a former member of the United States delegation to the United Nations points out, the Allies will have to make some concessions to the Communists, in the absence of a military victory, before there can be any real peace in Korea.

He asks that the public permit the administration to do so without crying appeasement, though appeasement in one sense of the word is certainly what he has in mind. He envisions, of course, that the Communists will be required to do some appeasing, too, especially in the way of guarantees that any truce agreed upon shall be a valid one observed by both sides.

But the Allies went into the prisoner exchange on something of an appeasement basis, too, accepting the Communist list of eligible repatriates without attempting to check.

All the indications are that there will be a lot of heart-break about this before it is over, though how the agreement could have been bettered, under the circumstances, is hard to see.

whole thing was "purely pleasure."

According to Enmons, Wilson asked him if it would be "embarrassing" for him to visit the practice.

Enmons replied, "You can't embarrass us, brother."

Wilson stayed over, Tuesday night and left early Wednesday morning. According to Enmons, Wilson had a few other appointments in Lansing, but Enmons thought that Erickson and himself were the only men connected with Michigan State athletics that talked with the Big Ten commission.

Erickson was unavailable for comment Wednesday night.

Alumni Secretary Reports Grad News

By SUE HENDERSON

One of MSC's chief "reporters" is Mrs. Betty Blackmar, East Lansing who corresponds with some 45 thousand alums. Mrs. Blackmar, as alumni office secretary, keeps a card of the names and addresses of all graduates in order to notify them of class news.

In an attractive mother of four children, Mrs. Blackmar keeps continually busy answering letters and mailing data to alums. She acknowledges all correspondence and extends congratulations on marriages and offers condolences on deaths.

A form letter is also sent out acknowledging all changes of address. This news is in turn applied to make up the class lists published in the Spartan alumni magazine, The Record.

Each alumni material is received when an annual letter and membership card is mailed at the end of the year, requesting alums to send their dues.

Side from correspondence, alumni office keeps in contact with the 63 Michigan State chapters throughout Michigan and twenty-seven clubs located out of state.

The department also plans the Alumni Day which is held before commencement.

'Tween Us • Coeds

By JEAN CUSHMAN

Many graduating coeds have a yen to travel and are looking for out-of-state or overseas jobs. Training programs which offer coeds a chance to travel are leading in popularity now.

Besides the coeds who will get married in June and those who will return to their home town to work, Tom Dutch, assistant placement director, says many are looking for a chance to see the country. Whether its elementary, secondary education, retailing or general training programs, coeds want to travel. Superintendents from Colorado and California have made contacts with some coeds for work.

Teaching positions are open in Europe but coeds should have at least two years' experience. Government jobs are also open, but a two year contract must be signed. Jobs are available at nearly all Army installations.

Here is your chance coeds, to travel and make money, too.

Winners of the quarter finals will receive $500 and the chance to perform in the final contest in New York.

Heidt asked the Quintones to appear on his show after they sang in his program here Tuesday night. Ray DeFrancesco, leader of the group, said they plan to sing their own arrangement of Cole Porter's "Night and Day."

Spartan Nine Faces Three Road Contests

Ohio State, Illini to Toss
Top Hurlers at Kobsmen

By CHUCK MILLER

The baseball team will leave tonight on a crucial three-game road trip on which they will encounter the first obstacles in their path to a possible Big Ten championship.

Coach John Kobs has had nothing but worries this year. The team had one of its poorest records on a southern trip losing eight out of nine contests.

This was due mainly to an inexperienced pitching staff.

Just as the hurlers started rounding into shape, a cold spell forced the team into hiding.

Now that some decent weather has set in and the squad has had a few days of outdoor practice before the Big Ten opener, Kobs' son has been taken seriously ill.

Asst. Coach Arno Bessone took charge of practice Wednesday while Kobs was with his son and sent the team through the usual batting and fielding drills plus an intra-squad game.

State will face a veteran team in the Illini Friday. Illinois is expected to start either Gary Smith or Olive Follmer while Kobs will counter with Bud Erickson or Bob Dangel.

Last year in a double header at Old College Field, the Spartans faced these two pitchers and came out with a split.

Smith hurled the opener and gave up six hits as his mates blasted State, 12-1. Hog Howard came back in the night-cap and bested Follmer in a tight pitchers' duel, 1-0 with a three-hitter.

After the game in Champaign, the team will travel to Columbus and play OSU in the morning and again in the afternoon.

In one of these games the Spartans are almost sure to meet one of the best pitchers in the Big Ten—Paul Ebert.

He is well known in another sport besides baseball. Spartan fans remember all too well his work with the Buckeye cage squad.

Minnesota is also blessed with a good moundman in the person of another two-sport star, Paul Giel. Giel was a terror to opposing teams last fall from his tall back spot in the Gophers' single wing system.

Smith, Ebert and Giel all posted 5-6 conference records last year.

Kobs revealed that the starting line-up against the Illini would closely resemble that of the Wayne game with possibly a few exceptions.

In the recent National Intercollegiate table tennis championships held at Ohio State University in Columbus, the Michigan State squad took a fourth place behind champion Ohio State and Wayne. The State team is comprised of (left to right) Elliot Greenberg, Urand Marvie, Capt. Sid Barnfather, Arnold Hoffman, Chuck Roy with advisor Jordan Levin. Leading the Spartans was Barnfather, who lost in the quarterfinals. Individual champion in singles was Pace College's Jerry Gharrahanian, an Iranian who is world ranked.

Big Leagues Next?

Spartan Shortstop
Carries Big Stick

By RON SMITH

At least three major league baseball clubs will have to bide their time before Stan Turner turns pro.

Stan, rangy Spartan shortstop, and currently the team's leading hitter, intends to finish his college career before giving the play-for-pay game the college try. And Green and White rooters are not complaining about his decision.

The 333 mark during the recent southern sojourn. Missing one of the nine games because of a bad leg, the fleet-footed Spartan faced rival pitchers 27 times and collected nine safeties for a total base output of 19. Among his hits were three doubles, two triples, and one homer. His booming bat drove six runners across the plate.

Turner missed a circuit clout by a foot on one occasion. Against North Carolina's Tar Heels Stan slammed a would-be four-bagger, but forgot to touch home. He went into the record books as a triple.

A phys. ed. major from Flint Northern, Turner is a first term sophomore. As a freshman last season, Stan played understudy to since graduated Joe Rivich. He displayed so much promise that the Detroit Tigers, Cleveland Indians, and Philadelphia Phillies were eyeing him with more than second glances.

"He has a wealth of potential," beamed baseball coach John Kobs, reflecting on Turner's performance in the southland. "He hits a long ball and he runs hard. He's got a good arm, too. The fella loves to play baseball."

Herb Smith, Flint Northern baseball coach, gets the credit for bringing Stan to Michigan State.

STAN TURNER

He advised Stan, who also played fullback for the Flint football squad, to enroll at State and the Spartan baseball team has been profiting ever since.

With two more years of baseball eligibility, Turner is a good bet to be one of college baseball's brightest stars. After that—who knows? Maybe the big leagues.

No Time for Letdown

Football Squad Set
Steady Spring Pace

By SEN McHARDON

Spring football had glad tidings from Jupiter, Fla. Wednesday with the result that Coach Biggie Munn was able to send his squad through a rather thorough spring mangle. With time an all important element this season due to the revision of the NCAA code, there has been little time for any letdowns on the practice field.

The change will mean that every position on the team is vulnerable open to those who show the talent, and being a "name" player does not guarantee a starting position.

Injuries have been at a minimum in practice sessions although back Gene Lekenta and Jerry Musetta suffered twisted muscles in Tuesday night's drills. Coach Dan Devine said that freshmen quarterbacks Earl Morrall and Bill Smiley were looking impressive in scrimmages.

Looking very well in the drills were many freshmen who rate a fair chance of seeing plenty of action next fall. Devine also added that there were plenty of fellows who, although unheralded, were digging in pretty hard in spring drills. He felt that this kind of spirit could earn many of them starting positions. He cited Dale Bullen, lineman from Asheville, Pa., as a typical example.

Coach Munn was talking about the work of Jerry Musetta to fullback when he brought up a very humorous but true point. It seems that he noticed an article about the difference of certain coaches as to how they would keep their team's straightened out under the new rule.

Has Ebert of Illinois had the idea of having two benches, one painted red for those players who had just left the game so that here would be none of them sent in again until their time had expired.

Stanford's Chuck Taylor and Notre Dame's Frank Leahy have vowed to have elaborate chest bumpers keep the substitution "book."

Biggie chuckled when he said: "How at Michigan State all the football players must have a very fine average to play. Anyone who fails a subject will not be allowed to play in a game. They are intelligent boys and ought to know when to go back in and when not to."

Chuck Davey and his wife were seen leaving Jensen Fieldhouse. When asked about State's football chances, the sound welterweight said: "I'm not a football expert but I will say that the going will be tough with a Big Ten schedule to face, but I think the boys will have a good chance to win the conference this fall."

The Old Story, Dorish Puts Out Fire

Tigers Lose Fifth in Row, to White Sox

TROIT (AP)—The Chicago White Sox found the winning run for the first time this season Wednesday, pushing across five runners in the bottom of the ninth and twice had the potential winning run at the plate. But Dorish, a calm curve-baller, retired Bob Nieman and Jim Delsing to put out the fire.

Vern Stephens, Sherm Lollar and Sam Mele walloped four-baggers off rookie Milt Jordan, making his first big league start. Lollar's circuit clout came with one on, the others with the sacks unoccupied. Despite the prodigious fence-busting, the Pale Hose needed Dorish for the second straight day to put down the die-hard Bengals. When the ace reliever appeared on the scene, the Tigers had three runs across and the bases loaded.

Pig Walt Drogo smashed a screaming single that plated two Tigers, but Bob Nieman looked at a third strike and Jim Delsing heaved to Fox for the final out.

After Drogo's one-bagger, the Tiger's hit parade was over, and 2,345 fans left the ball park wondering when, and if, the Tigers will ever win their second game.

YANKS 6, BOSTON 2
NEW YORK (AP)—Johnny Mize slashed a pinch single with the bases filled and the scored tied in the eighth inning as the New York Yankees came up with four runs to whip Boston, 6-2 behind Vic Raschi.

The victory gave the Yankees undisputed possession of first place in the American League.

Delsing opened with a single and took third on Batts' double down the left field line. Ginsberg hit for Owen Friend and tumbled to Stephens. Frank Carswell batted for Paul Foytack and singled to left, scoring Delsing and sending Batts to third. Friend singled to center, Batts scoring. Carswell stopped at second. ## Library Remains 'Up in Air'

By STAN STEINBOEN
State News Capitol Reporter

Michigan's Senate again held up action on all appropriation bills up for final passage, Wednesday.

Once again Sen. Elmer Porter (R-Blissfield) chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, moved that the bills be put over until such time as is determined how much money the state will have coming in during the next fiscal year.

This policy leaves Michigan State Library appropriation still very much up in the air. If enough money is not raised to cover the cost of the proposed budget, prospects are that it will be cut.

If this is done the first and most heavy cuts are likely in the Capitol Outlay Budget which appropriates money for new construction and major repairs.

Sen. Creighton Coleman (R-Battle Creek, Senate majority leader, and important member of the Republican Policy Committee, said last week that the only construction that could be sure of approval, in his opinion, was that slated for the state's prison.

While legislators' feelings are that the library is definitely needed, in the long run, their desire to balance the budget this year will almost certainly outweigh their sentiment on the need for the library.

In the realm of new tax legislation, only one thing seems certain—Michigan will not levy a tax on the payrolls of state corporations.

The proposal sponsored by Speaker of the House Wade Van Valkenburg (R-Kalamazoo), was defeated by a big margin in the House Tuesday.

Still to be considered are a large variety of bills, most of which will be reported onto the floor of the two houses with no recommendation to give the members a chance to decide for themselves.

Democrats are still backing the proposal by Governor William that the state pass a corporation profits tax.

So far the Republican majority in the Legislature, while unable to agree on anything else, have fought this plan.

In any event the future of MSC's library is tied in directly with the decision of the Legislature on a new money-raising bill.

Clues Sought In Robberies

Police are still seeking new leads on a series of break-ins in the East Lansing area.

The break-ins took place early Monday morning at the Paul Revere tavern, Coral Gables ballroom, the Foxhole P.N., a gas station at US-16 and Okemos Rd. and a home east of East Lansing.

Officers are looking for a man with a deep cut on his hand, Det. Lt. Orville Slaght of the East Lansing police said. Blood was found at the scene of the crime in all the burglaries.

According to the police, only a small amount of cash was taken, along with a few items of merchandise from the Foxhole P.N.

Strieter Trial Delayed

Action Held For Mother's Full Recovery

By MARIE BUCK

The arraignment of Mrs. Helen Strieter, who attempted to take her own life after she apparently strangled her two daughters, will not take place until she has fully recovered, Paul C. Younger, Ingham County prosecutor said Wednesday.

Younger said that the state would wait until doctors assured him that Mrs. Strieter had recovered from her self-inflicted wounds. Mrs. Strieter is reported in "good" condition at the East Unit of Edward W. Sparrow hospital.

Mrs. Strieter has not yet made any formal statement on the slaying, he said. "She seems very disturbed now and a statement would not be worth much if taken at this time," Younger declared.

Police are still seeking an explanation of the tragic slaying, which took place last Friday in the barracks at MSC.

Mrs. Strieter had been consulting with a psychologist prior to the crime, Det. Lt. Charles Becker of the college police said Tuesday.

Police also reported that they had been informed that Mrs. Strieter had asked her mother to take the two children home with her one week before the crime.

Upon her release from the hospital, Mrs. Strieter faces charges on two first-degree murder warrants, issued Saturday by Justice Henry Schram of East Lansing.

The legal process requires that she be brought before a justice of the peace for a preliminary hearing, at which time she may be bound over to circuit court for trial.

The circuit court judge may order Mrs. Strieter to be examined by a psychiatrist, after the trial has opened. If she should be judged insane, she would be committed to a state institution.

mailed kept statues of these devils and super-devils to make these trolls take shape as he wrote, the professor said.

These must be the trolls of cowards and egotism, according to Prof. Bull's interpretations.

The great 19th century dramatic was also a great poet, Prof. Bull emphasized. In his poetry he pronounced his last judgment on himself, is the professor's conclusion.

Ibsen's great motivating force was his past—those trolls that come back—he continued. "At night and in my poetry I am always at home in Norway," Prof. Bull quoted Ibsen as saying.

Nature does play a prominent part in Ibsen's work, Prof. Bull said, despite the fact that some critics characterize him as being a "paleo-dramatist."

He had to go deep into the heart of mankind, but he was looking for the open air, according to Prof. Bull.

Ibsen was a poetic dramatist and not a philosopher, he explained. He wrote not of ideas, but of men and women, and he knew how to characterize each as an individual, he explained.

To emphasize his opinions, Prof. Bull quoted another critic.

Ibsen is a little man without breadth or bottom, he cannot make a speech, but he can think.

Junior '500'

Preparations Begin For Pushcart Race

Wheels are beginning to turn in preparation for the sixth annual Lambda Chi Alpha "Junior 500" pushcart derby set for May 16.

All men's living units have been invited to enter a speedy or humorous car in the race around Circle Drive. Each group will select a coed sponsor for its entry.

Six trophies will be awarded to the entries placing first, second and third in the speed and humor divisions.

Relay runners will push the cars around the 2,000-yard course. The race will be run in heat with the first and second place winners of each heat racing in the final event.

Humorous cars will be judged on appearance and ability to complete the course.

Kay Hutton, Grosse Pointe sophomore, will reign at the derby. She will ride with other sponsors in a convertible parade preceding the 1:30 p.m. race.

Special guests at the race will be Dr. John A. Hannah, Dean Tom King and Gov. G. Mennen Williams.

Alpha Phi Alpha took the speed cup last year and established a new course record by rounding Circle Drive in 4.05 minutes. The humor prize was captured by Zeta Beta Tau.

The "Junior 500" which takes its name from the Indianapolis 500-mile speedway, was originated at MSC in 1948.
