Spartans Rally Tonight

Fast Set
for Jenison

The first time this year, Spartans will cheer for the MSC squad at to-night's pep rally in Jenison. Coach Duffy Daugherty will appear with his team on the traditional U-M game. The game, which is a buildup for the game, are asked to cheer for State to its spirit. See Page 2.

Plans grow on campus for pep rally, an event which will challenge East Lansing citizens to cheer for the team.

More than ever, the team spirit of the Spartans is strong. Local residents are helping behind the team. Harold Murphy, New Mass, junior, is the student-citizen of the year after the 1953 Purdue game. Murphy said that citizen has been just as lax as the Spartans this year and in the city residents to bring in Spartan spirit to to-night.

Plans on campus will be the first pep rally in Jenison at 8 p.m. The team and Duffy will be highlighted by the pep band of the U-M. The pep band is directed by Athletic Director Munn.

Plans for the rally will be held until the students are in the Spartans Spirit. The Spartans Spirit is a group of students who are sponsoring the rally. The Spartans Spirit is a group of students who are sponsoring the rally.

Career Carnival To Open Monday

Spartans will be able to "window-shop" for careers next Monday and Tuesday night, in the Union, during the sixth annual MSC Career Carnival.

MSC Painters To Face Dean After Trial

Official MSC action on the 20 paint pranksters will be taken as soon as all the students are tried, the Dean of Students office announced Wednesday.

Persons directly responsible for the painting of the U of M campus will have to pay damages, John W. Truitt, assistant to the dean of students, men's division, said. Official word from the U of M on the cost of damages was to be received today.

If the students can do anything to remove the paint themselves they will return to Ann Arbor Saturday to do so, he said.

Five of the students will be tried in the Washtenaw County Jail Saturday morning. Six students tried Tuesday were fined $5 each and costs.

Truitt said that even if the students are not convicted at Ann Arbor they will still have to answer to the college.

Besides the five students listed yesterday, also fined was James Clune, Traverse City sophomore.

Janes to Attend Grain Conference

Dr. Ray L. Janes of the entomology department is scheduled to attend the National Grain Conference at Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 14-16.

Dr. Janes plans to prepare a report on the conference, which will discuss control of insect problems in grain storage, mills and elevators. The report will be distributed in Michigan.

Photographer Changes From Dogs to Students

By JOAN BRENNAN
A 47-year-old New Yorker who spends all his time running from college to college has been visiting MSC for the past two and one-half weeks.

He is the professional photographer who has been asking students to "sit with your feet together and half-smile" as he snaps organizational group shots for the Centennial Wolverine.

Alton Taube's photo career began with dog pictures that were used as part of editorial sketches in such magazines as Harper's Bazaar and Town and Country.

After concentrating on concert photography for five years, he spent three years in the army as a signal corps photographer. Six years ago, Taube became connected with Delma Studios and began his work on school annuals.

About half of his jobs are with colleges, and the rest are with high schools. This "perennial student" estimates that he spends five days a week taking shots of school activities, classes, proms, and graduation exercises to say nothing of sports events on weekends.

Most of the 40 or 50 colleges he visits are closer to his home in Manhattan than MSC. Taube goes for State in a big way saying, "I much prefer coming here than any other college. I like

Traffic Law Revisions Advocated

Congress Asks
For Smaller Fines

By JACKIE OLDHAM

Recommendations to change present student driving laws caused considerable discussion at Wednesday night's Student Congress meeting.

A resolution advocating almost unlimited night-time parking on campus and a reduction of parking fines will be presented to the Student Faculty Motor Vehicle Committee by Government President Bill Hurst.

An investigation to determine the exact area and power of all college courts will begin as a result of another Congressional resolution.

Jack Subar, Campus Chest head, reported on the campus chest's final results and stated his satisfaction with the organization's members and work.

While telling Congressmen of the fine cooperation and enthusiasm of his staff, Subar recommended that Campus Chest be brought closer to the government.

"There should be some way for Congress to check on appropriations and other Chest activities," he said. He also mentioned the need for an accurate system for recording funds coming into the office.

Government eligibility check-ups were also reported over 90 per cent complete by Eligibility Commissioner Sue Kemp.

A bill to bring the appointment of the Helot editor under a board of representatives from AWS, Blue Key, student government and the dean's office was approved.

After distributing a sample copy of the Congress news letter, "You", Publicity Committee head Barry Grant said it would come out every Friday for student-wide distribution.

Negotiations to place Jan Somers, Miss Michigan, in the Pasadena Tournament of Roses on a commercial float have been started, Hurst told Congress.

In the traffic rules recommendation, parking hours for student-registered cars were suggested to extend from 7 p.m. until 2 a.m. with the present fifteen-minute parking restriction in the area of girls' dorms.

Unlimited parking from noon Saturday until 2 a.m. Monday morning was another suggestion. The present rule forbidding 2 to 6 a.m. parking would still be effective over the weekend.

An exception of no parking in the Giltner Hall lot was advocated in the event of a major lecture-concert series program, and to identify these occasions for Senators John Stennis (D-Miss), Frank Carlson (R-Neb), Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah) and Francis Case (R-S.D.), members of the McCarthy censorship committee, consider the wording of a resolution to be placed before the Senate.

Warm Weather To Aid Rally

Veteran's Day weather will be warm, as ROTC cadets parade under partly-cloudy skies. Nor should the weather furnish any of the green-clad Spartan rooters with an excuse to stay away from the pep rally to-night.

The high today will be 60 degrees, rising from a low last night of 36. Today's winds will be from the south at 10-15 miles per hour.

Petitioning Opens For Directorship Of Variety Show

Petitioning opens today for director of the Union Board Week Variety Show, to be held March 16-17. Application blanks may be picked up on the west side of the Union desk and must be in the petition box by Monday at 6 p.m.

No special qualifications are necessary. Anyone looking for experience in directing shows and handling entertainers is encouraged to apply. The person selected as director will be completely in charge of the show and may choose his own staff.

After the Monday petitioning deadline, applications will be screened and some applicants interviewed. Approval of the appointment will be made at the Nov. 16 meeting of the Union Board directors, according to Don Stewart, director of Union Board Week.

Led by Dave Stroud, whose own bike—lovingly dubbed "Rodney the Rocket"—has been on the bottom of the pile for two days, the "vigilantes" are hot on the trail of the culprit.

Bicycle Owners Seek Prankster

By GENE RITZINGER

Bicycle owners who live in Bryan Hall have been having their problem recently.

The students usually park their bikes for the night outside the entrance to the dorm. In the morning, they hop on them and pedal sleepily off to class.

But for the past three mornings, their routine has been disrupted by an unknown prankster.

In the wee hours of the morning, someone has been taking the parked bikes and piling them one atop the other into jumbled mounds of handlebars and wheels.

The prankster's first pile was only a small one about ten feet high containing about 20 bikes. He got braver on his second try and made his second pile a little higher, and with a few more bikes in it.

Yesterday, the prankster really reached new heights. Students awoke to find their bicycles piled in a heap that reached the windows of the first floor of the dorm. Irritated owners, who found little joy in hunting for their bikes when they have only five minutes to make an 8 o'clock, have formed a "vigilante committee" to trap the culprit.

A synchronized swimming duet by Johnny Dudek, Detroit Junior, and Paul Reinke, Detroit sophomore, will also be featured in this year's show.

An aqua lung diving demonstration will be presented for 30 minutes before each of the four performances. A tug of war in the water will also be introduced, staged with 55 gallon drums and two picked teams.

Underwater swimming will be exhibited this year by Donald Arndt, Dearborn senior, and Al Coxon, Des Plaines, Ill., freshman.

The Queens Relay, a competitive swimming act, will be held again this year. Each team will consist of four men and as evenly matched as possible. The winner is based upon the performance of all four.

The Acrobats Club will be represented in the show this year with a trampoline act on the deck of the pool. Jerry Gildemeister, Detroit senior, will present a juggling act while performing on the unicycle.

Also included in the program will be the crowning of Porpoise Queen Dorothy Daniel by Frank Pagan, president of Porpoise; an animal parade, directed by Jim Rickard; and diving exhibitions planned by Louis Michael, Monroeville senior.

McCarthy Calls Group Tool of Reds

Watkins Accused
Of Twisting Facts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A member of the Watkins committee, which has been accused by Sen. McCarthy of being a tool of Communists, hit back Wednesday with a declaration that senators doing their duty should not be subjected to "personal abuse."

Sen. Case (R-S.D.), a member of the committee which recommended censure of McCarthy, spoke out near the end of the Senate's first day of debate on the hotly controversial censure question.

The day also saw McCarthy (R-Wis.) swap accusations with Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), committee chairman. McCarthy accused Watkins of twisting facts and the Utah legislator countered with a charge that McCarthy has violated his obligation—if not his oath—as a senator.

Watkins was referring to McCarthy's failure to appear before an investigating committee which looked into his affairs in 1952. This is the basis for one of the censure counts against him. The other charges he abused Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker when the general appeared before McCarthy's investigations subcommittee.

Case, in cautioning against "personal abuse" of senators, was replying to McCarthy's statement that the Watkins committee acted as the "unwitting handmaiden" of the Communist party in making its censure recommendations.

McCarthy made the charge Tuesday in a speech he said he would deliver in the Senate Wednesday. As it turned out he didn't actually deliver it but put it into the Congressional Record—with Case and others insisting it be described there as a statement and not a speech.

Case declared, his voice rising: "I don't want the senator from Wisconsin to prove unintentionally to the country that count one is right."

The first count in the two-count censure recommendation of the Watkins committee is that McCarthy showed contempt for another Senate committee.

Case said the Watkins group is trying to accept committee assignments in the future without laying themselves open to "personal abuse."

"We hope," he declared, "to preserve for the Senate of the United States the right to serve on a committee, go into the facts and make a report without having their motives impugned."

McCarthy told Case he never meant to suggest any of the six senators on the Watkins committee was sympathetic toward communism. But he continued to insist that the committee "unwittingly" served the Communist cause by proposing censure for him.

The debate frequently bogged down in technical details before the day was over.

Case raised the question whether a two-thirds vote would be needed to censure McCarthy on that portion of the committee's charges which refers to acts occurring before the 83rd Congress began.

Senate parliamentarian Charles Watkins took the question under advisement. Normally a simple majority vote is all that is needed to censure a senator, but Case said a question arose over a 1933 election contest whether a senator can be disciplined for acts occurring in a previous Congress without a two-thirds vote.

Indiana Strong

Harriers' Crown Is in Danger

By HAL BATEMAN

Michigan State's Big 10 cross country championship reign is in danger of being broken.

This Friday at 11 a.m. in Washington Park, Chicago, the Big 10 cross country championships will be run. Eight full teams have been entered.

Three of these teams, Indiana, Wisconsin and Ohio State are rated as teams strong enough to upset the Spartans.

The Spartans title streak started in 1951 with successful defenses in 1952 and 1953.

Coach Karl Schladerman rates Indiana as the team to beat. In last year's meet the Spartans barely nosed out the Hoosiers for the title by a 39-43 score.

Indiana, lead by Jim Lambert, lost their season's opener 23-35 to the Mid-American Conference champions, Miami of Ohio. The Hoosiers then snapped back to beat a highly regarded Wheaton College team 29-31.

The Hoosiers finished second in last week's Indiana Intercollegiate meet with Notre Dame taking the title. However, Lambert took the individual title with a four mile time of 20:07.5.

Posting as another threat to the Spartans is Wisconsin, a team Michigan State beat earlier in the season, 27-28.

The Badgers since then have defeated Iowa, 23-36, and last weekend defeated Illinois and Minnesota in a triangular meet. The score was Wisconsin 25, Illinois 35 and Minnesota 75.

Wisconsin finished third in last year's meet and has the largest number of returning veterans. Five Badgers that ran in last year's race are entered Friday.

The number one man for Wisconsin this year has been Jon Dalton who finished behind Spartans' Terry Block and Gay Dawson in this year's MSC-Wisconsin dual meet.

Acting as the unknown quantity in the race is Michigan. The Wolves have had only one meet this season, a 26-29 victory over a good Notre Dame team.

Iowa, although not rated as a team contender has the defending individual champion in Rich Ferguson. He has won the title two years in a row, setting the course record in 1952 with a 19:40.5 clocking and then retaining his crown last year with a time of 19:43.2.

Ferguson is perhaps best remembered for his sterling performance in the "mile of the century" race in the British Empire Games. Representing Canada, he finished third, behind England's Roger Bannister and Australia's John Landy, with a clocking of 4:04.6.

Ferguson won the NCAA two-mile title in 1953, and last summer was named Canada's male athlete of the year.

Mural Sidelights

A record field of 447 have signed up for the Turkey Trot to be run today at 5:15 on Old College Field.

Included in this number are 27 team entries. Missing from this year's competition will be John Proctor, last year's individual champion, who has become a member of the varsity cross country team.

The first three runners in the 1.3 mile distance will receive turkeys. Team awards will be: first place, a turkey; second, a goose, and third, a duck.

Ample seating in full view of the field will be provided for spectators in the bleachers.

The quarter-final round in the handball doubles tournament will begin today and last through Nov. 16.

Of the 67 participants in the IM placekicking contest, nine are tied with 10 for 10 scores. Those tied may compete again this afternoon.

Today is also the last day for entries. Competition is held on the field across from the Women's Gym between 3 and 5 p.m.

Psi U Rally Falls Short
As Sigma Nu Wins, 19-14

By JACK MURRAY

Sigma Nu fought off a last minute rally to down a hard fighting Psi Upsilon team by a 19-14 score.

The Snakes jumped off to an early lead in the first period on a pass from John Gersonda to Jim Klewicki. This same aerial combination clicked again in the second period to extend the score to 12-0.

Psi Upsilon refused to throw in the towel, however, as they came back to score in the second period. After a scoreless third quarter, John Gersonda cut around his own right end for a 10-yard touchdown romp midway through the final period. However, Psi U rebounded with their second touchdown to leave the Snakes with a shaky 5-point lead.

MSC-Michigan Clash
Loaded With Tradition

Statistics Show Spartans Lead For First Time

The Spartans are on the rise statistically wise and spirit wise as Michigan game time nears.

For the first time this year, Michigan's State's statistics top those of their opponents.

Including Washington State game, the Spartans have gained 2,136 yards passing and rushing, while their seven foes have totaled 2,075.

The Spartans have gained the 61-yard margin with slight edges in both passing and rushing. Michigan State backs have rushed for 1,318 yards and opponents have made 1,292. In spite of the efforts of Purdue's Lenny Dawson, State has out-gained opponents in the air, 818-783.

However, when punt, kick-off and interception returns are figured in, MSC has a much wider lead, 3,086-2,727.

The biggest edge here is in kick-off returns. State has a total of 639 and opponents have returned for 452.

At first glance, many may think this is due to opponents kicking off to State more often. However, State's opponents have returned 26 kick-offs, while MSC has returned only 25.

The Spartans have returned 20 punts for 261 yards and opponents have run back 15 for 146.

State has had 11 passes intercepted and run back for 54 yards. Michigan State has stolen six and returned them for 59 yards. Strangely enough, three of these were intercepted by linemen during the Washington State game. Carl Diener, Fred Rody and Frank Nauyokas all got into the offensive statistics with interception returns.

WHAT EVERY YOUNG COED SHOULD WEAR

Gather round, girls. Snap open a pack of Philip Morris, relax and enjoy that mild fragrant vintage tobacco while Old tells you about the latest campus fashions.

The key word this year is casual. Be casual. Be slapdash. Be improvable. Invent your own ensembles like ski pants with a p-a-boo blouse, like pajama bottoms with an ermine stole, like a sweater with a dirndl.

(Dirndl, incidentally, is one of the truly fascinating words in English language. Etymologists have quarreled over its origin for years. Some hold with Professor Manley Ek that Dirndl is a corruption of Dardanelle and is so named because it resembles the worn by the women of that region. This is very important because no women in the Dardanelle region because of the boathouse in custom of female infanticide.)

(Another theory is advanced by Dr. Clyde Feh. Dirndl, says is a contraction of "dairy in the dell" and refers to the milkmaid appearance of the skirt. But again close examination causes you abandon a plausible hypothesis. As every child knows, it is a "d" in the dell" but "farmer in the dell", in which case the skirt should be called not dirndl but farndill.)

(There are some who contend we will never know the true origin of dirndl. To those faint hearted Cassandra's I say, remember! everyone laughed at Edison and Franklin and Fulton and Marconi and Sigafos. (Sigafos, in case you have forgotten, invented the nostril, without which breathing, as we know it today, would be impossible.) The origins of dirndl will be found, say I, and you believe the contrary is a lily-livered churl and if he's outside for a minute, I'll give him a thrashing he won't soon forget.)

But I digress. We were smoking a Philip Morris and talking about the latest campus styles. Casual, we agreed, is the key word. Casual need not mean drab. Live up your outfits with a touch of glamor. Even the lowly dungaree and man-shirt combination can be made exciting if you'll adorn it with a simple necklace of matched diamonds. With Bermuda shorts, wear gold knee-caps. Be guided by the famous poet Cosmo Sigafos (whose brother he was who invented the nostril) who wrote:

Sparkle, my beauty,
Shimmer and shine,
The night is young,
The air's like wine,
Cling to a leaf,
Hang on a vine,
Crawl on your belly,
It's time to dine.

(Mr. Sigafos, it should be explained, was writing about a worm. Insects, as everyone knows, are among Mr. Sigafos' favorite subjects for poems. Who can ever forget his immortal ode to a Weevil? Or his Tumbling Along With The Tumbling Tumbler? Or his Fly Gently, Sweet Aphid! Mr. Sigafos has been inside of it, or a—

We come now to the highlight of this year's fashion parade: all over that's sweeping the chic set at high tone campuses all over the country. All the gals who are in the vanguard of fashion know are doing it. Doing what, you ask? Getting tattooed. You just don't rate these days unless you've got at least an arm on your biceps. I interrupt this column to bring you a special announcement. runner has just handed me the following bulletin:

"The origin of the word dirndl has at long last been discovered. On June 27, 1846, Dusty Schwartz, the famous scout and Indian fighter, went into the Golden Nugget Saloon in Cheyenne, Wyoming. The Golden Nugget had just imported a new entertainer from East. She came out and did her dance in pink tights. Dusty Schwartz had never seen anything like that in his life, and he was very impressed. He watched with keen interest as she did her dance, and he thought about her all the way home. When he got home, wife Feldspar was waiting to show him a new skirt. Dusty said for himself, 'How do you like my new skirt. Dusty?' then thought of He looked at the large voluminous garment, then thought of pink tights on the dancing girl. 'Your skirt is darn dull,' said Dusty. 'Darn dull' was later shortened to 'dirndl' which is how we got their name."

But I digress. We were smoking a Philip Morris and discussing campus fashions. Let us turn now to headwear. The motif in hats this year will be familiar American scenes. There will be models for the "Jefferson Memorial" for squatty ones; "Niagara Falls" for the scalps. Feature of the collection is the "Statue of Liberty" with a torch that actually burns. This is very important because no one can wear a hat unless it is a new creation. This is very important because no one can wear a hat unless it is a new creation.

Where's the Ivy? Ideas Differ on Alma Mater

A new Alma Mater would be like having a new school—old tradition would be destroyed," said one student when asked what he thought of MSC Shadows.

"I think it should be revised. It's too slow and not accurate," said another student with an opposite viewpoint who pondered the extent of "our Ivy-covered walls."

For many years, ideas for a new Alma Mater and Fight Song have been considered. Last year, contests were sponsored for student-written songs in conjunction with Centennial programs.

Before 1948, MSC students were singing the "Alma Mater" as their school song. However, Cornell, Indiana University and other colleges also used this song.

The student body, faculty, and music department began a search for a more original school song. A former Bay City coach and assistant MSC coach wrote "MSC Shadows" which was officially adopted as our school song five years ago.

"Symphony of MSC" was written seven years ago by a student and presented to college officials as a possible choice for an Alma Mater.

It was decided that acceptance would depend entirely on the student body. Copies of the song were circulated around campus, but the song never came up for discussion again and was forgotten.

At present day football games and pep rallies, the "Spartan Fight Song" gets even more of a workout than "MSC Shadows." This was written by F. I. Lankey, a former MSC student.

In criticism of the Fight Song students said: "It's all right, but I think something else would be more effective."

"It's too hard to sing."

"It's fine for one game—a same when we play a blue-gray team. For who can 'smash right through that line of blue' when it isn't?"

In defense of the Fight Song students said that they thought that it was better than the average fight song, that they loved its pep, and that it was becoming a traditional and symbolic song of the "MSC Spartans."

Spartan Bowmen Invade Northland Indian Style

By BILL KEOUGH

The adept hunter quietly notched an arrow in his bow and with a quick motion loosed a feathered shaft with deadly accuracy at the elusive animal.

This is typical of the fashion in which MSC archers get their game. Armed with bows and arrows, Spartan Bowmen invade the local wilds of Michigan every winter in search of small game.

Using such primitive-type weapons gives the animal more than a sporting chance, says Dick Raab, president of the club.

"Hunting with a bow and arrow has two big advantages over hunting with a rifle," he said. "You save money on ammunition because you can use the same arrows again."

"There is also less chance of wounding up the victim of a hunting accident, because there are not as many archers during this season as compared with the number of riflemen who cover the countryside during regular hunting season."

Raab said that many people have the mistaken idea that Spartan Bowmen are just a spring fling. "It's all right that it is a fling, but that the group holds regular practices in Jensen and goes on hunting trips to get field experience in the off seasons."

Club membership does increase during the spring term, he added, because there are more concentrated outdoor activities. At this time, the club sponsors many field and target tournaments.

Each year, the archers go to Rose Lake where they have target and field shoots, and do a little hunting. Shooting fish with arrows is also attempted by some of the advanced archers, said Raab.

International Club Plans Talent Show

Members elected to fill places on the executive council were: Alex William Baffoe, grad student from Gold Coast, West Africa; Criss Baker, graduate student from Liberia, West Africa, and Sue Forcke, Mason junior.

Meetings are held Fridays in 31 Union, with a coffee hour following at International Center. All students are invited.

Eisenhower nevertheless said the American photo bomber shot down off Japan last weekend by Red fighters had a right to be there. He said he approved the protest which the State Department has made.

The President took his stand at a news conference where he also defended the Dixon-Yates contract to feed private power into the Tennessee Valley Authority system.

On other matters, he said he expected no trouble on bipartisan foreign policy from the Democratic leadership in the 84th Congress.

His sober discussion of the plane incident was interrupted by the plane incident watch going off suddenly, to the puzzlement and then the laughter of everybody in the conference room. Eisenhower flushed, smiled, said "excuse me" and cut off the alarm.

The President uses the alarm to tell him when it is time for a news conference or other appointment. Press secretary James C. Hagerty said the watch may have been off or perhaps the President set it wrong.

In reply to a question on the plane incident, Eisenhower said that this was a very complicated, tricky problem. He said that the world these days, even in the sort of peace that exists, is very watchful of its borders. He said there were some cloudy features in this newest incident.

He located the scene as the Habomai Islands, some of which are as close as two miles from Japan. He said that when the Kurile Islands were given to Russia they claimed the Habomais were part of the Kuriles, and it is a disputed area.

The Russians are very jealously holding onto the area, he said, perhaps on the theory that possession is nine points of the law. He added that the United States and Japan have not recognized the Reds' claim to the Habomais.

Eisenhower said this isn't a clear cut thing, where one can say this must be so, and that is that. His calm approach was in line with his recent emphasis on world peace, and what he has called its improving chances.

Still, he said that in this type of incident—the bomber and one American life were lost—the United States is the aggrieved party and entitled to courteous answers.

He said he noted a considerably different attitude from the other party than there has been in the past, although he didn't know what might come of it.

Musicians, Fans Disagree

Liberace Receives Mediocre Rating

The teeny bop and piano styling of Liberace may fascinate some TV viewers, but there's one internationally known musician who rates him mediocre.

The musician is Swiss-born Dr. Rudolph Ganz of Chicago, prominent pianist, conductor, composer and teacher who has been president of the Chicago Musical College of Roosevelt University for 20 years.

Dr. Ganz spoke about the popular TV star before a conference of Michigan music teachers held recently at Kellogg Center.

With Liberace's growing fame, Dr. Ganz said, piano sales have doubled. He predicts, however, that Liberace is doomed to fade as have many other stars who rose to popularity overnight.

In contradiction to the views of Dr. Ganz, was the reception given Liberace in Grand Rapids last week. Over 5,000 Grand Rapids fans met him at the airport for his two-day stopover. Both nights he played to a capacity crowd in the city's Civic Auditorium.

As a final gesture, the Chamber of Commerce presented him with a 40 lb. cake to celebrate his birthday. Unlike most cakes, his was in the shape of a grand piano. This adds to Liberace's collection of piano-shaped items—which includes a baby grand swimming pool.

Dr. Ganz frowns on plans to extend Liberace piano studios throughout the nation to parallel well-known dancing studios.

Switching from his criticism of Liberace, Ganz told Ignace Paderewski, famed Polish pianist, as the great aristocrat of music. Another personal Ganz friend, Leopold Auer of Russia, was mentioned for his outstanding contribution to music as a violinist.

A reverse twist to the days when European artists once toured the United States was noted by Ganz. He said that today American artists are in constant demand abroad.
