Top-Level Peace Talks Seen Needed

Senator Calls Big Power Meeting 'Highly Important'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga.) said Sunday it is "highly important" to the cause of peace that a top-level power conference be held soon, even if Russia should refuse to participate.

George, who heads the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has proposed that President Eisenhower sit down with the heads of state of Britain, France and Russia. Eisenhower has indicated his willingness if preliminaries can be arranged, and there is some sign the Soviets would talk business.

While George said he believes Russia would join such a conference, he added in an interview that even if the Soviets don't, he feels it is "imperative" that the Western leaders get together.

"I believe the Russians will participate, but even if they don't we nations of the free world must understand each other and reach a measure of unity before any hopeful approach can be made to a reexamination of, among other things, our Far Eastern problems."

Although Soviet Premier Bulganin has indicated the Kremlin's willingness to participate, George noted reports that the Russians might balk at any discussion of German unification.

The Georgia Democrat said he regarded this as only a part of the continuing Soviet campaign to prevent the carrying out of the agreements to rearm West Germany.

Even if the Russians refused to talk about Germany, he said, a big power conference with them still would be worthwhile.

Moreover, he said he thinks the actual rearming—to which the Russians could be expected to object most violently—would require a minimum of two years even if carried out in only a modest scale.

George called for an easing of the "heavy pressure" he said some lawmakers have been exerting on President Eisenhower to announce whether the United States would join in the defense of Quemoy and Matsu if they were attacked.

Some Democrats have said in any decision to fight for those islands would leave this country short of its allies in the Far East.

George said any announcement that American forces would not help the Chinese Nationalists defend the islands would be "tantamount to an invitation to the Chinese Communists to come and take them."

A lecture on Christian Science will be given in Alumni Memorial Chapel tonight at 8 p.m.

John S. Sammons, a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, will speak on "Christian Science: The Revelation of God's Infinite Goodness."

The lecture is open to the public without charge, and is sponsored by the Christian Science Organization.

Charges against Eusebio, former Michigan football player, were reduced to probation at his trial in Circuit Court.

The 445 originally charged with intent to do harm less than the crime of murder after a fight Feb. 28.

First trial ended in a mistrial spring. Assistant Prosecutor J. Treleven moved for a new trial on the charge of aggravated assault, and the case was sent back to Court.

Pleasantly Warm Weather Casts Spring Glances At Spartans

Spartans going to class today can trudge along with a cheery spring smile on their faces.

Old man winter's done been killed, and snow is at last a thing of the past—maybe.

Today will be pleasantly warm, with a high temperature range of 55 to 60. Increasing cloudiness is forecast, with showers likely by tonight.

Winds will be from the east and southeast at speeds up to 25 miles an hour.

Ticket Appeals Time Limit Set

Students who feel maligned by a campus traffic ticket now have a limit on the time they can take to appeal the ticket, Roger Augustine, chief justice of the Student Traffic Appeal Court, announced.

All tickets given on campus from last Friday on must be appealed within five days of their date of issuance, Augustine said.

The appeal form must be turned in to the Dean of Students' office at the Administration Building within that time. Late appeals may be heard if there are extenuating circumstances, such as illness.

Students with unsuccessful appeals must pay their fine within seven days of the date on the court notification. Other students have 10 days after the date on which the ticket is issued to part with their money.

Parade's Off

There will be no Army or Air Force ROTC Parades Tuesday. The first parade will be held April 12.

Students will be expected to wear their uniforms to drills this week, however.

Attorney General Rules On Bill's Constitutionality

By GENE RITZINGER

Michigan Attorney General Thomas M. Kavanagh said Friday the state constitution does not prohibit changing Michigan State's name to Michigan State University of Agriculture and Applied Science.

His opinion came in answer to a request made by two representatives while the name-change bill was still before the Michigan House of Representatives.

The House passed the MSU Bill March 22 by a vote of 58-14. It is now awaiting action from the Senate Judiciary Committee.

In stating his opinion, Kavanagh said "The people had in contemplation the establishment and perpetuation within the state of an institution of higher education where the teaching of agriculture and its related subjects would always be offered to those who wish to learn it."

"But the people did not thereby say," he continued, "that no other course of study could be offered in the curriculum nor, in my judgment, did they intend to restrict the name to school or college."

Kavanagh quoted from sections of the constitution dealing with both Michigan State and the U of M, and cited several instances in the past when State's name was changed.

The attorney general's opinion was the latest development in a long series of events that have occurred since committees from the governing bodies of both universities met on March 17 in Lansing to discuss the name change.

The committees, meeting behind closed doors, "agreed to disagree like gentlemen" but were unable to reach any mutually satisfactory arrangement. Neither committee would budge from its previously stated stand.

On the same day the conference was held, the name-change bill itself was favorably reported out of the House Education Committee, by a vote of five to four.

Charges that the bill was "railroaded" were made. See NAME CHANGE, Page 3.

Ag Board Seats Contested

Eight Posts at Stake In Today's Elections

By STAN STEINBOEN
State News Capitol Reporter

Michigan voters will go to the polls today to elect candidates for eight educational and judicial offices.

Most important to Michigan State students are two seats on the university's governing body, the State Board of Agriculture, at stake in the balloting.

Candidates for the State Board are Republicans Sarah Van Hoesen Jones of Rochester and Dale Stafford of Greenville. Democrats are William Baker of Mesick, and Connor Smith of Standish.

Miss Jones and Smith are the incumbents.

Both parties have been making a spirited fight for these seats and the other six positions involved in the spring election.

Republicans have based their campaign on the claim that the greatly increased activity on the part of the usually docile Democrats in a spring election represents a threat by the CIO to take over the education department and the judiciary in Michigan.

Democrats have countered by claiming that the G. O. P. believes in one-party control of the top government posts.

Probably the hottest fight of all is taking place in the so-called non-partisan campaign for two seats on the State Supreme Court.

Here Republicans Leland Carr and D. Hale Brake have been waging a bitter fight against Democrats Eugene Black and Stephen Roth.

A feature of this race has been the continuation of a long personal feud between Brake and Black, which began when both men were administrative officers under the late Kim Sigler.

Two seats are also being contested on the Board of Regents, the governing body of the U of M. Candidates are J. Joseph Herbert and William Cudlip, Republicans, and Paul Adams and Eugene Power, Democrats.

In the race for superintendent of public instruction, Clair Taylor, Republican incumbent, faces Lynn Bartlett as his Democratic opponent.

Another educational post being contested is a seat on the State Board of Education, which has control of the four state teachers' colleges. Stephen S. Nisbet, Republican, and John M. Veale, Democrat, are the candidates.

Four proposed amendments to the state constitution are also on the ballot, as well as local offices and issues.

At least a million voters are expected to visit the polls today, about 200,000 more than in any previous spring election.

Odom Leads State Team With 3 Wins

Butler, Boudreaux Beaten in Finals

Michigan State's boxing team will return home tonight bringing with it the National Collegiate Championship trophy.

The Spartans were led to their second title in five years by senior 147-pounder Herb Odom, who successfully defended the championship he won at Penn State last year.

Odom put on the best boxing exhibition of the tournament, as he won a unanimous decision over Ted Contri of Nevada.

Odom won three bouts in capturing the title, and it was revealed after the final that he had gone through the entire journey with a cracked rib. He received the injury in training last Monday.

Michigan State and the University of Wisconsin were tied with 12 points and three finalists apiece going into the finals.

All three Badgers bowed in the finals, and two of the Spartan trio, 132-pounder John Butler and 119-pounder Bob Boudreaux, were decisively outboxed.

Butler was the aggressor all the way in his bout with Maryland's defending champion, Vince Palumbo, but was unable to solve his counter-punching style and dropped a unanimous decision. In the Spartans' dual meet opener with Maryland, Butler scored a 30-23 win over Palumbo.

Boudreaux was also the aggressor in his match with Idaho State's Bobby McCollum, but bowed out on a unanimous decision.

Named the outstanding boxer of the three-day tournament was Seila Nava, the University of Hawaii's 135-pound champion, who also won in that division.

John Granger, 139-pounder from Syracuse, also successfully defended the championship he won in 1954. Last year's 165-pound champion, Washington State's Gordy Gladson, copped the 178-pound crown.

The other individual champions were Virginia's 156-pounder Tony Dibase of Virginia, 165-pounder Max Voshall of San Jose State, and heavyweight Crowe Peele of Louisiana State.

The tournament this year set a new record for the number of champions who retained the titles they won the previous year.

The only champion back from last year who didn't keep his title was Mike McMurtrey, Idaho State heavyweight. He was stopped by Bob Hinds of Wisconsin in the semifinals, and Hinds bowed to Peele in the finals.

Training Michigan State's champion total of 17 points were Louisiana State, San Jose State, and Syracuse, each with 13 points.

The blast touched off a fire and city fire equipment was called out to quench flames. The explosion occurred about 8:35 p.m.

MSU Tussle

'Confusion' Cry Is Groundless

For nearly two months now, the U of M and Michigan State have been at each other's throats, tearing at, among other things, the "confusion" that would or would not develop if State's name is changed to include the word "university."

Last Thursday, the House Ways and Means Committee, considering a grant of $37,000 to the U of M, so that it may study the feasibility of establishing a branch at Flint to supplement that city's junior college, nearly added more fuel to the confused "confusion" hassle—and this time it was a Michigan State supporter who claimed confusion.

Naturally, it all had to do with a name; a device invented several thousand years ago to eliminate confusion, but which in Michigan, appears to have just the opposite effect.

Names, one would think, were invented solely to cause bickering and friction between the state's two great universities.

The solons on the Ways and Means Committee tacked an amendment to the U of M's grant in which the U of M was referred to as the "State University of Michigan." Rep. John J. McCune, (Rep. East Lansing) sponsor of the MSU bill, was quick to see that additional confusion might be created by the insertion of the word "State," and he caused the amendment to be expunged.

What the amendment was about is presumably unimportant, since none of the news dispatches mentioned what it contained.

Both universities are losing hard-won prestige in the eyes of the people of the state, and probably the nation, by continuing to bicker over "confusion."

The "confusion" claim has become an old and worn cliché. It's time for both universities to drop it. Neither gains by claiming there is confusion or there isn't confusion.

If the U of M must continue to oppose State's being designated a university in name as well as in fact, it is time it hunted more valid grounds.

Losing Prestige

2 Great Losses

Over the past week America lost two of her most illustrious journalists, Joseph Pulitzer, publisher of the St. Louis Post Dispatch and Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune.

In commenting on the death of these two men, President Eisenhower said, "American journalism has lost the services of two of its outstanding publishers. Although frequently on opposite sides of public issues, both were staunch champions of a free press so essential to our freedoms."

This gentle understatement expresses, as well as anything that could be said, the feelings of the State News.

It is with a feeling of deep regret at their passing that we extend our condolences to their families. The newspaper profession, the nation and the world will miss them very much.

That Thar Term Is Here Again!

Now is the term for all good men to come to the aid of their party.

And spring term is traditionally called "party term."

It is supposed to be the term during which a young man's fancy lightly turns, and when canoes paddle silently down the breeze-swept Red Cedar, and when the mama duck and the papa duck have their wings busy.

But let's not fool ourselves, any party Spartans may enjoy will come only after the Big Shower.

The Meaning of Easter

Easter Reaffirms Meaning of Life

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of five articles in keeping with the Lenten season, on "The Meaning of Easter," by East Lansing church leaders.

For a Christian, Easter guarantees the meaningfulness of life. All of us want to believe that life is worth living.

We know that living involves suffering, frustration, and painful self-discipline, but if there is some meaning purpose to it all, we will endure these things. We do not want to be completely defeated and reduced to nothingness.

Two things particularly threaten our hope that a meaningful life is possible. One is our own wrong-doing and the other is death.

As to the first, most of us know that we tend to defeat ourselves. We do and say stupid or arrogant or selfish things which have the consequence of cutting us off from the worthwhile things in life.

Friends are lost, opportunities squandered, something valuable is destroyed, never to be regained. We are our own worst enemies and it is not enough to tell us to control ourselves. Self-centeredness is something which seems to control us. Whatever else science may have conquered, it has not conquered the human tendency to wrong-doing.

As to the second, it is enough to say that if the ultimate end of human life is decay and dust, then all human aspirations and accomplishments are but mirages over the desert sand. Our lives are no more significant than those of the trees or the frogs.

There was a time when men could escape the threat of death by believing that even if the individual died, his contribution would persist in the human race.

Now even that comfort is denied us. We know that the fall-out from hydrogen bombs used in warfare is capable of destroying life on the whole globe. Death leers at human values after all. As mortals we are incapable of defeating either our wrongdoing or our death.

Easter tells us that our Creator has defeated them both. In the crucifixion of Jesus, he endured the worst wrong that human beings are capable of inflicting upon one another, and the most lonely death that humans must die.

In Jesus' Resurrection He exhibited to the world that these two prime enemies are defeated. God goes on giving life to us in spite of them. The victory of life is won. Ultimately both will be vanquished.

In the meanwhile we may confidently fight against our sins and endure death, for as John Donne has put it: "Death, thou too shalt die."

Easter does not open to us the possibility of life without sin, or without failure, or without death. Rather it enables a man to believe that in spite of them, life is worth living. They are defeated enemies.

Our destiny is an eternal fellowship with our Creator, who raised up Jesus from the dead and can be trusted to complete His work.

Name Change

through the House committee were denied by Rep. John Cune, (R-East Lansing), of the bill and chairman committee.

"railroading" charges were brought up by a member of the committee who said the bill was brought up for a vote before the committee had a report of the meeting on State and U of M offices.

Cune replied that "The bill was to delay action after the conference, not after a report of the committee." This, he maintained, had been done.

A name-change bill moved to the floor for debate during the 21 night session.

The bill lasted for two hours before the gallery. On one side, loud applause caused a tentative to declare the gallery out of order, saying it was the second such demonstration heard in 14 years.

Attempts were made to action on the bill, but its opponents, led by Rep. McCune, voted them down.

McCune resumed March 22, an hour-long discussion, the bill voted on, and passed.

The bill was sent to the Senate Committee March 24, after a motion by an Owasco member who said there were constitutional questions involved.

It was appropriate that the Senate Committee, with its lawyer members, should vote on the bill rather than the Education Committee, which has no lawyer members.

Opponents of the bill (they believed they had five among the seven Judiciary Committee members) to favorably report the bill to the Senate.

Members of the U of M Board were granted a hearing before the Committee last day. It was attended by representatives of State and the U of M. President John Hannah and U of M President Hatcher.

President Hatcher argued that U of M "has been built into the foundations of the state, and the people of Michigan have made it famous."

He said it was not ethical to change the U of M's name to another institution, adding that Michigan "will be the first state in the nation to set up two independent universities under independent boards, and I warn against it."

Hannah told the committee he did not wish to confuse any of the state's prestige of the U of M.

He said "The college has never established and does not contemplate establishing schools of medicine, or dentistry," and "Such schools are now very provided for by the U of M."

Hannah said State was not for a name change only because it is recognized that unless it becomes MSU the state will be handicapped.

Director H. Mueller, a member of State's governing body, the Board of Agriculture, said he wanted a name that preserves the traditions, minimizes the change in names, and recognizes university status, and that is done by changing one word—state to university.

After defending the U of M position, said State's governor is already suggesting his name be changed from State Board of Agriculture.

Where will this stop?" he asked, and continued, "There is more than meets the eye in this suggestion that you just are one word. The other colleges are just waiting for you to do this. Western Michigan College is obviously a university."

Hatcher said the U of M has "nothing but the friendliest of feelings toward our sister institution," but he objected to "this strange blitz which has hit the state and created the impression of the greatest crisis since Pearl Harbor."

If the Legislature could change Michigan State's name, he said, it could also confer a name that would not infringe on the U of M.

Latest indications were that the Judiciary Committee would act on a name-change bill on Thursday.

Meanwhile an attempt by the city of Flint to get a branch of the U of M to supplement that city's junior college was temporarily thwarted by the House.

The U of M had requested a state grant of $37,000 to study the feasibility of setting up a branch in Flint. The House Ways and Means Committee reported the bill to the floor, but tacked on an amendment which referred to the U of M as the "State University of Michigan."

Rep. McCune saw a connection with his MSU bill and caused the amendment to be expunged.

Subsequent questions by other legislators as to the exact use to which the money would be put caused the entire bill to be postponed until a detailed statement is supplied by U of M officials.

Residents Rap Students for Car 'Clutter'

East Lansing residents complained at a public hearing last week that student parking near the Harrison Road dormitories clutters their residential streets daily.

To ease the situation, the East Lansing Traffic Commission recommended that the City Council ban all parking from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. on the following streets:

Kensington Road and E. University Drive, between Michigan Ave. and Crenshaw Drive; W. University Drive between Michigan Ave. and Chesterfield Parkway; and Chesterfield Parkway between Kensington Road and Crenshaw Drive.

Residents of the area told college and city officials that student parking makes the streets almost impassable.

Fraternities To Begin Spring Rushing Today

Chuck Duff, chairman of the IFC rush committee, announced Sunday that the spring rushing program will begin today and continue for about three weeks.

Not all houses will conduct a spring rush. Those that will hold open smokers will publicize them through the IFC. Rush announcements will appear daily in the State News.

All men with an all-college two-point average, plus a winter term two-point, are eligible for spring rushing. First term freshmen are also eligible.

Any questions regarding rush procedure will be answered in the IFC offices daily between 3 and 5 p.m.

Extension Specialists To Retire in June

Dean T. K. Cowden of the School of Agriculture has announced the retirement of two extension specialists, effective and agricultural engineer Arthur June 30.

They are dairyman J. G. Hays, J. Bell. Hays will complete 33 years of service, and Bell 27 years.

Dr. Henry S. Leonard, head of the philosophy department, congratulates James Pratt, winner of a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship.

To Study Philosophy

Senior Wins National Woodrow Wilson Prize

James Richard Pratt, Houghton senior, was awarded a fellowship in the National Woodrow Wilson Fellowship Program today.

The fellowship was one of the 139 awarded to outstanding young men and women in the U.S. and Canada from a field of 1,522 candidates. Under its terms, Pratt will study philosophy at Brown University during the 1955-1956 year.

The one-year awards are made to scholars demonstrating marked promise for the teaching profession, and possessing the highest qualities of intellect, character and personality.

Sponsored by the Association of Graduate Schools within the 37-member American Association of Universities, the awards are underwritten jointly by the association's members, the Carnegie Corporation of New York, and the General Education Board.

A local committee in charge of fellowship nominations was headed by Dr. Russell B. Nye, director of the division of languages and literature. The award was made by Dr. Henry S. Leonard head of the philosophy department.

As in the original town meetings, the audience will have a voice in the forum. Questions can be addressed to the panel through a local committee of assistant moderators.

They are: W. Lowell Treaster, head of the department of information services; Dr. Walter Fogel, head of the departments of history and social science; Dr. Lawrence Witt, professor of agricultural economics; Stanley Andrews, head of the National Project in Agricultural Communications and Alvin Smith, Continental director.

Doors will open at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, and information on the procedure of asking questions will be given. No one will be admitted after 8:15 p.m., according to Dean Stanley E. Crowe, director of the Lecture-Concert Series.

Town Meeting has been on the air since 1935.

Miller Gets Post to Aid Handicapped

Gregory Miller, chief psychologist at Jackson prison, has been appointed to coordinate a new Michigan State training program for vocational rehabilitation counselors.

President John A. Hannah made the appointment recently on behalf of the State Board of Agriculture. The appointment becomes effective April 11.

The program is being financed by a $5,000 grant from the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Five trainee scholarships of $1,000 a year will be open to students.

Michigan State is one of the first 25 institutions to be selected to train rehabilitation counselors, who work with physically handicapped persons.

This training program will operate in the department of informational and educational services of the School of Education.

Purpose of the program, according to Dr. Hannah, is to increase the number of counselors in the State Department of Vocational Rehabilitation who are especially trained for work with the physically handicapped.

Miller, a graduate of Olivet college, obtained his master's degree in clinical psychology from Michigan State. He has been chief psychologist at Jackson prison for three years. Previous to his Jackson appointment he was a psychologist at Traverse City State Hospital.

Story of State To Appear on TV

A story of Michigan State and its students—"The Widening Circle"—will be presented on eight Michigan television stations during April.

The film will be telecast on "Telephone Storybook," a program sponsored by the Bell Telephone Company.

In Lansing, the program will be seen over WJIM-TV April 18, at 7:30 p.m.

Despite Danger Reports

Recovery Mission Plans Vietnam Trip

Despite recent outbreaks of violence in South Vietnam, Michigan State's rehabilitation mission to the troubled southeastern Asian country is going ahead with its plans.

From the reports heard in this country, the advisory team, led by Dr. Edward Weidner, head of the political science department, will be walking into a dangerous situation.

However, Dr. Weidner gave assurance that these reports are greatly exaggerated.

"Last fall, when we were over there, the newspapers here gave the impression that there was nothing but chaos in Vietnam," he said. "It seemed pretty safe to me."

The rehabilitation program grew out of a visit by four university staff members, also headed by Weidner, last September.

Saigon, the supposed "hot spot," will be the headquarters for the group while in Vietnam.

The purpose of this year's visit will be to assist the year-old government of Ngo Dinh Diem to restore economic and political stability to the war-torn land.

The mission will be financed by the U.S. Foreign Operations Administration, under a three-way contract with the FOA, the Diem government, and Michigan State.

As yet, the FOA has not signed the contract, Weidner said he did not believe the mission would be held up. The date for the group's departure is still indefinite.

Again referring to the possibility of danger, Weidner said that the FOA would not permit the departure if there were any danger of violence.

He was optimistic about the ability of the new government to weather the current uprisings in and around Saigon.

"The recent outbreak was another effort on the part of private groups to attempt seizure of the government but was not a sign of any weakening of the Diem government," Weidner said.

"Rather, it represents a stage of Diem's efforts to gain additional strength," he added.

British Prof Visits State As Lecturer

Bacteriology 490 students will hear their lectures from the eminent British scientist, Dr. Reginald Lovell, this term.

Dr. Lovell, a professor of veterinary bacteriology in the University of London's Royal Veterinary College, is spring term's distinguished visiting lecturer in the School of Science and Arts.

Students will hear about infections and the factors contributing to them from Lovell, formerly an associate of the late Sir Alexander Fleming, discoverer of penicillin.

The lectures will be in the area of microbiology, said Dr. Henrik J. Stafseth, director of the division of biological science. Among the contributory factors to infection to be discussed will be environment, heredity and stress or trigger mechanisms.

Dr. Lovell is honorary treasurer of the Society for General Microbiology. He is also a member of the Council of the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons and the British Veterinary Assn.

He has served as president of the Veterinary Research Club and the comparative medicine section of the Royal Society of Medicine.

Waring Revue Ducats on Sale

Tickets for Fred Waring's "Pleasure Time, 1955" are now on sale at the Union Desk.

The stage show will come to the Auditorium, April 19, as a special number in the Lecture-Concert Series. It will include the Waring orchestra, glee club and soloists.

In contrast to Waring's traditional concert staging, this year's show will have costumes and scenery.

"God's Trombones," a sequence of sermons by the late James Weldon Johnson, has been set to music by Roy Ringwald and will be featured in the show.

Other numbers will include a minstrel show, love songs, folk ballads, hymns, and novelty tunes.

State Debaters Attend Convo

Five Michigan State debaters are taking part in the annual speech convention of Pi Kappa Delta, national speech honorary, at the University of Redlands, Redlands, Cal. The convention began Sunday and will end Friday.

Students from 33 states will participate in the debate, discussion, extemporaneous speaking, and oratory events. Topics of national concern will be used.

Free Booklet Tells How You Can Read Better, Faster, Easier

CHICAGO (Special)—Now every student can learn to zip through reading assignments quickly and easily, actually read difficult study material twice as fast with complete understanding. The secret is an amazing new simple technique, developed by Steven Warren of Chicago's famed Foundation for Better Reading.

Although most students are slow word-by-word readers, this new proven method helps anyone pick up speed, says the noted educator. Poor reading habits can cost you too much study time, make exams harder, cause disappointing grades, and keep you from essential social activities.

To acquaint student readers of this paper with this miraculous new technique for better reading, full details are described in a fascinating booklet, "How You Can Read Better, Faster, Easier." It will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. No obligation. Address: Mr. Steven Warren, President, Dept. 9113, Foundation for Better Reading, 30 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago 4, Ill.

Oh, Those Achin' Fences Homers Mark Majors' Play

Homers by Mickey Mantle, Andy Carey and Enos Slaughter highlighted a 12-hit attack as the New York Yankees overwhelmed the Memphis Chickasaws of the Southern Association 13-1 Sunday at Memphis.

The long-range slugging made it easy for Tom Morgan to go all the way with a neat five hitter.

Morgan became the second New York hurler to have worked the entire route. Bob Grim did it Saturday against the Birmingham Barons.

knocking out four of them to overpower San Antonio for the second successive day, 12-3, at San Antonio.

The Cubs' home run total was one less than Saturday's output with Hank Sauer, Jim Bolger and Harry Chiti on the production line.

Chiti, for the second time this exhibition season, hit a pair in one game.

First Baseman Norm Zauchin's first home run of the spring season, a two-run blast off ace Robin Roberts, broke a deadlock as the Boston Red Sox defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 4 to 2, Sunday at Charleston, S.C.

Zauchin figured in all of the Boston scoring with a second inning single sandwiched between doubles by Sammy White and Ted Lepcio accounting for the first two Boston runs.

Roberts, giving up but one walk, pitched the full game, the first Philadelphia hurler to go the distance.

Chisox Fall

Rip Repulski's grand-slam homer in the first inning Sunday touched off three big scoring frames for the St. Louis Cardinals as they downed the Chicago White Sox for the fourth time in five tries, 12-7, at Houston.

Repulski drove home the Cards' first five runs. St. Louis made the most of 10 hits, scoring four times in each of the first, third and sixth frames off Ted Gray and Dick Donovan.

The Sox collected 11 hits, including three-run homers by Bob Nieman and Walt Dropo.

Pirates Rally

The Pittsburgh Pirates staged a six-run rally in the ninth inning Sunday to whip the Baltimore Orioles, 11-8, at Birmingham.

Jack Shepard batted in four of the six runs with a grand-slam home run.

Gus Triandos of Baltimore smacked a homer with the bases filled in the first inning.

Both grand-slam blows came after the bases had been loaded on walks.

Nats Edge Reds

Third baseman Eddie Yost smacked his third home run of the exhibition season—a two-run, two out shot in the ninth inning—for Washington's 6-4 margin over the Cincinnati Redlegs Sunday at Charlotte, N.C., John Kline scored ahead of him and gave the Senators their fourth straight win over the Reds.

Kline, with a perfect four-for-four at the plate, singled to open the last of the ninth. He was stranded as catcher Steven Korkcheck and pinch-hitter Maury McDermott went out.

Yost picked on pitcher Jim Pearce's first pitch and drove it over the left field wall.

Tigers Split Twin Bill In Atlanta

Lose Opener, 5-4,
Then Win, 8-0

ATLANTA (P)—The Detroit Tigers split an exhibition doubleheader with the Atlanta Crackers Sunday, losing the opener, 5-4, and blasting the Crackers, 8-0, in the second contest, called after six innings because of darkness.

Atlanta, last year's Southern Assn. champions, collected 14 hits off three Tigers pitchers in the first game, which went 11 innings.

Nine of their hits and four runs came off Bob Miller, the young southpaw who has been tabbed by Manager Bucky Harris for a starting role during the regular season.

Ned Garver pitched near perfect ball for Detroit in the second game, limiting Atlanta to two singles in the fourth inning. The Tigers sewed the game up in the first inning, running up six runs off a wild righthander, Dick Grabowski.

Detroit and Atlanta will wind up their three game series when they meet today in a game at the Federal Penitentiary in Atlanta.

The Crackers, who upset the New York Yankees, 5-4, Friday night held Detroit to nine hits in the opening game. Four of them, good for two runs, came off starter Bill Toshoff in the first five rounds.

A walk and doubles by Ray Boone and Al Kaline gave Detroit two more runs and a 4-4 deadlock with Atlanta in the eighth.

Bud Black, who followed Miller, held the Crackers scoreless through four innings, and Paul Foytack, coming on in the ninth, kept Atlanta without a run until the 11th.

Then Foytack, who was marked with the loss, walked two and with one out gave Mike Roarke a single that drove in the winning run.

In the second game, Steve Souchock followed the big first inning spree with a 350-foot homer in the third. It was Souchock's first hit of the exhibition season.

Detroit got its final run in the fourth inning on a walk, an infield out and a single by Kaline.

In their first four years of wrestling the matmen went undefeated until finally losing their first and only encounter in 1903.

... three titles and 49 points ...

His Last Is His Best Rintz Cops 3 Crowns In National Tourney

Carl Rintz wound up a brilliant career as a Spartan gymnast by scoring three firsts and a second in the NCAA tourney to personally account for 49 of the 55 Spartan points.

On the strength of this grand finale showing, the Spartans finished fifth in the title meet.

The other points were scored on ninth place finishes by Herm Junker, Roland Brown and Bob Marsh.

Junker scored on the side horse, Brown in tumbling and Marsh on the trampoline.

Rintz scored his firsts on the side horse, parallel bars and horizontal bar. He also finished second in the all-around, the symbol of gymnastic supremacy.

Illinois, the Big 10 champion, also won the NCAA title.

It was Rintz's second win on the side horse, he also won that event in 1933 as a sophomore. Last year he failed to win a title but scored high in several events to lead the team to a fifth place finish.

Two weeks ago, Rintz ended his Big 10 career by winning two titles and the coveted all-around crown.

John Dudeck, top Spartan winner during the regular season, placed seventh and eighth in the butterfly and orthodox breaststroke events.

The Spartan 400-yard relay team failed to qualify for the finals by the margin of 7/10 of a second when one of the members missed a turn.

Both Frank Parrish and Tom Payette reached the freestyle semifinals but failed to gain the final round.

Jack Beattie turned in his best time of the year in the 440-yard freestyle but it wasn't good enough to place him in the final round.

Head wrestling coach Fendley Collins has produced a total of 15 national champions, the first being Walter Jacob in 1936 and the latest was Bob Hoke in 1934.

Fendley Collins, Spartan wrestling mentor, was undefeated in his entire undergraduate career as wrestler for Oklahoma A & M.

Trackmen Find Vacation Tough

Travel in Canada, U. S.
To Meet Top Competitors

The Spartan trackmen continued to meet top-flight competition when they traveled to the Canadian championships at Hamilton, Ont., March 19, the Cleveland Knights of Columbus meet March 25 and the Chicago Daily News Race lays the following day.

Capt. Kevan Gosper paced the Spartans as he won the Canadian 600-yard title in 1:12.2 and finished third at Chicago.

Gosper's finish in the Daily News meet was his first loss of the season after six straight wins in the 600. Mal Whitfield, two-time Olympic champion, was the winner in 1:11.

The lanky Spartan also anchored the mile relay team to a third place finish in their meeting at Chicago. The other relay team members were Bob Brown, Tom Flynn and Dick Staatsman.

Doug Stuart made a personal best with a 6' 7" and three-fourths inch measured leap at Cleveland. The height tied for first with Philadelphia's Vic Fritts because he made the height on his first try while Stuart cleared it on his third attempt.

Stuart jumped the following night at Chicago but tied for third with a 6' 6" leap. Fritts was again the winner with 6' 7 1/4".

Freshman Henry Kennedy ran the fastest two mile of his career, but finished second, behind another yearling, Deane Jones of Iowa.

The Hawkeye won the event in 9:14.4 while Kennedy was clocked in 9:16.

Selwyn Jones ran the mile at Cleveland and met the Kansas cowboy, Wes Santee, America's premier miler won the race with a fine 4:04.6 with Jones in fifth place with a 4:21 clocking.

The 1955 cross country captain ran the mile at the Canadian championships but finished third with a 4:23 while NYU's George King won in 4:15.

Jones switched to the two mile for the Chicago meet and finished fourth with a 9:21 time. Olympic champion Horace Adenot was the winner in 9:01.2 with fellow FBI man Fred Will second.

Decathlon man Joe Savoldi finished third in the 45-vault high hurdles at Cleveland and fourth in the 60-vault high at Chicago. Olympic champion Harrison Dillard won both races.

Savoldi also high jumped at both meets and cleared 6' 4" both times. The jumps were not good enough to place.

Big 10 dash champion Ed Brabham was runner-up in the 60-yard dash at the Canadian championships, fourth at Chicago and unplaced at Cleveland.

Notre Dame freshman Joe Furman won the Canadian sprint while Western Michigan's John Hudson took top honors at Cleveland and NCAA champion, Willie Williams was the winner at Chicago.

Pole vaulter Chuck Coykendall could only clear 12' 6" at Cleveland but did 13' 6" in the Daily News meet.

Pan-American and Olympic champion Rev. Bob Richards was at Cleveland with 15' 2" and the Spartan tied with Olympic runner-up Don Laz at Chicago with 15'.

Leland Merrill, former Spartan grappler, placed third in the 1948 Olympics in the 160-pound division.

Joe Schmidt of the Detroit Lions, followed his brother and pro football, John Schmidt played with Pittsburgh in 1940.

Golf Ranks Pared by Books, Trip

Only 4 Survive
Southern Jaunt

Michigan State's already thin golf squad was pared more by its annual Southern training trip.

Coach Ben VanAlstyne took six men on the trip, and none of the six had ever competed in a collegiate match.

Following the trip, VanAlstyne said that three of the six proved they could shoot Big 10 caliber golf.

Earlier, the team had lost its only letterman and three other prospects by ineligibility.

The three successful linksters are Jim Sullivan, Marty Hurd and Bob Nodus.

In addition, VanAlstyne said, Ron Laug looked "fair" and might be counted on later in the year.

VanAlstyne expects some help from a trio of sophomores who he will work with this week.

The team lost all three of its southern matches but, VanAlstyne said, they "gained valuable experience and lots of practice."

On the trip, the squad practiced in the morning and played another college or an intra-squad match in the afternoon.

Wings Grab Playoff Lead With 4-2 Win

DETROIT (P)—The Detroit Red Wings scored three times in the last seven minutes to beat the Montreal Canadiens, 4-2, in the first game of the Stanley Cup finals Sunday night.

Vic Stasiuk, Marty Pavelich and Ted Lindsay fired in the late tallies to give the Wings their 14th straight win, tying the record held by the Boston Bruins.

Alex Delvecchio scored the first Detroit goal.

After Stasiuk had tied the score, 2-2, Pavelich stole a Montreal power-play pass and drove in all alone to beat goalie Jacques Plante.

Lindsay finished the scoring with a shot into the open net with Plante out in favor of another attacker in the final minute.

Detroit net minder Terry Sawchuk had 20 saves, Plante had 26.

Floyd Curry scored both Montreal goals on passes from Ken Mosdell.

Leland Merrill, former Spartan grappler, placed third in the 1948 Olympics in the 160-pound division.

Joe Schmidt of the Detroit Lions, followed his brother and pro football, John Schmidt played with Pittsburgh in 1940.

John Butler suffered his first collegiate dual meet loss at the hands of Chuck Magestro, who WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Billy Maxwell rallied on the last nine holes Sunday after losing his three way grip on the lead to win the $12,500 Azalea open golf tournament by one stroke over Mike Souchak. Maxwell shot 69.
