8 Schools To Become Colleges

The change of Michigan State's eight schools to colleges will become effective July 1, when it officially becomes Michigan State University.

The change was approved by the State Board of Agriculture when the following new names for the schools were adopted: College of Agriculture, College of Business and Public Service, College of Communication Arts, College of Education, College of Engineering, College of Home Economics, College of Science and Arts, College of Veterinary Medicine, School for Advanced Graduate Studies, and Basic College.

The separation of the department of the geology and geography department into two units was also approved. The department of geology will be placed in the College of Science and Arts, and the department of mathematical and physical science.

The following staff members are to be transferred to the department of geology: Lawrence M. Sommers, professor and head; Paul C. Morrison, professor; Clarence F. S. Page 6

Names Given New Buildings By Ag Board

The State Board of Agriculture announced the names last Friday for the three new men's dormitory buildings which are presently under construction.

The new buildings, part of the Brody group of dormitories located on Harrison Road across from Kellogg Center, will be named after W. C. Armstrong, L. C. Emmons, and Liberty Hyde Bailey.

Armstrong, who was first elected to the State Board of Agriculture in 1943, died during the last year of his second six-year term. He was a native of Miles, and for many years was active in the Michigan State Grange.

Lloyd C. Emmons, who served on the Michigan State faculty from 1909 to 1952, was dean of liberal arts and professor of mathematics prior to his appointment to head of the school of science and arts in 1945. Emmons was a dean emeritus.

As a member of the Michigan State athletic council, he was instrumental in Michigan State's admission to the Western Conference in 1948, and was State's faculty representative to the conference from that date until his retirement.

Liberty Hyde Bailey, who became professor of horticulture at Michigan State in 1885, set up the nation's first horticultural department at the college.

The animal industries building was named after retired Dean Ernest L. Anthony of the school of agriculture.

1,017 Attend 18th Annual Boys' State Conference

The eighteenth annual Wolverine Boys' State conference is being held at Shaw Hall this week. A total of 1,017 boys are attending the week-long session.

The purpose of Boys State is to teach boys more about government and law. It is sponsored by the American Legion.

The group is set up as the mythical "49th state" in the Union with 20 cities of approximately 50 boys in each city. There are two cities in a county and fifteen counties. Each state, county and city has its own officials. Every boy holds an office.

The boys are divided into two parties, half of which are Federalists and the other half Nationalists. The election for state, county, and city officers was held Tuesday.

Rod Wiley, 17, of Lake Orion, a Nationalist, was elected governor. Other main government heads are: Jack Davis, lieutenant governor, (N-Lansing); John Green, secretary of state, (F-Lansing); Bob Ludtke, treasurer, (N-Gregory); Pat Oliver, auditor general, (N-Detroit); and Doug Vismetti, attorney general, (N-Marquette).

Planks for the Nationalists' platform included introducing a bill to make the route to the band shell within bounds (the boys are restricted only to the area around Shaw Hall), lowering the voting age in Michigan to 18 years, and opposition to capital punishment.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams welcomed the boys last Saturday night and gave a speech about the responsibilities in government.

A mock trial, set up by the Michigan State Bar Association, was held to give the young attorneys a chance to practice Wednesday night.

Saturday morning the boys will go on a tour of the state capital and operate the state government for a few hours. Graduation ceremonies will be held in the afternoon with each boy receiving a diploma.

$8 Tuition Boost Starts Fall Term

Labor Costs Hike Dorm Prices $10

A $5 increase in tuition, the second raise in less than a year, was approved by the State Board of Agriculture in their monthly meeting last Friday. The increase, effective fall term, will bring the tuition rate to $68 per quarter.

Dormitory costs will also be boosted due to the increased cost of labor in the upkeep of the living quarters. The raise will be $10 per term to $239.

In adopting the budget of $20,044,926 for the 1955-56 fiscal year, the Board voted for the student fees increase to cover the cost of the addition to Glin Memorial Health Center.

In January the Board passed a $2 increase in student fees for the enlargement of the hospital but the building will cost more than was originally estimated.

The estimate given to the Board Friday was $2,000,000. It is to be paid entirely by student funds. The plans are to be presented at the October meeting of State's governing group in order that construction bids may be received by Nov. 1.

The expansion would increase cubic footage by 150 per cent and bring the total number of beds to 130. There are only 60 beds now.

During the past winter term the health center treated an average of 150 students per day, Dr. C. G. Mennen, Olin director, told the Board.

Many students were sent back to their living quarters because the hospital did not have adequate space to care for them, the health director said.

The three-story addition will extend north from the present building to a line even with Berkeley Hall and the home economics building.

The Board also approved a $600,000 addition to the music building. The extension will run west toward the women's athletic field. It will be financed by music practice room fees.

A $12,000 dollar allocation was made for repairing seriously damaged seats in Macklin Field and the Board approved the low bid of the Westinghouse Electric Co. for an additional elevator for Kellogg Center.

The cost of the elevator installation will be paid by the W. K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek.

A major budget item is a $1,137,844 increase in salaries bringing the total to $12,213,748. The estimated enrollment for fall term is 14,500, up from the present 13,325. A $678,000 allocation was made for new positions to handle the increase.

The faculty will receive 32 new appointments and 10 graduate assistants. The library staff will be increased by 22 and 25 new appointments were made for office workers.

A new item to the budget is $328,296 set aside by the Legislature in the probability that Michigan State employees will vote to take part in the Social Security system. A referendum is to be held in August.

The money would be the university's contribution as the employer.

'Window' Opens Movie Series

"Rear Window" opens the summer film entertainment in the Fairchild Theater Friday and Saturday nights. James Stewart and Grace Kelly co-star in the Alfred Hitchcock murder mystery starting at 8 p.m. Admission is 30 cents.

Registration Hits 4,345; Expected to Reach 5,000

Summer school enrollment reached its highest peak since the summers of 1950 and 1951 this week as 4,345 students registered before the 4:30 p.m. deadline Wednesday, according to Registrar Robert S. Linton.

Approximately 5,000 students are expected for the summer session with late enrollments, the registrar said. Last year 3,840 registered at the regular time and with late registration the total was pushed to 4,305.

"The increase in enrollment reflects in part the interest of the citizens of the state in the diversified and more comprehensive programs offered on the Michigan State campus," commented Dean Thomas Hamilton, director of the summer sessions.

Men still outnumber the girls on campus by a better than 2 to 1 ratio. There were 2,944 males registered and 1,401 women students. Last year the ratio was less with 2,332 men and 1,385 girls.

Veterans enrolled under Public Law 550, the Korean GI Bill, showed a gain of 282 over last year. There were 669 registered Wednesday.

Only 151 veterans attending school on either Public Law 346 or 16 went through the registration process by closing time Wednesday. In the 1954 session 260 former servicemen availed themselves of those two laws, the World War II GI Bill and the bill for disabled veterans, PL 16.

Compared to the usual confusion during the regular school year the students processed in an average of 20 minutes.

The six-week summer session will end July 29, while the nine-week term concludes Aug. 19.

Nearly all the departments of the college are in operation and in addition, 10 Summer School workshops for teachers and administrators are being held during the summer months.

Exhibits are being worked out. Plans for an automotive display are nearing completion, with cars being exhibited in three divisions: new cars, historic cars and trucks. An added feature will be a display on 12 "dream cars," or cars of the future.

In the new car division approximately 50 cars representing the major manufacturers will be shown.

A local division of the Veteran Car Club will furnish most of the 30 automobiles in the historic car group. These autos will range from 1904 to 1930 models.

Also on display will be an exhibit on atomic energy, covering an area 90 by 10 feet in Jenison Fieldhouse. Latest developments and uses of atomic energy will be shown as well as an atomic reactor.

At the present time, the script for the Centennial Pageant of Farm Mechanization is near completion. This special feature will last an hour-and-a-half.

It will depict the life of a farm family through four generations from the Civil War period to the present day.

Indian Dancers Are First Summer L-C Event

The Koshare Indian Dancers, an Indian boy scout troop from La Junta, Colo., will provide the first entertainment of the summer school lecture-concert season Monday night in Jenison Fieldhouse at 8 p.m.

The dancers have been acclaimed nationally for their intricate footwork and dance steps in the performance of the dances of the American Indian.

The group has been in existence for 20 years and at the present there are 40 boys besides the leaders and wardrobe men.

Admission to the performance is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children under 16 and boy and girl scouts. The profit realized by the building of a fine arts center and Indian museum in La Junta.

74 Take Part High School Journalists Put Out S'News

The "State News" again has a new staff. The high school students of the Journalism Course of the Continuing Education Service have moved into the office of the State News again this summer. The 74 students who are taking printed newspapers as their workshop, plan to put out two issues of the newspaper during their two-week stay on the Michigan State campus.

This is the eighth year the course has been offered and it is the first time the high school group put out two editions of the State News.

The students attending the course come from all over Michigan. Most of the students have had one or two years of journalism and have worked on either school newspapers or yearbooks. The young writers are gaining a great abundance of knowledge and experience in the actual printing of the newspaper.

Peacock Tail Stems From Greek Myth

Colorful Birds Help to Brighten Campus

Peacocks have a spot in Michigan State campus life just as they played a role in Greek Mythology described by the Roman poet Ovid.

The god, Beus feared that his wife Hera would find him with to his love at the time. Therefore he changed her into a cow when he saw Hera approaching.

Unfortunately, Argus, a 100-eyed character who Hera had ordered to keep watch on the cow was killed on Zeus' orders. Hera took the 100 eyes and sewed them on the tail of a peacock bird of hers which became known as the peacock.

Although the birds, who Ovid described as the fowl "with the 100 eyes like jewels on their tails," may be descendants of the myth, Michigan State's peacocks were acquired approximately 15 to 20 years ago from a sanctuary near Battle Creek, according to Prof. Miles D. Pirnie of the Fisheries and wildlife department.

They are located by the railroad bridge that crosses the Red Cedar River near the dam and have become a popular object of interest for campus visitors.

The birds caged here are cock birds. The hens differ in that they are a brownish color.

Two of the surviving peacocks now caged in, but still strutting proudly, may remember many years back to the time when they too could roam the campus. However, two factors called a halt to their little flings.

The peacocks, by instinct, scream at any strange noise and have added a certain "something" to the band shell concerts. Their cry sounds very human and terrifying. For a long time students could not solve the mystery of the screams.

When the fowl were allowed to wander at will, three baby cocks frightened several students and caused a commotion by getting in the way of cars.

The peacocks' vanity may suffer in late summer when the long feather train is shed. However, with the Christmas season comes a new resplendent train and the peacocks again live up to their fame of being beautiful.

Today the wise old birds still stalk around, waving their magnificent tails for all to admire. Holding their brilliant green heads up proudly, they appraise the passers-by critically, probably classifying them from their many years of experience on Michigan State's campus.

Don't Tread on Me, Use the Sidewalk Signs Tell Story

With all the signs around the grounds of Michigan State, reminding the reader of such things as "Don't Tread on Me," "Use the Walk," "Poor Road," and, of course, the usual "Grass," it is found necessary to use some of the well-traveled 37.8 miles of sidewalks.

The most heavily-traveled stretch of State's 37.8 miles of concrete and mortar is the walk between the west entrance of Berkeley Hall and the Union.

The sidewalks are arranged, according to the grounds department, so that it should not take a student longer than 10 minutes to walk from one class to another. That does not take in the long mile between the Brody dormitories and Berkeley.

The oldest sidewalk known to be in existence at State is a corner strip near the east end of the music building. The strip was laid in 1816. Another piece of walk constructed in 1910 leads from the music building towards Beaumont Tower.

Coed Named Miss Lansing

Williams, 2nd-3rd

Elaine Hart, named "Miss Lansing" last Friday night contest sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, put through government and will represent Lansing in the Miss Michigan contest scheduled June 28.

18-year-old Michigan State student ran into difficulty in a projected trip to visit parents in the Philippine Islands as a result of a new government ruling.

Hart's father is with the Operations Administration in Manila and she was to visit him at government ruling. However, a new ruling into effect at the end of the month whereby the family of government officials stationed overseas have to go through lengthy process before going.

It was thought that the 5'3" coed would be unable to compete in the Miss Michigan contest and still make the trip before the new rule takes effect. However, put through hurdles to Washington and Hart will be able to enter the Miss Michigan contest before overseas.

Hart was presented with a scholarship for winning the contest.

The talent section of the contest read "Abraham Lincoln at Midnight" by Vachel Lindsay.

Hart was crowned by last year's Miss Michigan, Janice Williams, Michigan State senior.

Kwaizer, who was re-elected as the "Sweetheart of the State" and honored on TV's national television in a salute to the fraternity of Michigan State, was runner-up.

Miss Lansing is from East Lansing and Miss Kwaizer is from Saginaw.

Williams, also a Michigan State coed, was named second runner-up.

Library Changes New Schedule; Student Help

Students are needed to work in the library summer term, according to Librarian Jackson Towne.

Students are available both in the new building and the new library building.

It was planned to keep the library open until 11 p.m. during the summer for the convenience of students.

Students in the new one million dollar structure are in service and help is wanted at the entrance and main circulation in the old building.

Youths Set Example Life Can Be

A recent series of articles in a national magazine would have the entire nation believe that the youth of this country, if not already an immoral, corrupt and incorrigible group, would soon be heading in that direction. The congressional investigation on which this article is based, took only a negative view in reporting the moral decay. It overlooked the fine work carried on by such groups as Wolverine Boys' State sponsored by the American Legion.

While our national legislators are condemning the younger generation and at the same time overlooking its good points, the 1,018 Boys' State from communities all over Michigan are preparing by way of an intensive week of living democracy to step into their shoes and receive the reins of government.

Every condition of campaigning was simulated, ranging from party caucuses to vote trading, giving the meeting an atmosphere not unlike that of national party conventions. Boys' State serves as an outstanding example of what this nation's youth actually is like instead of illustrating the lurid exploits of the few who are encouraged by sensational examples which serve as a pattern for them to follow.

Damage Cost High

Michigan State's campus has been named a state wildlife sanctuary by an act of the legislature. In a sanctuary, or any public park for that matter, the grounds are not for use as garbage dumps, the trees are not used as firewood, and the rivers and ponds are not ordained as cesspools. Neither are the animals considered as garbage disposal units, or as pets, cat food or targets.

Access to the grounds at Michigan State is free as is the use of picnic grounds and most outdoor facilities. Destructive treatment of these facilities is considered an insult to the hospitality of the university. This hospitality has been insulted more than once.

The yearly damage at Michigan State, as a result of carelessness and out and out vandalism runs well into the thousands of dollars. Aside from the monetary loss, the beauty of the campus is often irreparably marred. Uncountable numbers of animals are lost annually.

To protect the campus from such damage, rules have been set up. Copies of the ground ordinance are on display throughout the campus.

Education Continues

It is an important part of the American heritage to have education for all. This important facet of life is being carried out to a point where most people can go on with their education, even through college.

More and more, organizations, schools, and people are coming to realize the importance of continuing education. One evidence of this, is the number of high school students that are registered for the speech, music, and journalism courses. In high school there is a great drive to see that students stay in school and continue on with their studies in college.

While these courses are not essentially regular college courses, the point is that the students are making the effort to take part in a type of education that would not normally be had at their own schools.

Summer School's Relaxing

Students seen walking to and from classes in the "good old summertime" are partaking in the various summer sessions offered to interested individuals at Michigan State.

Benefits of these courses are many. The atmosphere assumes a nature of summer relaxation, the campus is less crowded, providing the instructors time to handle individual problems. Time otherwise spent on the diversions of various summer activities are applied to the art of learning and gaining invaluable knowledge. For some out-of-town students, the summer sessions offer a short "vacation" pleasantly spent on a university campus.

Besides the regular summer sessions, special short courses are featured. These sessions are offered through the combined efforts of the various departments.

High school conferences in journalism, music, and speech offer courses guided by well-trained instructors and valuable experience gained by workshops. Other conferences offered to adults include Real Estate Appraisal, a Leadership conference, and the Hotel Housekeepers conference.

Short courses offered and worthwhile learning are Commercial Floriculture and the Farm Operators course, a new innovation at Michigan State, for agricultural training of the young farmer.

Rabbits Eat; Cause Grief; Must Leave

From scurrying chipmunks to fox, possum or coon, the campus is never completely still. For at any time of the day or night, whether strolling through the campus lanes, or canoeing on the river, the animal life plays a dramatic part in the make-up of the daily campus scene. Such is true in the case of "Carotaker vs. Rabbits."

"The rabbits have got to go," say the caretakers of Beal Garfield Botanic Garden. It seems these furry creatures are slowly, but surely, causing the extinction of experimental plants in the greenhouses. The choice has to be made, as to which will go: the plants, or the bunnies? The caretakers hope its the rabbits.

On its waters or on its shores, the Red Cedar river homes hundreds of campus animals. Among these are two hundred wild ducks, who live and feed on the campus during the summer months. What happens in the winter? Nothing! They live right on at the campus as tame and at home as the students themselves.

In companion to the fowl family, four beautiful Northern geese make their residence on the campus. They are not, however, the only outstanding members of campus beauty, as the pea fowl, which lives on the south campus, attracts an equal amount of attention.

Michigan State's track coach, Karl Schladehman, received honors recently as he was elected to the Helms Track and Field Hall of Fame.

Beginning his career in 1912 Mr. Schladehman has been coaching for 44 years. Fame first came to him at the University of Kansas when he founded the Kansas relays, one of the large midwest relay carnivals.

During 1941 Karl Schladehman came to Michigan State as head track coach. In addition he was appointed cross country coach in 1947. Since then State has captured four national collegiate titles.

Young Accepts New Post

On June 17 Ralph H. Young, former director of athletics at Michigan State, was appointed as an assistant to the director of alumni relations at State. He began work immediately.

Approved by the State Board of Agriculture, governing body of Michigan State, this appointment returns to the Spartan campus a man who has given 32 years of service to the school through the athletic department.

Mr. Young's new duties consist partly of contact work with alumni groups within the state from an athletic standpoint. He will also be available during the Centennial year for special alumni programs.

Moore KO's Olson at 1:19 Of 3rd Round

Light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore successfully defended his title at the Polo Grounds in New York Wednesday night by knocking out challenger Bob Olson, the king of the middleweight division at 1:19 of the third round.

Olson had the edge in the first round on all the judges' scorecards but Moore's eight-inch advantage in reach told the tale as 38-year-old Moore hammered Olson into the ropes at the close of the second round.

Moore smashed two rights in the head of Olson in the opening moments of the third round and followed up with two powerful lefts. The second one ended the fight as Olson fell to the canvas in Moore's corner.

The challenger tried to get up but he was still down when referee Ruby Goldstein counted 10.

Notre Dame Game Sold Out

Ticket Sales Show Increase

With two sell-out games and two others that promise to draw near capacity crowds, Michigan State's football ticket sales show a definite increase, according to Warren Burtt, manager of ticket sales.

Burtt said that the Oct. 15 Notre Dame game has been sold out since June 12, while the Homecoming game with Illinois on Oct. 22 is also a sure sell-out.

Michigan State will be out to avenge a close 20-19 defeat to the Irish last year at South Bend. Prior to that the Spartans had beaten the Irish three games in a row.

The Illini tilt will be marked by a four and a half mile long parade that will feature Michigan State's Centennial.

Float divisions will be divided into four different sections. Each section will signify Michigan State's memorable events. A fifth section will denote what the future holds.

Prizes will be given by East Lansing merchants to be awarded for the best floats.

Illinois will bring their speedy backfield combination of J. C. Caroline, Micky Bates and Abe Woodson.

Home games with Stanford and Minnesota are also expected to draw large crowds.

The game with Stanford will be the first meeting between the two schools. Half-time of the game will feature 2,000 band members in a display of marching formations.

In the Minnesota game the Spartans will be out to avenge a 19-13 defeat at the hands of the Gophers last year. The Marquette game expected to draw a crowd. Last year the won easily, 40-10.

This will be the first between the two schools in several years. Kansas has been added in their year.

The Notre Dame game nationally televised game of the week.

2 Kobsmen Named on Select Team

AACBC Picks Powell, Smith

Bob Powell and George Smith of the Spartan baseball team have been named on the 1955 American Association of College Baseball Coaches All-American baseball team.

Powell, an outfielder made the second team and Smith, a second baseman, made the third team.

Smith won the Big 10 batting crown with a .485 average and had a .408 season average. It was the second highest conference average in history.

Both players signed major league contracts. Powell signed for $30,000 with the Chicago White Sox and Smith, without a bonus, to the Baltimore Orioles.

Other Big 10 members on the team are Don Eaddy, Michigan infielder, first team and Harry Northrup, a second baseman from Ohio State made the second team.

Western Michigan, the runner-up in the NCAA baseball tournament, also placed two players on the team. They are outfielder Bill Lajoie first team and Gary Graham, a pitcher, on the second team.

Bob Spokes, who joined his teammates

Gosper Takes Fourth In NCAA Track Meet

Australian Scores Only State Points

Spartans Gain Tie For 30th Place

Kevan Gosper placed fourth in the 440-yard run to lead Michigan State four points in the National Collegiate Athletic Association track and field championships held at Los Angeles last Friday and Saturday.

The smooth-striding Australian finished in 1:02.2 for the two-mile race, while Oklahoma A&M's Tommie Smith was the winner in 12:40.2.

After three Spartans entered the meet, pole vaulter Joe Calkins, hurdler Joe Calkins, and high jumper Don Williams, failed to place.

Williams won his trial heat in the semi-final heat in the 100-yard dash.

Williams' Jim Golliday placed 180 and 220 yard dashes, setting a new record in the longer distance in the 220.

Williams' Pete Gray broke the record in the 880-yard race, but only finished second.

Williams was clocked in 1:51.4 while Fordham's Tom Gray won in a meet record of 1:50.4.

The Big 10 two mile champion, Williams of Illinois placed second in the 1200-yard dash at that event. The Swede's time was 12:36.

Williams' Campbell scored first in the 120-yard dash in the meet tying time of 15.9.

Williams' Thomson was very favorite but pulled a muscle in the semi-finals.

Williams' of Iowa, was fifth in the 100-yard dash. Williams' Jack Matthews finished second to Williams' Charlie in the 220-yard low hurdles. Williams' time was 12:33.

Williams' of Michigan tied Williams' in the high jump at Williams' Stevens tied for sixth in the 100-yard dash.

Williams' failed to score in the vault where Villanova Williams' Don Bragg became Williams' collegian to clear 15 feet.

Duckett Signs Pro Football Contract

Former Spartan halfback, Bert Zagers, was recently traded by the Detroit Lions to the Washington Redskins for Harry Gilmer and an undisclosed amount of cash. The Lions also sent Bob Trout to obtain the former Alabama All-American quarterback.

The trade was made to obtain an understudy for star passer Bobby Lane who lost his only replacement, Tom Dublinski, to the Canadian League this year.

Detroit coach, Buddy Parker, will probably spell Layne often against the weaker opponents in favor of Gilmer to give the 29-year-old veteran a rest for the stronger clubs.

The attractive offers made by the Canadian League also lured Gene Lekenta, a halfback for State in 1952-53, and Ellis Duckett, a four-year Spartan veteran. Lekenta will be remembered for his last minute field goal in the 1952 Oregon State game to keep the Spartans' winning streak alive. He was signed to a try-out contract mainly for kicking duties.

Duckett gained fame for blocking Paul Cameron's punt in the 1954 Rose Bowl game.

Newcombe Wins 12th

Williams' Homer in 8th Gives Bosox 5-4 Victory

A three-run eighth-inning homer by Ted Williams wrecked the Tigers' hopes as the Bosox edged the Bengals 5-4.

It was Ned Garver's eighth defeat of the season. He has won seven games.

The Bengals pulled away 1-0 in the second on a walk and Jimmy Delinger's double to center field.

Two Tiger scoring opportunities in the fifth and sixth innings were unsuccessful. The Sox tagged Garver for two runs on three hits in the seventh inning to lead 2-1.

The Tigers bounced back with a three-run rally in the top of the eighth inning. Tullie singled, Kalline walked, and Torgeson reached Nixon for a single, scoring Tullie, and bringing Kalline around to third. Torgeson moved to second on the throw. Delinger singled to bring Kalline home.

Hurd replaced Nixon as the Bosox hurler. A sacrifice by Boone put Bengals on second and third. The Sox intentionally passed the catcher Frank House to fill the sacks.

Harvey Kuenn, batting for Reno, hit a home run to give the Sox a 5-4 victory.

The league-leading Yankees continued their winning ways by knocking the Kansas City Athletics 6-2. Micky Mantle walked one of the longest homers in Yankee Stadium history with the bases empty in the first inning.

The hit, Mantle's 17th homer, traveled 461 feet into center field.

The Dodgers Don Newcombe edged victory number 12 in a game that went 11 innings. The Dodgers scored five runs in the top of the eleventh to chalk up a 7-2 win over the second place Chicago Cubs.

Idzkowski Signs Pact With Chisox

Hurler Sent to Colorado Springs

Dick Idzkowski, Michigan State's top baseball hurler, signed a contract with the Chicago White Sox Sunday.

Idzkowski, a 21-year-old right-hander from East Chicago, Ind., was the Big 10's top pitcher with a 4-0 record. His season record with the Spartans was 9-1.

Chicago signed Idzkowski as a non-bonus player and announced he will be assigned to Colorado Springs of the Class A Western League.

At last year's College World Series at Omaha, Neb., in a relief pitcher capacity, Idzkowski struck out eight of the 12 men who faced him in one game and fanned five of seven in another game.

According to coach John Kube the 6'3" hurler started as a fast ball pitcher but has since developed a good curve ball.

This season the Huscar hurler pitched 62 1/2 innings and let the team in strikeouts with 51 and walks 26.

M.S.U. SHADOWS
 M.S.U., we love thy shadows
 When twilight dews fall
 Flushing deep and softly pale
 O'er (over) ivy-covered halls
 Smooth the place we'll gather
 To give our HEARTS (faith) to true
 Sing our love for Alma Mater
 And thy praises, M.S.U.
 When from THE (these) scenes we Wander
 And twilight shadows fade
 Our memory still will linger
 Where light and shadows played
 In the evening soft we'll gather
 AND TURN OUR THOUGHTS TO
 YOU! (And pledge our faith anew)
 Sing our love for Alma Mater
 And thy praises, M.S.U.

FRONT SONG
 On the banks of the Red Cedar
 In a school that's known to all
 THEIR (its) spirit is winning
 And those Spartans play good ball
 Spartan teams are never beaten
 All through the game they fight
 Fight for the only colors
 Green and White

Chorus
 Go right thru for M.S.U.
 Watch the points keep growing
 Spartans teams are bound to win
 They're fighting with a vim
 HAH! HAH! HAH!
 SEE THEIR TEAM (Name of school) is

Westcott Serenades Campus On Beaumont Tower Carillon

Wendell Westcott officially opened the 1955 summer season of carillon concerts by playing a recital last Sunday at 4 p.m. These concerts are being played from Beaumont Tower on the Michigan State campus.

The concerts will continue each Sunday at 4 p.m. and on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 8 p.m. On Thursday, July 28, the concerts will conclude.

A tour to the belfry to view the Carillon will be held following completion of the concerts.

At the present time, the carillon contains 43 bells, with an additional one on the ground floor waiting to be hung in the belfry. These bells range in weight from 20 to 2,800 pounds. Westcott, who is an instructor of music at State, will play concerts in Washington D.C., Hartford, Conn., and Ottawa, Canada.
