

U. S. Expels 2 Soviet Delegates

Charges They Are Not Desirable

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Wednesday expelled two members of the Soviet United Nations delegation, calling them "no longer desirable" because of their "re-defection" from the Soviet seamen.

A note named Soviet Ambassador Zorubini also chided the Soviet delegation for its conduct in the incident. However, Soviet regulation was not deemed to be "desirable."

The note, made public by the State Department, charged the two members of the Soviet delegation, Alexander K. Guryanov and Nikolai Turkin, had behaved in "particularly objectionable manner."

It said that they exceeded the limits of their official capacity when they abused the privilege of residence.

Accordingly requested that Alexander K. Guryanov make arrangements to leave the United States," the note said.

The five seamen in question were among nine crewmen of the Soviet tanker Tuzig who came to this country last fall from Moscow, where they had been interned after the vessel was captured by Chinese Nationalists.

They abruptly left their United States asylum on April 7 for Russia, and a Senate subcommittee was given charges that some of them at least were spirited away against their real wishes, or "kidnaped."

Hammaraskjold Seeks UN Aid From Jordan

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold sought Jordan's help Wednesday on his three-day U.N. mission to pacify the armistice lines around the Golan Heights.

The United Nations official had just met with Premier Samir Rifaat. A communiqué said they met again Thursday.

The U.N. Israel-Jordan Mixed Armistice Commission, meeting in Amman Wednesday, found that Israel and Jordan had violated their 1949 armistice by firing across the demarcation line between the two nations.

The commission chairman, an American UN treaty observer, was informed from voting on paragraph 1 that attempted to say which side opened fire.

Such incidents, a communiqué said, were necessary to keep the armistice lines from becoming a permanent frontier.

It said that the problems of the Jordan frontier were complicated and "usually involved a 'yes' or 'no' by the Jordanian side."

Hammaraskjold has already visited the other three armistice lines—Egypt, Syria and Iraq.

He is expected to leave Amman on Friday.

Campaign Briefing for Tonight

Two officers and student copes will meet tonight at 7:45 p.m. to be briefed on campaign rules.

The briefing will begin April 26 at 8 p.m. in the Student Government office, Room 101, by 3 p.m. today.

Cubans Visit Campus

Three officials of the University of Santa Clara in Cuba look at pictures of campus life during their three-day visit to study the operations of a land-grant university. The officials are Dr. Modesto de J. Pineda Cabrera, Pablo Diaz Cuevas, and Dr. Manuel de J. Angula Montezgudo.

Committee Expanded

Insurance Bids Reopened

Student congressmen were informed Wednesday that bids will be reopened to insurance companies for a MSU student group insurance plan.

This action, announced by Bill Mansfield, president of student government, will be necessary because "a company which requires the greatest number of policies to U. S. universities had not been contacted by the original committee investigating the possibility of a group insurance plan."

A representative from this company, Continental Casualty, contacted Mansfield after he had

Temporary Charter Bills Postponed in Congress

The case of the missing charters, constitutions and membership lists of four campus organizations petitioning for temporary charters still remains a mystery.

Congressmen Wednesday recessed for ten minutes in a last minute but unsuccessful effort to locate the misplaced forms and bring the bills out of committee to vote.

Four bills granting temporary charters to Kappa Alpha Rho, Rifle Club (women's), Industrial Education Assn. and Education Council were delayed for the third week.

Henry Christie, chairman of the congress organizations committee, reported he had not received the charters from Nick Smith, chairman of the executive organizations bureau, and

Foreign Students Hail From 52 Countries

A total of 323 students from 52 foreign countries are attending spring term classes, Donald Gemmel, foreign student adviser announced Wednesday.

Canada heads the list with 83 students, India has 34, and Columbia, Iran, Vietnam and Korea each sent more than 10 students. All but 34 of the foreign students are men.

May Sing Becomes Occasion of Honor

The first day of May has marked many important things in history.

On May 1, 1896, Nasr-ed-Din, the Shah of Persia, was assassinated.

In 1938, Commodore Geo. Dewey destroyed the Spanish fleet in Manila Bay.

In 1904, the Louisiana Purchase Exposition opened in St. Louis.

It is even Child Health Day. By presidential proclamation.

Traditionally, it is the day of spring, marked by maypole dances and baskets of flowers deposited on doorsteps.

On the first of May at Michigan State, however, historical events and charming traditions fade into insignificance.

On this day, happy students hurry to Beaumont Tower, where outstanding records are lapped by Tower Guard, sophomore women's honorary, and Mortar Board, senior women's honorary.

But it wasn't always so. From 1929 until 1934, the May Morning Sing was just that—a sing.

The first May Morning Sing was conceived by Prof. Lewis Richards, then head of the music department. The ceremony was borrowed from England, where a song festival celebrating May Day was an annual event at Magdalen Tower, Oxford University.

In the Michigan State observance, the college chorus and the men's and women's glee clubs sang from the newly-completed Beaumont Tower. Each group stood on a different level of the tower to give its selections.

In 1915, a group of girls from all the campus literary societies and independent women organizations, Sphinx, a local service group. In 1923, the basis of membership changed, and Sphinx became a group elected from the outstanding senior women.

These women, among other projects, helped organize a sophomore women's honorary, which in 1933 became known as Tower Guard. Then in 1934, Sphinx was installed as a chapter of Mortar Board, national women's honorary.

The next year both groups combined for their tipping ceremony, which was held in conjunction with the May Morning Sing.

Monday night, Mortar Board and Tower Guard members will serenade the living units of coeds to be chosen for membership. Tuesday morning at 7 a.m. in front of Beaumont Tower, 35 freshmen will be tapped for Tower Guard on the basis of scholarship, college and high school activities, and potential leadership. Mortar Board will pick 18 juniors for their scholarship, leadership, and service to the university.

Selective Service Test To be Given May 17

Ike Rejects Proposal To Invite Red Leaders

Bagwell Withdraws From Race

Decides Against 'Any Office'

Prof. Paul D. Bagwell, head of the department of communication skills, Tuesday withdrew from the Republican primary race for governor.

In his statement Bagwell said he believed that Mayor Albert E. Cobb, Detroit, will consent to become a candidate in view of the overwhelming desire of the Republicans in Michigan.

"I have no desire to become involved in a primary race with either Mayor Cobb, or any other candidate," Bagwell said.

Bagwell also said that in view of his present responsibilities he could not see his way clear to run for any other state office.

A move to draft Bagwell as a Republican candidate for governor was launched Saturday by "Citizens for Bagwell" committee throughout the state.

Bagwell said he was at Ohio State University over the weekend and knew nothing of the movement to draft him as a gubernatorial candidate until his return to East Lansing Sunday.

The draft action followed a series of meetings throughout Michigan the last few weeks at which strong support reportedly was gathered from the rank and file of the Republican party, Young Republican elements and from independent voters.

Bagwell said he has concluded that "I can best serve the political interests I believe in by furthering the work of the Michigan Citizens for Eisenhower Organization."

"I am deeply grateful," said Bagwell, "to the many groups of people throughout the state who have encouraged me to enter the Republican primary election as a candidate for governor."

"I am confident," Bagwell said, "that the Republicans of Michigan will choose the best qualified and strongest possible candidate to share the ballot with President Eisenhower."

2 Staffers to Attend Poly Sci Conference

Dr. Glendon A. Schubert, Jr., and Dr. Allen S. Whiting, of the political science department, will participate in the Midwest Political Science conference in Milwaukee, May 3-5.

Schubert will speak on the theory of the public interest in administrative and judicial decision making and Whiting will discuss the recent Congress of the Russian Communist party.

Bus Lines Face Court Action Threat

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Montgomery City Lines Wednesday faced the threat of court action to revoke its franchise unless it backs away from its newly announced policy of racial integration.

Lawyers Divided Over Court's Brief

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government lawyers were divided Wednesday on what the Supreme Court must do by its action Monday in a case challenging bus segregation on interstate buses.

The court's brief order refusing to review a lower court decision was widely interpreted at the time as ending segregation in any form of public transportation. But some lawyers reviewing the case said the high court could have acted on narrow technical grounds.

In any event, the court left standing, so far as this case is concerned, the decision by the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals that "We do not think the separate but equal doctrine can any longer be regarded as a correct statement of the law."

The Supreme Court almost never elaborates on its orders. No explanation could be obtained from it Wednesday, as to just what it meant.

The Justice Department declined to express any official view. It did not participate in the case.

However, individual lawyers in the government, who preferred anonymity, said the form of the Supreme Court's refusal to take the case for review could mean either:

1. That the court was declining to consider a matter which had not been fully argued in the lower courts.
2. That the court was saying it had already struck down racial segregation in public facilities in previous cases covering public schools, public golf courses, and other public areas and had no intention of repeating itself on this subject.

In either case litigation will now go back to the federal district court at Columbia, S.C. for trial. The question involved is whether Sarah Mae Flemming, a Negro, can collect damages from the South Carolina Electric & Gas Co., operating Columbia buses.

She sued for $25,000 civil rights damages, charging she was mistreated when she boarded a bus in 1954. The action was reserved for Negroes to be tried and attempted to occupy a seat in the section reserved for whites.

Turns Down Stevenson's Proposal

Against Halting H-Bomb Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower turned thumbs down Wednesday on any idea of inviting Soviet leaders to the United States and rejected Adlai E. Stevenson's proposal for halting hydrogen bomb tests.

Eisenhower also said a commission this country is now working around the limit of maximum effort in trying to develop a long-range guided missile which Stevenson has argued the administration of being dangerously dilatory.

At a news conference, Eisenhower also declared that:

1. He sees no logical reason for cutting back on the great interests of America, since in this time of high tension the government must be run without going into debt.
2. He would have to be convinced it would be useful for him to attend a meeting of state heads to try to make explosive arrest in the Middle East. He said he would not accept any proposal unless he thought this would promote peace.

3. Democrats are perfectly right in making him, rather than members of his Cabinet, a target for election-year attacks. I am the head of the administration, he said, and I have been at it before.
4. Vice President Nixon has given him no final answer as to whether Nixon would use atomic power in the 1956 presidential campaign. This year's election was available for reaction.

Positive and forward affairs press so much dominated the news conference.

The tee-off point was a request for an evaluation of a statement by Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev in London that Russia soon will have guided missiles, with hydrogen war heads, capable of hitting any point in the world.

The president said he knew of no reason why the Russians should be making statements.

Lost Teacher Found Dead

MARQUETTE (AP)—The body of missing schoolteacher Patricia Burdick was found Wednesday night in a forest near the upper Michigan village of Soudan. State Police said a paroled Michigan convict had admitted the slaying.

Mr. Murray Clark of the Marquette State Police Post and Leonard H. Lundberg, 35, of Marquette, led troopers to the body under a pine tree a few yards off the main highway between Soudan and Grand Marais in Schoolcraft county. Miss Burdick, 27, was a grade school teacher at Grand Marais.

Clark said Lundberg was arrested this morning on a tip from police in nearby Muncie where he worked at a wood products factory. Muncie police said Lundberg failed to show for work the day after Miss Burdick was last seen at home. He was known to have visited relatives in Muncie on Sunday.

A Job for Next Year's Senior Class Officers

After two years' work it looks like next year's seniors will be able to take a Great Issues course.

They will, that is, if they want the course badly enough to take the one final step necessary to make it available.

The ground work is finished. The course outlines are on paper and in the hands of the persons involved. The only thing that remains to be done is to present the outlines to the faculty committee which rules on curricula.

Elections are coming up for next year's senior officers in a very short time. It is, of course, impossible to tell at this time whom these officers will be.

The State News would like to make a recommendation to them, however.

To discharge their obligation to all the people in the two previous classes and to the faculty personnel who have contributed so much to developing this course from a rough idea to a semi-finished product, the first action they should undertake is the completion of the work.

The first appointment should be a chairman of a committee to complete the action on Great Issues. It must be done at once if the course is to be ready in the fall.

The course as it stands would consist of a three term, three credits per term presentation of the major problems of the day. Seniors could take one or more terms and the course would be an elective.

Tentative plans call for the format to be one lecture section and two discussion sections a week. The discussion sessions would be limited in size, and enough sections would be available to handle all who wish to sign up.

A list of required readings would be drawn from significant books dealing with such subjects as "Mass Education," "Human Relations and Population Pressures" and "International Competition and Cooperation."

One week would be devoted to each of several sub-topics under these major headings.

It is assumed that the course would deal primarily with presentation of background material as related to current happenings in the various fields.

A grading system slightly different from the standard has been proposed for the course.

If passed, this would allow only one of three grades, "A," "C" or "F" to represent superior, satisfactory or unsatisfactory work.

This should insure that the course could not be used for "padding" point averages.

There has been only one goal in the minds of the people who have worked on this course, and it seems to be a very sound one.

The course would turn out better informed citizens and alumni more capable of dealing with the problems they have to face once they leave the relative shelter of the university.

The Old 'Warhorse' May Still Gallop

Except for an occasional routine blast against the Republicans and the publication of his memoirs, ex-president Harry Truman has remained in the political back-ground since leaving the White House in 1952.

In recent weeks, however, the Missouri Democrat has been entering the picture more and more. With his party's presidential nomination still anyone's choice, Truman's entrance may be well-timed.

Still a power in the Democratic national organization, Truman may be making a pitch as a possible "dark" dark horse candidate.

Many people would laugh at this possibility. But Republicans didn't laugh last week when he attacked the present administration in an address before partisans at an Iowa Jackson Day dinner.

The chairman of the Iowa Republican Party, Don Pierson, was quick to react to the speech while comment also came from James Hagererty, President Eisenhower's press secretary.

Republicans evidently realize the ex-president is not to be taken lightly.

In his Iowa speech, Truman demonstrated that he can still fire up the Democrats—something other Democratic hopefuls haven't been doing with any notable success.

Truman has disclaimed any further presidential aspirations. Not long ago he predicted New York Governor Averell Harriman and Tennessee Senator Estes Kefauver will comprise the Democratic ticket next November.

Recent events may change this prediction. Kefauver took a bad beating in New Jersey's primary last week while Adlai Stevenson, the other main hopeful, was badly beaten by Kefauver in Minnesota several weeks ago.

Neither may be acceptable to convention delegates this summer and Harriman—the quiet man—doesn't seem to have much support.

If none of the "Big Three" can satisfy the party, the Democrats would lack a really strong candidate—except for Truman.

Now 71, the ex-president said Monday he isn't considering another possible stay at the White House because of his age.

But despite claims he is giving the nomination absolutely no consideration, it wouldn't be surprising to see the old "warhorse" take it if the opportunity should present itself.

The American College Student

What Are Some of His Attitudes, Goals, Values?

Survey Finds He Has High Ideals

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Carnegie Corp. recently financed a study of college students' attitudes toward education, politics, religion, choice of occupation, ethics, courtship and marriage. The following article is the first of two describing results of the study.

The college student has been studied as a virtual guinea pig in a wide variety of tests and surveys. Only recently, however, has he been studied as himself.

Four Cornell University sociologists looked at the student as a total human being having his own problems, ideas, hopes and beliefs.

For six years, with a series of grants from Carnegie Corporation, they wrestled with the measurement of the American college population's attitudes, goals and values.

More than 7,000 students on 12 widely-scattered campuses were questioned on their attitudes toward education, politics, religion, choice of occupation, ethics and courtship and marriage.

The findings, to be published soon, gain significance when looked at in the light of the frequent charges against our college students—that they are disoriented, confused, skeptical or nihilistic with regard to fundamental human values and democratic principles.

How do these charges stand up?

The results give little support to those alarmists who assert that the younger generation is taking a rapid departure from the standards of its fathers.

Take the question of occupational choice. In the so-called age of materialism, most American students are more interested in an occupation that will let them use their talents than in money, status or prestige.

They seem to be more interested in the gratifications to be derived from personal relationships. Many choose a particular occupation because "it will give me a chance to help people" or "I like people."

How do students feel about education, that world in which they are living four important years of their lives?

To most students the main purpose of college is education, which is not as obvious as it sounds, for almost one-sixth of the students think the main importance of the college lies in teaching them how to use their "personalities" to achieve success in working world people.

As might be expected, this attitude is found most widely among the poorest students; almost none of the best accepts it.

One-third consider vocational training the main goal, and an equal number believe a basic general education is most important.

Freshmen and sophomores are more vocation-oriented, while juniors and seniors believe more strongly in the value of a general education.

Almost all the students agree that having the opportunity to go to college is very important to them.

As to how the colleges themselves are performing, four-fifths believe that, on the whole, they are doing a good job.

It often is claimed that a great deal of classroom work is impractical and time-wasting. Yet three-fourths of the students say that most of what they are learning in college is worth-while.

Although the general attitudes toward the colleges are favorable, more than half the students believe that the charges of "production-line" teaching methods launched against American colleges are justified—a resounding indictment of the current direction of contemporary higher education.

Have our college youth abandoned religious traditions and values?

The study finds that this is decidedly not the case. On the contrary, the majority of students (80 per cent of the sample) say that they feel the need for a religious faith and philosophy. The majority believe in some concept of God. Only one per cent declare that they are atheists.

The tendency on the campus is not away from religion but toward, perhaps, a view of God and religion that is relativistic rather than absolute, personal rather than dogmatic.

Those who believe equivocally in the existence of the Deity are about equally divided among those who view Him as "a Divine God, Creator of the Universe," and those who see Him as "a power greater than myself whom some people call God and some Nature."

In the same way, although the students are in substantial agreement that a religious system must be "based on God as the Supreme Being," they consider it equally essential for religion to provide a focus for personal adjustment and development.

Urges UN Take Over All Foreign Aid

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

This is a moment in world history where a concrete display of American altruism might go far toward creating a situation which democracy would have, a better chance to expand, and communism a lesser one.

There is one way in which such a display might be attempted toward which Congress and successive administrations have been cold. That would be to turn over much or all of foreign economic aid to the U.N.

President Eisenhower barely touched on it at his news conference Wednesday. He said he favors having the United Nations take a more active interest in the handling of foreign aid.

He didn't spell it out. An active interest might consist of a contribution of advice from U.N. agencies already at work in the field. It might result from larger participation by the United States in the work these agencies are doing.

The United Nations has a small program almost parallel to the American economic aid program. The U.N. activity is largely financed by the United States.

But the United States, by will of Congress, wants to keep strings on its major expenditures in this field. It has used the foreign aid program to enforce observance of its other policies by foreign recipients.

For that reason, some countries like India have accepted help only with reluctance. They don't like the attitude of "See, it pays to line up with America." It runs against their pride and their philosophies. They react the same way Americans would if some giant business founded a university purely for the purpose of turning out only capitalist-minded graduates.

There is also a sneaking suspicion that the foreign aid program, especially if it develops the long-range aspects now proposed, will not be a complete success until it looks less like pure self-interest.

Secretary Dulles addressed himself to a connected idea when he suggested the European satellites might begin the road back to self-determination by sticking to Titoistic communism while weakening their connection with international communism directed from Moscow.

Vast areas of the world are going through a revolution, intent primarily on independence. They are willing to take chances with international communism's help against the already experienced effects of Western colonialism.

America's alliance with Western colonial powers make her suspect among submerged peoples. There is fear of penetration by and eventual dependence on an incredibly powerful economic force.

When the President's study group is formed it is going to have to consider very carefully whether a large part or even all foreign economic aid might produce better results if divorced from military aid and turned over to the U.N.

Letters to the Editor

'Ours Is Civil Rights Party'--GOP Club

To the Editor:

There has been a great deal of talk of late concerning civil rights and segregation vs. integration. Much of this talk has emanated from the political party which nominated "white supremacy" John Sparkman for the vice-presidency of the United States.

The Democratic party mouths flowery phrases in Michigan concerning the Negro citizen, and elects as its senate president pro tem the chief draftsman of the infamous Southern Manifesto, Walter George of Georgia.

Senator Kefauver says he is for integration and furtherance of civil rights, however, it is most unfortunate for the senator from Tennessee that his congressional voting record does not show this.

Kefauver in his 17 years in Congress has consistently opposed the morally just legislation designed to protect American civil rights.

The Democratic controlled Congress sports as its committee chairman such notorious bigots as Sen. Byrd (Virginia) Finance; Sen. Johnston (South Carolina) Post Office and Civil Service; Sen. Eastland (Mississippi) Judiciary; Sen. Hill (Alabama) Labor and Public Welfare; Sen. Ellender (Louisiana) Agriculture, just to name a fraction.

While the Democratic party has vacillated on civil rights trying to appease both wings of its hopelessly split party, the Republican party has moved forward with responsible leadership on this question of basic American law.

Even though Mr. Paul Butler, the Democratic National Chairman, would like us to forget the fact, it nevertheless is a real fact that the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Earl Warren, still stands as a great leader of the Republican party and many members of the GOP look to him for leadership.

President Eisenhower has said, "There must be no second-class citizens in this country." Adam Clayton Powell, a Negro congressman from New York, tells how "President Eisenhower, without political trumphet, has quietly started a revolution which, I firmly believe, means an era of greater promise for Negro citizens."

While State News Editor Art Underwood decries passive resistance in the Montgomery boycott as an "extreme move" the MSU Young Republican Club intends to act on this most vital of all election issues.

On May 8, Harry Little (R-Lansing), sponsor of many civil rights measures in the Michigan senate and for whom the NAACP is staging a testimonial dinner, will speak before our club on the State of Civil Rights in Michigan.

It is a shame that good folks are intimidated by the editorial (April 24) of the MSU Young Republican Club. The people who now serve in the services for the commonwealth are the same people who asked why the great troops were used.

Underwood would urge moderation towards bank robbers. It is a good thing he said he was "against segregation." He could never tell it by reading the editorial.

The Republican party still remains uncommittally as the party of civil rights!

Marines

To the Editor:

On your comment to Edward Jenkins, Ed USMC, (State News, April 23) that Mayor Hubbard was once a Marine officer, Mayor Hubbard was a peacetime officer. All that can be said for him is that he must have had some good N.C.D.s to take care of him. Either that or he has taken leave of his senses since then.

As for the other letter, I was tempted to let it pass without comment as a piece of senseless trash, but when he says that basic is tougher than combat!

I saw no actual combat and was only shot at once but I would rather go through basic 6 or 7 times than be shot at once. When I think of the men who went to Korea at the beginning of the "police action" I feel that the people who now serve in the services for the commonwealth are the same people who asked why the great troops were used.

Ray Bartlett, Highland Park sophomore, Paul Roney, Mason junior, and Bill Davis, Haslett senior practice for the French play scheduled for the Music Aud tonight at 8.

Students to Stage French Comedy In Aud-Tonight

French vaudeville will be revived on the stage of the Music Aud tonight at 8. Madame Marguerite Miller, of the foreign language department, will present "La Comedie de Victorine."

The Lachiche comedy is an annual project of Mme. Miller's first year French conversation class, planned and performed entirely by students.

The plot centers around the escapades of Monsieur Poparal played by Paul Roney, Mason junior. He is interested in renting the apartment of Madame Clara, played by Suzanne Rees, Greenville junior.

Another prominent figure in the intrigue is Baudes de Lastingny, played by William Davis, Haslett senior.

Army Contract Lawyer Sent Senate Subpoena

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators investigating Army contracts Wednesday issued a subpoena for lawyer Murray Chotiner to appear for questioning next Wednesday.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) of the Senate Investigations subcommittee signed the subpoena after Samuel Kravitz and his son, Herman, Atlantic City clothing manufacturers, had invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to discuss their hiring of Chotiner as a lawyer for Herman Kravitz in 1953.

Chotiner, who was Vice President Nixon's 1952 national campaign manager, was retained by the Kravitzes at a time when Herman Kravitz was facing federal charges of misappropriating government funds.

Robert F. Kennedy, the subcommittee's chief counsel, told reporters he was sending the subpoena to the U. S. marshal at Los Angeles by air mail to be served on Chotiner.

The Kravitzes also invoked the Fifth Amendment when asked whether they had made "payoffs" to government officials in connection with military uniform contracts their company received in the early 1950s.

The subcommittee had told Chotiner he would be subpoenaed if he didn't appear willingly.

In Los Angeles, Chotiner said he had informed McClellan last night that the press of legal business requires his attention in California through May 2.

Chotiner said he also was Southern California campaign manager for Sen. William Knowland in 1952. However, Knowland's office said Chotiner had worked in, but had not directed, the senator's Southern California headquarters in those campaigns.

Aid Bill Approved For Expansion of Great Lakes Fleet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation to grant government help to expand and modernize the Great Lakes fleet was approved today by the Senate Commerce committee.

Eisenhower administration spokesmen had opposed the bill, introduced by Sen. Potter (R-Mich.) and others. The spokesmen claimed the measure would give Lake operators an unjustified subsidy.

A committee aide told a reporter the vote on the bill was unanimous and that the bill was not changed in any way.

Under the measure, owners of Great Lakes vessels would receive trade-in allowances from the government to help them build new vessels, including ore carriers.

Similar legislation is pending before the House Merchant Marine committee.

The building of the U. S. aircraft carrier Saratoga requires four miles of blueprints a day for 20 months.

No License Flunking Exam Causes Trouble For Others Too

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Wait Sanders, 25, en route to court to answer a charge of driving without a license, had a minor traffic collision Wednesday. But that was only a small part of his troubles.

In court, Magistrate Charles Eden freed Sanders $100 for driving without a license.

Sanders also was charged with the same offense for driving to the court again without a license. He was released on $100 bond pending a hearing.

Before Sanders left the court, Magistrate Eden told him he had received information from the secretary of state explaining why Sanders had no license. He had failed his driver's test March 16, the day before he was arrested for driving without a license.

Before Sanders was arrested, he was caught up and the new traffic laws were explained. Sanders was being asked to direct the court and staff members in the correct traffic changes.

A briefing of International Truck events was given, and the Health Insurance plan and new judicial set-up were discussed.

Plans are being formulated which would make provisions allowing the student judiciary to function in cases resulting from violation of the smoking ordinance.

LOST HAIR

THURSON, Ark. (AP) — Officers began to speculate, but not say seriously, that the Indians were back on the campus when what appeared to be a skull was found on the desert. It turned out to be a toupee.

Undersheriff Weldon Burr said, yes, the hair was human.

But the glue holding it on wasn't.

Army Plans to Scrap Overseas Warehouses

RENNERBERG, Germany (AP) — U. S. Army spokesmen Wednesday said the Army plans to scrap most overseas warehouses as "potential atom bomb targets" and supply itself by air and ship from the United States.

2 Justices Named To Traffic Court For Spring Term

Two students have been appointed by Tom King, dean of the law school, to the Traffic Appeals Court spring term. One is Lawrence J. "Sammy" sophomore, and the other is Kalamazoo sophomore.

These vacancies were filled by James Marvin Cherrin, who was appointed winter term, and Joe J. who resigned.

There will be two justice vacancies the end of spring term. One is permanent, the second includes summer and fall terms.

Selection for justiceships may be obtained in the student government office through Friday.

in this field and he certainly would be willing to do it. But he said he wanted to point out that there is a very, very long distance between a laboratory capacity or capability of doing something and making a really efficient, effective instrument of war.

A reporter remarked that some Democrats think this country is not putting maximum effort into a long-range guided missile. Eisenhower insisted when he said he was sorry that the reporter had said Democrats.

There are lots of people saying we are not the President continued. But there are only so many scientists, there are only so many facilities, and you get to a point where mere expenditures of money in a field like this does not count. And my own conviction, supported by that of many, many experts, is that in this field we are somewhere certainly around the limit.

As for stopping H-bomb tests as suggested by Stevenson in a speech here Saturday, Eisenhower commented:

"It is a little bit of a paradox to urge that we work just as hard as we know how on the guided missile and that we stop all research on the hydrogen bomb, because one without the other is rather useless."

Eisenhower came nearest to agreeing with Stevenson on the question of foreign aid. Stevenson has recommended a "basic revision of our method of giving aid, so as to make greater use of the United Nations." When asked about distributing U. S. aid abroad through the U. N., the President replied that he would be in favor of seeing the United Nations take a more active interest in this business. He also made it plain he would like to see other nations come in on a money-contributing basis.

U. S. Approves Atoms-for-Peace Code

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A worldwide atomic code to breathe life into President Eisenhower's atoms-for-peace plan was made public Wednesday. The United States is working for full approval of the program at a huge conference to be convened here around Sept. 24.

President Eisenhower broached the idea of using atoms for peaceful purposes in his speech to the UN Assembly on Dec. 8, 1953. He is expected here to make the opening address at the world conference next fall. The Americans hope the code will be signed at the end of that conference and will be in operation in 1957.

The United States, Russia and 10 other countries approved the program last Wednesday after weeks of secret negotiations. It would create an international atomic energy agency to see that peaceful nations around the globe share benefits of the atomic age.

It contains provisions barring war-like use of atomic material pooled with the agency and creates an inspection system to make this certain.

Despite the unusual agreement among the 12 countries on the broad outlines of the code, a fight looms in the conference next fall on Red China.

The U.S. chief delegate, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., Wednesday urged the UN Economic and Social Council to begin immediately a program of studies on economic aspects of atomic energy development.

He said there should be one place where pioneer economic thinking is centered.

Lodge is backing a resolution calling for Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld to prepare reports on the use of atomic energy in economic development. Other sponsors are Brazil, Canada, France, and Britain.

The proposed agency will be tied to the UN in about the same way as a specialized agency. It will run its own affairs but will make reports to the UN General Assembly, the Economic and Social Council, and, "when appropriate" to the Security Council.

It will not be governed by the veto right of the big powers in the Security Council.

The agency would have the power to suspend any country not carrying out the provisions of the statute. There is no provision for expelling any country but James J. Wadsworth, U.S. delegate, said an indefinite suspension might have the same effect.

The first Irish immigrants arrived in what is now the United States in 1621, says the National Geographic Society.

Adlai Raps Segregation Stand

NEW YORK (AP)—Adlai Stevenson Wednesday night accused the Eisenhower administration of refusal to meet the crisis over racial segregation.

"As president, if that were my privilege," Stevenson said, "I would work ceaselessly and with a sense of crucial urgency—with public officials, private groups, and educators—to meet this challenge in our life as a nation and this threat to our national reputation."

"I would act in the knowledge that law and order is the executive's responsibility."

The Democratic presidential aspirant, carrying his campaign for nomination into pivotal New York, said of the Supreme Court decision outlawing segregation:

"The present administration

... has contributed nothing to the creation of an atmosphere in which this decision could be carried out in tranquility and order."

"The presidency is above all a place of moral leadership. Yet in these months of crucial importance no leadership has been provided."

As he has before, Stevenson said in his speech that "to play politics with the court's decision and the basic rights of citizens and human beings is wicked."

His address to a $100-a-plate Democratic dinner seemed to be the strongest he has yet made on segregation.

Pa. Primary Results Please 3 Candidates

President Eisenhower, Adlai E. Stevenson and Sen. Kefauver all said Wednesday they were gratified at the results in the Pennsylvania primary election.

Eisenhower ran well ahead of Democrat Stevenson in the "popularity contest" in Pennsylvania Tuesday, and the President was asked at his news conference in Washington for comment.

He replied, "I am still astonished anytime anybody votes for me—and very grateful."

Eisenhower also said he has not had a final word from Vice President Nixon as to whether Nixon wants to run again.

Stevenson and Kefauver, who are both trying for the Democratic nomination to oppose Eisenhower in the November general election, made their comments in New York.

Stevenson said he had been informed he received 96 per cent of the Democratic vote in the Pennsylvania primary and was "grateful to the voters."

Kefauver said he "didn't make any effort whatever in that state" and was highly pleased at the number of write-in votes he received.

McCormack, Ike Lead In Mass. Primary

MASSACHUSETTS (AP)—Massachusetts and Alaska also held primaries Tuesday.

In Massachusetts, Rep. John W. McCormack, a favorite son candidate for the Democratic nomination, held a considerable lead over Stevenson on the strength of a wide margin in Boston.

Kefauver had asked his supporters to back McCormack's candidacy.

It was no contest for Eisenhower, who polled 49,143 votes on the Republican side of the primary.

The returns were unexpectedly slow from Alaska.

Sixty-five precincts of 279 showed Stevenson and Eisenhower leading their party polls.

Former Ag Secretary Hits GOP 'Isolationism'

ANDERSON (AP)—Two of the Republican party's principal 1956 campaign themes—peace and prosperity—were claimed for the Democrats Wednesday night by former Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard.

Wickard, Democratic candidate for U. S. senator from Indiana, discussed the two world wars in a speech at a Madison County Jefferson-Jackson Day rally and said:

"The truth is," he said, "that Republicans have been so isolationist as to tempt the international outlaws to start on their raids of our nations."

Wickard credited the Truman administration with stopping Communism in Korea and winning "the respect of small nations everywhere." Under the Eisenhower administration, he said, "we have lost friends and respect in Asia, in the Middle East and in Europe."

He said most of the increase in wages under the Eisenhower administration has been "swallowed up" by higher living costs and that lower farm income has hurt business in rural towns and small cities.

Wickard said the Eisenhower prosperity is built on the same "trickle down" theory as the prosperity of the 1920's which preceded the depression of the 1930's, with "big business" propping the most.

"With the deepest sincerity and humility, I submit that the Democratic party on its record is the party of peace and prosperity," Wickard said.

At the same rally a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor accused the Craig administration of "defying the law of Indiana" by using Kentucky rock asphalt to apply an anti-skid surface to state highways.

"S. Hugh Dillin, Petersburg lawyer and former minority leader of the State House of Representatives, pointed to the 1955 law forbidding use of the material for either construction or surfacing of highways."

He claimed a better and cheaper "deslicking" material for highways could be made from Indiana limestone and residual asphalt from Indiana oil refineries.

Convo to Hit Metropolitan Problems

Rockefeller, Daley To Speak Sunday

More than 200 representatives of business, labor, universities, research agencies, professional and civic groups, and federal, state and local governments are scheduled to arrive at Kellogg Center late Sunday for the start of the four-day National Conference on Metropolitan Problems.

The group is meeting to discuss the various problems confronting metropolitan areas. Such items as rapid growth of communities, migration of people and business in and out of cities, and the deterioration of older neighborhoods will be analyzed.

Difficulties involving transportation, water, sewers, housing, public health, schools and other facilities will also be discussed.

It is hoped that the group will be able to develop methods for quick action in solving many problems affecting metropolitan areas.

There will be major sessions involving all participants in the conference and also small group meetings on specific matters.

Speaking at the inaugural luncheon Sunday evening will be Nelson A. Rockefeller, chairman of the board of Government Affairs Foundation, Inc., one of the sponsors of the conference; Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago and Pres. John A. Hannah.

Monday evening's session will be headed by Gov. G. Mennen Williams, Frank N. Benn, executive director, Council of State Governments, Chicago, will preside at Tuesday's meeting.

The final session Wednesday evening will be presided over by Harold S. Sheffelman, Seattle, delegate to the house of delegates municipal law section.

A featured speaker on Tuesday night's program will be Gen. Christian Herter of Massachusetts. Attendance to all sessions is by invitation only.

Soviet-British Conference Ends On Note of Gloom

LONDON (AP) — Soviet and British leaders ended their London talks in a somber mood Wednesday night. But there were indications both sides will hail the conference as a limited success toward easing world tension.

Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Soviet Foreign Minister Nikita Khrushchev left London after a final meeting. Khrushchev, standing behind them, was smiling. His deputy, Andrei Gromyko, was looking tired.

A British communiqué rang the curtain on further bargaining. It said the Anglo-Soviet discussions were completed. The results will be announced after the return of Soviet leaders from the visit.

Arms Control Discussed By Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles said Wednesday night "the time must come" when the rulers of Russia will be prepared to subject "the new power of modern weapons" to the common will of the world community of nations.

"It may seem that this prospect is remote," Dulles told the American Society of International Law, "but when we consider the many startling changes which from time to time have occurred within the Soviet Union we need not regard this particular prospect as wholly visionary."

Dulles discussed the problem of arms control in a general analysis of the problem of "the institutionalizing of peace."

He said there is a growing recognition "that destructive power such as that now represented by atomic and nuclear weapons is so great a power that it is clothed with a public and community interest."

"Such power," he said, "ought never to be the tool of any single nation to promote its national objectives or to permit it to defy community law and order."

"Unless that concept is accepted, it is impossible for peace ever to become a stable and dependable institution."

Dulles said the United States has already declared its purpose of never using atomic and hydrogen weapons "except in the defense of principles which the whole world accepts" — principles he said which were laid down in the United Nations Charter.

CRUCIAL EXPENSE
BROCKTON, Mass. (AP) — A 65-year-old man appearing before District Court Judge Anthony Kupka wanted to go to the Bridgewater State Farm for an alcoholism cure. The $100 way — or not at all. He told Judge Kupka he paid a $100 taxi fare to travel from Chicago Falls to Bridgewater, where he was refused admittance to the state farm, a correctional institution.

He appealed to Bridgewater Police Chief Elmer Shaw who locked him up for drunkenness. Judge Kupka agreed he merited a cure and sentenced him to three months at the farm. But the man protested.

"I don't want to go this way," he said — but he did.

13-Year Research

Study Shows Personality May Relate to Growth

A 13-year study at Michigan State University has produced evidence for the first time that personality and emotional problems may be related to body growth.

The lengthy study was made of 22 normal school children in Everett, Mich., by Dr. C. V. Millard, head of MSU's child development laboratory and research professor in educational foundations.

Dr. Millard said his study indicates that the child who grows uniformly in all phases of his development — in height, weight, speech, manual dexterity and mental and academic abilities — shows a better mental adjustment later in life than the child whose growth in these various capacities is uneven.

Except for two cases, the biological background ratings Prof. Millard and his associates calculated for each of the Everett children proved remarkable predictions of what the child's adjustment would be seven years later. Most important was that almost no relationship was found between home environment and the child's emotional and personality adjustment.

Psychologists and educators have been searching for a method of spotting potential delinquents and poor adjustment risks at an early age. Techniques developed during the Everett studies may point the way to reliable methods of detecting these children earlier than is possible using traditional testing devices.

When Millard concludes the Everett study this summer, he will add the records to those already in the child development laboratory.

The laboratory contains the largest collection of child development data ever assembled in one place. It includes comprehensive case studies of Michigan and German school children, and the "Harvard Growth Data" containing complete files on 3,553 children, in some cases covering a span of 17 years of observation.

New Fight Due Over Farm Issue

90 Per Cent Parity Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Conley (D-NC) said Wednesday night House Democrats will launch a new fight in Congress to get farmers the equivalent of 90 per cent of parity for their crops this year.

House Democratic leaders gave approval to proposals for direct payments to farmers — a variation of the "Fair Deal" program of the Truman administration.

President Eisenhower vetoed an omnibus farm bill last week because it provided for rigid government price supports at 90 per cent of parity for major crops. The administration favors a sliding scale running from 75 to 80 per cent.

The new development came as Democrats in the House introduced soil bank proposals and moved toward a new version of farm legislation which would include the administration's soil bank plus direct price support payments to farmers.

Conley, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, told reporters the committee will consider a new bill which would authorize "compensatory payments" in cash to farmers equal to the difference between government support levels and 90 per cent of parity.

This is a variation of the plan proposed by former Democratic Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan. It called for payments equal to the difference between market prices and government support levels for farm commodities.

Conley said he favored a soil bank law, but without the present provision asked by President Eisenhower.

The Democratic leaders made their decision Wednesday night on what form they believe farm legislation should take. Conley said a bill will be introduced Friday. He said he would call the Agriculture Committee together Monday.

Hard on Dad

Tax Deadline Setback Asked By 14-Year-Old

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The 14-year-old daughter of a tax consultant, who says her father is "beat" from overwork, has asked Rep. Reuss (D-Wis.) to try to set back the income tax deadline to March 15.

Karen Weiner wrote the Milwaukee congressman that the deadline extension to April 15 has made things tougher for her father, Albert A. Weiner, a certified public accountant.

On rare occasions during the tax season my dad will come for dinner," the letter added. "Which he does come home. I see a man with bags under his eyes, his face lined with worry and fatigue."

Karen also explained that her mother often returns to the office with her father at night and helps him until midnight. "I'm terribly worried that this sort of schedule is going to ruin his health," the school girl concluded.

OSU Decision Expected Soon

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Kenneth L. "Big" Wilson, Big 10 commissioner, said Wednesday his decision on an investigation of Ohio State University athletics would be announced in Chicago, probably today.

The inquiry into the school's athletic program was touched off when a national magazine reported football coach Woody Hayes had made loans or gifts of money to some of his players.

BAR OF JUSTICE

LOVING, N.M. (AP) — Just about every peace officer in the county was on hand for a hearing on a drunk driving case. An intruder, obviously a bit shaky from drinking, staggered into the courtroom, headed straight for the table where the state's evidence — a case of beer — was sitting. The beer cans toppled off the table when the stranger grabbed for them. The assistant district attorney cried "arrest that man." Someone put him in a chair and he was booked for drunkenness in court.

New York State gained a million people from April 1, 1950 to July 1, 1954, although the gain was only about 1 per cent a year.

Gridders' Practice Hampered by Rain

Spartans Continue Scrimmage In 'Miserable' Spring Weather

By MEL REITER

Unseasonable Spring weather continued to plague the Michigan State football squad as rain and cold combined to hamper Wednesday's practice.

The 13th outing of the Spring proved unlucky to many gridgers as Dr. James Feurip, team physician, reported scores of bruises and cuts, none serious however.

Offensive and defensive groups which split into five different units was preliminary to the scrimmage which had the scouting squad paired against the first team.

The starting team was comprised of Tony Kolodziej and Jim Hinesly, ends; Dan Currie and Cliff LaRose, guards; Pat Burke and Joe Carruthers, tackles; John Matsko, center; Pat Wilson, quarterback; Don Gilbert, fullback; and Clarence Peaks and Walt Kowalezyk, halfbacks.

Regular end Bob Jewett didn't see any action due to an ankle aggravation he suffered Tuesday which will keep him sidelined for another week.

After a rugged workout the first squad was replaced by ends Dave Kasey and Sam Williams; guards Ron Rickens and Les Rutledge; tackles Tom Saidock and Joel Jones; center Don Berger; quarterback Pat Wilson; halfbacks Dennis Mendyk and Don Zysk; and fullback Bob Handloser.

"In all my years of coaching, I've never witnessed such miserable spring weather as this year," remarked Head Coach Duffy Daugherty after Wednesday's practice.

Frank Kush, former All-American guard here at State in '32 and now assistant coach to Dan Devine at Arizona State made an appearance at the practice session.

Women's Tennis Squad Loses, 7-2

Michigan State's women's tennis team was handed a 7-2 defeat by the Hamtramck High school girls' tennis squad, which includes an 11-year-old girl.

The lone singles win tallied by the State coeds was captured by Joyce Pniwski, Hamtramck freshman. Miss Pniwski defeated Phyllis Szaganski, 6-2, 6-1.

After overcoming Virginia Dykes, 8-6, in the first game of a set, Elaine Orr, Monroe freshman, was defeated in the last two games, 6-0, 6-2.

State coed Loris Alto, Monroe freshman, was downed by Virginia Hesse, 6-0, 6-2.

Barbara Proudfoot, Toronto Junior, was beaten by Gwen McEvans, 6-3, 6-1.

Betsy Freeman, Winchester, Mass., junior, lost to Darnella Everson, 6-0, 6-0, and LaVerne Roman, Royal Oak sophomore, was downed by Sharon Hooks, 6-4, 6-2.

State's coed team again scored a single win in doubles matches. Misses Freeman and Roman teamed to defeat Misses Everson and Hooks in three sets, 7-5, 2-6, 6-2.

Misses Pniwski and Proudfoot were edged by Misses Szaganski and Hesse, 6-3, 6-4, and Misses Alto and Orr were defeated by Misses McEvans and Dykes, 6-0, 6-1.

State Nine Faces Big Weekend

By HARDY CHRIST

Only one thing concerns members of the Michigan State baseball team this week as they prepare for a big weekend of baseball, opening the Big 10 season by hosting Ohio State and Indiana.

What bothers the Spartans is the fact that they will meet Ohio State, the current Big 10 champion, in a single game on Friday, and will then play Indiana in a twin-bill on Saturday.

As the Spartans await this three-game series, which could easily tell the tale of the Big 10 race, the attitude of the team is very good.

The Kobsmen are in good shape physically. One casualty, Frank Palamara, who was beaten by a Wayne University hurler last Saturday, was released from Olin Health Center on Tuesday after spending three days there, and should be ready for action on Friday.

The Spartans have been fortunate in the sense that no pulled muscles or sore arms have arisen among the players this season.

"We have been practicing outdoors in this cold weather purposefully," commented head coach John Kobs. "Being outside in the cold hardens the boys to such injuries."

"We've been hitting well so far this season, and if we can keep up the pace, we will be strong contenders in the Big 10 race," added Kobs.

Centerfielder Ray Collard, catcher Al Luce, and rightfielder Frank Franchi have been providing much of State's offensive power, having batting averages of .421, .378 and .364 respectively.

Heavy hitting has also come from the bats of leftfielder Jimmy Sack and shortstop Earl Morrill, whose averages are .333 and .329, respectively.

First baseman Roscoe Davis is hitting at a .310 clip, and second sacker Palamara is just under him with a .308 mark.

Third baseman Bob Bird's .194 average is the lowest among the regulars and the only one under .300. Bird, however, started slowly on the southern trip, and his two home runs against Wayne last weekend pushed his average in the right direction.

Luce is the runs-batted-in leader with 13, and Collard leads the team in total bases with 30.

Among the pitchers, Walt Godfrey has won three games against no losses, and his .043 earned run average is the best on the squad.

Bill Mills possesses a 1-0 mark, and Jon Davis and Ron Perranoski have each won one and lost one.

Ohio State will bring 10 lettermen with them to East Lansing. Among them is All-American football player Howard "Hopalong" Cassidy, who plays centerfield. Cassidy is one of their most reliable players, and has been a regular since his sophomore year.

Indiana, which finished in a tie for last place in the Big 10 standings a year ago, lost only five men from that squad, and have 14 let-

THE Big 10 baseball title may be decided on Old College Field this weekend.

Ohio State, and the Spartans are both considered possibilities for the title and a win would give either team a good advantage.

Two years ago the Big 10 title was decided on Old College Field when the Bucks and MSU met in a double header.

Michigan State copped the first game 6-4 and then took the title when they won the nightcap 6-5.

Howard "Hopalong" Cassidy, the All-American halfback, played shortstop for Ohio State in both games and partially contributed to both State wins.

In the first game the Buckeye committed four errors, while he was even more explosive in the second tilt.

In the early innings of the second game Cassidy was doubled off first base on a throw from third baseman Jim Sack after a Buckeye pop fly.

Chuck Mathews, Michigan State's first baseman, claimed Cassidy spiked him and a fight ensued. The battle continued until the umpires had to break it up.

Mathews was struck on the head and was forced to leave the game. Coach John Kobs sent Jim Williams in as his replacement.

Williams then proceeded to belt two home runs to enable State to stay in the game.

The two wins enabled State to win the title, only a half game ahead of Wisconsin.

Ironically the winning pitcher in the second game, Bill Mansfield, now the president of the student government, beat his father out of the title.

Bill's father is the baseball coach at the University of Wisconsin.

The only players on this year's team that saw action in the series are Sack, Ray Collard, John Polomsky, Capt. Hobough and Walt Godfrey.

Ohio State gained some satisfaction last year when the beat State 5-1 to take the Big 10 title.

TWO sports errors are located in the Union that very few people realize.

The first one is located on the Chester L. Brewer Award in the concourse.

On the plate for Johnny Matsock, last year's recipient, State is listed with having won the Big 10 baseball title in 1955. Actually the date should read 1951.

The other error is located on the murals in the Grand One scene shows students standing in front of a railroad coach after a football win.

The score listed on the car is 13-7. The actual score should be 12-7.

The scene occurred in 1913 when the Spartans went undefeated. The students are on their way home from Madison, Wisconsin where Michigan State had just beaten the Buckeyes, 12-7.

'500' Race Drivers Eager Despite Risk

Safer Track Counteracted By Dangerously High Speeds

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Twenty-nine of the 110 drivers who have started in Indianapolis 500-mile auto races since World War II have died in action—mostly on other tracks—but a dozen young men can't wait to start rookies' tests when the Speedway opens Saturday.

The first session of practice runs and drivers' tests will try out a new, presumably safer asphalt surface on all but the traditional brick stretch of the main straight-away.

Although it's presumed to be safer because there will be less variation in handling on the four turns, the 47-year-old track also will be faster.

Drivers undoubtedly will speed up enough to continue nudging disaster. It's their nature, especially in tuning up for a race that will pay out a quarter-million dollars in prizes May 30. The 30 entries will be whittled to 33 starters in time trials May 19, 20, 26 and 27.

Bill Vukovich of Fresno, Calif., was killed in last year's 500 while trying for an unprecedented third straight victory. Jack McGrath, who set a new qualifying record of 142.58 miles an hour, died later in a race at Phoenix, Ariz.

Walt Faulkner, who finished fourth, was killed last Sunday in a stock car race at Vallejo, Calif.

Jerry Host, whose car was the third out of the race, was killed later in an Oklahoma City race.

Before the field was completed for last year's Indianapolis classic, racing wrecks killed entrants Mike Nazaruk and Larry Crockett at Langhorne, Pa.

Senators Beat Red Sox, 4-1, As Ramos Pitches 3-Hitter

Porterfield Routed By Former Mates

BOSTON (AP) — Pedro Ramos, mixing a sweeping curve with his fastball, doused the spitting Red Sox with a fine three-hitter Wednesday as he pitched the Washington Senators to a 4-1 victory over Boston.

An old Boston nemesis in Fenway Park—Roy Sievers—tagged his first home run of the campaign and scored on a wild pitch after walking. But it was Ramos, possessing little more than speed last year, who showed the way. The 26-year-old right-hander who had a 3.88 earned run average with the Senators last season, outpitched veteran Bob Porterfield, who didn't have it against his former teammates.

Pesky Pedro racked up eight strikeouts. The performance spelled the fourth straight loss for the Sox who opened the campaign with three straight triumphs.

Jackie Jensen hit his first home run of the year in the sixth.

Ramos got Ted Williams for the final out of the game on a ground smash just to the right of second base.

Williams went up as a pinch-hitter. He hasn't played regularly since the second game of the campaign due to a sore right foot.

Also Cut of Profits

Matchmaker Claims IBC Wanted Payoff

NEW YORK (AP) — A Cincinnati matchmaker testified Wednesday he had been told he would have had to pay Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, a sum of $150,000 if he wanted to promote a heavyweight title match between Ezzard Charles and Jersey Joe Walcott in Ohio in 1949.

Sam Becker, Cincinnati promoter and clothing manufacturer, also said he had to agree to give the IBC 25 per cent of the profits to stage a heavyweight title between Charles, then champion, and Nick Barone at Cincinnati, Dec. 5, 1950.

Becker was a prosecution witness in the government's antitrust suit against the IBC, its affiliates and officers on charges of monopolizing the promotion of professional boxing.

The witness said he went to Miami Beach, Fla., in April 1949 to discuss a Charles-Walcott match with Norris and his partner, Arthur Wirtz.

"Mr. Norris told me 'If you want to promote the Charles-Walcott fight you have to give me $150,000,'" said Becker. "I told Norris I had promoted Charles since he was 14 years old and I told me he owned Charles and Walcott and that he had just paid $150,000 to Joe Louis, who had retired, and had to get the money back."

"I didn't have that kind of money so I didn't get the fight," Becker said he was referred to discussing the Charles-Barone negotiations, Becker testified he talked to Harry Markson, IBC boxing director, and Sol Strauss, IBC lawyer.

"They told me if I wanted to use Charles and Barone the only way I could get the fight was to pay them 25 per cent of the profits," he said. "They told me, take it or leave it. I had to take it."

Becker said he was referred to

Tigers End Successful Road Trip

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers returned home today from a successful but short road trip, hoping to scout into the first division over the weekend at the expense of the slow-starting Cleveland Indians.

The Tigers arrived home today from Kansas City and had an off-day Thursday before a three-game set opening Friday at Briggs Stadium with the Indians.

Manager Bucky Harris will send Ned Garver, Frank Lary and Billy Hoelt into the weekend frame against the Indians, who had a 2-4 record going into tonight's game at Kansas City.

On their first road trip of the young season, the Tigers won three and dropped two. They split even in four games with Cleveland and won a single contest from Kansas City, to bring their record to 3-4.

A noon workout was down for today and Harris was expected to go along with the same lineup for Friday afternoon's opener, with Charley Maxwell getting the nod in left field. Maxwell is hanging away at a .467 clip, with seven hits in 15 tries.

Trade talks between the Tigers and the A's came to a standstill and the Detroit front office said there is only a scant possibility of a deal.

"Everyone wants the players we couldn't afford to give them," said Harris. "They want our front line—and we need them."

Although there were long huddles during the stay in Kansas City, the Detroit manager had said earlier that he doubted if any deals would be made.

Joseph Wins Split Verdict

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Charley Joseph of New Orleans took a long stride up the middleweight ladder Wednesday night with a 10-round split decision over slugger Milo Savage of Salt Lake City.

The victory was the most important for the 23-year-old Joseph in his 35 professional fights. It was his 32nd victory against only one loss and two draws.

Joseph, ranked ninth among middleweight contenders, piled up a heavy margin in the early rounds on nifty boxing tactics and repeatedly evaded Savage's vicious rights.

'Mural Highlights

All softball games cancelled Wednesday evening and not scheduled to be made up tonight will be replayed Friday evening at 5:30. The complete replay schedule will appear in Friday's State News.

Fain Rhubarb Causes New Ejection Ruling

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pacific Coast League President Leslie O'Connor put new teeth in his speedup program Wednesday by directing that any batter who beefs more than 30 seconds over a called strike shall be put out of the game.

Even without that time limit, he is to be ejected and may be fined if he insults the umpire.

O'Connor made his ruling in an open letter to Umpire Pat Orr. It was in reply to Orr's report that Sacramento first baseman Ferris Fain "put on quite a show" over a called strike in the seventh inning of the Hollywood-Sacramento game last Thursday.

Orr said he "leaned over backwards" to avoid ejection.

O'Connor praised Orr for having controlled his temper, but said umpires must do their duty regardless of the skill of a player.

"Manager Heath is commended for his action in this episode, and player Fain will be fined," O'Connor concluded.

College Life Brightened By Traditional Habits

By ALBERTA BANKY

State News Women's Editor

In the unwritten by-laws of every campus, there are solemn and gay traditions included. Some of these customs are widely known, while others significant to only a particular campus.

Gales of laughter followed by piercing shrieks indicate the traditional dunking of a pinned or engaged girl. Even though the members of the gentle sex pretend to dislike this act, a punning or engagement isn't complete until the coed is properly dunked in ice cold water.

By the way, and you know that a girl can't officially be called a coed until she has been kissed under Beaumont Tower as the clock is chiming 12 midnight?

If you've been resting your weary bones on the stone bench by Beaumont Tower and you aren't engaged, better change resting places. This bench is reserved for the comforts of engaged persons and others are requested to sit elsewhere.

As you reach your senior year, many old and cherished customs are opened to you. Perhaps the most unpleasant traditions connected with senior year is the unexpected swim in the Red Cedar.

But seniors really are the fortunate persons on campus. They don't have to take finals during spring term, that is, if they graduate in June.

They are also allowed to carve their initials on a table top in Old College Hall. After this task is completed, the table top is hung on one of the walls in Old College Hall. And remember, underclassmen, only the elite (seniors) are allowed through the portals of Old College Hall.

However, you may be admitted to the senior's haven if you are attending a fresh-soph or junior coffee hour. Another way to be-pass the tradition is to be accompanied by a senior.

Whether you are a senior or freshman coed, and even if you're struggling to balance a cup of coffee and an armful of books in the Union Grill, don't stop at the round booth. That is reserved for the men!

The Red Cedar has proved to be very handy in punishing people who break the traditional customs. The underclassmen are inviting themselves for a dip if they are seen wearing a high school letter sweater. They may have been the height of fashion at high school, but not so at MSU. So you'd better put it in mothballs or practice swimming.

Living Costs Rise Slightly During March

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's living costs rose slightly in March and officials said a further gradual increase can be expected in the months ahead.

The Labor Department reported Wednesday its living cost index rose one-tenth of 1 per cent between Feb. 15 and March 15.

H. E. Riley, chief of the department's price and living cost division, said food prices began to rise in March after a five-month decline and probably will continue to increase seasonally in the spring and summer.

Riley said the increases are likely to be "modest."

The Labor Department also reported that factory workers' take-home pay was at a record level for March. It averaged $72.10 a week for the factory worker with three dependents, and $64.77 for the single worker. This was about 33 cents over February and about $2.70 or 4 per cent above March, 1955.

The department said that because wages have risen while prices have remained relatively steady, the purchasing power of pay dollars has increased by almost 4 per cent from March last year.

Fall L-C Series to Open With Danish Ballet

The Royal Danish Ballet will open the 1956-57 Lecture-Concert Series Oct. 10, according to Dean Stanley E. Crowe, series director.

In addition to the dance group from Denmark, 10 other numbers, ranging from choruses to symphony orchestras to soloists, will be featured in the series.

The choruses include the De-Paur Opera Gala and the original Don Cossack chorus. The latter is well known for their authentic renditions of Russian songs.

Three orchestras, two from abroad and one from home, will appear during the season. The Berlin and Vienna Symphony Orchestras will be presented in addition to the annual favorites, the Boston Pops.

Soloists will be Jerome Hines, Metropolitan Opera bass, and Arthur Rubinstein, famed pianist. The New York City Ballet Company will join the Royal Danish Ballet to give audiences two ballet productions. Each company will run for two nights.

Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians will also appear here for a two-night stand as will the New York City Opera Company. The opera company will present "The Merry Widow" and "Die Fledermaus," both in English. "Die Fledermaus" is a repeat from last year, but because of its popularity, a repeat performance will be given.

Crowe announced that one number is still to be announced. The Lecture portion of the series will include Bennett Cerf, author, humorist and president of Random House Publishing Company and Stuart Alsop, reporter for The New York Herald Tribune.

The World Travel Series will have films on such places as Iceland, France, Alaska and Turkey, among others.

The long-awaited for seat risers are scheduled to be installed in the Aud this summer and should be ready for the first number, Crowe said. Rows 17-41 of the orchestra will be elevated, according to Crowe.

Court Rules Spectators Assume Risk

SALEM, Ore. (AP)—The Oregon Supreme Court ruled Wednesday that a spectator at a baseball game must assume the risk of being hit by a foul ball.

Loser in the case was William E. Hunt, hit by a foul ball Aug. 8, 1952 at the Portland Pacific Coast League baseball park. He had won a $2,400 verdict from a circuit court jury, but Judge James W. Crawford set the verdict aside.
