Students Rebel In Algiers

Rioting Aimed At Officials

ALGERS, Algeria (AP)—Thousands of students and war veterans protesting the Algerian government's failure to put down the 18-month-old Algerian rebellion, rioted in Algiers today. They threw stones and tomatoes at a V-E Day ceremony.

Through a military parade and during the ceremony of placing a wreath on the monument honoring war dead there were shouts of "Long live the army" and "Put the army in power."

When he left the monument with a passage cleared by police, Lacoste—observed by the demonstrators—was surrounded by a crowd of Algerian students and war veterans.

As the crowds, apparently shouting Algerian university slogans, clashed with police on the main streets in Algiers, chairs and bottles from sidewalk cafes sailed through the air. At least one shot was fired.

Police cleared the area slowly, firing tear gas grenades. A few arrests were made, but no injuries were reported.

The Marines will stage a mock battle near the National Guard Armory May 19, at 2 p.m.

Demonstrations of air power will be staged on Armed Forces Day. A flight of 12 F-80 jet fighters will buzz the Lansing area at 12:15 p.m.; three F-49 jets at 1:25 p.m. and three B-47s at 2:30 p.m.

The aircraft are based at Selfridge, Wurtsmith and McConnell air bases—the first two in Michigan and the latter in Kansas.

Election Platforms Given at 1st Rally

'Meet and Greet' Session Held After Presentations

A surprising number of freshmen and sophomores turned out for the election rally in Fairchild Tuesday night to hear platforms of candidates for sophomore and junior class officers. The rally was the first of its kind.

In opening remarks, John Truitt, assistant to the dean of students, men's division, stressed the importance of the voters' responsibility in choosing good leaders.

In the college community, many problems are solved through the co-operation between students, faculty, and administrative personnel and poorly chosen student leaders could lead to poor judgments, Truitt said.

Truitt further stressed that voters should vote for those candidates who would most closely adhere to goals which would be most beneficial to the class, rather than personal friends.

Roger Forbach, freshman class president who acted as master of ceremonies for the rally, thanked the students for attending the rally and said he hoped they would benefit from it.

Following the presentation of platforms a "meet and greet" session was held to give students a chance to meet the candidates.

Planning for the rally, sponsored by the Fresh-Soph Council, was begun last fall.

A brief resume of junior class candidates platforms are as follows:

Secretary—Ann Mottinger emphasized the importance of having more people in class activities. Jane Sterling stressed co-ordination between class officers and the class as a whole.

Treasurer—Mary Lou Mausteller pointed out the necessity for being prepared through experience, knowledge of what duties the office entails and interest.

Vice President—Lynn Campbell pointed out the necessity of having a more representative group in junior council. Don Webb cited the role of vice president as assistant and advisor and urged for more class unity.

President—Bill Bopf stressed co-operation and co-ordination between class officers and the council. Bob Wolfgram emphasized the importance of having a more representative group in junior council.

Ike Leads Kefauver in Indiana Race

Shows 2-1 Margin Over Kefauver

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Early returns from Indiana Tuesday night showed President Eisenhower gaining a 2 to 1 margin in the Republican presidential preference primary over what Sen. Estes Kefauver was getting in the Democratic.

However, an exact comparison was not possible because of a decision to postpone counting of Democratic votes in Lake County until today. This county, which includes the industrial city of Gary, was looked on as the most Democratic stronghold in the state.

Indiana was one of five states holding primaries Tuesday. It was the only one which offered any sort of a chance for a test between presidential candidates.

Eisenhower had 14,146 votes in his race for Indiana's 1956 primary. His only opponent, Sen. Kefauver, had 6,821 votes. Kefauver, who had 682 votes in the Democratic primary, was expected to win in 1956.

Florida, Ohio, West Virginia and New Mexico also held primaries Tuesday.

In Florida, Gov. LeRoy Collins got off to a substantial lead in his race for Democratic re-nomination against his opponent. The big campaign issue was over racial segregation.

The vote from 265 of 1,179 precincts gave Collins 78,129 votes. His nearest competitor at that stage was Stanley L. Leary with 24,939.

In Ohio, Michael V. DiSalle, former federal price control boss, took an early lead in his bid for the Democratic nomination for governor. He and C. William O'Neill in his bid for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Scattered returns from 46 of the state's 11,714 polling places gave DiSalle 565, and his nearest opponent Oscar L. Fleckner 54.

Among the Republicans, 43 polling places showed O'Neill with 1,167 votes to 503 for John W. Brown.

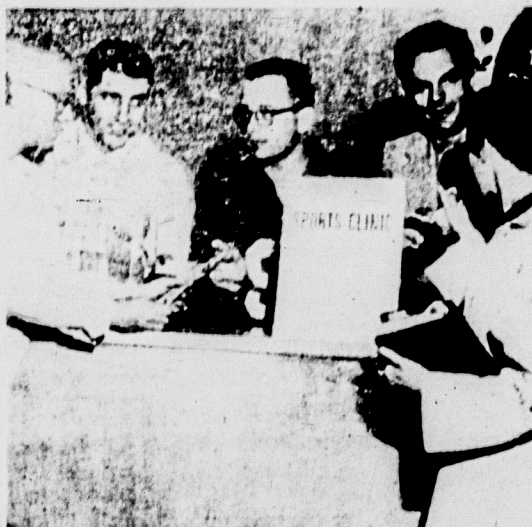

In Indiana, returns could vote in either primary party were not registered for parties.

Ex-President Truman Advises Hard Work

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Harry S. Truman, 72 Tuesday, came up with this advice: "Have no more work to do now than you have any chance for reelection and then you will be all right."

The former president—passed that word to reporters on the station platform during a stop here en route by train to New York and a forthcoming European tour.

Truman remarked jovially that since he was only 72 it was too early to ask his formula for long life.

Pentagon Steps-Up Jet Work

Defense Spending To Hit 36 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson struck out Tuesday at critics he called "fear mongers," and denied that Russia is "far outstripping the United States in terms of air power."

Wilson told a Senate Appropriations subcommittee that the Pentagon has ordered an increase in production schedules for the B-72 intercontinental jet bomber. He said that total defense spending in the next fiscal year will amount to nearly 36 billion dollars per day. The total about 36 billion dollars.

Wilson stressed that there had been no change in the international situation which would require us to increase our forces. He said it was possible for us at this time to reduce our forces.

In the case of the B-72, however, he said an increase in production goals has been ordered.

Wilson testified that production schedules for the B-72 had been raised to 26 a month compared with the old goal of 17. Actual output has been 17 a month both years—a month.

Without being specific, Wilson said he expected the 26-a-month goal would be reached. "I believe that originally planned, because production experience has been in favor of it."

He said he was prompted to reveal these figures, though he would have preferred to keep them secret, "because of the confusion and doubt that have arisen on this matter."

"I believe it is desirable to get the record straight," he said.

Wilson was flanked by the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force and by the joint chiefs of staff as he discussed the military budget for the biennial year that begins July 1.

The secretary then noted criticism of the B-72 program in current hearings of a Senate Armed Services subcommittee.

Wilson said the Air Force has had less difficulty with the B-72 in its early phases than with any other airplane in recent years.

This was an apparent reference to testimony last week by Gen. Curtis LeMay, chief of the Strategic Air Command, that B-72s have been used but only 14 have been accepted by the Air Force.

LeMay told the Armed Services group that the others were rejected because of a defect in a small component part. To this Wilson said: "There will be no loss and only a temporary delay in our program which will be made up."

Some critics of administration defense policies seem to think, Wilson said, that the United States should match or top the Russians in every main category of weapons.

Ike Invites Staff To Safety Convo

Two MSU staff members have received an invitation from President Eisenhower to attend a conference on occupational safety in Washington, D. C., May 14-15.

Richard Plaster, farm sales specialist, and Art Forbach, farm sales editor at WKAR, will attend with four other men from the state of Michigan.

Safety is a major concern of the president. He has announced observance of "No Safety Week" May 13-19.

Quack, Quack

In accordance with the policy to keep people happy, the Union cooperated with this novel idea to make people smile. Professor Howard C. Zindel, head of the poultry husbandry department, suggested the baby ducks be placed in the Union concourse for the amusement of students, professors and visitors.

Curtain Call

Award Winner Takes Lead in Play

By PAT MELOY

Tonight's curtain call in "Deep Are the Roots," will be no new experience for Janet Rose, Detroit junior, who plays Alice Langdon in the annual department's three-term play, the Theta Alpha Phi play, or the MSU Players' production.

For two years in a row, Miss Rose has been chosen for the Spartan magazine's annual leading actress award.

As a freshman, she was selected for her performance in "The Man Who Came to Dinner." She won the award last year for her interpretation of the title role in "Katerina."

This year, Miss Rose has helped to choose the faculty judges for the award. She is one of those who have participated in one of the department's three-term plays.

Looking behind these very conventional goals, however, is the hope of every aspiring actress—a career on the legitimate stage.

In this regard, Miss Rose has applied for a graduate assistantship in New York state after leaving MSU, and continuing her dramatic studies in a night school.

One of the actress' chief lures on campus has been Theta Alpha Phi, national dramatics honorary. She says it's a wonderful opportunity for students interested in a cooperative activity. Membership is open to anyone with an interest in the theater regardless of major.

Miss Rose is fascinated by the challenge of drama. You work with each part and play, she says.

In Katerina, for example, Miss Rose had to learn to sing in an interpretative dance, although she was not at her best.

She performed her number barefoot, to the somewhat unusual accompaniment of rattling chairs.

Navigation

Lt. LeRoy Bolden, former Spartan football great, took a day off from his "day off" Tuesday to pilot some AFROTC cadets through a navigational problem. Currently learning the intricacies of flying the T-33 jet trainer, Bolden said he soon expects to enter the F-100 program. He will appear on TV today on WKAR-TV's "Here" show.

Wilson

"The United States is not and should not be competing in an all-out armaments race with USSR or any other country," he said.

To pattern the U. S. defense program on that of Russia, he added, would amount to giving the Soviets responsibility for designing and determining the size and scope of our defense establishment.

Wilson said the United States possesses "the most powerful single element of air power in the world today" in its B47 medium jet bomber force. He said the six jet B 47 "the heart of our strategic striking power"—is too often overlooked.

The Air Force is known to have more than 1,500 B47s, which Wilson described as having "true intercontinental capabilities."

As for total air strength, Wilson testified that the Air Force, Navy and Army will have more than 41,000 active military aircraft in the year starting July 1.

The entire campaign was conducted with dignity and fine cooperation from everyone, said Young.

"I think this is the first time East Lansing, Lansing and the University have worked together for a mutual benefit," Young concluded.

Splash Show Rates 10-Plus Permissions

Costs will have 10 plus permissions for the Green Splash water show Thursday night but will not have the same privilege for the MSU Players production of "Deep Are the Roots" starting Wednesday. AWS Judiciary decided Tuesday night.

The reason given for the decision was that the play was a special production and not the term play.

No action was taken on the administration proposal to extend cord closing hours until 10:30. Elizabeth Schneider, vice-president of the board, said that nothing would be done about the proposal until a joint meeting with the Activities board is held to discuss it.

The Activities board discussed the big water program and scheduled a meeting for all girls interested in being a big after fall term. The meeting will be held May 23 at a place to be announced later.

Morgan's ESTABLISHED 1876

Ex-Tiger Shines as Relief Ace

BALTIMORE (AP)—I have a little red light and when it goes 2-2-6, I push a button and Zuverink comes out of the bullpen," says Manager Paul Richards.

Richards has pushed the imaginary button 12 times out of 20 games this season. Eight times the relief pitching of George Zuverink has won or helped win games. The Orioles have won only one more without him.

Monday night he threw out twice and was credited with his second victory. Harvey Kuenn hit the second pitch into a double play with the score tied in the Detroit play with the score tied in the Tigers. They said any other club Zuverink was entitled to some "graves," however. On Sunday for instance, he appeared to protect victories in two games without any credit in the records. He has pitched 24½ innings.

Last July, the 29-year-old Dutchman from Holland, Mich. thought he was heading back to the minors. He lost five games the second pitch into a double without a victory for the Detroit play with the score tied in the Tigers. They said any other club could have him for $10,000. Manager Richard said Zuverink relieved in 23 games, started five times and came up with an earned run average of 2.20, four victories and three defeats for the Orioles.

He was satisfied this season to be a relief pitcher. He's built for the heavy duty.

Standing 6-foot-4 and weighing 204, Zuverink says "I can pitch a few innings three or four days in a row without trouble. When I get up to throw in the bullpen, I'm as warm as I'll ever be after two pitches."

Zuverink has had five seasons in the major leagues with Cleveland and Baltimore before Detroit and Baltimore.

He says he learned quite a bit about pitching last year. The most important was learning to throw a screwball.

"My big trouble always was that I couldn't get the left-handed hitters out. But the screwball, which breaks away from the left-handers, seems to be the answer."

Richards and the Baltimore fans think he's the answer to their prayers, too. A comfortable feeling arises when they see coming from the bullpen Zuverink and his zinker-ball.

Soccer Gets Early Beginning

Football Originated As English Sport

By LARRY GUSTIN

Soccer, a sport struggling for recognition here at Michigan State, is one of the top attractions in most of the world, and sometimes draws crowds which surpass those for football in the United States.

The game originated in England in the 13th century, but was banned for about 400 years by royal command. Soccer was revived in the 18th century and was the only form of football until rugby was invented in the early 19th century.

To distinguish the game from this radical sport which allowed running with the ball, the London Football Association named soccer association football as it is sometimes called today. This was abbreviated to soccer, and later changed to soccer.

Until American football began to take shape in the 1870's, soccer was the only football in this country.

There are some similarities between the two games. Both use eleven men, and the fields are approximately the same size. But there are many differences.

The Spartans' home ground is next to the secret practice field and they host the University of Michigan there Saturday afternoon. After that Michigan Normal will be here. The MSU boosters their only game to date, a close 3-2 decision to the Colonians of Windsor, Ontario last weekend.

Chakales was charged with the defeat, yielding a three-run double to Bill Tuttle during the up rising.

Willard Schmidt started for the Cardinals and yielded only four singles, three by Mary Braylock, and a gift first-inning run before leaving the game after the eighth, because his arm stiffened.

CHICAGO (AP)—The stumbling Brooklyn Dodgers perked up Tuesday with a three-hit pitching job by Don Newcombe and Gil Lodges' three-run homer for a 1-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Hodges also singled across a run for four hits.

It ended a three-game losing streak for the Dodgers, who had dropped seven of their eight previous starts.
