Ke Prods Congress On Bills

Wants Passage Before July

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower gave Congress a gentle prod Thursday for a speedy passage of a score of bills he would like to see passed before adjournment in July.

He did it by releasing through his press secretary legislative proposals in international, national and economic fields.

See London Johnson of Texas in the senate Democratic leadership in a statement regarding the White House list.

Some of the measures that he said are virtually certain to pass in the near future, others are receiving careful consideration by the appropriate committees.

The items on Eisenhower's list include:

INTERNATIONAL—Military and economic foreign aid; legislation for trade co-operation; customs simplification; immigration; including amendment to the Refugee Act, and continuation of an atomic merchant ship.

SECURITY—Military activities, including medical care for dependents of men in the service and benefits for women. Both the House and Senate have passed bills providing for these benefits and a House-Senate compromise is being final action.

GOVERNMENT—Postal rate increases which would bring permanent an additional 10 cents a year; pay increase for top Civil Service jobs and presidential appointments.

ECONOMIC—The highway program; farm credit legislation to make it easier for farmers to borrow money; a rural development program including loans to farmers of low-income families.

WELFARE—School construction program; housing, including health insurance; aid to states for training youth specialists; and continuation of research and technical facilities at medical schools; legislation, including the Hart-Celler Act, which allows a proposal to amend welfare and benefits; and civil rights proposals, including creation of a bipartisan commission and a special state department division.

Newman Club Plans Annual May Day Crowning

The Newman Club will crown its annual May Day queen Sunday afternoon.

A queen of roses will be placed on the throne of the Blessed Virgin Mary by Jean Long, a second year student at St. Thomas Newman school, celebrating the feast of the Queen of the Virgin. She was chosen for her first communion.

Dr. Walter Mas Lanka, a priest, will be the principal speaker at the coronation. Dr. Mas Lanka was a student at St. Thomas Newman school from 1945 to 1949. He was a member of Sigma Xi fraternity. He lacked only a few credits for graduation when he left the seminary as a "scholarship boy."

Dr. William Hudson, sophomore, president of the Newman Club, will open the program. Gen. William C. Clegg, chairman of the May Crowning, will preside.

The actual crowning of the queen will include the singing of the hymn, "Queen of the Virgin," by the Newman Club choir, composed of 66 young men and women, all members of the Newman Club. Each of the 66 young men will recite a prayer for the queen.

Spring Term Play Opens With Good Performance

BY NELDA TROUT

The MSU Players celebrated the 100th birthday of George Bernard Shaw in grand style Thursday night by presenting his commemorable "Caesar and Cleopatra" on the Fairchild stage.

Reserved tickets for tonight's and Saturday evening's performances may be purchased at the Union ticket office or at the door for one dollar.

From the opening moments of the production when the eerie strains of music set the mood, the audience was transported into a replica Egypt, with the majestic columns of the place to the sprawling paws of the mystic sphinx.

Outstanding in their parts were the title figures of Caesar, played by Herbert Cimbura, and Cleopatra by Jennie Pond. Cimbura enacted the difficult role of Caesar with the enthusiasm and robust speech that has made the emperor role so well known in various productions. In the course of the play Cleopatra turned from the whimpering childish Egyptian into the wily serpent of the Nile ready to kill for revenge.

As Flautista, Cleopatra's elderly nurse, Carol Larsen, performed well the part of the sinister woman referred to as "a piece of Roman crockery," ready to die for her mistress.

The play as a whole was light and airy with the smooth-flowing effect—and enthusiasm that makes for an enjoyable evening. Lighting was very precise with silhouettes forming a contrast in each scene.

Divisions ranging from Caesar diving into the sea, sword clashing and Cleopatra being hoisted on stage, provided variation.

When the moment came for Caesar's plunge over the light house wall into the water, Cimbura had some difficulty in throwing off his armor so he admitted, "the armor will have to go, too."

At the opening of the light-house scene, a strange rope affair resembling a camouflaged microphone was suspended in the middle of the stage. In order to smuggle Cleopatra into the light-house without arousing the suspicion of the guards, it was necessary to wrap Cleopatra in an Oriental rug and hoist her over the wall, by means of a pulley, landing her at Caesar's feet.

Costumes and scenery were outstanding and the stage crew did many a quick-change job in switching between the seven entirely different scenes.

Most striking costume of the play was the final robe donned by Cleopatra while in mourning. It consisted of a filmy black veil topped by her red wig.

Players Help High School Drama Group

Five hundred drama students from 20 Michigan schools will be guests of the MSU Players today for the Eighth Annual High School Drama Day.

The students, with their directors, arrived at 10 a.m. to attend a special theater workshop session at Fairchild Theater. Present of play production will be analyzed and demonstrated by members of the cast of "Caesar and Cleopatra" and the Department of Speech.

Three of the leading actors in "Caesar and Cleopatra" will take part in the morning program. The humor in George Bernard Shaw's comedies will be emphasized by Pauline Schmuckler, East Lansing graduate student.

The actor's method of analyzing the play will be discussed by "Caesar" and "Cleopatra," Herbert Cimbura, Motown graduate student and Jennie Pond, Detroit senior.

Problems of technical production will be clarified for the students in a demonstration by Ralph W. Duckwall, Jr., of the speech department, on methods of making armor for theatrical use.

Marvin Phillips, also of the speech department, will demonstrate economical methods for constructing a multi-set production. The play's director, Virgil Godfrey, will select high school students from the audience to demonstrate problems of acting and directing.

The students will visit WKAR-TV studios and other points of interest on the campus before returning to Fairchild Theater for a special audience performance of Shaw's famous comedy at 2.

Navy Investigates Death of Recruit Dies After Disciplinary Drills To Teach Military Order

GREAT LAKES, Ill. (AP)—The death of a 17-year-old Navy recruit after undergoing disciplinary drills was laid before an investigating board of officers Thursday.

The officers were directed to determine whether special rifle drill and other duty assigned to Maurice G. Everett of McKenzie, Tenn., caused his collapse in 90-degree heat Tuesday and his death at 9:55 that night.

Attendants at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center Hospital attributed the youth's death to heat stroke.

In relating an account of the hours preceding Everett's death, the center's public information officer, Lt. C. E. White, did not use the word "disciplinary" but rather "retraining" to describe the rifle drill.

White said the drill was ordered because Everett, in the eighth week of a nine-week boot, or initial training period, had "not learned the significance of a military order."

Everett enlisted in the Navy from Lansing, Mich., where he had lived with his father, Glen, and his stepmother.

White's account of the incident was that Everett and another recruit were found in barracks off limits to them. When the company commander ordered them out, Everett "talked back." He was sent to the "retraining section" for one day.

On Tuesday morning he and five others were given 45-minute drill with rifles.

Everett said his left arm was cramped. The company commander massaged the arm and the recruit seemed all right. He went to lunch at 11 a.m. and his food tray slipped from his grasp. He told the company commander he was all right. He ate a substantial meal after which he was assigned to watching laundry.

When he returned to more rifle drills, he did not do the routine properly and told the commander he was too tired. Ten or 15 minutes later, the commander found him unconscious in the washroom.

Estes Hits Adlai for 'Bossism'

Minnesota Primary Won on Same Issue

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Estes Kefauver Thursday revived the bossism issue he used to successfully in Minnesota, charging Florida congressmen were "ganging up" trying to defeat him in Florida's presidential preference primary.

No little handful of people would select a nominee and no handful of people should speak for the people of Florida. You don't have to be told whom to vote for. You can look at the issues and decide for yourself," he said.

Six of Florida's seven Democratic congressmen have endorsed Adlai Stevenson, Kefauver's opponent in the Tuesday primary.

Kefauver, swinging hard in the final rounds of the primary battle, rapped Stevenson again for failing to denounce former Florida Gov. Millard Caldwell, a Stevenson delegate candidate, for labeling the Tennessee an "integrationist" and "sympathant for the Negro vote."

Kefauver also accused his rival of being "strangely silent" on the issue of "growing monopoly and its threat to individual enterprise."

Again and again, as he stomped Kalamazoo, Kalamazoo, City, Winter Haven, A. J. Boudine and Matherly, Kefauver hammered at Kalamazoo and tied it to his charge that Stevenson as governor of Illinois had vetoed a bill to raise old age and blind assistance payments.

The candidate attacked Stevenson for disclaiming responsibility for Caldwell's statement and for saying some of the Stevenson delegates in Florida disagreed with the position of Stevenson himself on segregation.

East Landon Wins Sing For 5th Consecutive Time

BY ANN MCGLOTHLIN

For the fifth straight year, East Landon dormitory carried home the first place trophy in the Women's Inter-Dorm Sing Thursday night.

Directed by Mary Savage, Landon's 23 voice chorus sang a soft arrangement of "Shower Song" and presented a perky challenge in "I Wonder When I Shall Be Married."

Winning second place was Mason Hall, directed by Barbara Metcalf, Royal Oak freshman. The group sang the tender "Christopher Robin Is Saying His Prayers" and the sprightly "Get Hippy."

Honorable mention was given to West Landon for its rendition of "Lomaxiana (Havide)" and "Building Love With Love." Barbara Brandt, Battle Creek sophomore, directed the chorus.

Also competing on the "Sing" were Gurnee, South Williams, North Campbell, Apple East Landon and Snyder.

Trophies were presented by Charles Schacht, president of the Women's Inter-Dorm Council. Sing committee members were Barbara Schneider, Marquette freshman, Linda Matila, Allegan freshman, and Eals Darragh, Wheaton, Ill., freshman.

Judges for the annual event were Edward Richmond, Dr. William Sur, and Miss Lou Laverly, all of the women's department.

Among the guest singing groups were the Butterfield sextet, directed by Dick Merriam, Elm, N.Y.; and the West Landon Glee Club, directed by Evelyn Kevron, Midland junior.

John Ferguson, Marquette junior, sang solo of "Out of My Dreams" and "Old Devil Moon." She was accompanied by John Ego, Dryden senior.

Inspection Bid Prodded By Military

Defense Heads Handle Matter

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States dramatically, though indirectly, notified Russia Thursday that the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff would probably accept an invitation to inspect the Soviet armed forces—if such an invitation is forthcoming.

The matter was handled in such a way as to leave no doubt that the Soviet government was being prodded to bid the American military high command to visit Moscow and tour the country.

The unusual affair was handled by the White House and the Defense Department. The office of the air attaché of the Soviet Embassy became involved and did an almost unheard of thing, giving out a statement to explain what had happened so far. The State Department remained—perhaps skeptically—silent.

Gordon Gray, assistant secretary of defense, went over the matter with Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr. at a State Department conference.

Gray, who makes regular visits to the department in his capacity of assistant defense secretary for international affairs, said, "I didn't meet especially to talk about this but it came up in our routine discussion."

"Right now it seems a little confused and Mr. Hoover and I talked it over in an effort to get the picture, to understand what was going on," Gray told a reporter.

The White House's contribution was a remark by Murray Snyder, assistant press secretary, that he "wouldn't be surprised" if the Joint Chiefs of Staff would accept an invitation to visit the Soviet Union. He hastened to explain that they had no invitation.

Snyder, however, said that "there have been informal discussions about high officials of our government visiting Russia" ever since the Geneva conference last July.

The Pentagon became involved when a spokesman for the joint chiefs said an official approach for a visit by the whole group of military leaders had been received but that if an invitation did come in it will be given serious consideration depending upon the conditions imposed.

Behind all this was a move by the Soviet government which appeared on the face of it to be of much more modest proportions than the United States government appeared ready to give it.

Military Unification Still A Dream, Not A Reality

Who should get the most money—the Army, the Navy or the Air Force?

The answer to this question has got practically everybody who is anybody in Washington in a dither and not a soul has come up with a satisfactory answer.

The Air Force screams that it deserves the most money.

Control of the air, say its brass, is absolutely essential if the U. S. is to win any future war.

The Army clamors it must have more money.

The foot-soldier, say its brass, will be the deciding factor in any future war.

The Navy roars that it must have a bigger slice of the defense-budget pie.

We must convert to a nuclear fleet, say its brass, if the U. S. is to have a chance in any future war.

Bemeddled generals and bemeddled admirals squabble over money embarrassing themselves and their services; then pass the buck, claiming they are lily white and it was really some outspoken colonel or captain who got hold of a reporter and bent his ear the wrong way.

President Eisenhower, according to Secretary of Defense Wilson, is made "a bit unhappy" by the inter-service bickering. Wilson himself sloughs off the entire row, calling it "a rash that breaks out once in a while."

Meanwhile, a bewildered John Q. Public, whose money it is that everybody is feuding over, picks up his paper, reads about all the hot air emanating from Pentagon schematics and wonders what the blazes is going on.

The answer is simple. Nobody knows.

The reason is that there is no scheme delineating the basic roles each service is to play in the event of war.

Each thinks it is bigger and more important than the other or that it will lose prestige and become a second-rate outfit if another service is given more money.

Congress, instead of investigating the reasons for the inter-service feuding, merely adds fuel to the fire.

Many Congressmen have special interests in one service or the other and find it beneficial to their own political interests to agitate for this weapon instead of that weapon or for this service instead of that service.

Congressman Jones, who has heard the Air Force is planning a big new jet base smack in the middle of his district, certainly is going to have difficulty voting down an addition to the Air Force's appropriation.

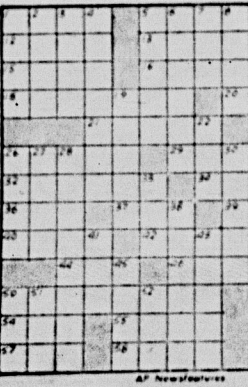

That the U. S. must be adequately defended—by Army Nikes, Air Force B-52's and Navy submarines—is a self-evident fact in this Cold War Age. Russia, despite a sweet-sounding promise to reduce her military forces, still has at least 4,000,000 well-disciplined and well-trained men under arms, an Air Force at least as good as our own and a submarine fleet twice the size of ours.

It is time that the three services got together and practiced unification instead of merely going through the motions.

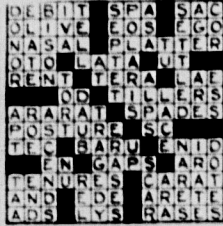

Congress and the President and his Defense Secretary could help by establishing, with the advice and assistance of military experts, the basic roles each service is to play in defense and then by appropriating funds accordingly.

Interpreting The News

by J. M. Roberts

When President Eisenhower says the U. S. is trying to be friends with everybody he touches one of the most difficult and one of the weakest facets of American foreign policy.

Qualified leadership hardly ever succeeds in being friends with everybody. In attempting to, it may fail in friendship with anybody.

What the President was saying was that the U. S. sought to avoid involvement in controversies between those with whom she sought friendship.

This is more difficult in international than in personal relationships.

One of the chief embarrassments of the United States has been to maintain her position with Europe's colony-holding powers without abandoning her belief in self-determination of peoples.

She has stepped in twice in disputes involving colonialism: in the Indonesian independence, and her advice went toward the British-Egyptian settlement of their military treaty dispute.

By not stepping into other disputes, the U. S. has acquired the taint of colonialism herself in the eyes of many Asians and Africans.

There is a serious school of thought which contends that, instead of trying to be neutral on problems which arise between component parts of the free world, the U. S. should actively follow her conscience.

This is the role of leadership, rather than the role of mediation.

The overwhelming difficulty, of course, is that much of Europe's strength depends upon its economic relationships with submerged and now emerging areas.

One of the chief Russian objectives is to rupture these relations, causing a European collapse, instead of letting them be worked out gradually. And continued European strength is vital to the United States.

Secretary Dulles once expressed a practical approach to such problems. He said the way to work was first to decide what was right and then, if necessary, compromise with what was possible.

That is an active, not a neutral, approach.

The Soviets have made this particularly desirable. In exchange they have unofficially dangled an offer to back Japan's entry to the United Nations—a greatly coveted goal here.

A Cabinet shakeup to make this possible has been talked of for weeks. The rumors name Shigemitsu, who has conducted the Soviet peace talks to date, as Shigemitsu's successor in the Foreign Ministry.

That is an active, not a neutral, approach.

Cap and Gown Scholarship Applicants—Contact Dean

Students who contemplate applying for a Marshall Scholarship to Great Britain—they are as attractive as Rhodes Scholarships—are asked to call personally on Dean Thomas Osgood, Dean of the School for Advanced Graduate Studies at 112 Morrill Hall within the next three or four days to receive news that will be of assistance in their applications.

Faculty members who know of students who plan to apply are requested to refer the students immediately to Dean Osgood.

The American Association of University Women announces approximately 30 national fellowships and some international fellowships for the year 1957-58.

The range of stipends is $250 to $1,000. Fellowships are unrestricted as to field and place of study.

The minimum requirement for national and international fellowships is completion of the residence requirements for the doctorate.

Awards are offered for pre- and post-doctoral research. For the past several years the awards have been about evenly divided. Further information may be obtained from Dean Osgood, 112 Morrill Hall.

Kobsmen Meet U of M In Final Big 10 Series

By JERRY ROBBINS
Michigan State will ring down the curtain on another Big 10 season this weekend with a three-game series against the University of Minnesota. The Spartans will host the Gophers in a single game today on the newly improved campus field at 3:30 p.m. The series will conclude with a twin-bill at Ann Arbor for the first time since 1947. The first game will be played at 1:30 at Ferry Field, and the second game will be played at 7:30 at the same place. The Spartans will have a 3-5 record, while the Gophers will have a 4-4 record.

Behind the plate will either be Al Luce or Franchi. Luce has recently been nursing an injury but he did see limited action against Notre Dame Monday. In addition to being the leading Wolf hurler, Thurston is also his team's top hitter with a .400 average.

Former Oriole Sub Now Stars for Tigers

DETROIT (AP)—Charlie Maxwell, the leading spring batter on the Detroit Tigers' squad, once sat on a major league bench while a week-hitting pitcher went to the plate as a pinch hitter. "I wondered right then and there just how tough things can get," recalled the 29-year-old slinger. Maxwell said he "had been through a lot of bench-warming in my time, but I figured that was about all I could take." So a few days later, Maxwell went into the Baltimore Oriole clubhouse for a serious chat with manager Paul Richards. "I asked him if he realized I was on the team," said Charlie. "He had used every player on the bench except me—and then topped it off by sending up Ery Falcia to pinch-hit."

Maxwell said Richards told him that "with the present set-up, I can't find a place to use you."

Maxwell said his reply was, "If I can't play for this club, then I can't play for any of them."

It wasn't long before the Tig-lomsky rounding out the outer gardens. is hitting at a .318 clip and third sacker Steve Boros posts a .305 average.

In other Big 10 action this weekend Minnesota will be able to clinch its first conference title since 1935 by winning just one of three games.

Today the Gophers hook up in a single game against second-place Ohio State. On Saturday Minnesota will be at Indiana for a doubleheader finale.

Trackmen In Big 10 Title Competition

Michigan, Iowa Title Favorites

Head Track Coach Karl Schladenman will enter 14 Michigan State trackmen in the Big 10 championships at Minneapolis, Minn. today and Saturday.

Schladenman split the entries into two groups for traveling. The first group of Capt. Joe Savoldi, Ed Brabham, Dave Lean, Dave Hoke, Ray Eggleston, Tom Flynn, Ken Dufee and Sam Eliowitz arrived Thursday.

The second group composed of George Best, Gay Denslow, Don Hillmer, Selwyn Jones, Henry Kennedy and Ron Wheeler are expected to arrive today.

Savoldi is the top Spartan hope for a title. The all-purpose athlete is still bothered by a sore back muscle and will compete in only one event, the 120-yard high hurdles.

Savoldi's biggest threat will be Iowa's Les Stevens, who holds the latest Big 10 time with 14.1. Other title threats for the Spartans are Brabham in the dashes, Jones in the mile, Kennedy in the two-mile and Hillmer in the high jump.

Michigan and Iowa are expected to battle for the title with a three-way battle for third among Indiana, Michigan State and Illinois.

West Shaw Cops Track Title

By BASIL STEVENS

Successfully defending its title, West Shaw used team strength to run away with the intramural dormitory track meet Thursday.

West Shaw scored 75 points, while Bryan and Phillips staged a distance battle for second place. Bryan finished runner-up with 39 points and Phillips placed third with 35.

Phillips' showed individual strength by winning four firsts, but had few men place otherwise. West Shaw also won four events, but had four seconds and six thirds to put the meet out of reach.

Art Johnson proved to be the top performer of the meet, winning 16 points for Phillips. He won both the dashes, the 100 in 10.9 second and the 200 in 23.1 and placed second in the broad jump.

He also anchored the Phillips relay team into second place. Frank Taylor of West Shaw was just barely nipped out by Johnson in both the dashes, posting times of 11 seconds and 24.2.

West Shaw also came up with a double winner as Tom King won the mile run to go with his previous win in the 880-yard run on Wednesday. King's winning time in the mile was 5:17.7.

Don Arend and the relay team provided West Shaw with its other two victories. Arend stepped his way to first in the 60-yard low hurdles in 7.6 seconds, while the relay team, composed of Tom Mc-

Evans, Len Efron, Arend and Taylor, sped the half mile to win in 1:41.5.

Lowell Lockett won another of Phillips' first places by winning the 440-yard run in 54 seconds. Lockett was in charge most of the way, but had to fight off challenges by two West Shaw men, Al Toxoneus and Efron who were only four strides behind.

Bryan picked up seconds in the mile run and in the hurdles to go with its wins in the broad jump and high jump on Wednesday. Girard Belprez finished behind King in the mile with a time of 5:19.5 and Frank Lipford took second in the hurdles at 82 seconds.

Mural Highlights

Hits were scarce in games played Thursday as three pitchers turned in no-hit performances. Bernie Kuehler for ATO, Lyn Ackerman for West Shaw 2, and Tom Kennedy for West Shaw 6 silenced the bats of their opponents.

West Shaw with 3 points leads in the race for dormitory championships. East Shaw and Phillips are tied for second place with two points apiece.

Today is the deadline for entry in the individual tennis tournament and fraternity track meet, the intramural department reported.

Girls Walked A Mile From J. Paul Sheedy Till Wildroot Cream-Oil Gave Him Confidence

"Done anything tonight honey?" Sheedy asked his little desert flower. "Get lost!" she shrieked. "Your hair's too shaggy, Sheedy. Confidentially it's spiking!" Well, this was really insulting. So J. Paul got some Wildroot Cream-Oil. Now he's the picture of confidence because he knows his hair looks handsome and healthy the way Nature intended... neat but not greasy. Take Sheedy's advice. If you want to be popular, get a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil. Nomad-der if your hair is straight or curly, thick or thin, a few drops of Wildroot Cream-Oil every morning will keep you looking your best. You'll agree Wildroot really keeps Sahara in place all day long.

boy, did she SPEAK UP, when we did the MAMBO!

It may be a treat to beat your feet on the Mississippi mud, but it's murder when you mambo in a beat-up fox. I still remember the exact moment when I decided to buy an After Six. It was right after the third grunt in a rather lively mambo. She looked up at me with those baby-blue eyes and softly murmured, "Some date! All day long, I slave over a hot biology text. Finally get to go formal and I wind up with a guy dressed like a 1920 mortician." That was the night I burned my old fox. Now, I've got a cool, comfortable After Six.
