Record Crowd Attends Career Carnival

A crowd of over 4,000 career-minded students attended the first night of Michigan State University's Eighth Annual Career Carnival, a two day vocational information service program, Monday.

According to Jack Breslin, director of the MSU Placement Bureau, sponsors of the carnival, at least 8,000 students are expected to attend this program today held in the Union, second floor. Breslin said he was pleased with the interest shown by students the first night. He had estimated previously a 3,000 attendance.

Students visiting the various displays of the 80 participating organizations in education, industry and business will be given a second chance today from 9:30 a.m. to noon, 1:15 to 4:30 p.m. and 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. to consult with representatives concerning job opportunities in their desired fields. The companies include federal, state and national organizations.

Some of the many possible occupations which these organizations offer include: engineering, business administration, social work, research, testing, purchasing, design, advertising, marketing, industrial relations, residential building and design.

"We are extremely happy to report the theme of the 1956 Career Carnival, 'Let's Talk It Over,' has succeeded," said Jack Kinney, career carnival advisor and assistant director of the MSU Placement Bureau. Kinney stated many of the representatives who have attended the carnival in previous years remarked how more freshmen and sophomores had contacted them.

"I've been trying to get here for three years," said John L. Breslin, engineering personnel assistant of Bendix Products, one company which was represented for the first time.

"I have heard about the carnival when I come to interview students during the year but, I first had to convince the management it was a worthwhile project," Breslin added. The representative explained he was surprised at the sincerity of the students in asking questions and thought "nothing is held anywhere which is as comprehensive on a career basis as MSU's Career Carnival."

Another newcomer included in this year's carnival was Whitt-Pool-Singer, Glen Clark, director of management development, commented he was "amazed at the many students who were interested in deep research such as nuclear physics." Edward Murdock, supervisor of management selection, added graduate students as well as undergraduates had contacted him.

Attending for the eighth year since the conception of the carnival was Standard Oil. William Locke, Detroit regional office, noted the students were more mature and had better ideas of what they were striving for in their chosen vocation.

He attributed this change to the fact that many student have been coming to the Career Carnival for the past few years and realize the opportunities which such a carnival offers. Other colleges and universities hold vocational days where panels are held so that students can ask representatives questions, he said.

"Michigan State University is to be envied by those other institutions throughout the country who do not offer such a program," added Locke.

Questions which representatives will answer include: placement, necessary college training, advancement, vacations, salaries, compensations and the type of job available in their organizations.

Over 300 representatives will be welcomed by President John Hannah at the Career Carnival banquet at Kellogg Center today at 3:30. The Kappaleers, Spartan recording quartet, will sing during the banquet. Members of the quartet are football stars, Clarence Peake and Jim Hinesly and trackmen Mel Harris and Sam Harris.

Carl Morton, Falmouth senior, and David Mitchell, Farmington senior, discuss the possibilities of a career in engineering with David Barnes, a representative of the Square D Corporation, an electrical supply company, at Monday night's presentation of Career Carnival.

Henderson Pursues Integration

HENDERSON, Ky. (AP)—Henderson County Board of Education Monday voted its attorney to examine the possibility of obtaining injunctions against persons interfering with integration of the integrated version Elementary school.

Monday morning clear path through a shouting match which attempted to prevent Negro mother from leaving the school's parking lot.

His mother, Mrs. James, had driven five Negro children to the school. She was told when the crowd of approximately 100 persons gathered in the parking lot's exit. They moved until city police arrived.

Students were taken from school by bus Monday afternoon without incident.

The school had been boycotted by students since Sept. 24. Negro students have been attending the school since Sept. 24.

Students reported no representation of the White Citizens' Council at Henderson attended the meeting.

MSU Band Adds New Feature

Michigan State University's marching band will chalk up a "first" and a "last" in opening its 1956 season Saturday at Ann Arbor.

The 125-piece Spartan band will feature for the first time in its history a trained dancer, Karen Lynn Olson, a junior from Marquette, who will perform at half time.

A note of finality creeps into the picture, because Archie Patton, Jr., MSU drum major, will lead the band for the last time. Brother Gordon (Champ) Patton, also a senior, will head the University of Michigan group, creating friendly family rivalry.

The Patton brothers, both top-notch twirlers from Mt. Morris, Mich., will be leading on the football field for their fourth year. "It has," Archie jokes, "created some problems of family loyalty at the games."

The entire MSU show will emphasize on the quality of the music rather than intricate field formations, says band leader, Professor Leonard V. Falcone, who is beginning his 30th year at Michigan State.

Spartan Spirit Plans Pep Rally

The Spartan Spirit will kick-off a pep rally season Friday with a bigger and better pep rally for the "biggest game of the year," according to Roger Farquhar, Spartan Spirit chairman.

The pep rally will begin at 7:30 Friday night in the Band Shell with a dance sponsored by the student government in the auditorium following the rally, purposed to send the football team off to Ann Arbor in quest of victory.

Bob Eberhart and his band will furnish the music for the dance which is free of charge to all members of the student body. The dance will last until 12 midnight.

During the rally the Jazz Society of West Circle Drive will aid in furnishing entertainment. Cheerleaders and the Sparty Head, traditional sight at MSU

Electrical Blaze Hits Berkey Hall

Faulty Circuit Darkens Rooms

Flames coming from the 110 volt main electrical control panel in room three Berkey Hall caused the reputedly largest classroom building in the world to be plunged into darkness shortly before 2 p.m. Monday afternoon.

Four East Lansing fire fighting rigs and the Department of Public Safety answered the call, phoned in at 1:55.

Excessive smoke poured from the transformer box, approximately the size of a passage door. Firemen used CO2 extinguishers to put out the flames. A smoke ejector was needed in order to clear the building of smoke and fumes.

According to Officer Ehrlich, department of public safety, the electricians reported $1500 damage. The direct cause of the fire is unexplained but the report stated that probably an overloaded circuit was at fault.

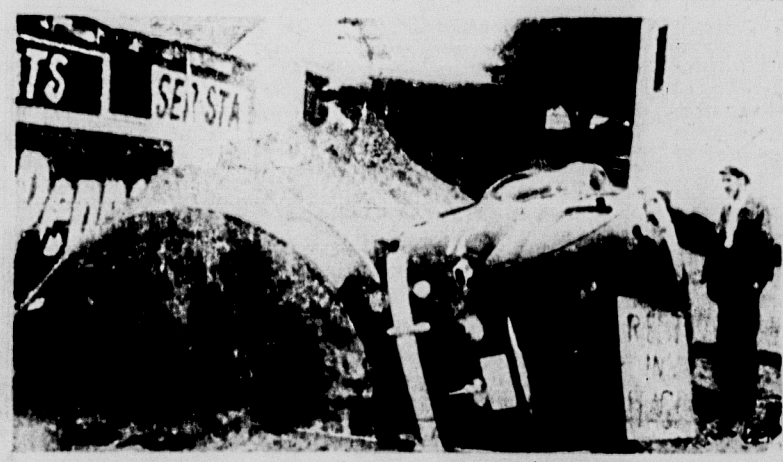

Clocks in the classroom building hallways stopped at 1:50. Students were forced to navigate the halls and inner stairs in darkness.

Richard Bennett, assistant director of public safety, said that workmen were busy installing a temporary line to provide lighting for classes Monday night and today. The line will be replaced with a permanent line and panel later this week and no classes will be interrupted.

'Force,' or Not

15 Nations Attend SCUA

LONDON (AP)—The Suez Canal Users Assn. was set up Monday amid reports of Western Big Three disagreement on whether Egypt may be either persuaded or forced to accept international control.

Fifteen of the 18 nations invited to London joined SCUA at once. Japan, Pakistan and Ethiopia remained up to the fence.

Foreign Secretary Selwyn

Lloyd told newsmen just before leaving by plane for New York and the UN security Council debate on Suez.

"We dislike the use of force, but we intend to stand by our rights and the rights of other nations."

Lloyd and Foreign Minister Christian Pineau of France will meet with Secretary of State Dulles ahead of the UN debate in an effort to present a united front before the Security Council.

The United States, Britain and France sponsored the formation of SCUA as a stopgap group to press Egypt peacefully to give up sole control of the waterway.

The UN Security Council is due to debate the crisis Friday. Informed diplomats in London say the United States favors a softer, more flexible approach to Egypt than Britain and France.

The Americans reportedly would like to get Egypt into talks.

The British and French would like to chart courses that would compel the regime of President Nasser to come to acceptable terms.

British and French officials emphasized that Dulles has given them no reason to doubt that the United States wants anything less than they do—a settlement based on some form of international control of Suez.

But differences have come up relating to tactics and methods.

While Britain and France are the prime movers of the case for presentation to the Security Council, the United States has cautioned against a resolution condemning the Nasser regime that would tend to alienate Asian opinion and give an opening to Russians to cash in with a certain veto.

Young GOP Club To Convene at 7

The MSU Young Republicans will "kick off" their political activities for the term with a meeting tonight at 7 in room 32 of the Union.

Registration Set to Begin Next Week

1 Dollar Fee Per Inoculation

Plans for administering the Salk polio vaccine to MSU students were announced Monday night by Jack Schramek, assistant administrator at the Student Government executive branch.

The registration program for the shots will begin Monday and continue through the rest of the week. Registrants are to sign up for the first two shots in the Union Concourse between 8-5 daily.

At the time of registration a $2 fee must be paid and the registrant will be able to sign the paper designating what time to report for the shots to be given two weeks apart.

The shots will be started Oct. 15-19 from 8-5 p.m. at 15-minute intervals. The nurses from Olin Memorial Health Center will handle the administering of the shots to the students.

The Parke-Davis vaccine would do no good unless the second and third shots were received so the first two shots will be registered together and the second week of spring term, which will be the proper six months time period needed, the third shot will be offered.

The shots will be given on the fourth floor ping pong room of the Union where the blood donations were handled in previous terms. A receipt must be presented before the shot will be given.

Michigan State is the first university to handle a project such as this. All arrangements for the shots were made by the executive branch of the student government and administrative officials, President John A. Hannah, Tom King, dean of students, and Dr. Clifford G. Moniz, director of the health center.

Graduate Writes Journalism Book

Edmund C. Arnold, 1945 MSU graduate in journalism, has written a book entitled "Fundamental Newspaper Design" which has been called "The bible work on the subject."

Arnold is editor of Linotype News, a house organ of the Minneapolis Linotype Co., and a consultant on newspaper typography. He completed his university work here, 20 years, after his studies were first begun, while working as night editor for the Lansing State Journal.

America's Press

A Time for Living Up To a Great Tradition

This week, National Newspaper Week, editors and publishers the nation over will be calling to readers' attention the various facets of the newspaper business. Comparisons will be made on how improved methods of printing have altered the appearance of the American newspaper; on how American newspapers keep the public informed as never before; on the increasing use of color, wirephoto machines, facsimile reproduction and other mechanical advances; and of course on how publishing costs have skyrocketed while the cost to readers remains a pittance five, seven or ten cents.

Perhaps it is because we are college students and relatively idealistic; perhaps it is because we are naive and unfamiliar with the financial aspects of newspaper publishing; but we feel editors and publishers who proclaim editorially "Look how improved our paper is" are missing the boat.

This is a week in which to harp on that overworked and not well-enough understood phrase "freedom of the press."

It is a week in which to remind readers that freedom of the press is a deeply rooted American principle.

It is a week in which to recall John Peter Zenger who 221 years ago was acquitted of a charge of libeling the British governor of New York by criticizing his conduct in office, thereby establishing the principle of freedom of the press.

It is a week in which to remind readers of the first amendment to our Constitution which says, in part, "Congress shall make no law . . . abridging the freedom of speech or of the press."

This is a week in which to remind readers of a newspaper's reasons for existence—the presentation of accurate, truthful news; guardianship of the public trust; a vigorous, analytical editorial policy.

It is a week in which to recall Boss Tweed and the part newspapers played in his downfall; to recall Orville Hodge and the part newspapers played in his downfall.

It is a week in which to remind readers of the condition of the press in other nations.

Like Turkey, where a 15-year-old newspaper was jailed last week for shouting a headline—a violation of the law in that country.

Like Egypt, where Nasser controls what is to be printed and not printed.

Like Colombia, where Pinilla throttles the press.

Like the Dominican Republic, where Trujillo carries the copy pencil.

Like Spain, where Franco makes sure there is no opposition press.

Like the Iron Curtain countries, where only one line—the party line—is printed.

It is a time to recall the heroes—Gaines, Paz, Pulitzer, Steffens, Baker, Symonds, Rice, Chandler, Pyle.

National Newspaper Week is not a time for editors and publishers to count linotype machines. It is a time for remembering a great tradition, and for working harder to live up to that tradition.

But Some Setbacks, Too

Some Gains Made in Acquiring News

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Freedom of Information Committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors (ASNE) has scored some advances in the past year but has taken some setbacks too in its campaign for better access to federal, state and local government news.

Headed by Herbert Brucker, editor of the editorial page of the Hartford (Conn.) Courant, the committee this year has won some gains among its goals at the federal level.

1. The number of press conferences with cabinet officials has increased.

2. Society officers have attended conferences with Secretary Wilson regarding Defense Department secrets.

3. Initial secrecy provisions of this year's Operation Abolitionist have been modified following protests over last year's policy.

4. The Strategic Air Command has partly amended secrecy enforced on the movement of operational units.

An outstanding setback came in New York State. The appellate court ruled that citizens do not have a right to a transcript of a judge's charge to a jury in a criminal case. The state legislature refused to pass legislation which would make such access possible.

The Colorado Supreme Court, however, authorized judges to permit the use of cameras in a court room if they think there will be no interference with order and decorum.

In Ohio, the intermediate appellate court held that a public trial of a criminal case is the right of the public as well as the accused.

The Milwaukee City Council abated a secret procession because it had long used to settle controversial matters away from the public eye.

Although not discounting the spot gains scored by their committee, some members point to the work of the House Government Operations Sub-committee headed by Rep. Moss (D-Calif.) as the year's outstanding contribution to freedom of information.

"Americans know more about the impairment of their right to know about the executive departments of their own government than they have ever known before, thanks to the work of the Moss subcommittee," says J. R. Higgins, executive editor of the Washington Post and Times-Herald, a member of the Freedom of Information Committee and its chairman for three years before Brucker took the job.

"It's initial survey of government information policies, its successive hearings and its report together constitute a confirmation of the warnings which the ASNE Freedom of Information Committee has issued from time to time during the past several years."

Yet, Higgins says, "It will be difficult if not impossible to recover all the ground lost in the past generation as the result of the security requirements of wars and cold wars and in consequence of the changes and growth in government itself."

Wiggins holds there must be a new climate in government service, created by a broader faith and confidence in the right judgments of an informed people.

The Voters Speak—As Lubell Sees It

The Man People Argue About

By SAMUEL LUBELL

Vice-President Richard Nixon is likely to go down into the annals of this election campaign as the man everybody argued about but nobody knew.

In talking with voters around the country during recent weeks I have been struck by how vague are the comments voiced about Nixon, both pro and con.

Perhaps the most specific criticism one hears is that he is "too young and inexperienced to become President if he dies." Generally, though, people explain their antagonism to the Vice-President with such remarks as:

"I just don't like his looks," or "I haven't had any use for him since he went on TV to explain that expense fund in 1952," or "he's not sincere," or "he's too tricky."

At Cicero (Ill.) a machinist admitted, "I don't trust him but if you pin me down I couldn't say why."

Again, in Sherman Oaks near Los Angeles, a young buyer for a jewelry firm talked of going back to the Democrats because of a fear that Nixon might become President. "I really don't know anything about him," he told me. "It's what I've heard. You might call it scuttlebutt. But some of what you read must be true or it would have been stopped."

On Nixon's side some persons have rallied to his defense simply because, as a Minneapolis accountant saw it, "If everyone is against him, I figure he must be a pretty good man."

What stirs behind the controversy over Nixon becomes somewhat clearer if one contrasts where he is politically strongest with where he is weakest.

Of the states I have visited so far, Nixon is criticized most frequently in his own state of California, and it is here that he is likely to cost Eisenhower the most votes. It is not that a majority of Californians are against Nixon. Had he been "dumped" from the Republican ticket it undoubtedly would have cost Eisenhower many votes. Still, as things stand, every Nixon supporter I talked with was already in the Eisenhower camp. Against that some persons who backed Eisenhower in 1952 declared, "With like so sick I'd never vote for Nixon."

Some Californians complained of "those business deals"

Nixon's family." Many more brought up Nixon's 1950 campaign for the Senate against Helen Gahagan Douglas. "She was always good to my people," said one Negro schoolteacher. "But Nixon smeared her as a Communist."

Outside of California Nixon is under heavy attack in working-class neighborhoods — "Everyone is down on him at my shop," remarked one Des Moines electrician. He is also condemned as "just another McCarthy" in localities where Franklin Roosevelt's foreign policy was supported most enthusiastically.

In sharp contrast, Nixon is defended most zealously in areas where opposition to our getting into World War II was most intense. In such one-time "isolationist" areas voters often say, "Tell me one thing they have against him," or "he's added prestige to the Vice-Presidency," or "he's against Communism; that's enough for me."

In these areas the opposition to Nixon usually is dismissed in terms employed by one Pittsburgh plumber. "Nixon is in trouble because he's a fighter," the plumber declared. "He tried to get rid of the left-wingers and now they're running him down. They're scared of him."

Much of the emotional storm over Nixon, in short, can be traced back to the bitter conflict that raged in this country before Pearl Harbor over whether we should intervene in World War II.

Those who were against our getting into the war, as it pointed out in my book, "Revolt of the Moderates," feel vindicated in that opposition by the Hiss case and by revelations of Communist infiltration of the government. Those who felt that Hitler was the mortal enemy who had to be defeated tend to regard the "loyalty" battle as little more than an effort to discredit the New Deal and Roosevelt's foreign policy.

Bitter as this conflict over the past runs, it may be well to emphasize that Nixon remains only a side issue in this year's election. While a few persons go so far as to think "he will resign if he wins," the bulk of the electorate will be marking its ballots on the basis of other issues than the President's health. Generally, as well, Eisenhower's own political popularity is strong enough to over-

2 Spartans to Compete For Olympic Positions

By HAL BATEMAN
State News Managing Editor

Two Michigan State athletes will compete in the Australian Olympic Trials at Melbourne next month—but only after encountering some difficulty.

Dave Lean, a sophomore from Tasmania, was unable to make the long trip to Australia because of financial difficulties. The lanky British Empire champion had requested funds from the Australian Olympic Federation but was refused because he was not a member of the Olympic team.

They said he would have to compete in the trials at Melbourne Oct. 12 to be a member of the team. The people of Tasmania, an island 500 miles south of Australia, heard of Lean's plight and started a fund-raising drive.

The state of Tasmania contributed some money and the remainder was raised through popular subscription. Lean, who has a 3.47 all-college average at MSU, left last Wednesday by airplane for the two-day trip to Australia and the Trials. He will enter the 440-yard hurdles.

Doug Stuart, a grad student from Maryland, chose to go home the hard way. Right now he has passage on an oil tanker to Palembang, Indonesia. From there he hopes to find transportation to his native land.

Although he never competed for MSU because of a Big 10 ruling, Stuart became one of the best high jumpers in the Midwest, winning the Michigan AAT indoor title last January.

While at Michigan State, Stuart, a former resident assistant in East Shaw Hall, picked up his bachelor of science and master of science degrees in physical education. He plans to start work on a doctorate in physiology.

Another Australian, Kevan Gosper, the 1955 Michigan State track captain from Sydney, will also compete in the Trials, although he is in national service. A three-time Big 10 and British Empire champion while at MSU, Gosper will compete in the 440-yard run.

It is possible that Lean and Gosper may form one-half of Australia's mile relay team in the Olympic Games at Melbourne in late November.

the DUKE sport jacket

by COLLEGE HALL

with lapped seams
and deep hook vent

The traditional fashion favorite of college men is now big style news everywhere! It's the "natural look" and College Hall has been making it for years.

The DUKE sport jacket comes in exclusive new "pelt" terms in keeping with the "natural look". It's with authentic style features: a minimum of padding in the shoulders, extra lightweight front, narrow lapels with a soft roll to the center button — and a new "higher weight" price, too. Come see yourself in the Duke sport jacket soon.

Stengel Selects Ford To Hurl Series Opener

BROOKLYN (AP)—Sal Maglie had the miseries Monday, leaving wide open the question of who will be Brooklyn's pitcher against the New York Yankees and lefthander Whitey Ford in Wednesday's World Series opener at Ebbets Field.

The Dodgers, hungry for some relaxation after the frantic finish to the National League pennant race, had the day off. But when Maglie showed up with the rest to pick up his ticket allotment, he admitted to an upset stomach and reported his shoulder "a bit stiff."

That confirmed manager Walt Alston's worry over the 39-year-old righthander, who was the big guy in the stretch run. The Dodgers skipper, given little chance to enjoy his second consecutive pennant, has doubted whether Sal could get the job done after only three days' rest.

"Maglie's logical choice," said Alston, "but he may need more rest. I know he pitched that no-hitter last Tuesday with only three days' rest, but how can you be sure he can come back again?"

Sal, who has been coming back all season, figured the stiffness might work out of his shoulder in a pre-game warm-up, and Alston followed the lead.

"I won't know who starts for us until just before game time," he said.

"And if it isn't Maglie, it might be Carl Erskine or Roger Craig or maybe even Clem Labine."

While the hectic closing to the National League race left Alston with a weary pitching staff, Yankee Manager Casey Stengel had no such worries, having clinched the American League flag two weeks ago.

"It's Ford, all right," said Casey as his Yanks worked out at the stadium Monday.

Ford, 28, hasn't worked since Wednesday, when he lost his shot for a 20th victory at Baltimore. That gives him a full week's rest going into the opening game, scheduled for 1 p.m.

Bookmakers have made the Yankees a 6-5 choice in the opener. The Yankees are 7½ to 5 favorites to win the series, but it's 10 to 1 they won't make it a four-game sweep.

The Yankees appear healthy for this one. Although Mickey Mantle isn't perfect in Stengel's mind, And Case also has a question at second base in Billy Martin, troubled by a bad back.

Mantle, winning hitting's triple crown batting .353, hitting 52 home runs and knocking in 130 runs, didn't show any signs of his minor groin injury in the workout at the stadium.

Braves Look To '57 Race

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The men who run the Milwaukee Braves, determined not to settle for anything less than the pennant in the National League next year, will start mapping their 1957 plans immediately after the World Series.

"Our immediate plans include a conference after the series. It will include a discussion of player personnel, what we have, what we need."

The conferees probably will include Quinn, owner Lou Perini, Manager Fred Haney, who signed a one-year contract for '57 on Sept. 11, and Farm Director John Mullen.

The Braves' most pressing problems have been for the past two to three seasons—and still are—second base, left field and the bullpen.

Haney, agreeing that the stretch failures of righthanders Lew Burdette and Bob Buhl contributed to the Braves' third second-place finish in four years, pinpointed the "season-long inconsistency of our hitters" as the major cause. The club finished third in 1954.

Haney indicated how he felt about two positions during the final few games of the season by inserting Jack Dittmer, a 245 hitter, at second, and veteran Andy Pafko, 258 with the bat, in left field.

Another power drain was catcher Del Crandall, who ran into a string of injuries. Crandall, the team captain, wound up with a .238 batting average. Still another disappointment was reliever Dave Jolly, who won only two games.

Spartans Rank 2nd in Poll, Wolverines Advance to 5th

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Oklahoma, Michigan State and Georgia Tech are the nation's top three football teams in the opinion of sports writers and broadcasters.

Although there were few, if any, major upsets last weekend, the second weekly Associated Press ranking poll resulted in another big reshuffling of the top 10 teams. Eight of last week's first 10 retained their places in the upper group, but except for Oklahoma's No. 1 ranking, none held the same spot.

Oklahoma received 60 first-place votes out of 97 ballots cast, 20 more for second place and polled 883 points on the usual basis of 10 for first, 9 for second, etc.

Michigan State, an impressive winner over Stanford in its seasonal debut, moved ahead of Georgia Tech into second place.

Varsity Club

There will be a Varsity Club meeting Wednesday night at 7:30 at Macklin.

with 17 firsts and 773 points to Tech's 5 and 662.

Oklahoma, the top choice in the AP pre-season poll, opened its season with a 36-0 victory over North Carolina while Michigan State whipped Stanford 21-7. Meanwhile Georgia Tech chalked up its second close one of the season, beating Southern Methodist, early conqueror of Notre Dame, 9-7.

After these three, the writers and broadcasters, participating in the AP poll indicated a lot of doubt as to how the teams should be rated. On the point scores they came out in this order: Ohio State, Michigan, Mississippi, Pittsburgh, Texas Christian, Tennessee and Southern California.

The season opening performances of the big 10 teams apparently made a big impression. Ohio State moved up from eighth and Michigan from 13th. Mississippi's smashing victory over Kentucky boosted the Rebels from ninth and Pitt climbed from tenth after stopping Syracuse. Tennessee wasn't even rated in the first 20 a week ago, but a lopsided victory over Auburn earned a ninth-place ranking.

The top teams with first place votes in parentheses:

1. Oklahoma (60) 1-0 883
2. Mich. St. (17) 1-0 773
3. Ga. Tech (5) 2-0 662
4. Ohio St. (2) 1-0 437
5. Mich. (2) 1-0 420
6. Mississippi (1) 2-0 385
7. Pittsburgh (1) 2-0 357

FOOTBALL: ITS CAUSE AND CURE

At next Saturday's football game, while you are sitting in your choice student's seat on the ten-yard line, you give a thought to Alaric Sigafoos?

Who, you ask, is Alaric Sigafoos? Come closer, down, light a Philip Morris, savor that natural goodness, sigh contentedly, cross your fat little legs, and listen.

Alaric Sigafoos (1868-1934) started life as a humble farm near Thud, Kansas. His mother and father, named Ralph, were bean-gleaners, and Alaric became a bean-gleaner too. But he soon tired of the work and went to Memphis where he got a job with a logging firm. He drifted to Texas where he tidied up oil fields (fig-rigger). Then to Arizona where he strung dry lines (hook-looker). Then to Long Island where he dressed poultry (duck-plucker). Then to California where he lectured young women who were about to get married (bride-chider). Then to Minnesota where he cut up frank lakes (ice-slicer). Then to Nevada where he determined the odds in a gambling house (dice-pricer). Then to Milwaukee where he pasted camera lenses (Zeiss-splicer).

Finally he went to Omaha where he got a job in tannery, beating pig-hides until they were soft and soggy (hog-flogger). Here he found happiness at last.

He found happiness at last...

Why, you ask, did he find happiness at last as a hog-flogger? Light another firm and fragrant Philip Morris, taste that true tobacco flavor, puff, relax, let sweet smoke possess your limbs, and listen.

Next door to the hog-floggers was an almond grove owned by a girl named Chimera Emrick. Chimera was pink and white and marvelously hinged, and Alaric was hopelessly in love the moment he clapped eyes on her. Each day he came to the almond grove to woo Chimera, but to no avail. He tried with all his vigor and ardor, but she, alas, stayed cool.

Then one day Alaric got a brilliant idea. It was the day before the annual Omaha Almond Festival. On that day, as we all know, every almond grower in Omaha enters a float in the big parade. The floats always consist of large cardboard almonds hanging from large cardboard almond trees.

Alaric's inspiration was to stitch pieces of paper together and inflate them until they looked like big plump almonds. "These sure beat skinny old cardboard almonds," said Alaric to himself. "Tomorrow they will surely take first prize for Chimera, and she will be mine."

Early the next morning Alaric came around to Chimera with his inflated pigskin almonds, but she told him she was not entering a float that year. (It was she had just sold her almond grove and was moving East to try out with the Boston Red Sox.)

Alaric, upon hearing these glum tidings, flew into a violent rage. He started kicking his pigskin almonds all over the place. And who should be walking by at that very instant but Abner Doubleday!

Mr. Doubleday, who had invented baseball some years earlier, was now trying to invent football, but without success. The trouble was, he couldn't figure out what to do with the ball to use. Now, seeing Alaric kick the pigskin spheroids, his problem was suddenly solved. "That's it," he cried, and ran to his drawing board, and the rest is history!

When you go to next Saturday's game, the makers of Philip Morris, sponsors of this column, suggest you take along a perfect football companion—Philip Morris, of course!

Burke will recover in time to play against Michigan Saturday. Feurig is just as uncertain of the answer to this question as anyone else. "Pat could surprise us and come out of it in a few days," he says, "but if the injury follows the course of a similar one that he had in the Michigan game last year, he may miss a week and a half."

Burke stands a good chance of being able to dress for the Michigan contest, Feurig feels. "If he does dress, he probably won't be used in a key role, though," he said.

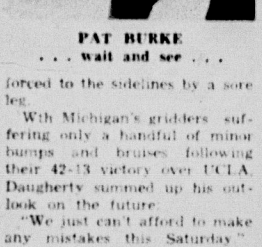

Actually, Burke suffered two separate injuries. The first was the twisted knee which he received when he was cross-blocked. When he fell, another player stepped on him, bruising the lower part of the same leg.

Francis O'Brien, who was out on the leg Saturday, reported for practice Monday and has been taken off the disabled list. Daugherty, who showed moves of the Stanford game to his players and coaches Monday evening, has taken the injuries in stride and is concentrating on correcting previous mistakes this week.

He named Joe Caruthers to start in Burke's tackle slot against Michigan if Burke fails to recover rapidly enough.

Caruthers had recently been replaced at first string left tackle by Joel Jones when he was hurt.

The National League pennant race was one of the closest in history and was climaxed by the remarkable comeback of the "old" Dodgers, who had been counted out of contention on numerous occasions.

PAT BURKE ... wait and see ...

With Michigan's gridlers suffering only a handful of minor bumps and bruises following their 42-13 victory over UCLA, Daugherty summed up his outlook on the future.

"We just can't afford to make any mistakes this Saturday," he said.

Dodgers Repeat

By JOE HOFFMAN
State News Sports Editor

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The ageless wonders, the Brooklyn Dodgers, have done it again. Mel Reiter, a night sports editor and a die-hard fan of the Bums, comments on this "fountain of youth" ballclub as he explains why old age isn't always a handicap.)

Someone once said "desire is the country of the young. Despair is the land of the age."

But this year the Dodgers made falsehoods of the legends by beating Pittsburgh, 8-6, Sunday and winning the National League pennant, their fourth in the last five years.

It is an elderly team by the standards of the sport. In other lines men of their age are still shaping their careers.

They played like old wizards, doing wonders they learned in boyhood. Among them Junior Gilliam and Sandy Amoros seemed like interlopers who were allowed to be part of this lodge of middle-aged athletes.

When Charlie Neal appeared in a game last week he might have been the bat-boy, so youthful was his appearance by comparison.

They have been through this before and Pee Wee Reese has been the shortstop since 1940. It is Reese, Jackie Robinson, Roy Campanella and Sal Maglie who were supposed to be through.

Everyone except Gilliam was a disappointment as a hitter. Old ball clubs lose but the Dodgers are the National League champs once again.

It was Maglie, too old for the Giants, too old for Cleveland, who pitched the best ball of his career, winning 13 games, including a no-hitter against the Phils last Wednesday.

All of them were big ones and a majority of them were against the contending clubs. It was his fine 4-2 pitching hitting game against Milwaukee in mid-September that put the Dodgers into a tie for first place.

Just a few weeks ago, when the Brooks held a slim one-half game lead, Campanella quoted, "you let an old dog run loose, and it's tough to get the harness back on him. It's tough to catch him. It's going to be tough to catch us."

And the old dogs ran like young ones who have never been off the leash.

Armstrong 6 Wins IM Opener, 13-6

By JOHN VANDEN HEDE

The 1956 intramural football season opened Monday with 22 teams participating. New names appearing in the scores for the first time include teams representing Armstrong and Bailey dormitories.

Armstrong 6, 13: Armstrong 5, 6. In the opening game Armstrong 6 defeated Armstrong 5, 13-6. Armstrong 6 scored early in the second period on a 35 yard pass from Ron Scott to Tom Horbolls. The conversion from Horbolls to Jerry Ayres was good.

Halfway through the fourth period Armstrong 6 scored on a pass from Horbolls to Mary Abbott. The extra point was missed. Armstrong 5 scored their lone tally with two minutes left in the fourth period on a 35 yard pass play from Walt Archer to Bill Beattie. The conversion was missed.

Armstrong 8, 20: Armstrong 7, 0. Led by John Clairmont and Bill Cole, Armstrong 8 romped to a 20-0 win over Armstrong 7. Armstrong 8's first score came in the second quarter on a one yard run through the middle by Clairmont. Clairmont passed to Cole for the conversion. Midway through the third period Armstrong 8 scored their second touchdown on a pass from Clairmont to Jones for the conversion. Armstrong 8's final score came early in the fourth period on a 35 yard pass from Clairmont to Cole. The try for extra point was missed.

Armstrong 4, 7: Bailey 1, 0. In a close, hard-fought game Bailey 2 defeated Bailey 1, 7-0. Bailey 2 scored the game's only touchdown by climaxing a 50 yard drive with a four yard pass from Ted Cappelen to Harry Schaffer. The conversion from Cappelen to Dan Loft was good.

Armstrong 3, 7: Bailey 3, 0. A third quarter pass of 25 yards from Gilmore to Freeding was the only touchdown scored as Bailey 4 topped Bailey 3, 7-0.

Kefauver Blasts Ike's Farm Program in Texas

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver said Monday night President Eisenhower is "too busy trying to win an election with sunshine and smiles to do anything effective to help small farmers and ranchers hard pressed by drought."

Nixon's Visit Aids State GOP

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Republican leaders agreed Monday that Vice President Nixon's brief visit to Western Michigan was a tonic to their cause.

National Committeeman Clifford O'Sullivan called Nixon's appearance "a terrific success." "I think it was prophetic. We're going to see steadily growing enthusiasm between now and Nov. 6. Republicans are on the march," he said.

Favored by perfect autumn weather the Vice President was seen by an estimated 20,000 persons in the three hours he spent here including a crowd variously put at 7,500 to 10,000 which heard his speech in Campanau Square.

The throng in the Square was friendly and attentive and the Vice President also got a response on arrival at Kent County Airport, at Calvin College, and along streets on route to and from the airport.

About one-third of those who saw Nixon were students from the college down to the grade school level.

Detroit Mayor Cobo, Republican candidate for governor, was asked appraisal of the effect on the Republican campaign.

"It's very good," Cobo replied. "When you bring a crowd out like this, it has a tendency to create the interest and to show warmth. It stirs up enthusiasm."

John B. Martin, Jr., Republican nominee for Secretary of State, said the turnout downtown exceeded his expectations. A Grand Rapids resident, he said it was the largest he had ever seen in the Square.

Martin said he thought Nixon was most effective on the peace issue.

"He hit it harder than ever before. The election may well turn on that issue," he added.

Jet Plane Crashes At London

LONDON (AP) — The Vulcan, world's largest delta-wing bomber, missed the runway and crashed in flames at mist-shrouded London Airport Monday. Hair-trigger ejection seats catapulted the pilot and a British air marshal to safety, but four crewmen perished.

A distinguished crowd waiting to welcome the four-jet "Mighty Bat" home from a testing flight to Australia witnessed the crash.

The plane, one of Britain's secret atom-bomb carriers, roared out of driving rain and plunged into the ground while being "talked in" because of bad visibility.

Britain's bomber chief, Air Marshal Sir Harry Broadhurst and pilot Donald Howard made last-second escapes as their ejection seats hurtled them through the cabin roof.

After an investigation, a spokesman for the Hawker-Siddeley group and A. V. Roe, makers of the Vulcan, said parts of the undercarriage were found in a plowed field several hundred yards in front of the runway outside the airport fence.

This, the spokesman said, indicated the aircraft touched down in advance of the concrete runway and the undercarriage was ripped off.

Broadhurst, 50, was acting as copilot to Squadron Leader Howard, 33, on this proving flight of one of the world's mightiest war planes. They suffered only minor shock as parachutes eased them 30 feet to the ground.

The crash was only a few hundred yards in front of a welcoming committee of high government and Royal Air Force brass, airport personnel and a party of Russians at the airport waiting to meet the Bolshoi Ballet.

The Vulcan was returning from a test flight to Australia and New Zealand. On the outward flight it had spanned the 11,475 miles from London to Melbourne in just over 47 hours, at an average of over 500 miles an hour.

Elvis Sends Gals For 12 Hours

CHICAGO (AP) — Radio station WAIT put on a 12-hour concert of Elvis Presley records Monday and reported these results:

One woman called that she was canceling her dental appointment to stay home and listen.

Another inquired when there would be a break for a long newscast. She wanted to hang out her washing but didn't want to miss any songs.

The mother of a 6-month-old youngster said the baby usually cries all morning but went to sleep peacefully as Elvis crooned.

A woman said she hadn't missed work in more than two years but was playing sick to stick near the radio.

Many mothers reported they had no trouble getting their teenagers up for school. The trouble was getting them off to school.

The station began broadcasting 33 Presley records over and over at 7 a.m. with two disk jockeys handling the chore.

Econ Student Gets Award

John T. Conlon, a graduate fellow in economics at MSU, has received one of 94 fellowships awarded by the Ford Foundation for the 1956-57 academic year.

Conlon, Orono, Maine, is now studying at the University of Maine. He received a doctoral dissertation fellowship.

The Ford Foundation announced this week it has appropriated $570,000 for the fellowships for graduate students and teachers to study at 35 American universities. The purpose of the program is to increase the number of college and university teachers of economics and business administration and to encourage research in these fields.

There are three types of awards: predoctoral fellowships, dissertation fellowships and faculty research fellowships.

Williams Denies Charge Of Drop in Industry

DETROIT (AP) — In a speech to the Economic Club of Detroit, Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams denied Monday that Michigan has been losing industry to other states.

Stocks Dip To Lowest Since June

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market took its worst beating and on the heaviest volume Monday than at any time since President Eisenhower suffered his intestinal illness June 28.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped $2.50 to $172.20, its lowest point since Jan. 23 when it touched the year's low $171.60.

The industrial component went down $3.30, the rails $2.90 to a new low and the utilities 70 cents to another of a succession of new lows this component has been making recently.

Volume totaled 2,600,000 shares, largest turnover since 1,630,000 shares were traded June 8. The drop in the AP 60-stock average that day was $3.00. Friday's volume was 1,720,000.

The climatic selling wave was followed by a decided move to the upside, which paced the loss, somewhat and even turned some of them to fractional gains but this rebound was cut short by the closing gong.

The recovery toward the close was encouraging to brokers who saw in the big sell-off a possible climax to the general downturn which has prevailed since Egypt nationalized the Suez Canal at the end of July. Tight money and domestic political uncertainties have also depressed stocks but analysts also saw technical reasons for the market's long decline.

Defending his administration, Williams said, "The Democrats contend that Michigan is a good place to do business. The Republicans deny it. You know, and I know, that Michigan is not losing industry to anybody in the net account."

The Governor cited figures. In 1955, he said, "Michigan's net gain in new plants and industries was 128, and the net gain in employment was 42,920. And in the first half of 1956, the net gain in plants was 78 and the net gain in jobs was 22,645."

Williams described as "nonsense" allegations that "Michigan's taxes on business and industry are exorbitant and unfair in comparison with similar taxes in other states."

The Governor said "The official figures disclose that only 12.7 per cent of Michigan's total tax revenues are derived from taxes on business and industry. This is 1.3 per cent below the national average of 14 per cent."

Williams said it was true that the cost of state government "has moved upward from $56 million dollars in 1949 and 1950 to $75 million dollars in the fiscal year 1956 and 1957." But he added that does "not tell the true story." State expenditures in that period, he said, "have declined by 4 per cent as compared to the individual income of the people."

Williams declared the "biggest falsehood of all" was "the assertion that Michigan's tax for unemployment compensation is from one to six times higher than in neighboring states." He said "The average rate in Michigan, 9 of one per cent, is 3 of a per cent less than the average of average rates in all of the 16 states which by any stretch of the imagination could be called 'Michigan's neighbors'."

Students Reminded To Pick up Policies

Truman Schrag, student representative for the Student Insurance plan, announced that students who have paid for their policies must pick them up this week in the Student Government office if they have already done so. The office will be open Friday at 2:4 p.m.

What's Doing . . . at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft

Test Lab "Upstairs"

Even in aviation's earliest years, it was axiomatic that "proof must come in the air". Out of this, the flying test bed was born . . . and slowly grew to its present-day stature as an indispensable engineering tool, implemented by an extensive variety of engineering skills.

The problems of observing and recording an engine's performance in the air are legion. Most recently, a Boeing B-50 and a North American B-45 were readied as test beds for Pratt & Whitney Aircraft's J-57 and J-75 turbojets. The experimental power plant, contained in a retractable pod in the bomb bay, can be flown to locations where atmospheric conditions permit most efficient testing. The prototype is then extended into the air stream for actual flight work with the regular engines idled, and the job of observing and recording in-flight performance begins.

From the first shakedown flight to the test engine's eventual acceptance, invaluable information is gathered. Perhaps the most vital contribution made by P & W's flying test-bed program is the great reduction in time between initial development and quantity production of engines. Important, too, is the quality and diversity of engineering talent involved in such a program, for it spells out remarkable opportunity for today's engineering student.
