The Spartans' composer and ... of "Toss-See, Baby, Good-

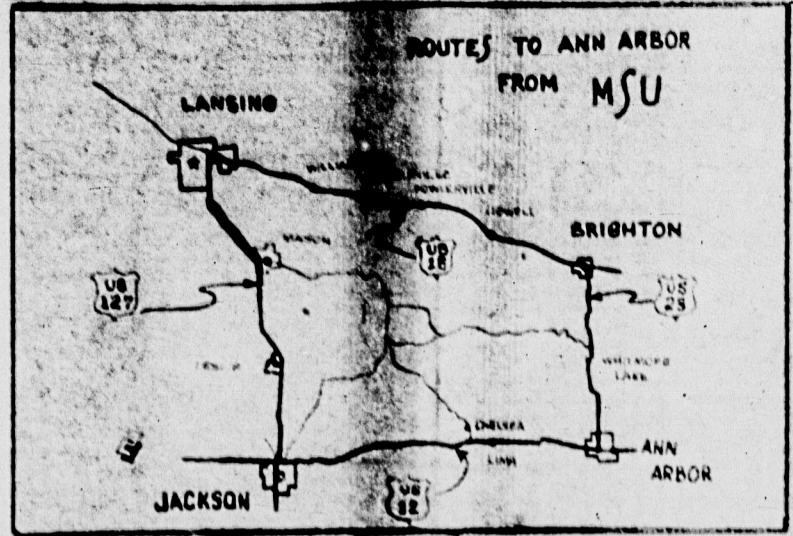

"Bye" and "Ivy Tower" heard on the grill jukebox, will set as master of ceremonies for the evening and will begin the rally with some specialty acts that he has arranged.

Stokey will then introduce President John A. Hannah who will in turn say a few words wishing the team luck and give the students a pep talk to cheer the team on to victory in Ann Arbor Saturday.

Nick Smith, Addison senior, and the cheerleaders will take over the program by leading the student body through a few cheers and the MSU Fight Song.

The Jazz Combo is then slated to return and play a few numbers followed by the cheerleaders and the Sparty Head, traditionally seen at all athletic functions.

Stokey will do an act for the cheerers and the Alma Mater will complete the rally which is to be followed by a free of charge dance in the Auditorium given by the Student Government.

The dance will feature Rob Eberhart and his band.

Students who will be in Ann Arbor tonight have been invited to attend a Tex Beneke concert by the U of M.

Saturday night following the game several open houses, dances and parties have been scheduled that Michigan State students have been invited to.

One of these is the "Golden Rule" Ball, annually sponsored by the Michigan Men's Union. The dance is from 9-1 a.m. in the Michigan Union Ballroom. Music will be supplied by Red Johnson an eight piece orchestra. Tickets are $1.50 per couple.

Decorations for the dance will include a large replica of Sparty at one end of the ballroom and a picture of the Engineering Arch at the other end. Since these two landmarks are favorite targets when students go on painting expeditions to rival campuses, green and blue chalk will be available for all budding artists.

This will keep in line with the theme of the dance "Do unto others as you would not have them do unto you."

There is also a mixer for the men of East and West Shaw, Emmons and Butterfield dormitories and their staffs from Cooley Men's dormitory in Ann Arbor from 8:30-11:30 p.m.

Another feature attraction of the day will be that the majority of State students will be supporting cowbells that will ring for each successful yard gainage and point made by the gridders from MSU.

Campus Chest officials stated that the bells are selling like "hot cakes" and will continue on sale until 5 p.m. today in the Union, outside of Berkey and the Campus Book Store for the price of 50 cents.

Idea for 'A Wife' Gets 36 Answers

State News Staffer Finds Self Neck Deep in Offers

State News Editorial Page Editor Gene Ritzinger Thursday found himself neck deep in marriage proposals.

He wrote that he needed "a wife," any kind of wife before 8 p.m. Oct. 8 or he would not be able to register to vote in November. (Oct. 8 is the voter registration deadline.)

The one non-coed called Ritzinger from Muskegon. Miss Hazel Forgnson said she had read an Associated Press report on his column in a local paper and was willing to marry him. Ritzinger turned her down.

Thirty-three of the 36 coeds were willing to marry Ritzinger with no reservations.

Residents of East Lansing dormitory, they had signed a petition reading "We would be willing to marry Gene Ritzinger so that he can register to vote."

The petition was circulated by Sharon Linton, Detroit sophomore.

Three other coeds had reservations.

"One girl said she'd marry me," Ritzinger said. "If I bought her a bigger engagement ring than the one her boy friend gave her. Another put in the condition that I'd have to go to northern Michigan and learn to ski. And a third said I'd have to switch my politics from Democrat to Republican."

He announced after the first meeting of the Junior Council made plans to assemble all juniors as a group at the night's pep rally.

The rally, which is co-sponsored by Spartan Spirit and the Junior Class, will begin at the band shell at 7:30. All juniors are asked to assemble in front of the bandshell on the side nearest the Auditorium.

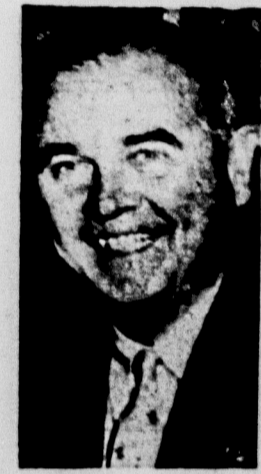

It was announced that the next Junior Class office hour would be held Thursday, Nov. 1 in Old College Hall.

Rush smokers for all juniors interested in committee work on all coming activities will be held Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 8:30 in Old College Hall.

Spelman to Spin Records at UB Dance

George Spelman, disc jockey from WJIM will spin records at the Union Board dance, Cecil La Vie, this Saturday, according to chairman, Bruce Bringsman.

The dance will be held from 8-12 p.m. in the Union Ballroom with a charge of 10c per couple. Assistant chairman is David McCaffrey.

Judge William Joseph Brennan Jr. poses at the White House after the announcement that President Eisenhower has selected him to be an associate justice of the U.S. Supreme court.

Spartan Staff Reorganized By New Chief

The Spartan Magazine staff was reorganized Thursday by Bob Slade, editor, and Tom Gaskin, business manager.

According to Slade, Gaskin, People's Sophomore, the following editorial appointments were made: Lou Fisher, Lansing Sophomore, copy editor, and Barbara Grill, Lansing Sophomore, art editor.

Business staff appointments were announced by Gaskin. Detroit Senior, appointed were Donald Tove, Douglass, New York Junior, circulation manager; Harvey Rubenstein, Brooklyn, New York Junior, promotion manager.

Anthony Char, Royal Oak Sophomore, and Roger Vrabie, Dearborn Sophomore, assistant promotion managers, and Fred Lintan, East Lansing Senior, and Robert D. Lyon, Yale Junior, assistant advertising managers.

'Music Is the Thing'

The MSU marching band takes in the road for their first trip of the football season tomorrow. Leaving by bus at 8 a.m. Saturday the famed Spartans band will show their talent at Ann Arbor.

It will be the last trip to the U of M for senior drum major Archie Patton and the last dual appearance of Archie and his brother Gordon U of M head teacher on the same field.

The pregame performance will introduce the band and preview the halftime performance. It begins with the "three corners" drill. A formation in three lines across the field, a march to the North end of the field and information into a check and closes with a triangle shape while the group performs "Cubacherry" with interpretive movements.

Collapse Probe Launched

State Dept. Can't Sway Jonsson

Iceland's Policy 'Will Never Vary'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two days of "frank and friendly" talks at the State Department apparently haven't moved Iceland's Foreign Minister Emil Jonsson from his position that American troops must leave Iceland.

It is now, as always before, the traditional policy of Iceland to avoid the stationing of armed forces in Iceland," Jonsson told a news conference just before leaving Thursday for Reykjavik, the Icelandic capital.

He said his country still wants the 1,000-man American force withdrawn from Keflavik, leaving the giant NATO air base there to be maintained by Icelanders.

The only concession Jonsson appeared to be prepared to make was possibly to allow some foreign specialists — but not soldiers — to be stationed at the base.

We are ready to keep the base in readiness and maintain it so it will be ready to use in case of emergency," the foreign minister said.

"Those functions which we are not able to take care of ourselves could be taken care of in other ways, not by troops, maybe by some specialists."

Earlier in the day State Department officials were described as moderately hopeful that a compromise could be worked out to continue U. S. operation of the air base.

Iceland has no army of its own.

5 Located In Debris, 5 Missing

State Legislature May Investigate

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—Three official investigations were launched Thursday into the roaring collapse of a partly completed office building which claimed the lives of 10 workmen.

Five bodies have been recovered. But rescue workers said there is no chance the remaining five missing men could still be alive more than 24 hours after the four-story structure crumpled.

The Consumers Power Co., which had planned to house vital offices in the concrete building, called in two University of Michigan professors in an effort to determine cause of the collapse.

Named to investigate are Glenn I. Alt and Leo M. Legatski.

Separate investigations were also ordered by the general contractors, Herlihy-Mid-Continent Co. of Chicago, and the architects, Black & Black of Lansing, Mich. The State Legislature may also investigate.

In addition to the 10 dead, the landslide of steel and still-wet concrete injured 15 other workmen in one of Michigan's worst industrial accidents. More than a dozen other workmen jumped to safety as the heavy concrete flooring gave way.

Consumers Power said much of the basement was designed to withstand the force of an A-bomb blast. It was to have served as the nerve-center for distribution of power to many Michigan industries in the event of enemy attack.

An executive of one construction company, who would not be quoted by name, listed four general circumstances that might cause any building to collapse. They were:

1. "Green" cement which has not been allowed to harden long enough to attain full strength.
2. Improper shoring not strong enough to support heavy concrete.
3. Defective design.
4. Hard-to-detect structural defects in steel support.

Floodlights hit the wreckage Wednesday night as volunteers continued to dig through debris despite the danger that swaying wall foundations might crash down on them.

Today's Last Day For Dropping Classes

Today is the last day for students to drop classes. Drop slips must be returned to 115 Administration building before 5 p.m. today.

Spartan Band Gives 1st Show Tomorrow

By ANN TODOR
State News Feature Editor

The MSU marching band takes in the road for their first trip of the football season tomorrow. Leaving by bus at 8 a.m. Saturday the famed Spartans band will show their talent at Ann Arbor.

It will be the last trip to the U of M for senior drum major Archie Patton and the last dual appearance of Archie and his brother Gordon U of M head teacher on the same field.

The pregame performance will introduce the band and preview the halftime performance. It begins with the "three corners" drill. A formation in three lines across the field, a march to the North end of the field and information into a check and closes with a triangle shape while the group performs "Cubacherry" with interpretive movements.

At halftime the showing will center around a "Music is the Thing" theme.

First on the program is a selection of various designs to the accompaniment of "Strike up the Band" followed by dramatic and interpretive movements with "Caravan."

The band swings into full power with a formation of elephants' feet dancing for the "Elephant's Tango."

And for a climax the band has added a new feature in drum-concert formation they will accompany interpretive dancers Karen Olson, Marquette junior and physical education major, as the dancers "Flamingo."

To close MSU's part of the halftime performance will be the traditional salute to the University of Michigan followed by the familiar MSU formation for the "Fight Song" and "MSU Shadows."

Albert Von Tilzer, Composer, Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Albert Von Tilzer, writer of "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" and other hit songs, died in his apartment Monday after a long illness. He was 76.

Born in Indianapolis, Von Tilzer was one of the leading lights of Tin Pan Alley. Besides "Ball Game," which he wrote with Jack Norworth, he penned "Put Your Arms Around Me Honey," "Wait Till the Sun Shines, Nellie" and "I'll Be With You in Apple Blossom Time."

Mother Says Child Taken to USSR

Adlai Says 'I'm Guilty of Shunting'

DETROIT (AP)—Tanya Chwastov's mother wept Thursday at word that her American-born child was being spirited to the Soviet Union by her Russian refugee father.

"He promised he would give her back to me before he went back to Russia," sobbed Mrs. Helena Dieczok. "Maybe they will get her back."

Tanya, daughter of Mrs. Dieczok, a displaced person, is the 21-year-old Philadelphia-born girl for whom U. S. immigration men searched the liner Queen Mary in vain Wednesday before the ship sailed from New York for Europe.

Tanya is in the company of her father, Alexis Chwastov, 58, Chwastov is returning to Russia in reputed fear that if he does not the Soviet Union will retaliate against his aged mother in Russia.

Now the wife of another man, Mrs. Dieczok said she did not believe this report. She said Chwastov was "not worried about his mother. He just wanted Tanya for himself."

Identifying Tanya as the daughter born to her and Chwastov in Philadelphia in 1934, Mrs. Dieczok tearfully told of efforts to get Tanya back.

"I wrote Alexis many times asking him to send Tanya to me," she said. "He finally said he would give her to me if I ELKINS, W. Va. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson Thursday criticized the Eisenhower administration for what he called the "shunting aside" of lifetime conservationists in favor of political appointees.

It was the severest political-type statement in an otherwise non-partisan speech at the State Forest Festival.

The Democratic presidential nominee got up a head of steam in his whistle-stopping campaign Wednesday night with a nationally televised attack on Eisenhower.

He said at Pittsburgh over CBS that Eisenhower had made a "gross misstatement" of the record and was surrounding himself with GOP "cronies."

During the ride across northern West Virginia to this scenic mountain community, Stevenson aides frankly discussed their campaign strategy. They confirmed it might be something like this:

1. The Democratic party is more popular than the Republican party.

2. Eisenhower is personally more popular than Stevenson.

Therefore, the Democrats can win everywhere in the Nov. 6 election except for Stevenson—unless Eisenhower can be equated with the Republican party.

And that's what Stevenson's speeches in New Jersey Tuesday and Pennsylvania Wednesday appeared to be aiming at: to convince the voter that Eisenhower as head of the GOP is responsible for what it does.

Stevenson's Elkins speech declared America's forests, wild life havens, parks, streams and public lands "have been invaded and turned over to selfish private purposes.

But more important even than that, perhaps, is the shunting aside of men who are experienced and trained in a lifetime of conservation work in favor of political appointees."

MSU Staffers Make Daily News Headlines

Staffers of Michigan State University are constantly in the news because of their works or opinions on various subjects.

In the case of Dr. David J. Luck, director of the Michigan State University business research and editor of the publication, "Business Topics."

Noting the governor of Texas, Allan Shivers', remark that Houston's new $32 million shopping center is "the world's largest," Dr. Luck pointed out that centers in New York, Oregon and Michigan still outrank Texas in this category.

"The truth of the matter is that 'Northland,' near Detroit, remains 'the largest shopping center,'" he said.

Dr. Max Nelson, associate professor of speech, has been elected to the board of directors of the Michigan Association for Better Hearing. Dr. Nelson is a board member of the Lansing Society for Better Hearing and directs MSU's program of hearing conservation.

Dr. Donald J. Montgomery, associate professor of physics, and E. J. Covington, graduate student, will present a paper today at the fifth annual Midwest Solid State Conference, to be held at the University of Chicago.

They will speak on "Lattice Constants of Separated Isotopes of Lithium."

Dr. Harvey M. Bender, assistant professor of physics, and W. Bruce Zimmerman, graduate fellow in solid state physics, participated in the 14th annual meeting of the Electron Microscopy society of America at the University of Wisconsin.

The presented a paper entitled, "Fine Structure of Lip Lines in Aluminum Crystals."

A rechargeable cell for flashlight batteries is now being produced.
