Kucks Tosses Three-Hitter As Yanks Cop World Series

Home Runs Provide 9-0 Victory

Dodgers Blow 2-Game Lead

BROOKLYN (AP)—Slender Johnny Kucks humiliated Brooklyn with a three-hit shutout to win the 1956 World Series for the New York Yankees in the seventh game Wednesday with the fearsome backing of four home runs, including two by Yogi Berra and a grand slammer by Bill Skowron.

After losing six straight at the Ebbets Field "bandbox," the Yankees again crushed Don Newcombe in the big game to end the Dodgers' one-year reign. This time the score was 9-0. It was the Yankees' 17th championship in 22 attempts and their sixth over Brooklyn in seven series.

Kucks, a 23-year-old right-hander from Jersey City with low, breaking stuff, had the Brooks rolling all through the sunny but chill afternoon. Before it ended, many of the fans had started for the subway, muttering "Go home Brooklyn."

Climaxing this fine comeback after losing the first two games in Brooklyn, the Yankees ended a two-year span of National League supremacy and restored the American's edge to 34-19. Only one other club, the Dodgers of 1955, ever fought back to win a seven-game series after dropping the first two.

Kucks, making his first series start after four relief jobs, didn't allow a hit after Duke Snider sliced a single to left in the first until Carl Furys dropped a soft line into center for another single with one out in the eighth. Snider lined a single to center with two out in the ninth for the third hit.

It was a tremendous effort by another Yankee pitcher and a surprising performance by an 18-game winner who was not effective in late season. Kucks walked three and didn't strike out a man until he whiffed Jackie Robinson for the first out of the game. Robinson, incidentally, had to be thrown out when Berra dropped the third strike.

As usual, Manager Casey Stengel's strategy proved to be perfect. He benched two left-handed hitters—Enos Slaughter and Newcombe—and got away with it. The two men he inserted into the line up, Elston Howard and Skowron, each hit home runs.

When Berra threw to Skowron for the final out on Robinson's strike out, the entire Yankee ball club gathered around the mound to pound Kucks's back. Somebody grabbed the youngster's cap but he didn't care. He was almost skipping as he hurried to the dugout atop a purple cloud.

The Dodgers' defeat was the most lopsided shutout in a series game since Dizzy Dean pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to an 11-0 victory.

Notre Dame Trip Student Signups Close Today

This is the last day to sign up for the Notre Dame Sports Special in the Union Concourse. Don Pass, director of the trip, announced that approximately 900 students have filled out applications requesting train and game tickets for Oct. 20.

Names will be drawn tonight at 7 in the student government office and the list will be posted on the student government bulletin board on the first floor of the Union.

Students whose names appear on the list are requested to pick up their tickets Tuesday or Wednesday. The $8.00 fee plus identification card must be presented at that time.

A maze of signs is reflected on the roof of the auto from which Democratic presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson waves as he is welcomed at Midway Airport, Chicago, following a campaign tour of the East.

Dance, Game, Highlight Activities Homecoming Attracts Alumni

MSU's 47th annual Homecoming will attract an estimated 12,000 alumni to the campus this weekend. Activities for the weekend include the MSU-Indiana football game Saturday afternoon, homecoming displays of all living units, a Homecoming banquet Saturday night, and a Homecoming Dance Saturday night in the Aud.

Four alumni awards will be presented at the banquet Saturday night in Kellough Center. Speakers at the dinner will be President Hannah, Biggie Mann, athletic director, and Duffy Hougherty, head football coach.

The Homecoming Dance will be held at the Auditorium 8 to 12, to the music of Fred Netting and his orchestra, a band from Detroit.

During intermission, Lee Stacey, Homecoming Queen, and her court will be presented. Trophies will be awarded to the queen and court and to the winners of the Homecoming display contest.

Alumni club presidents and representatives will attend a workshop at Kellough Center Friday afternoon and Saturday night, and a banquet Friday night at which President Hannah will speak.

According to Starr Keeler, director of alumni relations, alumni club representatives will travel from as far as Washington state and Florida for the weekend.

Alumni may register on the second floor of the Union building or in the lobby of the Kellough Center, according to Keeler.

Additional activities scheduled for the weekend include the annual alumni homecoming breakfast at Kellough Center Saturday and a business meeting and luncheon of the Nurses Alumni association Saturday morning in the Union.

Because the students are being charged only for the actual cost of the service and not for the labor involved, Dr. Hannah stated that he wishes every MSU student will avail himself of the situation.

On the recommendation of Dr. James Feurig, team physician, the entire football squad will receive the shots.

Registration will continue today and Friday in the second floor of the Union from 8-5 p.m. Late registrants may sign up in the Union Concourse after Friday noon.

When registering students are asked to pay a $2 fee for the first two shots and to sign up for the time he wishes to receive the shots. The first shot will be administered Oct. 15-19 and the second Nov. 12-16 on the fourth floor of the Union in the ping pong room.

The third shot will be given spring term.

Education students now on student teaching may register for the shots with their resident coordinators for the Saturday mornings of Oct. 27 and Nov. 24. These shots will be given at the Olin Memorial Health Center.

Students wishing to receive only the second or third shots may make the arrangements through the Health Center or student government.

Vets Get Cards

Members of the MSU Veterans Assn. can pick up their membership cards in Union Org Room 2 any afternoon this week up at the next meeting, according to Bob Ronell, club president.

AUSG Passes 4 Resolutions

Ask 24-Hr. Duty For Olin Doctors

A half hour debate over a resolution introduced by Joe Ray, East Lansing senior, was the main business at the student congress meeting Wednesday night.

The resolution stated that the retention of a staff physician on a 24-hour basis be put through for Olin Memorial Hospital.

Ben Whitehead, Detroit junior, led the opposing side with the argument that Dr. Clifford G. Menzies, director of the health center, stated that a doctor is on call at the health center 24-hours a day and is within five minutes from the Center at all times.

Dr. Menzies also stated that the nurses stationed at the Center are qualified registered nurses and could handle any minor case until a doctor arrived.

However, Ray's argument for the resolution was stressed on the Tamarack incident last spring when the seven-year-old son of an MSU freshman was severely beaten by his father with a tennis racket, wooden mallet and manual methods.

When the boy lost consciousness, the father took him first to Olin Health Center where there was no doctor on duty and then to Sparrow Hospital in Lansing. The boy was pronounced dead on arrival.

Finally, Ray stressed to fellow congress members the importance of what a few minutes could mean. In this case, the difference between life and death.

He also explained that financially through investigations this would be very possible.

On the first vote taken by voice, Ray requested a show of hands because the first vote was a division. On the show of hands vote the resolution was defeated 15-12. Ray then requested a roll call vote which resulted in a 15-12 deadlock.

In a case such as this the speaker pro tem, Tom Kamen, said.

Philharmonic Tickets Available on Monday

Tickets for the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra, Oct. 22 and the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra, Nov. 19, will go on sale Monday in the Union second floor check-room. Students must present coupon "B" of their activity books and will have a choice of which orchestra they prefer to hear.

The other three officers were identified as Earl Farabee, George Szendi and George Szendi. All were charged with "grave violation of Hungarian laws." They were arrested Oct. 5.

On Closed-Circuit Station Brody to Try Commercial-Free Radio

Are you tired of receiving state on your radio? Advertising getting you down? The general feeling of those hearing the same news over and over? There's a new idea.

For the first time in the history of the University there will be a student-operated, student-owned radio station.

It will be operated from Brody Hall and serve the needs of Armstrong, Baily, Bryson, Egan, Hamilton, Butterfield and others.

The men of the Brody area are planning the project and hope to begin broadcasting by the beginning of winter term.

It will be a "commercial-free" radio station, as it is called. The signal will be transmitted by way of A.C. current to the transmitter which is located in Brody Hall and the impulse will be carried by the electrical lines to each of the dorms.

It can only be picked up in the Brody Group because it is transmitted only through the electrical wires and not through the air.

The Brody dormitory group is faced with the problem of communicating to some 2,000 men with nothing more than typewritten signs and notices which has not proven adequate.

As President Hannah pointed out in his talk with the men of Brody concerning "The Big

Adds New Heat to Campaign Stevenson Charges GOP Indifference

Adlai Stevenson added some new heat to the presidential race Wednesday night, saying President Eisenhower's words don't square with acts of his administration.

Eisenhower had charged the Democrats with "political irresponsibility at its worst" in saying that the Republicans are indifferent to the needs of the people.

In effect, Stevenson's reply was to repeat that the Republicans have been indifferent, despite all Eisenhower says.

Eisenhower will have an opportunity to carry this argument along at a news conference Thursday.

He may also be asked about Stevenson's comment Wednesday night that Eisenhower has expanded his campaign because "the Republican managers have decided that while they don't mind a part-time President, they can't stand a part-time candidate."

Stevenson's speech, at Portland, Ore. was in reply to the one Eisenhower made Tuesday night at Pittsburgh.

Stevenson said what Eisenhower says "reflects little realization of the fact that his administration is made up almost entirely of men who represent a single set of interests."

Also Wednesday, Stevenson announced formation of a 50-member national business council of "well-known leaders in business and finance" who are supporting his campaign.

Stevenson said the business council, headed by Joseph P. Kennedy and William L. Clayton, will seek to get across to business generally the views Stevenson has on the national economy.

Eisenhower will not make another full-length foray on the campaign trail until next week, when he goes to the Northport on a speaking tour.

Returns from the Alaska elections Wednesday night set off some jubilation in Democratic ranks. Returns from nearly half the territory's precincts showed Democrats won or led for 30 of the 39 offices and legislative seats at stake.

Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall said the Alaska returns "have no significance in connection with the national elections which responsible polls show we are winning."

Both vice-presidential candidates were active Wednesday as usual. Democrat Estes Kefauver in New York State and Republican Richard Nixon in California.

Kefauver said at Buffalo that Nixon "represents the triumph of the old guard in the Republican party" and if he should follow Eisenhower to the presidency.

Quantity or Quality— What Does U.S. Want?

John A. Kennedy, Sioux Falls, South Dakota publisher, who recently visited Russia, said recently "schools and colleges—not jet planes nor H-Bombs—are the greatest Russian threat to America and the West."

"That's our most important single conclusion," the publisher told the World Affairs Council of Northern California.

"The Soviet Union has approximately 70 percent more students in colleges and universities than we; tuition's free and they pay their college students salaries. . . . And the Soviet Union has the stiffest primary-secondary system of six-day-per-week, 10-month-per-year schooling in the world which is now mandatory in that vast nation."

"One of the most significant aspects of education in the Soviet Union is the emphasis on mathematics, physics, chemistry and related subjects."

—Associated Press

"A student is a person who is learning to fulfill his powers and to find ways of using them in the service of mankind."

"But your difficulty is that not everyone thinks of your studenthood in these terms. More often the student in America is considered as manpower to be trained to carry out our society's wishes, as youth to be educated according to a set pattern of ideas."

"One of the more annoying ways in which this is often stated is to compare the number of graduates in technical fields now being produced in the United States."

"The assumption is that higher education in the United States has the same ideals and values as that of the Soviet Union, and that if only we turn out another 30,000 technical experts a year to keep up with the USSR, our country's freedom will be secure."

Will it make us more secure or less secure if we accept the Soviet view of education as a combination and propaganda technique?

"Will it make us more or less secure to give all our high salaries and material awards to technical experts, with no one left to teach them or to discover new forms of knowledge, new values, new works of art or the new ideas, which alone make a civilization worth preserving?"

"I don't think that security lies in this direction, and I think it is not only a foolish mistake, but an Un-American activity to think of students this way."

—Address by Harold Taylor, President of Sarah Lawrence College, Courtesy of the Virginia Cavalier.

The Voters Speak — As Lubell Sees It

Ike Seems Choice of Retired Citizens

By SAMUEL LUBELL

No one so far as I know has defined what is "the most dangerous age" politically, but from my talks with typical American voters I would put it at 65 and over.

For strange things seem to happen to the political thinking of many people when they move out of the active labor force.

Some lose all interest in politics. One retired custodian in Chicago told me, "I don't care any more which party wins. If I vote I'll do what my neighbors are doing."

Other retired persons, though, become belligerently sensitive to almost any action that threatens to raise taxes or boost prices and thus deprecate the value of the pensions or savings on which they live.

In every part of the country I have found that the most bitter criticism of foreign aid are voiced by retired persons.

Typical of these was the outburst of one retired auto worker in Detroit. "It's nonsense to take our money and hand it over to other countries."

"Currently these 'senior citizens' are aligning quite heavily in favor of President Eisenhower despite Adlai Stevenson's promise of better living levels after retirement."

Many are doing so for the same reasons which are winning the President votes generally—a respect for Eisenhower, the man, and the feeling that he is the best hope for peace. Others credit him with reducing the eligibility age for social security benefits for women from 65 to 62.

But the bulk of the support for the President from retired persons seems to reflect the sentiment expressed by one Richmond (Calif.) widow, a Democrat who is staying with Eisenhower. "The Republicans haven't stopped inflation but they seem to be doing a better job at it than the Democrats did."

On the other hand, the jump in living costs in recent months is cutting down the President's vote.

In Minneapolis, a retired postal worker, who lived in an unpainted house near the railroad tracks, broke for Eisenhower in 1952 because of the price rises that followed the outbreak of the Korean War. In 1954 this postal worker told me he was still for the President because "prices have stopped going up."

But this November he will be back with the Democrats.

"All I have to live on is my pension," he explained. "I just can't stand these price rises."

Similar complaints of "I was all set to vote for Ike until prices started jumping this summer" have been expressed by retired voters in at least five other cities I have visited—Miami, Los Angeles, Detroit, Columbus and New York.

Even stalwart Republicans show some restiveness.

A retired steel company official in Miami declared, "My only interest in politics is to keep prices down. But I don't blame the Administration for these higher prices. It's those premium stamps they're giving away that's pushing prices up."

A few blocks away a gray-haired widow who voted for Truman in 1948 and Eisenhower in 1952 was sticking with the President even though "prices are climbing up yonder."

Free Press Game Tale Draws Readers' Boos

To the Editor:

While sitting around listening to the Michigan-Michigan State game last Saturday with other members of precinct four, Emmons Hall, we could hardly believe our ears.

It seemed that Michigan State was on the wrong end of a build-up.

Even more surprising were the headlines of the Detroit Free Press the next morning. "Somebody Smiles on MSU and Brings Lucky Victory."

To the members of a very concerned Sunday afternoon session, this article was neither just or sportsmanlike and we all join in giving the writer of that article a most hearty raspberry. Maybe he had his back turned during the second half when "lucky MSU" pushed Michigan all over the field.

We're sure that this is not of current interest to just precinct four, but to the whole campus. It will be interesting to see just how soon the Free Press will smile at anything in East Lansing.

Shootin' Club

To the Editor:

Being a freshman I have the "gun-fo MSU" spirit. The propaganda I received before entering this fall stressed the Woman's Intramural Program and the facilities available for athletic participation.

To a certain extent my expectations have been met by the Women's Athletic Association in their sponsorship of swimming, volleyball and field hockey. However, I am disappointed in the fact that there is no Women's Rifle Team—at least to my knowledge.

If there is any opportunity at State for girls to participate in riflery, I certainly wish some information would be made available to us girls who do wish to shoot as to time, place, and facilities.

I am certain there must be many other interested women enrolled at State that would participate if they were given the opportunity.

I am asking you to withhold my name for personal reasons. It might be difficult to live down the idea that perhaps I am just "gunning for a man" and that I need the shooting practice.

Name withheld by request.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: As far as we can determine, there is no MSU Rifle Club. However, there is a Spartan Pistol Club—several members of which, according to the 1956 Wolverine, have won berths on All-American Rifle Association teams. James Flannery, Harrisville Junior, and a member of the Pistol Club, says information about that club and riflery can be obtained from Sgt. Roberts in the armory.)

"I wouldn't vote for Stevenson on a bet," she declared. "Eisenhower has kept his family united. We'll just have to take these price jumps."

On balance the feeling that "the dollar has held up better under the Republicans than under the Democrats" seems strong enough to carry the GOP through until after November.

But of greater long-range significance—and doubt—is whether the bulk of the retired voters will continue to stay with the Republicans in the years to come? If that does happen it would be a strong factor in re-establishing the Republicans as the normally majority party in the country.

By the time they reach retirement many persons, of course, have acquired income-producing property. Those who have invested in stocks, I have noticed, do tend to align themselves with "the party that helps business." The Republicans have also gained appreciably in recent years among those older citizens who have invested in rental properties.

The Republicans seem weakest among retired persons with a labor background or who are grateful to the Democrats for "starting social security" and "saving our homes in the depression." Still many one-time Democrats find themselves at loose end politically.

The retired worker, up, remains something of a question mark in the new alignment taking shape. Leaving the Republicans for the time being, his continued loyalty will be won by the party that is most successful in the dollar of stable value.

And if, as some contend, property is maintained only at the steady inflation of those citizens' may find lack of tactic of exchanging from one party to the other make their voices heard.

WATERED TRIFT

WEONA, Ill. (AP) — Watered gasoline enabled Sheriff James Evans to capture two youths who had been feeding their old model car on a farmer's gasoline supply for several months. Cyril Senninger reported the theft, and Deputy Kenneth Kenyon suggested Senninger add five gallons of water to three gallons of gasoline in the tank used to supply fuel for farm machinery.

The youths made their usual appearance, helped themselves but got only a mile away from the farm on the mixture.

Jet Pilots' Planes Collide

CHICAGO (AP) — Two Air Force pilots, whose planes collided, parachuted into the cold waters of Lake Michigan Wednesday from their jet fighters. One pilot was rescued three hours later. A desperate search was on for the other.

Air Force headquarters at O'Hare Field in Chicago said the F86 Sabre jets collided over the lake near Sheboygan, Wis. Both pilots were seen to parachute from the planes, the Air Force said.

About three hours after the crash, one of the pilots, 2nd Lt. Kenneth R. Hughes, was pulled from the frigid waters by crewmen of an ore boat, the Ernest T. Weir. He escaped serious injury.

Hughes, aboard the Weir, then helped in the search for his fellow pilot, whose name was not revealed immediately. Hughes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Landell Hughes of Williamsburg, Ohio.

The Air Force said it was pushing its after-dark search because it feared that if the other pilot remained "more than five hours" in the water, he would perish from the cold. However, they said there was a possibility he had been able to inflate a life raft and thus protect himself.

There was a report that flares had been sighted in the lake off Sheboygan — other than those which might have led to Hughes' rescue.

Coast Guard rescue boats were criss-crossing the area in hopes of finding some trace of the missing man.

Residents along the lake near Sheboygan, which is about 50 miles north of Milwaukee and about 150 miles north of Chicago, saw flares immediately after the planes went down, about 4:25 p.m. CST.

2,100 Balloons To Be Released At Kick-Off Sat.

Twenty-one hundred balloons will fill the air at the kick-off of the Indiana-Michigan State Homecoming game Saturday.

Spartan Coach Duffy Daugherty requested the balloons be released at the kick-off rather than when the Spartans score their first touchdown. Daugherty said it would be a safety measure in case Michigan State didn't make a touchdown.

All profits from the 15-cent balloons will be donated to Campus Club. The project is sponsored by Sigma Kappa.

Balloons will be sold at all points leading to the stadium.

11-0 romp over Detroit in the seventh game of the 1954 series.

The seven-game series drew 345,903 fans with 33,782 present for the finale. The net gate receipts came to $2,183,353.59.

Berra, who had hit a bases-loaded home run off Newcombe when he was knocked out with a 6-0 defeat in the second game, lashed into the jumbo-sized right-hander for two more to send him home again. It was Newcombe's fourth series defeat, and the 27-game winner still is looking for win No. 1 in the fall.

The Yankee deluge of four homers for a total of 12 in the series set a record, breaking their own mark of 10 hits against the Dodgers in 1952.

Berra set a series record with 10 runs batted in by adding four in the final game. The late Lou Gehrig set the old high of nine in 1928.

The Yanks knocked Newk off the mound before there was anybody out in the fourth inning. Berra had hit two home runs, in the first and third with a man on base each time, and Howard had opened the fourth with a shot over the "score" board in right field before Newk's frigid head down to the dugout.

The much-maligned Yankee pitching staff that wasn't supposed to be able to explain the Dodgers' right-handed power at Ebbets Field finally wound up by holding the Yanks to a total of one run and only seven hits in the last 25 innings.

After Whitey Ford and Tom Sturdivant squared the series, Don Larsen turned in his dazzling perfect game Monday in the finale at Yankee Stadium. Bob Turley's four-hit Tuesday was wasted but Kucks three-hit gem did the job.

Hank Bauer lined a single over Peevce Revere's head to start the Yankee attack on Newcombe in the first inning. With two outs, Berra smashed his first homer over the right-field screen.

That 2-0 lead held until the third when Berra came up again with Billy Martin on first. This time he powered a Newcombe 2-2 service high over the scoreboard clock in right field.

Third Largest Known

Crop Output Near Peak Level

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department, in a preliminary report Wednesday, said that production of major crops this year may be the third largest since 1914, with only about 1 per cent less than the peak volume in 1946.

Some crops were said to have reached their peak during September, while others were still growing favorably.

The increase may have some significance because it is expected to increase farm income somewhat in some Midwestern agricultural areas where farmers are a campaign issue.

The report said that output is being held at a considerably higher level than in 1948, but that the federal production program is still in effect.

Bureau Finds Appointments For Orators

Continuing Education Department of MSU instituted a Speakers' Bureau located in Kelllogg Center in Sept. 1.

Under the direction of A. A. Applegate, former member of the faculty of Michigan State, the Bureau is concerned with filling requests for speakers made by various business, professional, and industrial groups.

In addition to these groups, requests have been made by clubs and Parents' Teachers' Associations. The Bureau averages 30 speaker engagements per week.

The Bureau was formed in an effort to arrange speaking appointments for members of the faculty and also the foreign students of MSU.

Mrs. Louise Carpenter, director of Adventures in World Understanding, assists Mr. Applegate by acting as an intermediary with the foreign students.

The Bureau has a list of probable speakers which is expanding with the growth of the newly organized department. The biggest difficulty in scheduling speakers is class conflicts.

The only problem Mr. Applegate ran into was getting a foreign student from Puerto Rico. It seems that the group was not aware that the country is American territory.

Any persons or groups interested in obtaining a speaker for a banquet or meeting should contact Mr. Applegate in Kelllogg Center.

All-A Students Honored

John A. Hannah, president of the Michigan State All-A Students Union, addressed the group at the banquet held in the University Club last night. He congratulated the students for their achievements and urged them to continue their efforts in the future. Hannah also presented a certificate of appreciation to the students for their participation in the All-A program.

Hannah stated that the All-A program is a valuable tool for the development of the student body. He emphasized the importance of the program in providing a forum for the expression of student opinion and in promoting a sense of unity and cooperation among the students. He also mentioned the need for the students to continue to work for the improvement of the university and the community.

Claims Voting Right Denied Olney Suggests Public Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Elections subcommittee was told Wednesday that thousands of qualified Negroes in Louisiana and other Southern states are being denied their right to vote this year.

Warren Olney III, assistant attorney general in charge of criminal prosecution, described the situation as "mass disenfranchisement" purely because of their race.

Olney suggested the Elections subcommittee hold public hearings at Monroe, La., and other places where he said there have been complaints.

In Louisiana, State Sen. W. M. Rainach, president of the Louisiana Assn. of Citizens Councils, said, "I would consider this move by the attorney general an effort to influence the Negro vote nationally for the Republican party."

Rainach, reached at his home in Homer, said that in Ouachita Parish, the county—the cases referred to by Olney involves "voters legally registered." He said "a considerable number of white voters" were challenged, as well as some 3,000 Negroes.

In Monroe, Mrs. Mae Luckey, the parish registrar of voters said "more than 3,000 Negroes" registrations were challenged under a move by the parish Citizens Council. They were removed from the rolls, and in further investigations, about 1,000 have been moved back on the rolls because they were found legally qualified.

The registrar said the persons challenged were asked to interpret the state constitution as provided by Louisiana law.

Chairman Gore (D-Tenn.) and Sen. Curtis (R-Nebr.) indicated it was too late for the subcommittee to hold hearings on the question. The group has been policing campaign contributions and expenditures in advance of the Nov. 6 election.

Olney gave the senators a run-down on Justice Department efforts to protect the 1956 elections.

Then the Justice Department spokesman said the subcommittee had not gotten into a subject of "real importance—the honesty of federal elections."

He told the senators they ought to know what has been going on in some Southern states. In Ouachita Parish, he went on, more than 4,000 Negro voters had been qualified in Wards 3 and 10 under a system of permanent registration but that at the

GOP Fund Raising Explained

WASHINGTON (AP)—Carlton G. Ketchum, who gets a fee for collecting millions of dollars for Republican campaign funds, explained to senators Wednesday how it's done.

"I don't solicit a dollar," Ketchum, a soft-spoken professional fund raiser from Pittsburgh and New York City, told members of the Elections subcommittee. "It's all done by volunteers."

Ketchum said his organization, Ketchum, Inc., organizes fund drives for community chests, hospitals, colleges and the Republican party at national, state and local levels.

At present, he said, he is advising top national Republican groups, state GOP drives in Ohio and downstate Illinois, and an Allegheny County Republican Finance Committee campaign in Pittsburgh.

The Republicans seem to spend it just as fast as we can raise it," Ketchum testified at one point.

He said his organization will receive between $125,000 to $150,000 in fees for the Republican fund efforts this campaign year. And this is only a small part of his over-all fund-raising efforts, which include drives for charitable and religious groups, he added.

Ketchum said he will get between $55,000 and $58,000 for advising the Republican National Committee and other GOP national groups. He is a member of the Republican finance committee.

He said he will help Ohio Republicans raise between $120,000 and $150,000 for national, state and 88 county tickets and get fees of $55,000 to $60,000.

In downstate Illinois, Ketchum said he expects to raise $180,000 and get fees of $15,000. And in Allegheny County, Ketchum said he has raised $600,000 and expects to collect another $20,000 for the Pittsburgh Republican finance committee and receive a fee of "something like $25,000."

Builds Teams of the Future Weaver Has Tough Job As Freshman Mentor

By FRED MERRILL

Doug Weaver, former defensive linebacker on the 1950, 51 and 52 Michigan State football teams, is a young man faced with a tough job. He is Michigan State's freshman football coach.

Freshman training is usually one of the least publicized but most important part of a college football program. It is during this all important first year that the groundwork for any winning team is laid.

Weaver was appointed freshman coach in February to succeed Don Mason, who resigned to enter private business.

Weaver was an outstanding defensive player during the days of the two-platoon system. He won three letters and was a member of the 1952 national championship team. During the three years that Weaver played, the Spartans won 26 games and lost one.

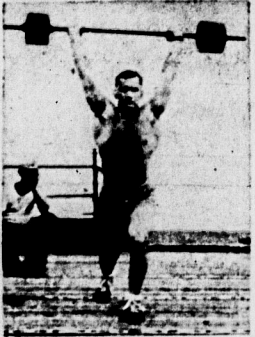

His most remembered game was at Purdue in 1952 when he intercepted a Purdue pass inside the Spartan five yard line and insured a 14-7 win for his team. He was also named line-man of the week following his performance in the Notre Dame game of 1952.

Besides his contributions on the field, Weaver was one of the most well-liked players ever to play on a Spartan football team. He twice won the famous "Oil Can" award which is given annually to the player considered by the coaches to have added the most spirit and humor to the team.

Weaver was an English major at Michigan State and a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. Following his graduation he received a commission as a lieutenant in the air force through the AFROTC program and spent two years in Montana with a radar unit.

He is married to the former Nancy Doty, of Detroit. They have one daughter.

1954 Grad Competes for Olympic Spot

A 1954 Michigan State graduate now in the navy, Nicholas D. Gavril, will compete for a place on the 1956 U. S. Olympic Weightlifting team. Gavril, who won his first Junior National AAU title while a student at MSU in 1952, will compete in the Lightweight Class (148 lbs.) doing three standard Olympic lifts: two-hand military press, two-hand snatch, and two-hand clean and jerk.

Gavril has won over 25 trophies since he began weightlifting as a 14-year-old freshman at Xavier High School in Ecorse, Mich. During his junior year he won the State of Michigan Feather-weight (132 lbs.) Championship, and won the State Lightweight title the following six years.

In 1952, as mentioned, he won the Junior National AAU title, and in 1953 was National YMCA champion. The title for the North American AAU Championship held at Montreal, Canada, was one that Gavril held in 1952 and 53.

Gavril is taking a 10-day leave from his ship to compete in the trials being held at Long Beach, Calif.

Squad to Rely on Sophs

Bessone Has Hope Of Higher Ranking

By JUNE TURNER

The Spartan hockey squad began intensive practice Monday afternoon under the tutelage of coach Amo Bessone in an attempt to blend together youth and experience to keep State's hot and cold hockey team hot for the 1956-57 season.

Expected to take the place of eight lettermen lost last year through graduation nine sophomores whom Bessone considers the most promising group in years.

Bessone hopes to combine his newcomers with seven returning veterans to form a team which could be the darkhorse of the Western Inter-Collegiate Hockey League.

"We have a young, hardworking team," Bessone says. "We're looking for a good season. We can't go any lower."

The Spartans lost 17 and won only one W.I.H.L. game last year to end the season with the worst league record since hockey became a major sport at MSU.

State's biggest weakness last season was offense as shown in its opponent's stops, 435, which was the least in the league.

Bessone's cure for this is his sophomore forwards who should

Fred DeVouno along with James or Tony Bonacci will compose the Spartan third line.

Joe Selinger, goalie from Regina, Sask., will be aided in the nets by reeve goalie Aldo Altobelli. Selinger was the outstanding freshman of the 1955-56 season and may prove the backbone of State's defense.

A brother combination of Bruno and Eddie Pollesel from Cooper Cliff, Ont., will take turns manning the blue line with returning lettermen Butch Miller and Bob Jason.

Although last season's record is dark, it's not as bad as it looks when these facts are considered. Of the 17 losses, 11 were by one or two goal margins. Seven were by a single goal and four were by two goals.

The only league win was a 4-3 squeaker over Denver. Minnesota and Michigan Tech were especially tough on the Spartans. The Gophers won three straight one-goal decisions. The last two were by identical 2-1 scores and came in overtime periods.

Fresh Basketball

There will be a meeting Thursday for all freshmen interested in going out for basketball. The meeting will be in Room 209, Jenison Gymnasium at 5 p.m. ad both speed and scoring power to returning lettermen Rose Facke, Gene Grazia, and Ken James.

Parke, center from Winnipeg, was the team's leading scorer with 38 points on 15 goals and 21 assists.

Tentative second line will see sophomores Joe Polano and Bill Mackenzie teamed with the veteran Grazia.

According to Bessone, newcomers Dickie Hamilton, and Tech won two one-goal games, one in overtime, and one two-goal contest.

Goalie Eddie Schiller, voted State's most valuable player at the close of the season, was the bulwark of the defense. Schiller was credited with 638 stops, 104 more than the next busiest W.I.H.L. goalie, Jack McCartan of Minnesota.

Lost for the 1956-57 season are Schiller, center Bert Pomereau, defenseman Bud Polomsky, and wing Karl Jackson, Dave Hendrickson, Stan Dubois and George Bolton.

State's toughest opponents will probably be Michigan, Michigan Tech, and Colorado who finished the season in the first, second, and third spots of the W.I.H.L.

Tech will have their whole team back on the ice while Michigan lost only two men, Capt. Bill MacFarland and wing Jay Gould.

Butterfield 8 Wins in Overtime

By PHIL HUMBAUGH
and GRAHAM MCINTYRE

Butterfield 8 squeezed past Butterfield 5 Wednesday night in a sudden death playoff 12-6 in IM football play.

Don Reed, hit Bob Walsh with a five-yard pass after two minutes of the extra period to get the win.

Butterfield 5 scored first on the last play of the first quarter on a 20-yard pass from Mary Aaron to G. W. Fushburg. The half ended with Butterfield 5 pushed back to their own one-yard line.

In the third period, Reed passed to Don Robertson for 10 yards and the touchdown. The conversion was missed and the score stood 6-6 until Reed passed to Walsh in the extra period.

Butterfield 4, 20. Butterfield 1, 9. Butterfield 4 made it look easy when they downed Butterfield 1, 20-0, as Gary Beebe passed for three touchdowns and two extra points.

Beebe hit Laird Logue in the first period with a five-yard pass for the first score but the conversion was missed.

In the second quarter Logue again took the pass from Beebe and went 10 yards for the touchdown. Beebe passed to Jerry Gougeon for the extra point and the half ended with the score Butterfield 4, 13 and Butterfield 1, 0.

Early in the third period Beebe passed to Logue who tossed to Lee Tussell for the touchdown on a play that covered 58 yards.

Beebe again found Gougeon to the end zone for the conversion.

Bryan 7, 43. Bryan 6, 0.

Bryan 7 overcame Bryan 6 in the night's most lopsided contest, 46-0. The first quarter's only touchdown was a preview of things to come as John Schwartz passed 30 yards to Ed Alcott.

In the second quarter, Schwartz threw 15 yards to Alcott for 10 yards and a score. Schwartz passed again to Alcott in the game's longest scoring play of 50 yards. Schwartz then threw a 15-yard pass to Alcott for 19-0.

The third quarter saw the extra point and the game was tied 19-19. Schwartz then passed to Alcott for 10 yards and a score. Schwartz passed again to Alcott in the game's longest scoring play of

Life Says Newcombe in 'Bad State of Mind'

BROOKLYN (AP)—Don Newcombe, worried about more of the World Series "jinx," came home for just a few days after being knocked off the mound by home runs yesterday, then left again.

He was in a state of mind never before in out 11 years' marriage," said his wife.

Newcombe at Newcombe's home in Edison, N.J., his wife said. "He's not here and I don't know where he is. He was here about 10 minutes then he left and he wouldn't be back."

He never has gone into the fall classic with less than 17 regular season victories.

He made two starts in this series, getting shelled out in the second game, last Friday although the Dodgers won it and again Wednesday.

Of the record 12 home runs hit by the world champion Yankees in the seven-game series, four were hit off Newk in his 4-2-3, inning total in the two games.

"I know Don," said Mrs. Newcombe. "It isn't the ball game. It's other things, personal things. Like the adoption papers which are coming through for clearance on our son, Gregory Joel. He's nearly 18 months old now."

The adoption papers, long awaited by the Newcombes, who also have adopted an 8-month-old daughter, have come up at a difficult time. The Dodgers want him to make the trip to Japan, which starts Thursday. Newk is reluctant to leave now.

He remarked on leaving the park. "Nuts on the trip to Japan."

Buzzie Ravasi, Dodger vice president, angrily said: "There'll be trouble if he's not on that plane tomorrow!"

Newcombe also has become involved in court proceedings, proposing a countersuit against a parking lot attendant who alleges Newk socked him Friday after making reference to his early departure from the game.

"He's been terribly worried about everything," his wife said.

'Feels Like a Kid'

Robinson Wants to Play In One More Series

BROOKLYN (AP)—Jackie Robinson, feeling "like a kid again," wants to help Brooklyn win one more National League pennant before pulling down the curtain on his active playing career.

"I feel I've got at least one more good year in these old legs of mine," the superb Negro athlete said after delivering the blow which gave the Dodgers a 10-inning, series-knotting 1-0 victory yesterday in the sixth game of the World Series.

"I want to play one more year. I'm sure I can help them win another pennant. Next year at this time I may feel I'm good for another year. As long as that's the case, it's going to be hard for me to do something softer-like managing."

Robinson is rated top-flight managerial material — although no one of his race has led a professional team in this country — and his name has popped up as possible manager of Montreal, a Dodgers subsidiary.

"Money is not a factor," Jackie said. "I think my wife Rachel would like for me to manage and slow down some. But, to me, I'd be like a fire horse put out to pasture."

Today Robinson is 37. The muscles which made him an all-star athlete at UCLA still ripple over a frame of six feet and 195 pounds. He still has a fierce competitive fire.

Yesterday Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees twice ordered Duke Snider walked to get Robinson — each time with two out and a Dodger in scoring position at second base. The first time, in the eighth, Jackie popped out to third base. The second time, in the 10th, he lined a hit to left field scoring Junior Gilliam with the run which broke up a sterling pitching duel 1-0.

"The fellows on the bench told me 'They can't get you twice like that, Jackie' and I was pretty confident they couldn't either," Robinson said. And they didn't.

The graying Dodger infielder, completing his 10th season in the majors after becoming the first Negro to crash the barrier, said: "I've slowed up some — a step and a half," he said. "But my legs feel as good as ever. I think my eyes have lost nothing and my coordination is okay. I still have quick reflexes."

He was thrilled but he didn't say anything much," said Yogi's sister, Mrs. Josephine Sadowski.

The fact the elder Berra, who speaks English with difficulty and with a heavy Italian accent, condemned the Yankees for every out while they were at bat — despite their lopsided 9-6 triumph over Brooklyn — Mrs. Sadowski said.

The first time, in the eighth, Jackie popped out to third base. The second time, in the 10th, he lined a hit to left field scoring Junior Gilliam with the run which broke up a sterling pitching duel 1-0.

"The fellows on the bench told me 'They can't get you twice like that, Jackie' and I was pretty confident they couldn't either," Robinson said. And they didn't.

The graying Dodger infielder, completing his 10th season in the majors after becoming the first Negro to crash the barrier, said: "I've slowed up some — a step and a half," he said. "But my legs feel as good as ever. I think my eyes have lost nothing and my coordination is okay. I still have quick reflexes."

He was thrilled but he didn't say anything much," said Yogi's sister, Mrs. Josephine Sadowski.

The fact the elder Berra, who speaks English with difficulty and with a heavy Italian accent, condemned the Yankees for every out while they were at bat — despite their lopsided 9-6 triumph over Brooklyn — Mrs. Sadowski said.

Robinson is rated top-flight managerial material — although no one of his race has led a professional team in this country — and his name has popped up as possible manager of Montreal, a Dodgers subsidiary.

"Money is not a factor," Jackie said. "I think my wife Rachel would like for me to manage and slow down some. But, to me, I'd be like a fire horse put out to pasture."

Today Robinson is 37. The muscles which made him an all-star athlete at UCLA still ripple over a frame of six feet and 195 pounds. He still has a fierce competitive fire.

Yesterday Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees twice ordered Duke Snider walked to get Robinson — each time with two out and a Dodger in scoring position at second base. The first time, in the eighth, Jackie popped out to third base. The second time, in the 10th, he lined a hit to left field scoring Junior Gilliam with the run which broke up a sterling pitching duel 1-0.

Stengel Was Set for Worse

By WHITNEY MARTIN

BROOKLYN (AP)—Wednesday was the day when everything worked for Casey Stengel, including the bats of Yogi Berra, Bill Skowron and Elston Howard and Johnny Kucks' good right arm.

But not being a practicing seer, the graying Yankee manager was prepared for the worst.

He was ready to go for broke, if the Brooklyn Dodgers got away to a fast start.

Hemmed in by reporters in front of his locker after the convincing victory for the American League's Casey launched into his gravel-voiced oratory, in the midst of which he pulled out a soiled lineup slip with names crammed in pencil at the various positions.

"If necessary — and things weren't going too good," he expounded, "I had Bauer down here for left field, and was going to put Collins in right. Then I had Coleman down here for third base, and Wilson and Slaughter for left-handed pinch hitters."

"See here, I had Hunter down to run for somebody or play shortstop, and I also had Siebern and Cerv ready to go to left field maybe."

"See," he pointed to an almost illegible list of names under the pitchers, "there were my pinch hitters. I was going to use all these men even if I had to use as many pitchers as I had in that second game."

All of which gives life to the idea that Stengel manages by the hunch system, waiting until the situation presents itself and then going into a trance to find out his next move. The cagey old cogder had everything planned to a T.

That he didn't have to go through these intricate manipulations was due to the fact the Yankees got away to the fast start and, in a game in which anti-climax followed anti-climax, just romped away.

He may have had a little vision of what was to come when he inserted Skowron at first base for Joe Collins and Howard in left field for Elton Slaughter. Both got home runs. Skowron's a grand slammer which caused some disgusted or delighted fan in the right field boxes to send his hat soaring into the coaches' box.

"This series has done a lot for my pitchers," Casey said. "Last year Bob Turley and Don Larsen were failures. This year they got confidence, which will be good for next year."

"I guess you could say the real turning point of the game was when Yogi got that second home run. It was an outside pitch and you know Yogi's wrists — real strong."

As Roy Campanella said: "Newcombe threw a good waste pitch to Yogi, only Yogi hit it."

They should know by now that Berra's strike zone is three feet wide and five feet deep.

New Trial Ordered by High Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court Wednesday ordered a new trial for five Communists convicted of violating the Smith Act. At issue is the truthfulness of a witness who testified against them.

The government itself raised the question of the validity of one of its witnesses against Communist leader Steve Nelson and four associates.

Nelson and the other four defendants were convicted in U.S. District Court at Pittsburgh in 1953 of conspiring to advocate violent overthrow of the government. Each was sentenced to five years in prison.

The witness was Joseph D. Mazzei.

The government's position was that Mazzei's testimony at the Pittsburgh trial was truthful. But it said it had learned only recently that he had given testimony in other unrelated cases which it "has serious reason to doubt."

It said if Mazzei's testimony had been given since a Pennsylvania criminal case in a state court in Miami and previously before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee.

The other defendants were Benjamin Loebl, Carathers, James Hulse Dolan, Williams, Anderson and Irving Weissman.

holds the pending vote which he cast in favor of the resolution, passing it with one vote.

Other resolutions passed during the session were Resolution 5 which stated to extend letters to the officers of Inter-Fraternal Council and Pan Hel to check into any discriminatory clauses in their constitutions.

Resolution 6, also passed, was to investigate the distribution of football tickets to students during the fall. It is desired not only to have a more adequate method of distribution but also a larger number of tickets for the game.

The final resolution of the night, number 7, suggested that AWS time would be announced publicly after each event that could be granted to places to attend. This too was passed.

Bills that were announced were as follows: 3. The MSU Forensics Union was given a temporary charter granting it as an official organization of MSU. 6. Four used television sets were suggested to be bought and placed in Ohio Memorial Hospital. 7. The MSU Veterans Wives Association was granted a charter.

During the executive report from Bob Becker, Student government president, he stated that the police and Notre Dame Spartan special campaigns were successful and a report from Fred Raymond, Campus Chest director, was given.

Don Whitehead, member of congress for two years, resigned.

Olney

Olney said this resulted from a "scheme of white citizens and local officials." A Citizens Council was organized, he said, which challenged almost all of the Negro voters in the two wards. Olney said this was done with "pretended affidavits" prepared by the council.

Gory noted that federal laws make it a criminal offense to prevent a qualified voter from participating in a federal election.

Curtis asked that the Justice Department instruct him a legal brief on the right of the Senate or House to vote on any emergency election under such conditions.

Two Mad Brothers Hold 95 Hostages for 6 Hours

TERRAZZANO, Italy (AP)—Two mad brothers armed with guns, dynamite and acid, held 92 terrified children and three girl teachers hostage in a village school for six hours Wednesday, demanding a ransom, while a full battalion of police stood by helplessly.

The brothers threatened to blow up the children or scar them with acid if the police moved. After six hours of terror, a courageous young teacher suddenly attacked one of the brothers, seized his knife and stabbed him with it.

That opened the way for the rescuers to go into action.

The 700 national police stormed the building behind blazing guns. Police bullets struck one of the brothers, Arturo Santato, 27, but he was not seriously wounded. The younger brother, Osvaldo, 22, was captured, and the children—ranging from 6 to 10 years—were liberated amid a roar of cheers from a dense crowd.

A workman, Sante Zennaro, 23, was killed by the madman's fire from the schoolhouse. Three other persons were wounded, including a policeman and a mother who had pleaded hysterically with the brothers for her child's release.

The brothers used teachers and children for shields, and police were unable to open fire during the siege. When the police finally were able to storm into the building, they found many of the children bound hand and foot.

The heroine was Miss Paolo del Caratore. She flew suddenly at mad Osvaldo, punning him with her fists. She ripped his knife away from him and stabbed him in the head before Arturo—only recently released from an asylum for the criminally insane—could turn to grapple with her. Arturo's attention was distracted long enough for the police to close in without harming the children.

The brothers, setting a price of 20 million lire—$380,000—for the release of the children, shouted fantastic demands from the windows.

The brothers had come to Terrazano, a village of less than 1,000 persons eight miles north of Milan, on their motor scooter from nearby Rho. An hour before noon the scooter snorted to a stop in front of the metal fence surrounding the two-story schoolhouse in the village square. The brothers hopped from the machine.

Arturo, newly released from the Asinara madhouse on parole and due back there in a week for a check-up, pushed into the building in front of Osvaldo, whom police described as a near-moon dominated by his insane brother. The two pulled guns on the teachers and barred the doors on the inside.

At once the madmen began to pump pistol shots out the windows.

A villager, Mrs. Irene Linari, mother of 8-year-old pupil Gianni, rushed screaming to the school house door. A bullet crashed into her leg. Two men pulled her to safety while she screamed "I want my Gianni."

An alarm to Milan and nearby towns brought 40 truckloads of national police. But even before the police arrived, villagers tried to drive the brothers from the school with hunting rifles. A hail of bullets made them retreat.

In a short time, a full battalion of carabinieri, the national police, surrounded the school, while sobbing parents milled behind their lines.

The two madmen used the teachers as shields each time they approached the school windows to shout their demands.

A courageous policeman made an effort to reach the back door and was met by a volley of shots. He saved himself by dropping to the ground. From a second story window, a mad voice shouted:

"Bring us food, electric stoves, bread. The children must eat."

At noon, some food was brought up. One brother, using a teacher as a shield in front of him, moved the food through the entrance.

Don Eugenio Somaschini, the parish priest, stepped up and pleaded with the pair. They aimed their guns at him and threatened to fire. The priest withdrew.

Their own sister then pleaded with the Santatos to surrender. Their father, also present, cried: "I knew Arturo should never have been let out of the asylum."

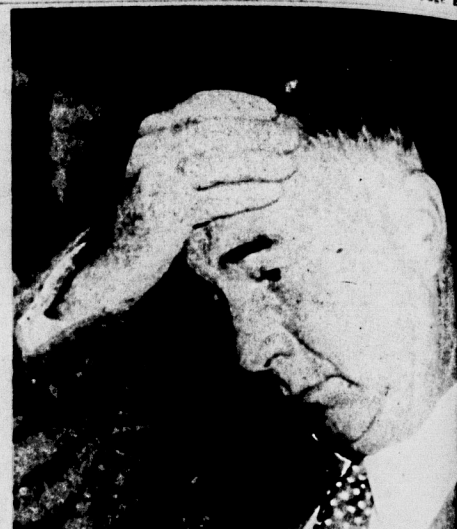

The brothers demanded a television set. In a brief truce, police put a TV set on a window ledge, hoping to distract the madmen. But as they waited, school teacher Del Caratore leaped at Osvaldo and fought with him. When Arturo went to his brother's aid, the police moved in.
