Macmillan Confers With Ike

Red Satellite Topic of Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan met for 3½ hours Wednesday night as they opened a three-day strategy conference on new moves to check Russia's scientific-diplomatic offensive.

The two Western leaders met behind closed doors at the White House from 5 p.m. EST to 8:30 p.m. with only their foreign policy chiefs on hand to assist them in their sweeping review.

The White House declined even to name the topics discussed at the initial meeting, which began in the President's oval study and then shifted to the dinner table.

Both men were reported confident they could force a new British-American partnership to speed up the free world's drive to overtake Russia's missiles and satellite developments.

Macmillan began preliminary talks with Secretary of State Dulles promptly after arriving by special plane after an overnight flight from London.

On arriving, Macmillan said his chief aim was to "improve our friendship and extend cooperation between our two countries in all fields — and there are many."

Macmillan, and Dulles stressed that the interests of the 13 other Atlantic Pact allies would be kept in mind during the talks.

To reinforce this, Eisenhower arranged to meet Friday with Paul-Henri Spaak, secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization who is visiting the capital now.

Spaak also is to be kept informed during the meeting, informants said, to ease fears of other allied countries that an exclusive British-American partnership deal was in the making.

Dulles pointedly noted that the Eisenhower-Macmillan talks involve "not just two nations, but the U. S. and the Commonwealth nations, but all free nations."

Despite these words, there was every sign that both Macmillan and Eisenhower were thinking chiefly in terms of sharing atomic energy and military secrets between their two nations.

Such a British-American partnership, it was felt, would operate on behalf of all free nations and with less chance that secret data might leak out than if the information were spread among several nations.

Eisenhower was reported considering a request to congress for broad permission to exchange secret data with NATO countries with the understanding that he would decide how much information to give to each.

Famous German Muenster Choir To Appear Friday

The Muenster choir from the University of Muenster is scheduled to perform tonight in the Music Aud. at 8:15.

The choir, composed of 50 men and women including several American students, is touring U. S. colleges to make personal contact with American students and give free concerts. The choir will sing numbers by Bach, Stravinsky, Brahms, Mozart and several other composers. Included in the selections are such well known pieces as the Vater Nader and Ave Maria.

The group arrived in New York Oct. 3 and will tour until Nov. 4.

While the group is here they will stay at homes of members of the State Singers and at sorority houses.

Before they go back to Germany they will have performed at 17 colleges and universities. This list includes such names as Harvard, Vassar, Yale, U. of M., Princeton and Dartmouth.

Wolverine Announces 3 New Appointments

Three new appointments have been made on the Wolverine staff, according to Joan Sanders, business manager.

They are Ruth Plank, Chicago editor, copy editor; Marilyn Gault, Lansing editor, feature editor; and Jan Park, Boston Harbor junior, treasurer.

Mrs. Duffy Daugherty (left) and Mrs. G. Mennen Williams assist students donating blood in the fall term drive in the Union. Mrs. Williams will be on hand again today to administer aid.

Short Line to Give

Blood Donations Reach Total of 796

In "Blood-letting 101" Wednesday, 171 pints of blood were donated to bring the total to 796 so far collected in this fall's blood drive.

Although a student may not give blood if he or she has the flu or a cold, credit will be given to the student's living unit for trying to give. To date there have been 150 people turned away.

It is not necessary to stop at the Union desk to sign up. Donors are instructed to go up to the fourth floor Union, where there is a short waiting line.

MAJ. GEN. AFIT BIZRY, Army Chief of Staff, sang reconnaissance planes fly almost daily over the city of Homs, midway between Damascus and the Turkish frontier.

"We believe the planes are not coming from Turkey, but from the (U.S.) 8th Fleet in the Mediterranean because this fleet is working together with the massing of Turkish troops on the Syrian border," he told reporters.

Bizry charged Turkey began massing troops on the Syrian border for "offensive purposes" after Loy Henderson of the U. S. State Department visited the Middle East.

"For further information and details," Bizry said, "you may address questions to U. S. Secretary of State Dulles, because he is the man who has more details than any other man in the world."

The Syrian government made clear it had ruled out Saudi Arabia's bid to mediate in the border crisis. It stated Syria is determined to press its own claim in the UN General Assembly and wants to eliminate anything that might restrict UN action.

Turkey announced Tuesday it had been advised Syria had accepted Saudi's offer. Turkey sent Minister of State Fatim Rustu Zorlu and two aides to Saudi Arabia to open mediation talks.

Wednesday Syrian statement appeared to be an attempt to clarify confusion over the question of mediation. It gave this rundown of exchanges between Saudi and President Shukri Kuwailat of Syria.

Saudi offered his help in easing Syrian-Turkish tension. Kuwailat thanked Saudi and gave the king a picture of the situation on the Syrian border.

Museum to Open Before Christmas

The museum, at its new quarters in the old library building, will be open to visitors sometime before Christmas. Dr. R. A. Baker, director, announced Wednesday.

The building, which received a complete overhaul last summer, will contain many of the old exhibits and some new ones. Emphasis will be put on man and his agricultural progress.

U. S. Plans To Debate Aid to Tito

Economic, Military Assists Questioned

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department disclosed officially Wednesday that "we are reappraising" United States programs of economic and military aid for Communist Yugoslavia.

From other sources it was learned that a tentative decision to suspend some of the assistance has already been made but final decisions on what should be cut off are still being debated.

The reason for the U. S. action, officials said, is dissatisfaction with President Tito's recognition last week of Communist East Germany and questions raised here as to whether Tito is moving back into the Soviet orbit again.

Most top U. S. officials privately take the line that Tito probably does not intend to abandon his position as an independent Communist leader, free of Moscow dictation. However, the Eisenhower administration has been under heavy pressure in Congress in the last two or three years because of its assistance to Yugoslavia and feels the greatest care must be exercised in dealing with the problem.

State Department press officer Lincoln White told a news conference Wednesday:

"In the light of recent developments, we are reappraising our programs for Yugoslavia. We expect to discuss various aspects of this matter with the Yugoslavs, but when these discussions will take place I do not know at the moment."

"In this connection negotiations with the Yugoslavs for PL480 assistance (surplus agricultural commodities sales) for next year have not yet begun."

White reported that "presently planned shipments, including spare parts for American-made weapons and machines in Tito's military force, are still being supplied and that food shipments under presently operating programs are still going forward."

In response to questions he would not say what he meant by "recent developments" but other informants said this was a reference to the East German recognition specifically. White also declared he was unaware of any firm decision so far to suspend any of the aid programs. Other informants reported there was no doubt a suspension had been decided on.

Liquid Reeds and Ooh-wah Brass

Coronation Ball Hosts Glenn Miller Music

By MONTE STUCK

On Nov. 1, MSU students will have an opportunity at Coronation Ball to observe the results of the merging of Glenn Miller's magnificent music with Ray McKinley's very special talents.

For three and a half years the Glenn Miller orchestra rode the waves as America's "Number One Band." Glenn's liquid reeds with the unique clarinet lead, the ooh-wah brass, and the romantic ballads, won millions of fans the world over.

Glenn entered the Army with the rank of Captain in October, 1942, only to lose his life in a flight over the English Channel in December, 1944. But the spirit of the Miller music has remained.

It was McKinley, a close friend of Miller's, who took over the famous orchestra. McKinley had been at previous times a fellow side-man in the Dorsey Brothers' band, a sergeant in Glenn's Air Force band, and a rival band leader before Glenn's death.

McKinley, one of the most respected band leaders and most sought-after drummers in the business, was picked by the Miller estate to organize a band with their backing, using Glenn's entire music library.

When McKinley found himself faced with the job of bringing together the finest musicians available to recreate the sound and the spirit of the Glenn Miller Orchestra, he immediately thought of Lenny Hambro. Hambro had played saxophone, clarinet, alto and flute in McKinley's old orchestra.

Pledges in the Arnold Air Society receive signatures from prospective Air Force Corps sponsors. The cords are (l-r) Carole Spamer, Patty Manning, Vera Jane Windbrel, Joyce Farris, Susan Pearce and Helen MacGregor. The top 11 cords, to be announced Friday, will reign at the Coronation Ball Nov. 1, and act as honorary Colonels at AFROTC functions.

Whirlpool Official Claims:

Firm Hired to 'Test Employees'

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Whirlpool Co. official testified Wednesday that Nathan Shefferman's firm of labor consultants was hired to test the personalities of Whirlpool employees — not to combat organizing by the United Auto Workers.

Theodore Hufert, industrial relations director at Whirlpool's Marion, Ohio, division, said Shefferman's organization was paid more than $28,000 to conduct "human equation tests" and for intervening job applicants.

Hufert flatly denied to the Senate Labor Rackets Investigating Committee that he ever talked with Shefferman about keeping the UAW from organizing the Marion plant.

Gianni Evans, former general manager of the Marion plant, testified that Shefferman's firm was fired within a year from all Whirlpool plants because of a dispute over money.

Evans said he believed some expense accounts submitted by a Shefferman employee, Dr. Louis Cheevov, were improperly vague.

"We made up our minds to have no more to do with them," he said.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) told Hufert that Cheevov gave committee investigators an unsworn statement claiming Shefferman had sent him into hiding in Canada. He quoted Cheevov as saying Shefferman pays him a salary and expenses to remain there. He said Cheevov reported the objective was to prevent him from testifying in NLRB hearings on alleged unfair practices at the Marion plant.

"I think he now may be a fugitive from justice," McClellan said. "He knows he is wanted and he crossed the border."

McClellan said the investigators' report on an interview with Cheevov in Vancouver, B.C., quoted the man as saying that his "prime objective" while working at Whirlpool had been to screen out labor union organizers or others who might be pro-union.

Asked to comment on all this, Hufert replied:

"I can't understand why he made some of those statements because they are completely false."

The role played by Shefferman and his firm, Labor Relations Associates, Inc., at the Whirlpool plant was exploded by the Rackets Committee after earlier testimony about Shefferman's activities at a frozen food plant in Iowa.

McClellan said in opening the hearings Tuesday that Shefferman's firm is "apparently dedicated to the proposition that no employer need deal with a labor union unfriendly to their interests."

Letts issued a preliminary injunction, continuing a ban on Hoffa and the other newly elected union officers from taking office until there is a trial of the case on its merits.

The 82-year-old judge set Monday as the deadline for pre-trial motions and said he will fix the actual trial date as soon as possible thereafter.

In his order, however, Letts refused to put the giant union in the hands of court-appointed receivers and tie up its funds. This had been sought by the 13-man New York Teamsters group which took the case against Hoffa's election to court.

Martin O'Donoghue, the Teamsters attorney, bitterly protested the judge's findings. He said he would appeal to the U. S. Court of Appeals today.

Judge Letts, O'Donoghue said, has practically branded as illegal the entire union convention and everything it did — without hearing proof.

Even more trouble seemed in store for the Teamsters today, when the AFL-CIO Executive Council meets to follow up its threat to suspend the 1½-million-member union on corruption charges.

Asked to comment on all this, Hufert replied:

Will Return To N. Y. Law Firm

Ike Plans to Appoint William P. Rogers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Herbert Brownell Jr. resigned Wednesday as U. S. Attorney General. He said the settling of federal policy in the Little Rock school integration dispute freed him to return to private law practice.

The White House said President Eisenhower accepted the resignation and will appoint Dep. Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers Jr. to the Cabinet post. Rogers is a close friend of Vice President Nixon.

Brownell is the sixth member of Eisenhower's original cabinet to resign.

Just when he will relinquish his office was not announced. However, Brownell suggested in a letter to Eisenhower that he would be ready to step out in two weeks.

The White House said Brownell will rejoin the New York city law firm of Lord, Day & Lord, which he left to enter the Cabinet. It said he would act as an adviser to the firm for two years, instead of as a partner, because of the conflict of interest law barring former federal officials from handling government cases. Brownell will deal only with non-governmental matters, the White House said.

Brownell held an informal news conference shortly after his resignation was announced and disclaimed any ambition for further public office.

He was asked if he might be a Republican candidate for governor of New York next year. Brownell replied with an emphatic "no."

He gave the same answer when asked if he had "any political plans."

Asked if he might accept a presidential nomination by his party in 1960, Brownell asserted:

"I stand on the statement I made in August when I said I am not a candidate for the governorship of New York and I am not in a position to accept any nomination."

"It is my intention to stay in private life."

Eisenhower named Brownell to his cabinet after the New Yorker managed his 1952 presidential campaign. Brownell also managed the 1948 and 1949 presidential bids of former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

As boss of the Justice Department and—Eisenhower's chief legal adviser, Brownell has been attacked by southern members of Congress because of his role in the Little Rock crisis and in developing the new civil rights law.

On civil rights questions, Rogers and Brownell see eye to eye. Sen. McNamara (D-Mich.), one of the first to comment on the impending Brownell-Rogers shift, said this "would not mean any change in current policies."

By his resignation, Brownell avoids a prospective series of trips to Capitol Hill in the next session where he would have come face to face with angry southern critics.

However, he told his news conference that southern criticism "did not enter into my calculations at all."

The first paragraph of his letter—See BROWNELL, Page 8

Mission 66 Topic Of Ag Lecture

Mission 66, the government's program for park development and improvement, will be the subject of a lecture tonight. The lecture will be held in 310 Ag Hall at 7:30 p.m.

Julius Martinek, an alumnus now with the National Park Service, will share slides of new park developments and discuss the operation of Mission 66.

All interested students and faculty are invited to come to the lecture.

Big 'Little' Campus Still Has Individuals

Once upon a time there was a little campus. It was a warm and friendly place. Each of its students had a cheery "hello" for his fellow knowledge seekers.

But the little campus grew and grew, as more and more young people crowded within its ivy covered halls each year. Soon the friendly atmosphere was lost.

Sounds like a very familiar story, doesn't it? It's one that is being repeated from coast to coast today. With the increasing enrollment in higher institutions of learning, it will rapidly become an even bigger problem in the next few years.

MSU is not immune to this plight. This campus has long been known for the hand of friendship extended to each student entering its portals. But things are growing here, too. An enrollment of more than 20,000, class sections of 50, 75, even 100, several thousand people housed under the same roof.

Amid numbers like these it becomes dangerously simple to lose sight of the individual element in human relations. One face can become more than a blur in the crowd, one name no more than a jumble of syllables.

Who can do something about the situation? Not the Board of Agriculture, not the administration, not even the student governing bodies on campus. Only you can protect the hospitable reputation, which has been such a fine trade mark of MSU.

Dollar Descends

Consider the dollar bill. Since 1939 it hasn't changed much in appearance, but it buys less than half as much. It will buy a lot less if the country keeps listening to the funny money blues in Congress.

Treasury Secretary Humphrey is assailed for offering a higher interest rate on new issues of government bonds. The fairly simple reason is that he can't borrow for less. He has to offer what investors can get elsewhere or he won't sell any bonds.

Of course the government really doesn't have to sell bonds to get money. The government can just print it. Or it can accomplish the same purpose by floating bank credit, thus holding down government interest rates to any low figure it likes.

But since there's no such thing as something for nothing, someone has to pay. The difference comes out of the value of the dollar and this inflationary process immediately picks the pockets of everyone who owns one.

As the supply of dollars is diluted, each one is worth proportionately less and that's what's happened to us since 1939. The dollar has been cut in half or, to put it another way, the grocery bill and the rent and school costs have been doubled.

If offering as honestly competitive interest rate, the government resists the temptation to get its funds the easy way—which is the hard way for everyone else.

In this course, Secretary Humphrey and the administration should be supported by anyone who has a dollar, or hopes to earn one, and expects it to buy something more than a pint of milk or a streetcar ticket.

Beauty Is Where You Find It

Did you know that a girl's beauty depends on where she lives? Since Americans are leg-or-bosom men, the Chinese admire tiny feet, the Burmese go gaga over lasses with long necks and Hottentots prefer ladies who leave a wide imprint when they sit down in a wet bathing suit.

We Have the First Outer-Space Traveler

Letters To The Editor

Tribute to the Hungarians

To The Editor:

Moments of the Hungarians, Oct. 23, 1956. Hungary not swept away.

The terrifying vision once beheld by the great Hungarian novelist, Dezo Szabo, of the village swept away by the floods, kept expanding during the years of oppression until we had nightmares of towns and cities and, in the end, of an entire country being swept out of existence.

Even as bolshevik power was increasing we felt the country slipping from beneath our feet. By "country" we do not mean the land of the gentry, the bourgeoisie and the clergy, as the bolshevik propaganda would have us believe.

What we are talking about is that Hungary which we regarded as our common fatherland—all of us, students and workers, peasants and intellectuals, and even the bolsheviks, for we were priests and army officers at home and in exile alike.

Never have the words of the poet, Ady, rung more true: "with sadly drooping heads they go into a huddle, four Magyars or five."

Indeed, we would go into a huddle, overtly as well as where the security police could not see us, in huddles and workshops, in free countries and prisons alike, we would see with the eyes of our minds Hungary being swept away. We kept burying our dead, the corpses that were smugged out of the AVG's cellars and dungeons at night just the same as those who had died in the forests for being the regime's fans and fellow-travelers, informers and patrollers of the alien oppressors. For we were mourning the latter, too, as Hungarians lost.

Yet, the powers that be, were incapable of extinguishing altogether the spirit of resistance. Those that lent themselves as scouts to the Russians forgot that Hungary had seen other hurricanes before. From the deepest wells of national consciousness the methods of resistance assimilated over a thousand years may have been surging upwards.

The bolsheviks, who claim to be possessed of the solely valid method of explaining history, ought not to have been astonished, on October 23, that what happened was that passive resistance which had been accumulating over 12 years broke through into the streets.

The revolution had become inevitable, and it was eased along by a midwife at all, she was not of fascist or criminal but of Muscovite extraction. For 12 years the Communists had been unsuccessful in bringing the Hungarian people round to their views either by promises or intimidation, by building churches or by hanging patriots. Most-cow will have to realize that there is one end which even the reputed Stalinal methods are incapable of achieving—namely, to win the Hungarian people's trust.

For the rulers of the Kremlin make no mistake! All this is not due to racist elements instigating the Hungarian people. Nor is it due to the Voice of America or the millions of black reactionaries. It is due to the fact that in theory, in practice, with or without Rakosi or Kadar, according to Stalinal methods of the creed pronounced by the 22nd Party Congress, bolshevism is inhuman. And no people can live forever as a herd of animals, deprived of all freedom.

We do not know what lies in store for the Hungarian people, what sufferings they will still have to undergo. But one thing is certain. No renewed onslaught of eastern terrorism will succeed in blowing them off their feet. For it rests on the sure foundation of the Hungarian soul—the unshakable guarantee of a Hungary that cannot be swept away.

Poor Vet?

To The Editor:

I read with interest and some sympathy the letter appearing in Monday's State News, "Poor Veteran States Case." After having read it, I could see how "Name Withheld by Request" could feel about certain of the University's regulations concerning the use of student owned automobiles and student loans.

However, I certainly can't sympathize with him as far as room and board payments go. I too, am a veteran attending school under the G.I. Bill, and I am quite sure that there are hundreds besides myself and this "Poor" veteran who don't have a lot of money, and have to budget their money very carefully.

I am also sure that this veteran was informed by the Veterans' Administration when he signed up for his G.I. allowance that he would have to bear the initial cost of schooling himself until his first check arrived.

My suggestion for this "Poor" veteran is to get busy and find himself a part time job and earn the extra money to tide himself over. If other vets with families to support can make it until that first check comes, there's no reason why a fellow living in a dorm can't do it. If he's too lazy to help himself, then he has no business being here or at any other university.

Navy and G.E. Report

Missile Geared for Accuracy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy reported Tuesday that its Sidewinder infrared air-to-air missile is so accurate it can shoot a flare-pot off the wing of a drone target plane.

The Navy at the same time permitted the General Electric Co., producer of Sidewinder guidance and control units, to outline for the first time officially just how the Sidewinder is guided by an infrared detector.

Seeks Hottest Target

H. F. Koenig, general manager of G. E.'s light military electronic equipment department at Uxma, N.Y., said in a prepared release, "Sidewinder seeks out the hottest target in the sky. In warfare, this would be the hot engine on an enemy aircraft."

In a Navy accuracy test the Sidewinder, fired at a target plane bearing a flare-pot on one wing, sought out not merely the drone aircraft itself but the flame coming from the mouth of the flare-pot. Other details of the test were not given.

Developed at the Naval Ordnance Test Station at China Lake, Calif., and named after the deadly desert rattlesnake, the Sidewinder is operational aboard aircraft of the 6th and 7th Fleets.

It is capable of super sonic launching and is highly accurate even at altitudes above 50,000 feet, the Navy said. It is also simple enough for Navy technicians to load and handle without specialized training.

The Navy-approved G. E. release contained this added information:

Infrared (or IR) systems are small, light, electronically simple and highly reliable because they detect and track a target through evasive actions without the use of bulky transmitters and receiving systems.

"Hot engines and exhausts of military targets lend themselves naturally to ready detection in secrecy, thus hampering enemy counter-measures," G. E. said.

Vanguard Test Success, Rocket Rises 109 Miles

Projectile Disappears Over Ocean

U. S. to Launch
Moon by March

MISSILE TEST CENTER, CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — The mighty Vanguard rocket expected to shoot an American artificial moon into orbit was put through another successful test Wednesday, rising 109 miles into the air.

At 2:24 p.m. (EST) the bullet-shaped 72-foot projectile left its firing pad with a dull roar, rose slowly into the sky, then picked up speed before disappearing into an overcast sky over the Atlantic. It was visible only about 30 seconds.

The U. S. Government says the Vanguard will put a pint-sized satellite into orbit with Russia's Sputnik in December and will launch a full-sized satellite by next March, taking it from 200 to 1,400 miles out into space.

The Vanguard is being developed by the Navy which said in Washington the missile soared 109 miles high. Its peak speed was given as 4,250 miles an hour after 140 seconds of thrust by the single engine.

The remains fell into the Atlantic 228 miles off the coast. Recording instruments were installed in the engine.

Today's rocket, officially known as Test Vehicle two (TV-2), was the first Vanguard with the external appearance of the final launching vehicle will have its main purpose was to test the first stage engine and evaluate performance of other Vanguard instruments.

The test came as new congressional criticism was aimed at administration handling of the missile program and as it was disclosed that this country overtook a Russian announcement last June that the Soviets would launch a satellite which would broadcast on 20 and 40 megacycles.

At the Pentagon Wednesday's test was called extremely successful.

Two house members expressed shock and astonishment on learning the U. S. overlooked Russia's June announcement it would launch its satellite. The announcement gave the satellite a life span of 10 years.

Word of the Soviet announcement was given the House Government Operations Subcommittee behind closed doors Monday by Rep. Adm. Rawson Bennett, chief of the office of Naval Research.

Sculpture Exhibition Highlights Art Show

Eight American sculptors, including Newman, Weinberg, Skowronek, Decker, Howard, Youngman and Miller, are represented in a show of modern sculptures in the Union Art Gallery.

The show is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Nov. 3, Saturdays and Sundays included.

The distance from New York to San Francisco around South America is 13,135 miles and via the Panama Canal is 5,262 miles.

Six Problems Discussed

AUSG Passes Resolution To Improve Olin Service

By LIZ TROESTER

All-University Student Congress passed what may be its most controversial resolution of the term Wednesday night.

After discussion, but no discussion resolution No. 16, a resolution to improve the services of Olin Memorial was approved. Introduced by Genny Butz, West Mayo, Lytle Sumner, married housing, and Carroll Sattler, East Shaw, it asks:

"That a doctor or intern diagnose all night calls; that doctors be required to be in attendance every morning including Sundays and all holidays upon request of the housemother or residence advisor; and that emergency first aid be rendered to families of married students (spouses and children) until they are able to receive proper attention elsewhere."

Speaker of the House Bill Leary gave the administration viewpoint on the hospital regulations. His information came from a talk with Dr. Clifford Menzies, director of the Health Service. To back up the resolution, experiences by congressmen Butz and Sumner were cited as was the letter appearing Wednesday in the State News.

Further action on this resolution will be handled by AUSG president Marne Gleason and Bill Leary.

Two bills and four other resolutions were acted on by Congress. Bill No. 9, calling for a summer session of congress only when matters arise which cannot be held over for action by the fall session, was passed.

It requires that any action taken by the summer session be reviewed by the second session of the fall congress and any action not approved then will be invalid.

Bill No. 10, which would split election of congressmen between spring and fall terms was tabled.

Three traffic resolution (Sumner) were passed and turned over to the student traffic committee. Res. 18 asks that the stadium parking lot be divided and both graduate students and commuters be allowed to park there.

Res. 17 asks that the committee investigate the parking situation during home football games. Res. 19 would set up a panel discussion on Student Motor Vehicle Regulation No. 10 to answer student complaints and questions.

Time and place will be announced in the State News and on campus bulletin boards.

Resolution No. 20 (Phil Hough fraternities) was defeated. It would have opened the student loan fund to unmarried students living on or near campus and owning cars. They are presently barred because the loan fund has low resources, and it is felt that students without any collateral should have priority.

The executive report by Gleason announced that the Regional Executive Council of the National Student Association will meet on campus this weekend. It set Nov. 4-8 for the Campus Chest drive.

Louise Hornbeck, Academic Benefits committee chairman outlined the program of her committee for the term.

Students Get 50 Cent LC Ticket Reduction

Students will be allowed a 50 cent reduction in the price of admission to all special programs presented at the university such as the "The Rivalry" and "Dancers of India," according to Dr. Wilson Paul, head of the Lecture-Concert Series.

'Siam' Truant

AWOLE Elephant Refuses Call Back to Duty

CATSKILL, N. Y., (AP) — Siam, the AWOL elephant, Wednesday spurned a personal appeal that she return to duty.

Trainer Alfred Vidbel reported he had been close enough to talk to the ten-year girl truant, who has been missing a week, but had failed to coax her to return.

Instead, Siam lumbered off into the rugged Catskill forests in which she has wandered since escaping from her winter quarters on a farm at Mitchell Hollow.

The hunt continued, although searchers conceded that nobody was quite sure what they would do if they caught up to the tawny elephant.

A spokesman for the trainer, Vidbel and his wife, said there was a possibility that after a week of freedom, Siam would no longer respond to orders.

Saim has complicated the search by popping up on different mountains.

Saturday is the most dangerous day of the week for motorists, according to the National Safety Council. Safest day: Tuesdays.

Activities Scheduled By MIRHC

Council Governs Dorm Functions

By TONI ROBB

What is the MIRHC? No, it's not another earth satellite. For the benefit of the uninitiated, these are the initials of the Men's Inter-Residence Hall Council, the governing body among men's dorms.

Founded in 1949, the council consists of dorm presidents plus three representatives from each hall, working to coordinate the eight men's dorms by encouraging support of all-university affairs and intramural activities.

During Welcome Week, the MIRHC was hard at work directing freshmen from information booths at Brady and Shaw Halls. The council also sponsored a Welcome Week mixer attended by 2,500 students.

Interested students had a chance to see rules and regulations in action during a mock football game at the IM Football Clinic engineered by the MIRHC.

Friday night after the pep rally, MIRHC adds another link to their chain of activities by sponsoring an all-university dance to be held at Shaw Hall.

Future plans of this organization include hosting the Big 10 President's Council slated for Nov. 15-17. The presidents of all Big 10 men's and women's dorm councils will meet to exchange ideas, problems, and make plans for the residence hall conference in the spring.

Dormitory Offers New Way of Life

Coed Apartments Allow Individuality

By MARY FLENNER

"Tell everyone today is gain day at the store," shouts a coed to her next-door neighbor in Sarah Van Hoosen Hall. The word spreads and soon the store is flooded with coeds planning meals for the coming week.

What the women of Van Hoosen eat during the week is entirely up to them. The residence is composed of separate apartments with each one having a kitchen, bathroom, and living area.

Mrs. Juanita Lloyd, assistant manager and resident advisor of the hall, said men visitors are asking if it would be possible to build a similar hall on campus for male students. This is no wonder, as the apartments offer home atmosphere and independence.

Situated in the woods east of Shaw, Van Hoosen has a beautiful surrounding. The exterior modern building is composed of a main section with the apartment's branching off on the sides giving a U-shaped structure.

Facilities for the use of women are in the main section. It contains mail boxes, a machine, office and apartment of the advisors, a large recreation room which can be used for parties or meetings and lounge for guests.

Each apartment has a living room, bedroom, bath, dining and kitchen. There are no apartments with the same color scheme.

Each apartment is beautifully decorated and spacious. They are also equipped with modern date furniture and 17 double desks, couple stove, refrigerator and many other furnishings are provided, as well as everything for cooking and serving meal from the silverware to potato peeler.

Every unit has its own space which is something any woman would appreciate. Daily service to each apartment and other advantage the women receive. An incinerator and a

With all of these advantages it would seem that Van Hoosen would be filled to capacity, but with room for 192 women there are only 124 occupying the hall. The reason is simply that coeds who applies is not admitted. They are carefully screened.

Training for the future is a valuable asset for those living in the hall.

Van Hoosen is run on the honor system with all AAS rules observed. The women elect a president, treasurer, secretary and five other officers.

Each apartment has a manager selected from the occupants who reports on the operation of her apartment. This report is then entered into the history of the hall.

If Van Hoosen continues to be the success it is now, it is possible there will be more halls similar on campuses across the nation.

Completion Near!

CSC, Church Serves Many MSU Students

As the sound of buzzing saws and bending hammers decrease, St. John's Church and Catholic Student Center at 327 M.A.C. Ave. are coming to completion. When construction is finished, the building will offer many conveniences to the 4,000 Catholic students attending MSU.

With a seating capacity of approximately 950, the church will relieve the crowded conditions of the past. A marble sanctuary, stained glass windows, honey dew white oak pews, and a planter in the vestibule all contribute to the church's atmosphere.

A lounge, where students can rest their weary bones, is included in the Student Center. Naugahyde furniture and fiberglass drapes will give it style; while a fireplace of roman brick adds a cozy atmosphere.

An all-purpose room measuring 35 feet by 25 feet is adaptable to any use. It will be finished in vinyl asbestos and rubber tile. A stage at the front makes it possible for the room to be converted into an auditorium or a dance hall.

Many rooms will be used for classes in Catholic and Associated Theology, Church History, Marriage, and the Fundamentals of the Catholic Faith will be held.

Books to aid Catholic students in seeking answers to many questions will be found in the Student Center library.

Prayer offices for counseling will be located in the building. Newman Club, the Catholic organization on campus, also will have an office in the new Student Center.

Two separate speaking systems, one for the Student Center and one for the church, will be a convenience found in the building. All of the offices and classrooms will be air conditioned.

A religious goods and information store is located in the Student Center for students who wish to purchase religious articles.

These articles will live in the Catholic Student Center in order to meet the needs of the students. There are also facilities to house four men students in the building.

At the present time, some rooms are in use although they are not completed. Services are being held in the all-purpose room.

When the saws and hammers cease, St. John's Church and Catholic Student Center will open its doors wide to meet the needs of Catholic students attending MSU.

Stocks Gain In Fast Rally From $1-10

Tickers Behind
As Stocks Boom

NEW YORK. (AP) — A skyrocketing stock market made its biggest one day advance in 28 years Wednesday as buying orders swept into Wall Street from all sections of the country.

Major stocks jumped $1 to $19 a share and then quoted value of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange boomed an estimated $7,200,000,000.

Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained $3.83, closing at $156.70. This was the biggest one day advance since Nov. 12, 1929, when the gain was $3.10.

The estimate of increase in the quoted value of stocks is based on the gain in the AP average.

In crowded brokerage houses throughout the financial district many market analysts and customers attributed the resurgence in the market to President Eisenhower's statement last night he would give talks on the national economy.

"Eisenhower's statement was far and away the dominating factor," one broker said, adding, "the market was ready to rally anyway."

The huge rise also was attributed to technical factors involved in an expected rebound from an oversold condition. Stocks have been declining since mid-July and yesterday reached the lowest level in 2½ years.

Whatever the cause, brokers reported buying orders came virtually from everywhere, including the mutual funds and financial institutions which are a major factor in the modern stock market.

Some brokers felt Eisenhower's statement last night was reassuring to foreign investors who have sold American stocks in recent weeks, and particularly since Russia's Sputnik was started whirling around the earth.

The market's direction was clear from the opening. A sensational first hour created epochal advances.

Christian Dior Dies Wednesday

MONTECATINI, Italy. (AP) — Christian Dior, for years the most famous name in fashion design, died here early Wednesday of a heart seizure.

His greatest coup was the "New Look" in 1947, when he ended and held for France the style leadership of the world.

The French government recognized in him a national asset and awarded him the Legion of Honor.

After he let skirts down (the "New Look" of 1947), hiked them up (1953) and de-emphasized the bosom (1954), stylists suspected he could do anything with fashions.

Sarria Spurs Soccer Team

By ARCHIE EDELHART

Inside left Al Sarria was kicked in the right knee in last Saturday's soccer match with Purdue but stayed in the game. He was kicked again in the left calf and was taken out. After the injured calf was kneaded a few minutes, he returned and finished the game. Prior to injury Sarria scored three goals to defeat the Boilermakers 3-2.

Last season Al scored 12 times, just over half the Spartans' total output. He scored five goals in a game against Illinois. This season he has scored five goals in three games, putting him ahead of last year's pace.

Al is a shy, quiet individual who would never be taken for an athlete until observed in play on the field. He is a graceful ball handler, who usually has two men assigned to guard him. He relies on finesse and deception, rather than sheer speed.

to elude them. Al is five foot six inches tall and as difficult to follow from the stands as he is on the field.

Al's father is a coffee wholesaler in Pasadena, Colombia. Before

AL SARRIA
spurs victory

Al Sarria's family consists of a brother and two sisters in Colombia and an older brother in California. The brother in California recently attended Michigan State to Al as a guest student for mechanical engineering.

In Colombia soccer is the major sport, and Al played for his high school and for an amateur town team. When he arrived at State, he joined the Soccer Club which was instrumental in establishing varsity soccer at the university. After last season his teammates elected him team captain. A junior, he graduates a year from now enabling him to play one more season. He hopes to work in the United States for a few years before returning to Colombia.

Sarria finds play in the United States tough because the players are heavier. He notes that last season an American strategy is based on a longer pass than is common in Europe or South America.

Coach Gene Kenney had Al run ten laps at one time on Monday, to work the kinks from his legs. Al protested that he couldn't run, but Kenney wouldn't listen. "They always do that," sighed Al. He sneaked in a couple of minutes in the scrimmage session before Kenney spotted him, and he began those last 400-yard laps around the field. Of his injuries he says, "I'm getting used to that, getting kicked every weekend."

Illini Stress Defense Play

Gophers' Top Tackle Sidelined

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—The University of Illinois football team staged a long scrimmage at the Illini from John Wilkes, day emphasizing defense against the attack expected from Northwestern Saturday.

Coach Ray Eliot is not counting on much service from center Ben Kistling, who has a side injury, and guard Dave Adair, who is hospitalized with a broken leg.

Another flu victim, end T. L. Stewart, missed the day's work, but is expected back today. Guard Bill Burrell, returned from the injury list and should be able to play Saturday.

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Corry A. Farquhar, Wednesday night, his winless Northwestern Wildcats through the fall, including a 15-minute defensive scrimmage.

Farquhar, wary of Saturday's game against offensive-minded Iowa, worked his team against a freshman club, using backfield plays. Farquhar said he hoped to eliminate what he described as "persistent Northwestern defensive mistakes."

First-string right tackle Gene Gossage, still sidelined by a shoulder injury, was declared out of the Iowa game. Gossage, a Wadsworth, Ohio, sophomore, has been shelved for nearly two weeks.

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Defensive blocking and other fundamentals were stressed Wednesday in the Wisconsin football squad's long drill inside the huge Camp Randall practice building.

Contact in the drill was high, although the squad reported no full uniform.

The squad was at full strength for the first time this week, although at least two top linemen are not expected to see action against Ohio State here this weekend. Neither Capt. Bill Gehlert's injured knee nor Jim Heinicke's badly bruised leg have responded as well to treatment this week as Bruhn had hoped.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Pass defense and power plays marked Minnesota's football practice Wednesday as Coach Murray Warmath sought ways to cope with the threat of Michigan's speed and aerial effectiveness.

Frank Youso, standout 250-pound tackle, watched the drill from the sidelines. Although released from the hospital after a bout with flu and an infected tooth, it was doubtful whether he could be used in Saturday's Little Brown Jug contest.

Fullback Bob Blakey, sidelined with a sprained knee, was back in running condition, but second and third string centers Mike Svenson and Jerry Shuler were reported out of action for Saturday with injuries.

Light Heavies Sign for Bout

Moore, Spieser Agree On January Title Fight

DETROIT (AP)—Formal contracts were drawn up and signed Wednesday for a light heavyweight title bout between champion Archie Moore and Detroit's Chuck Spieser.

Lions Gird To Invade West Coast

DETROIT (AP)—George Wilson has been huddling with his staff hour after hour this week, preparing for an invasion of the west that could very well decide whether the Detroit Lions will have a successful season.

Only once have the Lions made what the press agent would call "a triumphant tour of the west."

That was in 1956 when the Lions whipped the Los Angeles Rams twice and the San Francisco 49ers twice.

"But we didn't overwhelm them," Wilson reminds, pointing out that the total margin of the four victories was only 19 points. The Lions beat the Rams 24-21 and 16-7 and nipped the 49ers 20-17 and 17-13.

The coast teams always have been troublesome for the Lions, and that fact can be noted best during the Detroit club's title-chasing years. In 1952, when the Lions lost only three games and won the world title, they dropped two decisions to Fresno. The following year it was against World Champions and a 10-2 record—with both losses to the hands of the Los Angeles Rams.

In 1954 Detroit had a 9-2-1 record and won the western division crown for the third straight year. But the Lions had to settle for a split with San Francisco.

The Lions worked an hour and a half in the rain Wednesday, stressing offense most of the morning. Today is "defense day."

"Our last game with Los Angeles was a defensive battle all the way," said the head coach. "We just hone our defense as well as this Sunday. Of course we can't expect to intercept six passes like we did a couple of weeks ago against those Rams."

Just as this Sunday's collision with the Rams is a "must" for the Lions, it is just as important to the Los Angeles club. Coach Sid Gilman is on the spot after three losses and a tie with the club the experts said had some of the best players in the league. Coast writers are beginning to hound the Los Angeles club, and attendance has not been up to par.

"The Rams are a great club, but no mistake about it," said Wilson. "They'll get started before long. I just hope they wait until after Sunday afternoon. They have as good a running attack as you'll find anywhere and Norm Van Brocklin is a really great passer."

The Rams' Tom Wilson is the National Football League's leading ground gainer with 397 yards in 69 carries for a 5.7 average. Van Brocklin ranks fifth among the passers—far ahead of the Lions' Bobby Layne and Tom Rife.

"Wilson is trying to guard against a letdown, by the Lions, who have beaten Green Bay, Los Angeles and Baltimore since being stung by Baltimore in the season's opener."

"The boys know they've been a little lucky," said Wilson. "But damn, any team that wins in the league has to be lucky. They've been good, too."

Wilson said after the Lions' dramatic 31-27 come-from-behind victory Sunday over Baltimore that "there's no telling what a victory like this can do for a team like ours."

The first stadium erected on the site of Michigan State's present 75,000-seat football house was built in 1923 to hold 14,000 fans.

Haney Wins Honor

NEW YORK (AP)—Fred Haney, who led the Milwaukee Braves to their first pennant and world championship, Wednesday was named National League Manager of the year for 1957 in the Annual Associated Press Poll.

Haney won in a close vote over Fred Hutchinson, pilot of the second-place St. Louis Cardinals. The Cardinals were in a challenging position until the final week of the season.

Haney received 99 votes and Hutchinson 84 of the 180 that were cast by members of the Baseball Writers' Assn. of America. Mayo Smith of the Philadelphia Phillies was named on five ballots and Bill Rigney of the New York Giants on one.

Cincinnati's Burt Reynolds, the National League Manager of the year in 1956, did not receive a single vote.

The success story, Haney wrote in Milwaukee the past season reads like something that more often emerges from Hollywood—a brisk walk from his Los Angeles home.

Although selected most likely to win the league championship in pre-season estimates, the Braves were dealt one damaging blow after another.

At various stages of the campaign they were without the services of first stringers Joe Adcock, Eddie Mathews, Johnny Logan and Billy Bruton. Bruton's injury was the most serious and he did not return to the lineup after wrenching a knee on July 11.

Still, Haney brought his club on with a rush and it broke the race wide open with an eight-game winning streak in mid-September. The Braves clinched the flag Sept. 23.

The result was in marked contrast to the outcome of last year's competition in which the Braves held the lead in the final week but were snatched out by the Brooklyn Dodgers on the final day.

The past season was the 53-year-old Haney's eighth as a big league manager. He led the St. Louis Browns from 1939 through 1941 and Pittsburgh from 1943 through 1953. Except for the last two years, none of his major league teams finished higher than sixth.

Hutchinson, who was in his second year with St. Louis, was given much of the credit for the strong stand made by the Cards. The team was in first place at the mid-season all-star break.

Hutchinson, a star pitcher for Detroit until 1951, managed the Tigers in 1952, 1953 and 1954. He was let go after the '54 campaign and following one season with Seattle of the Pacific Coast League, was hired by Frank Lane, the Cards' general manager.

MSU Sailors Play Host for Invitational Meet

Michigan State's sailing team played host this past Saturday to a fall invitational held at Lake Lansing. Participating in the regatta, which started Saturday morning and continued until Sunday afternoon, were Wayne State University, General Motors Institute of Technology, Marquette University, University of Michigan and MSU.

Michigan State proved to be too much of an "old salt" as it is called, its closest opponent, a veteran GMI team. The school for high-point skipper went to Dave Irish to earn him a spot in the "B" division. Marquette, Wayne and U of M finished three, four, five, in that order.

Low Holds Record

Since 1920 only two pitchers have started and won three World Series games in the same year. They are Stan Coveleskie of Cleveland who beat Brooks, Lyn three times in 1920 and Lew Burdette of Milwaukee who beat the Yankees three times in the 1957 classic.

Hungarians Remember In Silence

On Anniversary Of Bloody Revolt

VIENNA, (AP) — The Hungarian people marked the first anniversary of their anti-Soviet revolt Wednesday in sullen silence under the guns of police.

The Communist government of Premier Janos Kadar warned them in advance any demonstrations would be crushed. It had nine Russian army divisions to back him up.

Reports from Budapest said the day was dark and rainy as Hungarians trudged to work or to school.

One scene from the Budapest reports seemed symbolic of the day.

A little, gray-haired old lady, dressed in black and hunched over against the rain, weaved her way through police guards and entered Budapest's vast cemetery.

She shuffled to a grave and knelt down in prayer.

The guards, with submachine guns slung over their backs, paid little attention to this old woman. Their job was to stop any freedom demonstrations in the graveyard of the revolt's victims.

The heaviest guard apparently was set up in that big cemetery.

People were told they could not wear mourning clothes or light candles in memory of their dead.

And as they walked about the streets of Budapest, pictures of Russian soldiers sniped down at them. "Ungrateful," were the words "true friend."

The Hungarian Foreign Ministry said this day was mourned as Budapest.

"Work went on normally, as on any other day, in all fields of life," it said. "There is peace and order in the city. Work was going on everywhere, including the universities and schools."

The Communist-dominated Patriotic People's Front sent out an anniversary statement through the official Hungarian news agency MTI. It said the Communist government, it told the people.

Those who refuse should be released away.

Children played in the square where a great anti-Communist fight Hungarian students tore down the giant statue of Stalin.

In downtown Budapest, passersby gave a hasty glance at the radio station where first shots of the revolution were fired and the students sounded their first call for help.

Armed guards were doubled on barracks and strategic buildings for the anniversary, and elaborate measures were taken in factories and offices to stop unauthorized persons from gaining access to vehicles or equipment.

Kadar's regime was reported to have received strict directives from Moscow not to permit even minor demonstrations that might refresh the world's memory of last year's bloody rebellion of the revolution by the Russian army.

This was easy for the Communist regime because it held all the guns and ammunition and it had executed or jailed thousands of revolutionaries and driven thousands of others into exile.

Unofficial reports said that the Hungarian concentration camps and jails are filled with 100,000 prisoners.

Austrian frontier police reported everything quiet as the grave along the Austro-Hungarian border, where last fall more than 100,000 came in mass flight.

Primary Election Scheduled Today For Freshmen Officer Candidates

Candidates for freshmen class officers and seats on the Freshman Council will be narrowed in today's primaries.

There will be no voting on candidates for the All-University Student Congress because there were not enough petitions turned in to make a primary necessary.

To vote, students must present their ID and fill out a registration card. They will be issued a registration card and be allowed to vote. The ballots will be considered valid only if stamped by the voting unit.

Students must have two names remaining in a class to vote in that class.

Ballots in the living units will be open during the noon and evening meal hours. Union voting hours are 8-6:30.

Brownell Resigns Attorney General Post to Resume Law Practice

of resignation seemed to emphasize that Brownell did not think of himself as quitting under fire. He wrote Eisenhower:

"In late August I discussed with you my desire to return to private law practice at the earliest practicable date. Before you were able to complete plans for the transition of the duties of the office to my successor, the Little Rock matter intervened, requiring urgent legal action in the federal courts. Since the federal government's legal position in this case has now been clearly defined, it seems an appropriate time for me to fulfill my desire to resume private law practice."

Brownell is generally thought to have guided Eisenhower in the course the President took in the Little Rock affair. After repeated conversations with Brownell, Eisenhower federalized the Arkansas National Guard and sent federal troops to Little Rock on Sept. 24. He acted after white adults rioted outside the newly integrated Central High school.

Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas declined to comment on Brownell's resignation when reached at Little Rock.

Nixon, campaigning through New Jersey on behalf of Republican gubernatorial Candidate Malcolm S. Forbes, issued the following statement on the resignation of the attorney general: "Mr. Brownell has made one of the most outstanding records of any attorney general in our history. "I am confident that his successor, Mr. William Rogers, who has been one of the most outstanding young leaders in this administration, will make an exceptional record. "Probably no one who has ever held this office has been better prepared in experience and background than William Rogers."
