Cagers Oppose Wildcats

Win Would Put Spartans in 2nd

By LARRY WROBLEWSKI
Michigan State's basketball team attempts to regain its winning touch as the cagers host Northwestern at 8 p.m. Saturday in Jensen Fieldhouse.

The cagers were upset Monday by Wisconsin, 66-52, and they defeated a "strong" Northwestern squad Saturday, 68-58.

The rematch with Northwestern, 2-2 in Big 10 play, opens an extensive home stand for Coach Fordy Anderson's quintet, presently perched in fourth place with four other teams. Following the Wildcats tilt, the Spartans entertain Minnesota, meet Indiana in Bloomington, Ind., and play Illinois at home on Feb. 15.

However, the big concern for the Big 10 champions is the Northwestern encounter on Saturday.

Two hard scrimmages Wednesday and Thursday have resulted in the Wisconsin game, according to Anderson. "The practices showed me that the team is more determined than ever and it really wants to win," he declared.

A win over the Wildcats would place the cagers into a tie with the second in the Big 10, the Big Ten conference. A loss would confine State to a possibly eighth position in the standings.

Northwestern utilizes a fast-break featuring jump shooting and a man-to-man defense, and is the machine of a stout guard defense to hold the Spartans' top scoring outfit to 78 p.p.g.

Joe Ruklick, 6'9" center, has a potent offensive thrust and has averaged 7.9 and a 44 points per game. Ruklick has averaged 17 markers per game for seventh in the conference.

Along with the lowering point forwards Phil Warren and Mike Jones, who scored 21 points against State last week, guard Mantis and Dick Johnson make up a quintet of balanced players.

For players hitting in double figures consistently is also present in the Spartan attack.

The cagers are paced by forward Rob Anderson, tied for 14th in conference scoring with 11.8 average per game.

Other leading scoring support comes from John Green, 14.5 and Big 10 rebounder with 7.4, Jack Quigg, 13.8, forward Larry Heiden, 13.3, and Sam Tom Rand, 24 points in the state.

The overall series stands at 10-10 in favor of Northwestern, but a Spartan victory could even the score.

An expected capacity crowd is expected to fill the 12,500-seat Jensen Fieldhouse. A turnstile figure of 9,500 fans have watched the Spartans in action, both at home and on the road. Saturday attendance should push the total over the 100,000 mark.

Probable Lineups
For Northwestern:
Warren (6-3) F Warren (6-5)
Heiden (6-5) F Jones (6-4)
Green (6-5) C Ruklick (6-9)
Heiden (6-5) C Mantis (6-3)
Rand (6-2) G Johnson (6-6)

Rushes Receive Bids Saturday

January rushes pick up final bids Saturday afternoon in the form of the National Mobile Home Fair. Formal ceremonies are held on Saturday with each house setting its own time and dress for the service.

Charles stated the post office closed Saturday from two to seven p.m. to make out preference bids prior to the issuing of bids. Each bid was marked the number for which the bid was made and would be willing to pay in the order of his preference. The houses likewise list the names in the same order. Paid workers compare the bids and when these are matched, the house issues formal invitation to pledge.

Two students question the hour as they compare watches with the Beaumont Tower clock. All four clock faces have been missing their hands for several days. According to the maintenance department, mechanical changes are being made.

AUSC Slates Clothing Drive Next Week

The clothing drive for the victims of the recent fire in Panama City, Panama, will be held Monday through Thursday, Tom Kinen, AUSC administrative vice president, said Thursday. "The clothes are desperately needed by the 3,000 who were left homeless by the fire which swept through a rooming house district last week. The disaster takes on major proportions when the number of those left destitute by the fire is compared with the country's total population of one million."

Alpha Phi Omega, men's service fraternity, will deliver cartons for the clothes to all living units on campus and men's co-ops. There will be a cartoon in the Union concourse for donations from off-campus students. Light clothing suitable for warm weather is preferred but the situation is such that any clothing in reasonably good condition will be accepted, Kinen said.

Recalling the Hungarian relief drive of last year, AUSC vice president Ed Leary, pointed out that this drive was equally important and deserved a similar enthusiastic support from all students. The drive, initiated by August to Zambrano, Panama City junior, is co-sponsored by AUSC, APO, Men's Inter-Residence Hall Council, Women's Inter-Residence Hall Council and Men's Co-ops.

Mobile Home Exhibition Slated for Fair

MSU, the only American university to offer a degree in mobile home education, is sponsoring an exhibit at the National Mobile Home Fair, co-sponsored by the National Mobile Home Education Council, at the University of Louisville through Sunday.

Carlton M. Edwards, director of the mobile homes curriculum, is in charge of the exhibit. Eight students will go to Louisville in teams of four each, one for the first part of the show, the other for the last half.

The students will be with the exhibit to explain the curriculum, distribute literature and get to know the people in the industry. The show is designed especially for manufacturers, suppliers and dealers in the trailer-home business.

Jack E. Marsh, Vandana junior, will receive the Perry C. Miles Memorial scholarship in honor of the former owner of Vanguard Coaches of New Hudson, Glen G. Moore, New Hollywood, Florida soph., will be presented the Fiddes-Moore and Co. (Ft. Wayne) scholarship.

Exchange Agreements Due Today

U.S.-Soviet Swap May Climax Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Russia are expected to announce today a wide range of agreements in principle on exchanging visits by scientists, writers, artists and other experts.

But conspicuously absent from the agreement, it was understood, would be what originally was the No. 1 U.S. goal: a swap of unexcused, periodic radio-television commentaries on world events.

Today's agreement, if announced as expected, will climax highly secret talks going on here since Oct. 28.

It will be the parting shot of Soviet ambassador Georgi Zarubin. He is going home for reassignment Wednesday after more than five years in Washington.

Zarubin has been meeting once or twice a week for nearly three months at the State Department with the chief U.S. negotiator, William S. B. Lacy.

The Russians obviously are eager to swap visits by people. But they shy from anything suggesting penetration of the Iron Curtain by news and ideas from the outside before they have been put through the censors' wringer.

The Americans strongly desire to get expert observers into Russia to see with knowing eyes exactly how the Soviets achieve their great success in such fields as physics, jet propulsion, and metallurgy. But they want even more to reach over tight censorship and into the minds of the Russian people.

Two reasons seemed to be behind the shelving of the U.S. proposal to swap radio-television commentaries: pointed lack of Soviet interest or desire, and inability to guarantee that Soviet radio-television broadcasts would get nationwide network distribution in this country.

Washington Works on Problems

WASHINGTON (AP)—Now that the Ku Klux Klan-Indian wars are over, Sterling Tucker thinks some attention should be paid to the progress being made in better race relations.

As you know, Washington has its problems. Its schools lag behind the national level. Within the shadow of the Capitol there is housing so terrible Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) has said he would not let his own live there.

All in all, a man like Tucker is likely to run out of home-work.

For Tucker is executive director of the Washington Urban League, a national organization set up a half century ago to help Negroes moving to the city.

Tucker doesn't go along with what he believes are the extremes, those who shy away from change and those who think everything should happen at once.

"We're too moderate for many people," Tucker said. "But we're a fact finding organization, and we try to see what a community can do at its local level."

"As I see it, these aren't Negro problems. They're community problems. If we have slums, we have delinquency and that hits us all since we can't have a crime within the boundaries of a neighborhood. If a man can't get a job, he goes on relief, and we all pay."

Right now, Tucker is reporting a small triumph. It won't make as many headlines as the KKK-Indian war, but in the long pull it could have more significance.

Holds Weekend Convo in Kellogg Center

Press Has 90th Anniversary

A full schedule of activities is in store for Michigan Press Association members this weekend at Kellogg Center. The Association, celebrating its 90th birthday, began things officially at 12:15 today with a kickoff luncheon in the Big 10 Room. J. Montgomery Curtis, director of American Press Institute, Columbia University, will speak on "Making the Most of Your Press."

Chairman of the luncheon is Robert Marshall, General Counsel, Herald, West, Branch, and first vice president of the MPA. A feature of the luncheon will be the presentation of awards to school districts for excellence in publishing reports.

At an afternoon tea for ladies in the Red Cedar Room, Mrs. Marion Niederprum of the MSU home economics department will discuss "Accessory Magic."

An editorial makeup workshop, presided over by Curtis, is slated for 3 p.m.

Also at 3, a panel discussion "Egyptian Grad Student To Address Arab Club"

Omar Shamsuddin, Egypt grad student, will speak on his native country Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at Arab Club in the International Center.

Shamsuddin, who is majoring in agricultural engineering, arrived here Jan. 1 from Egypt.

All interested students are invited to attend.

Ann Landers, nationally syndicated columnist, will highlight the last formal gathering of association members with her speech "Troubles Are My Business."

Her talk is the feature of the "All-Michigan Dinner," Saturday evening at 6:30 in the Big 10 Room, co-sponsored by the Michigan Dept. of Agriculture.

A dance for members at 9:30 in the Centennial Room Ballroom will conclude the birthday celebration.

Speakers of the evening will be Anthony G. De Lorenzo, vice president of General Motors for the public relations staff. His topic will be "We Move Forward from 1907."

MPA's annual business meeting is scheduled for 9 a.m. Saturday.

At 10 a.m., a "Job Estimating Derby" will be conducted by H. J. Ward, president of Port Publishing Co. in the Lincoln Room.

Also at 10, a daily newspaper discussion of "10 Top News Programs" will be held in room 106, with E. C. Hachow, publisher of the Hillsdale Daily News, presiding.

Haydon, second vice president of MPA, will conduct the luncheon Saturday at 12:15 p.m. in the Big 10 Room.

Dr. Fred Siebert, director of the MSU School of Journalism, will speak on "Legal Pitfalls in Advertising Copy" at the luncheon. A "Federal Wage Hour Law" talk by Colonel Joe J. Lavett, director of the American Relief Administration, is also planned.

Peron Also Reported In Flight

Caracas Celebrates: Military Sworn In

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez fell Thursday but his flight into exile failed to halt gunfighting and bloodshed in this turbulent capital. More than 100 persons have been slain since a general strike and uprising began Tuesday.

Perez Jimenez, with his family and closest aides, fled to sanctuary in the Dominican Republic. His friend, ex-dictator Juan D. Peron of Argentina was reported fleeing by plane for Colombia to seek new refuge.

Caracas exploded with a wild celebration of dawn, as soon as it became known Perez Jimenez, ruler for 10 years, had gone. But vengeance-seeking mobs brought new violence.

A new five-man military junta was sworn in, but a civilian patriotic junta, which had led the revolt, had some doubts whether freedom actually had come. That raised question marks about the stability of the new government.

Life in the day the junta arrested its all-military character by announcing the addition of two civilians, and sought to placate civilian rebels by declaring the intention of holding free elections and restoring constitutional liberties. But it set no dates.

A curfew from 8 p.m. to 6 a.m. was ordered for Thursday night.

The secret police first had arrested the members of the revolutionary regime, were reported holding 600 political prisoners. The police have been accused of tortures.

The first act of the ruling junta was to announce that political prisoners held on "unjust charges" had been freed from Obispo Prison and the modern Carcel Modelo. But only nine were released.

By Thursday night, however, several hundred prisoners had been freed. Among them was Miguel Angel Capriles, publisher of Ultimas Noticias, and La Razon, who had been arrested for refusing to publish a progressive editorial.

Shooting was heard in other parts of Caracas Thursday afternoon, and there were other acts of violence.

A crowd ransacked the offices of the electoral council. This body conducted the year-old plebiscite of Dec. 15 in which Perez Jimenez was declared elected for another five-year term. This was one of the events which sparked the Jan. 1 revolt.

Perez Jimenez, put down and held on for 22 more days through political maneuvering.

The decade of power for stoutish, 43-year-old Perez Jimenez was terminated at midnight when the military chiefs informed him he had lost the support of the armed forces.

Civilian rebels who had proclaimed a general strike Thursday night fought pitched battles in the streets Wednesday finally won the support of some of the younger military leaders.

But the all-military junta that was sworn in included three who have stood high in the service of the ousted president.

Coal Still Burns On South Campus

The coal pile by the power plant on South campus has been burning for a week against all attempts to put it out.

Surprisingly enough this type of fire is not unusual. The type of coal which is used to heat the campus has a high sulfur content and is susceptible to spontaneous combustion.

When a fire starts it is necessary to tear apart the pile with a power shovel until the fire is found. After locating the fire it is easy to put it out.

Indoor Track Season Nearing

Today will be a good day for students to get their first glimpse of the Michigan State's 1958 indoor track team as Track Coach Karl Schladerman conducts his second time trials of the year. Time trials will be held late this afternoon in Jenison Fieldhouse beginning around 4 o'clock.

Among the events scheduled are the 75-yard dash, 75-yard high and low hurdles, 880-yard run, and the 300-yard dash. Trials are slated for Saturday morning too.

There has been some great running already witnessed this year. Coach Schladerman singled out Dave Leon, Willie Atterberry, Ken Dafeo, Gordon Fosburg, and Brian Castle, after watching them all clocking very creditable times in the 440-yard dash Wednesday afternoon.

Leon, a silver medal winner in the last Olympics, and Atterberry, the holder of the world record in the 600-yard dash, having been burning up the track setting phenomenal times in the short distance runs.

Play North Dakota Hockey Team On Road Trip

By DAVE BARRELL

The Spartan Hockey team battles the Nodaks of North Dakota in a momentous two game series at Grand Forks, N.D. tonight and Saturday night.

North Dakota trails State in one game in the Western Intercollegiate Hockey League. The Spartans are tied for third spot with the University of Michigan while the Nodaks are fourth.

Last weekend, North Dakota split a two-game series with the Gophers of Minnesota. Minnesota coach, John Mariucci, said after the series, "If they play like they did against us, for the rest of the season, they'll end up in the NCAA playoffs."

State's iceers looked like a team in a hard practice Wednesday. Coach Joe Schmitt played as if it were an actual game, being called upon to make many great saves.

The Spartans will enter the series with back to back wins over Michigan Tech last weekend.

Ross Parke, leading the team in scoring and eighth in the league, will be out to increase his 16 point output. Terry Morrison, Sudbury sophomore, sports the team's only "hat trick," midway through the season.

Spartan Coach, Arno Benson, is taking a 16-man traveling squad with him.

The pucksters are in top physical condition except for the certainty of defense man Edgell Fullwell's knee. He injured it in a collision with Teddie Arns, Capt. last Saturday.

Coach Benson, elated over the team's showing against Tech, said, "They have been skating well, and after this week's hard practices, should be prepared for a tough two-game set against North Dakota."

The Spartans' next home game is Friday, Jan. 31, against the Buckeyes of Ohio State.

State's iceers left via Pan Am Airlines from Lansing at 1:45 p.m. today. They will arrive at Capitol City Airport at 4:30 Sunday afternoon.

Fencers Travel During Weekend

State's fencing team travels to Detroit Saturday for a meet with the University of Michigan. The meet is scheduled for 1:30 in the Memorial Building.

Coach Charles Schmitter pointed out that Detroit is 10 miles to Wayne University, not including anything. Wednesday, though, stated Coach Schmitter.

The lineup will include Harold Simonson, Terrence Green, Forrest Mark and Sam Tuck, and Roger Jinn, Ed Hildebrand, and Randy Hopper at spot.

Capt. David McCall, Terrence Schrag, John Kalasky and Roger Mook at sub.

Hildebrand won an eye moment in Detroit last weekend.

Tankers Host Ohio, Seek Third Victory

By DAVE ROGERS

"They're a strong team with a number of good men and excellent divers," Coach Charles McCaffree had this to say about the Ohio State swimming squad which meets the Spartans in Jenison pool Saturday at 3 p.m. McCaffree added, "We have a good chance to win if everyone comes enough as expected."

Personally a contender for national honors, the Mike Pennepacker Buckeyes have a 16-1 record over the State tankers in series dating from 1922. The single Spartan win came in 1933 when the Bucks fell, 51-39. Pennepacker's swimmers finished third in the Big 10 behind first place State with 87 and Michigan 9. The Bucks picked up 10, outdistancing fourth place Indiana by 14 1/2 counts. Pennepacker is prevalent in the swimming camp this year, and with so. The Buckeyes lost to top performers as Al Wing, All American in the butterfly and individual medley, and McNamara in the three and freestyle events and Don Dugan All American in three events.

McCaffree expounded, "It looks to be an interesting meet and very tight in spots. There should be a number of unusual close races." The Spartans took their third win, having previously defeated Iowa and Iowa State in dual meets.

The 200-yard individual medley will pit Spartan All-American Ray Harmon and Co-Captain Wally Dobler against Jack Cassette, the Bucks butterfly and breaststroker, who is fourth in the dual events. Stewart is a sophomore who has had considerable national competition.

Ohio's Lou Scheneman, a sophomore from Cincinnati, is a standout in the 200-yard butterfly and could conceivably push Dobler and Tom Kivasty of the Spartans in this event.

The Bucks are loaded in the springboard event. Senior Glen Whitton is a former Olympian who picked up an All American rating in the 1-meter dive in 1937. Backing him is Bill Patrick, fifth place finisher in the All-American 3-meter dive, Ben O'Brien.

Billy Stewart, the Spartan's South African Olympian, one of the top sophomore freestylers in the nation should annex the 200 and 400-yard races with ease. The Bucks' junior freestyler Joe Henry could give Stewart some measure of trouble in the 200 and along with Tom Ocasek will form the opposition for the quarter-mile.

The 300-yard freestyle, with State's Don Patterson a stand-out All-American in this event, is always an exciting duel. Ohio will counter with Bob Connel, Joe Van Horn and Tom Wall. As to Pennepacker's pessimism, McCaffree stated, "They are always dangerous. The two teams are on more or less even terms which always leads to an exciting meet."

GORDY FORNELL

Phi Ep's Top Kappa Sigma

Phi Epsilon, with three players scoring in double figures, rolled over Kappa Sigma, 58-29. Tom Horton paved the way for the winners with 14 points. Wayne Fontost and Bob Lee also contributed 13 and 10 markers, respectively. Dick Yochum tossed in 10 for the losers.

Alpha Tau Omega made it two in a row, by defeating Lambda Chi Alpha, 56-29. Tim Paus led at half-time, 19-12, and added plenty of assurance in the second half. Bruce Kibben and Dave Hunt led the scoring with 17 and 10 points.

Wrestlers Host OSU Saturday

Don Stroud hasn't lost a wrestling match this season ... and he has an engagement Saturday that he would especially like to add to the list.

The 130-pound Michigan State grappler has a date with a chap named Pat Columbus, one of Ohio State University's fine wrestlers who will appear at 3 p.m. in Jenison Fieldhouse.

Stroud has vengeance in mind. As a sophomore, he fought his way to the Big 10 crown in his weight division. Columbus showed up last year and stole it from him in a tight one-point struggle. Stroud would like to even the score.

"We're very eager to this first one," assured Coach Fendley Collins. "We've lost two in a row and that's something that doesn't happen to us."

Collins is resting a little more comfortably this week with three new starters in the lineup.

Our lineup should be stronger, collected Collins. "We have three new men that will help. We won't have such a big list of injuries to contend with."

Probably the best news to Collins is the fact that Tim Woodin has trimmed necessary poundage to work into the 177-pound class. Collins is expecting him to score a win in the lighter weight class.

Jim Ferguson suffered a cut in his lip which required a few stitches but will be ready to go at 107.

Collins expects a bigger crowd than showed up last week because of the many other attractions.

The wrestlers start an hour before the swimmers take to the pool against Ohio State. This will offer a fine opportunity to see some of the best wrestling in the country, points out Collins. Admission is free.

Reliable heavyweight Ken Maglow, Pat Moser, and Jack Koenig will also be wrestling.

When appearance counts ... you can depend on our reliable cleaning and pressing service ... garments look better and last longer.
