Spartans Meet Indiana In Big 10 Showdown

By HARDY CHRIST

The dream game of the Big 10 basketball season—Michigan State against Indiana—will be played Saturday afternoon at Jenison Fieldhouse. Game time is 1:30 p.m. (EST).

It will be a perfect climax for one of the bitterest basketball races in the Big 10's history, and the two teams will wrap up the entire season in 40 franchise minutes.

State Coach Fordy Anderson's outfit can win its first undisputed Big 10 crown and earn a berth in the forthcoming NCAA championship for the second straight year if it wins.

The Hoosiers will grab the conference honors and the tournament berth if they come out as victors.

Michigan State's home attendance, already at an all-time high, may reach the 100,000 mark when the two cage powers collide. A capacity crowd of more than 13,000 is expected.

Many thousands more will be watching from television screens as it is the "Big 10 Game of the Year."

Week, and will be televised over a 40-station Mid-West network.

Indiana remembers well what happened in the same fieldhouse a year ago. It was under similar circumstances, with the winner being assured of at least a tie for the conference championship.

The Spartans finished the Hoosiers in that one, 76-61, gained the conference co-championship, and went on to play brilliantly in the NCAA tournament.

The Spartans, however, also remember what happened when those two teams met for the first time this season. In a battle at Bloomington, Ind., the Hoosiers squeaked out a 82-79 victory.

The Big 10's best offensive team will meet the best defensive club in the conference when these two teams clash. Indiana's Hoosiers lead the league offensively with a 13-game average of 86.2 points and Michigan State's Spartans are the top defensive unit with an average yield of only 69.2.

Comparatively, the Spartans rank fifth in the Big 10 in scoring, while the Hoosiers are ninth defensively.

The game will also match two of the outstanding centers in conference history. Archie Dees, the Hoosier star who was most valuable in the conference last year, has clinched the individual scoring title by averaging 26.8 per game. Should he hold his scoring average, it will rank as the fourth best season's effort in Big 10 history.

Against Dees will be State's great rebounding star, John Green, Green has captured 15.1 rebounds per game, and a total of 299. The Spartan ace is sixth in conference scoring with a 18.4 average.

He has also taken fewer shots than any regular in the league of a Big 10 team. His scoring average as a result, is a phenomenal 54.7 mark.

In this game at Bloomington several weeks ago, the 6'8" Indiana star scored 21 points to Green's 16, but the Spartan center corralled 16 rebounds to Dees' eight.

"Much has been said of Dees, and we agree that he's a great basketball player," stated Anderson. "But it's not a question of whether we'll stop Dees—it's a question if he'll stop Michigan State."

Spartan forward Bob Anderlegg also places in the top 10 of the conference's top scorers. His 16.8 average puts him in tenth position.

Both Michigan State and Indiana have at over 400 in their four shooting. State with a 410 average and the Hoosiers with 398.

The game will also be the regular season finale for a host of line cagers. For Indiana, it will be the end of the line for four of the five starters—center Dees, forwards Jerry Thompson and Pete Obremsky, and guard

JOHN HANNAH

Hannah Talks on Education

Junior Colleges Need Improvement

"We cannot go on forever meeting the faculty needs of the junior colleges by moving high school teachers into junior college jobs," said President John A. Hannah Thursday in an address to the American Association of Junior Colleges at Grand Rapids.

Dr. Hannah told the group, "Too many educators tend to think of their own narrow fields of interest as being the most important, and to care too little about what happens to the other parts."

Recognizing the need for improvements in the educational system, he remarked that it was deplorable that so much under-reporting and "blame-shifting" took place among the educators rather than corrective steps.

Junior colleges, Dr. Hannah said, should be immediately responsive to the needs of the communities they serve, willing to listen to suggestions from persons who sustain the colleges while applying professional judgment.

He further warned against the view that junior colleges were a panacea to the problem of how to care for the increasing number of students. Rather, he pointed out, they will tend to increase the total load on the degree-granting universities and colleges.

Commenting on the education crisis of the present, Dr. Hannah said a public state of mind has developed a master plan, which turns out to be a straight jacket.

"No one in the last 50 years has seriously challenged the belief that it was to the benefit of society to have all of its young people receive a certain amount of schooling, and that the general public should share the cost," he continued.

Comparing the present need for education with that of 1900, Dr. Hannah raised the following question:

"If society undertook to prepare a youngster for his life work by financing fully 12 years of education a half century ago, is it in any sense less responsible to give the youngster of 1958 equal preparation, even though he may require 14 or 16 or even 18 years to fit himself to do the world's work?"

Ask Reds' Purpose For Meet

Challenge Given Soviet Diplomat

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Thursday rejected Russia's proposal for a summit meeting of foreign ministers on the ground that it "falls short of what would be required" to assure the success of a conference at the summit.

A note given to Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Monastirsky also challenged Russia to state whether it wants a summit meeting merely to stage a spectacle or for the purpose of making "meaningful decisions."

The Soviet government was told in blunt words that "a basic cause, perhaps the basic cause, of tension in the world today is the Soviet regime's support of 'the worldwide ambitions of international communism.'"

Shortly before receiving the U.S. reply to Russia's proposal for a limited foreign ministers' session, Monastirsky delivered a new message from Premier Bulganin to Secretary of State Dulles, President Eisenhower.

He said this was concerned with summit proposals. "Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko had given a note to Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson in Moscow last Friday stating Russia's readiness to attend a 'Foreign Ministers' meeting in April. The note suggested that a number of other countries be included up to a total of around 30."

It said the meeting would have to be limited to strictly technical arrangements, including determination of an agenda for a summit session.

Faculty Heads Answer Queries By State News

One of the danger signs in the current scene is the possibility of a breakdown in science to the neglect of the humanities and the social sciences.

Others are concerned with quality training in the sciences. It is not enough, they say, to be a graduate in science, but to be a graduate in science and the current scientific discovery to the needs of society.

With these remarks, Dr. Fred K. Siebert, head of the school of journalism, commented on the present state of education in answer to questions sent to department heads by State News supplement editors.

Dr. Karl A. Stone, head of the department of biology, was asked if our nation's schools are adequately meeting the needs of a scientific, Sputnik Explorer-minded age, and if not, how they could better fulfill these needs.

"Reduce teaching loads and increase salaries to make possible the employment of better teachers, then give them the time to do an outstanding job of teaching," he replied.

"I know that everyone has depended on dedicated people to do the job of teaching, and there always have been some such teachers and always will be, but we never have enough of them."

Dr. A. J. Padavan, head of the department of forest products, was asked if the ability of superior students is being fully challenged by undergraduate courses at MSU for excellence.

He said that this should be answered with an emphatic no.

September Opening Planned For MSU Oakland Branch

With the move off the old building, MSU officials are busy preparing for the opening of the new university extension, MSU at Oakland, which is to open in September of 1959.

The new building will be located on the Westside, near the Alameda Freeway, early in January of 1957. It is hoped the extension will offer a purpose similar to that of the University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA).

The Wilsons have also donated $2 million toward the construction of the first building on the campus, and latest reports indicated that work will begin on a multi-purpose classroom building by May 1.

The building will contain 30 classrooms, administrative and faculty offices, library facilities, physics and chemistry laboratories, two large science lecture halls, postgraduate service and storage areas.

Officials are considering turning the high Westside building into a new cultural and fine arts center. The magnificent hall was built 30 years ago at a cost of about $1.5 million and contains many art objects of great value.

Edward B. Varner, vice president for off-campus education, said that although no final decision had been made regarding the extension at MSU, a tentative program has been worked out by the curriculum committee.

Plans for the first year, in which only freshmen work will be offered, include programs in business administration, technical education, engineering, as well as science and arts. The extension will also feature a co-operative basic college program.

The courses which have been tentatively placed in the basic college curriculum include: cultural history, physical sciences, biological sciences, mathematics, psychology, behavioral sciences, and a two-year course for students in great need.

The estimated requirements for MSU should be about the same as those being reported.

Positions Open In Campus Chest

Campus Chest applications have been sent to the activities chairman of all spring units according to Sue Lechman, Campus Chest director.

Interested students should fill out the forms and return them to the activities chairman. The chairman must return them to Sue Lechman before March 10.

A general meeting for those interested in working on Penna Night, Showboat, and the other spring term Campus Chest activities will be held the first week of classes.

Organ Plays in Jenison

Cagers Cavort to Chords

During close basketball games, few spectators have been aware of the stirring background music provided by the organ in Jenison Fieldhouse.

However, Curt Wolfanger, East Lansing junior, fills in the time-outs and post-game time with music suited to the mood of the crowd or an incident on the court.

When John Green was taken out of the Illinois game, Wolfanger came through with "How Come You Do Me Like You Do Do Do?" Also on a cold evening, spectators filed out of the fieldhouse to the tune of "Button Up Your Overcoat."

Wolfanger said that he played the Hammond with six 40-watt speakers attached, and, when the house was filled to capacity, he had to run all the speakers wide open.

During his junior year in high school, Wolfanger changed to the organ after he had taken piano lessons for three years.

Now he plays nightly at a local restaurant, gives lessons in popular music, and demonstrates the organ for a music company.

His first organ was a $50 model built in 1878. After saving money from his paper route, he bought a Hammond Spinnet. But Wolfanger desired adaptability and range in his instrument, so he bought an electronic model.

Wolfanger has played at the Martin Luther Chapel and many churches in this area. He has also played at the Civic Center in Lansing.

The big game with Indiana will be played Saturday afternoon, and Wolfanger, as usual, will be at the organ filling in the bulls during the game, and playing the field song along with the band.

Scientists Find New Analysis Procedures

Two MSU scientists reported today a new time-saving technique for analyzing alloys. The new method takes about one-quarter of the time required to detect and measure minute amounts of antimony, bismuth or lead in alloys by conventional processes. This type of analysis is routine in metallurgical laboratories.

As the title of their paper indicates, the scientists used a "Plated Electrode for Potentiometry." If a platinum electrode is used in electrochemical techniques, the presence of antimony or lead cannot be detected. By using a platinum electrode with mercury, however, the researchers said the desired results can be obtained.

The paper was presented by M. Mony, former graduate student now with Koppers Company, Inc., Roberts, Pa., and Dr. Andrew Timmick, assistant professor of chemistry, at the Pittsburgh Conference on Analytical Chemistry and Applied Spectroscopy.

One of the jazz aggregations that played for the Union Board show, "Sorta Swingin'." Among the combos playing for the devotees were the University of Michigan Jazz Quartet, Phil Kirk's Belboys, Jim Voorheis and Van Anderson's Five Clouds of Joy. Tonight the UB will present "Sorta Satiric" and end the week with "Sorta Social."

Alleged Assailant Bound for Trial In Circuit Court

Charles A. Logan, 31, charged with assault with intent to kill in the February 7 incident on the person of Mrs. Ralph Broxon, will face trial March 28. The Jamaican student was held over to circuit court following examination by Judge John Salmon Thursday afternoon.

Judge Salmon hiked the accused man's bail from $3,000 to $5,000 after hearing the basic facts as presented by the defense and prosecuting attorneys. Mrs. Broxon was attacked last January as she left the lounge building in the MSU barracks housing area for married couples. She has positively identified Logan as her assailant.

The wife of a student and her father, a senior, Mrs. Broxon stated a brain concussion, loss of several teeth and some major internal lacerations as a result of the savage attack.

Broxon drivers were involved in 4,900 fatal accidents during 1956, the National Safety Council reports more than 42,000 men all into that category. There are about 22 million registered motor drivers, 55 million men.

A Campus-to-Career Case History

"I like (and get) 'start-to-finish' engineering assignments"

"When it comes to making a job interesting, I think the assignments a man gets are more important than the size of the project he's working on," says Roy Vaughn of Illinois Bell Telephone Company. "I found that out soon after I graduated. My first job was with an organization where the projects were big, but the individual engineering assignments lacked variety and scope."

"After this experience I looked over power engineering opportunities in a number of companies. I joined Illinois Bell because it promised the most interesting and challenging work. That was three years ago. My work with IRT has everything that I was looking for."

"My job is to engineer the power requirements for telephone central offices."

The work never gets routine. One job may be for a new building, the next for expanding existing plant. And power needs vary tremendously from little rural dial offices serving a few hundred telephones, to big metropolitan telephone plants serving hundreds of thousands.

"But what I like best is that I generally handle the job from start to finish. I determine the operational and emergency power requirements of the facilities to be served, and order the equipment needed. And I'm usually on hand during installation to see the job through."

"Not only does this kind of engineering assignment keep work interesting, but I find it is helping me become a better manager. And that improves my chances for advancement."

Roy L. Vaughn, Jr., graduated from Illinois Institute of Technology in 1954 with a B.S. in E.E. degree. He is one of many young men who are finding interesting and rewarding careers in the Bell Telephone Companies. Find out about career opportunities for you. Talk with the Bell interviewer when he visits your campus, and read the Bell Telephone booklet on file in your Placement Office.

Replies From Department Heads

"However, the crux of the matter is our criterion of a superior student. Grades alone, as our brief experience with the Honors College at MSU has already demonstrated, are not a sufficient basis for judging superior students," he said.

Dr. Irma H. Gross, Head of the department of home management and child development, was asked if the cultural needs of the average college student are adequately met by college and university classes, lecture-concert series, etc.

She said: "The cultural needs of the average college student are better met than his cultural wants—as witness the sparse attendance by students of some of the excellent presentations on the lecture-concert series."

In answer to the question of how the average college student of today compares with the student of 20 years ago, Dr. C. E. Prouty, Head of the department of geology, replied: "I don't believe the average student is as serious regarding his work as 20 years ago."

Sherwood K. Haynes, Head of physics and astronomy, was asked if social or extra-curricular activities monopolize too great a portion of a student's time and energy. He said: "I believe that the development of the mind is not important enough to the students. If this development were properly valued, social and extra-curricular activities would find their proper emphasis."

Handicapped Students Aided In Progress Toward Degree

By BETTY LEWIS

As the demand for higher education increases, handicapped students are becoming more numerous on the college campuses. Therefore, something has to be done to help these students lead a normal college life.

One of the first problems that has to be faced is transportation to and from classes. If crowds might be hazardous to the student, arrangements are often made so that their classes avoid the rush hours. Wheel chair cases are provided with special transportation.

At MSU special driving regulations are arranged for the handicapped allowing them to drive on both North and South Campuses, and to use the facilities of all parking lots except those of the faculty.

Severely handicapped students present very special problems in laboratory courses. However, only in extreme cases is the student not allowed to take these laboratory courses. One method which has been particularly helpful is to assign a student assistant to the blind and cerebral palsied.

Students with hearing losses are encouraged to pursue the regular college curriculum. In some cases lip reading is substituted for speech requirements.

For the blind at MSU, a copper braille map of the campus has been constructed by the Landscape Architecture Club. They also have access to the blind reading room in the library where members of Tower Guard, sophomore women's honorary are available to read to them.

It is the aim of the colleges to help the handicapped student pursue the regular four year college curriculum with as little modification as possible. The colleges believe this is the best way to help them toward their vocational objectives as well as to a well rounded personality development.

Frank Romanelli, Dearborn senior, was recently named the most outstanding MSU hotel student of the year. Romanelli, president of Delta Sigma Pi fraternity, was cited this honor by faculty and students of the MSU Hotel School. He was honored at the Midwest International Hotel Show in Chicago last week at a banquet held in the Palmer House Hotel, where he was given a savings bond and a plaque for being a top hotel student.

It made me glad to be getting some education, it being his a big window opening.

Foreign Schools Lure Students From America

European schools have never been more populated by American students than they are now, reports Age Rosendal Nielsen, Director of the Scandinavian Seminars for Cultural Studies.

The reason for this increased exodus to European schools, says Nielsen, is that Americans have learned of the growing number of programs available to them for a year's study abroad at a low rate—in some cases, considerably cheaper than a year of college at home.

Nielsen's program of living and learning in Scandinavia is one of these. The Scandinavian Seminar's fee of $925 covers tuition, room and board for nine months, from August to May.

The Scandinavian Seminars are open to undergraduates for their Junior-Year-Around, to college graduates, and educators.

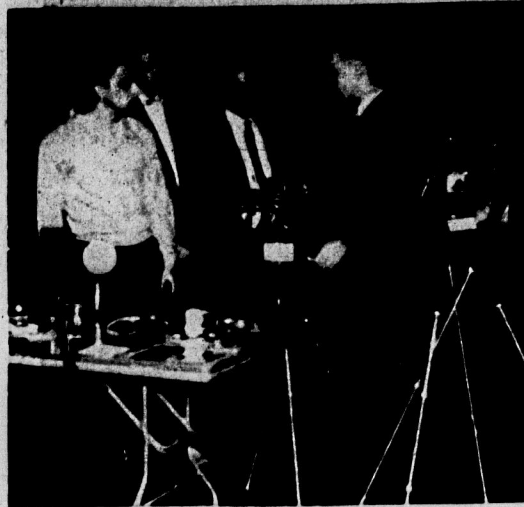

The Scandinavian Seminars is still receiving applications for 1958-59, and plans to accept 75 students for this, its 10th anniversary year. The deadline is April 1.

It is not necessary for American students to know any of the Scandinavian languages in order to apply to the Scandinavian Seminars. However, all students begin to learn one of the languages in this country by using language-study records supplied by the Seminars.

More intensive language training takes place abroad, in orientation courses and through living with two non-English-speaking families for a month each.

As a result of this three months' orientation and training the Seminar student is sufficiently versed in his Scandinavian language to live and study with 50-100 Scandinavians for six months in one of the 300-Scandinavian Folk Colleges.

These liberal arts colleges, for which Scandinavia is famous, place principal emphasis upon the humanities and social sciences.

The West Shaw Camera Club held a display in the dorm lounge Thursday. Discussing techniques are Fred Logan, Eric Morse, Ralph Templin and George Headie, club president.

Viewpoint to Discuss American Students

What are American university students like? What do they want from their education? Is it true that they are the only group in America prepared to pay a high price for something they don't really want?

These are some of the questions to be explored on Viewpoint next Sunday at 2 p.m. over WKAR radio. Guests are Dr. Lorraine Shepard, associate professor of education, and Dr. Marvin Goss, assistant professor of psychology.

'3-Ring Circus' Describes U.S. High Schools

By PAT McCARTY

"A three-ring circus for morons" is the phrase a journalist used in 1956 to describe our nation's high schools.

This has also been the opinion of many educators who are far from happy with the liberal curricula offered in the secondary schools. They have banded us with facts like "Russia will graduate 1,200,000 scientists and the United States will graduate 900,000 in the decade from 1950 to 1960."

Many of those who have been so critical of secondary schools in the past are now coming to realize the immense change that has been brought about by social pressures in the last three decades.

The main job of the high school is no longer to turn out students prepared to go on to universities, but rather to meet the educational needs of the majority—to make a well-rounded citizen out of every graduate.

The subordination of the college preparatory program has naturally meant added problems for the institutions of higher learning.

Many colleges and universities were forced to adopt improvement programs similar to the one at MSU, which attempts to bring members of the large enrollment group closer to the same academic level.

Until recently high schools and colleges have been in a deadlock—each blaming the other for the vast gap the college freshman is forced to bridge by himself.

Now high schools in general are beginning to realize that the improvement services in colleges which actually only reduce high school courses) should be necessary. They are trying to find answers to the problem within themselves.

They are seeking conferences with college advisors and reforming their own examination facilities. It is also realized that an increase in pay for teachers won't necessarily solve the problem—that there is no one solution.

The trouble may lie in the attitude of the individual teacher—does he dare to be tough?

Dr. Robert Starnes, administrative assistant to Dr. P. H. Bogwell, head of the communication skills department, believes, "Because of overpopulation in high school English courses, no writing assignments with careful editing and help are given. The students do not learn how to write with a purpose. They are taught thought organization."

True, this is only one phase of the problem, but it is one which is more readily noticed for it effects work in every class.

There is much to be done before our high schools can produce consistently good material, but understanding cooperation can provide the foundation on which our academic security can eventually be built.

Collegiate Dream Man Reigns!

MSU King Enjoys Intramurals, Music

West Shaw Representative Cops Prince Charming Title

By TONI ROBB

Have you ever seen a dream walking? Well, here he is—Bob Harvey, Mister MSU of 1958, and as far as we know, this collegiate epitome of appealing manhood is footloose and fancy free.

Selected to reign over the "Spurster's Son" by judges including Sam chairman, the dean of women, and Mrs. J. Mennon Williams, Harvey, representing West Shaw, departed with compliments from each men's living unit. He won his crown through a process of elimination he calls "musical chair-type interviews."

MSU is famed for its queens but now the campus also boasts a king, who, according to the implications in his title, is the answer to every coed's conception of an Ivy League Prince Charming.

No suave charmer he, Mister MSU is a down-to-earth, unassuming Kalamazoo senior who expresses surprise at his new honor, though he once before held a "king" title in high school.

The fanfare and publicity surrounding the contest winner has been that befitting royalty, but Harvey says there hasn't been much reaction from home except Mother was all flattered and proud and you know how that goes.

Majoring in production management, the 21-year-old, blonde blue-eyed six footer, avidly enjoys all sports, especially basketball and tennis, both as a participant and as a spectator.

"But sports are not his sole activity. Besides taking part in intramurals, Harvey has been past president and treasurer of West Shaw, is a member of Spartan Roundtable and has been a resident advisor 15 his dorm for the past three years. Other interests he has in the musical field and include Nat King Cole, the Four Freshmen, Ray Charles, June Christy, and of course, Frankie boy."

In case coeds are interested in Mister MSU's version of his idealized dream girl, Harvey allowed that "she would be sincere, unaffected and understanding. As far as looks go — I sort of like blondes, I always have."

He thinks "a real good date" should have a sense of humor, be able to talk intelligently and dated fairly well.

He also favors California as a place to live, likes women with short hair because "it's easier looking," thinks chemise dresses are all right — "It's nice to see a change for a change" and says Susan Lucci is fine in her place but "I don't particularly go for her."

Defender of the sack generally, seemed to cluster in the larger cities, to be high-style conscious and slender. A woman, however, is marked. The terrific lip was men in an early stage of pregnancy.

Many style-conscious women, however, urged patience in waiting for the new version. In the past fashion of the "newest high style" always looked a little comical at first, but women have managed so far to look charming in every day and every age, and I am sure they will not be defeated by the sack, stated a popular actress.

Reading advance details on today's pep rally are Bob "Mister MSU" Harvey, Kalamazoo senior, and cheerleaders Jackie Bertison, Detroit Junior, and Lynda Hopkins, Midland sophomore.

Fashion or Faux Pas?

Sack Creates Furor: Hailed as 'Laundry Bag'

More than two out of three American women say they dislike the new sack—or chemise—fashions. But almost half of them say they'll probably wear them, anyway.

This despite the fact that only one husband in seven has expressed himself as pleased with fashion's most recent arrangement of the female form, divulged by a recent survey.

A sack survey was made of women from San Francisco to New York, from Maine to California. Housewives, spinsters, society leaders, professional women, career girls, working girls and teenagers were among those polled.

The survey may not have moved much about the fate of the chemise silhouette, but it does seem to reinforce the average male's conviction that women are inconsistent: would wear a burlesque if fashion so dictated, and that — whatever they do dress for — it isn't the men in their lives.

Statistics turned up are impressive but, no matter how closely studied, they just don't make much sense. To the direct question, "What do you think of the sack silhouette?" 26 percent of the women loved it, 41 percent liked it, 15 percent remarked with varying degrees of violence that they disliked it, they loathed it, they wouldn't be caught dead in it. Twenty percent made cautious qualified answers — maybe for older, hipless, young ones, but not for me. One woman said, "I never heard of it." The next question was "Do you plan to wear it?" Thirty-eight percent pronounced they wouldn't wear it, 40 percent said they would, 22 percent said they would not wear it. A mere 7 percent were undecided.

Seventy-two percent of the survey group were married women. Fourteen percent of them reported their husbands liked the chemise. Eight percent, however, reported husbandly reactions ranging from "What have you got on — a laundry bag?" to "He would completely ignore me — and I'm serious."

Defender of the sack generally, seemed to cluster in the larger cities, to be high-style conscious and slender. A woman, however, is marked. The terrific lip was men in an early stage of pregnancy.

Many style-conscious women, however, urged patience in waiting for the new version. In the past fashion of the "newest high style" always looked a little comical at first, but women have managed so far to look charming in every day and every age, and I am sure they will not be defeated by the sack, stated a popular actress.

Mystery Man Sets Fashion

PARIS (AP)—Balenciaga bags, gathered up with a drawstring under the bust, were unveiled today.

Balenciaga, mystery man of fashion, shows enough of the very full, unwaisted "baby doll" or trapeze dresses to remind everybody that he was already doing them last year.

The knee-high skirts which other houses adopted this spring were Balenciaga's shocker of last season. This time he lengthens some suit hems slightly, and goes in big for formals that are trained behind and nearly up to the knee in front. These shell-like skirts are often lined in a contrasting color—pink in black, red in beige.

Balenciaga likes fruit and vegetable colors—pumpkin, persimmon, red, grape purple, as well as oyster white, aqua and pink and, of course, black.

There is lots of linen, lots of lace, lace-trimmed hems and borders. Flourest cotton print dresses look like nothing so much as loose-fitting slip covers.

Hoosier Game Tickets Limited

All reserved seat tickets for the Indiana-Michigan State basketball game Sunday afternoon have been sold.

There will be, however, sale of a limited number of general admission tickets starting at 3 p.m. Saturday at the Jenison Fieldhouse ticket windows. This is 1½ hours ahead of the 4:30 p.m. starting time of the game.

The game is the Big 10's final "Game of the Week" of the 1957-58 college season and will be telecast over a regional network of approximately 40 Mid-West stations. The telecast will be originated by WKAR-TV, the university television station. Michigan radio's broadcast of the game will be carried by WTV, Cadillac, WJLB, Detroit, WZZM, Kalamazoo, and WKZZ, Saginaw.

The precise number of general admission tickets, available for public sale depends on student response to the game. They got first call. The more students that come out, the fewer general admission tickets to be sold, and vice versa.

Spartans to Rely on Three Stars Thinelads to Compete In Conference Meet

Michigan State's main hopes for Big 10 track honors, Saturday at Champaign will rest with middle distance stars David Lean and Willie Atterberry, and shot putter Sam Eliowitz.

The three will lead a 17-man group entered by Coach Karl Schladerman, who figures his team is capable of a finish among the league's first five.

Lean, Atterberry and Eliowitz were the standouts as the Spartans got their last tuneup, whipping Iowa in a dual meet, 74-49.

Lean raced to an unimpressive

Tennis Doubles In Dem Hall

The varsity and alumni tennis team will meet in a doubles tournament Saturday in Dem Hall.

In last week's matches the alumni won 4-2 and an incomplete match was stopped at 1-1.

Ben Sassek and Bill Hotchkiss will meet Dick Mynzel and Rex Norris in the 8:15 a.m. match. At 12 p.m. Bill Busard and Foster Hoffman will tangle with Jack Shingleton and Dave Progan. The 1:30 p.m. match will have Mike Zarembo and Luis Vela opposing Tom Belton and Dave Mills.

The victor will be decided in the best two out of three matches. Admission is free and all students are invited.

1:52.1 victory in the half mile to indicate he is ready. Schladerman has him listed for the 600 at Champaign. Last year at the Big 10 indoors, the hustling Australian won the quarter mile.

Atterberry gave notice of his potential by racing to a 48.7 victory in the 440 against Iowa. He probably will go in the 440 and 880. The two stars teamed with Ken Dafeo and Brian Castle to turn in a sparkling 3:18.7 mile relay victory over the Hawkeyes.

Eliowitz has been heaving the shot out beyond the 49 foot mark consistently and is capable of 50 plus performances.

Against Western Michigan two weeks ago he set a new Michigan State varsity record with a toss of 52-1½ to take first place.

Coble will run Atterberry in the 440 and Dafeo will run the 300. Miler Crawford Kennedy is the top hope for the distance, with the mile his best event.

He gave Iowa's Deason Jones a good race in the Hawkeye dual meet before losing.

Spartans Spoilers? Fencers Host Big 10 Meet

Big 10 swordsmen will draw their blades at Michigan State's Jenison Gym Saturday morning in quest of the 1953 conference fencing title.

The meet is scheduled to start at 9:30 a.m. and will last well into the evening.

Two 1957 conference champions will be on hand. Paul Mortenson, defending epee champ from Wisconsin—the defending team champion—will be seeking his second crown. Illinois' Arthur Schankin, last season's foil titlist, will seek the sabre championship this year.

Michigan State has two finalists returning—Darold McCalla, sixth in sabre last year, and Ed Hildebrandt, sixth in foil. The Spartan entry reads as follows: In foil, Forrest Mark and Harold Simonds, with Terrance Gilman as alternate; and epee, Ed Hildebrandt and Roger Jiran, with Randy Hippler as alternate; and sabre, captain Darold McCalla and Truman Schraz, with John Kalasky as alternate.

Wisconsin and Illinois are the top two contenders for the current title. Both teams have three finalists from last season's championships returning.

Wisconsin will have Gerald Bodner and Paul Lambek, second and third in the foil finals last year, besides Mortenson, back for another crack at conference honors.

Illinois, besides Schankin, will have Lee Sentman, and

State Swimmers Tie for Lead

Steuart Outswims Woolley

Wins 1500-Meter In 18:40.5 Time

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Michigan State launched defense of its Big 10 Swimming Championship Thursday night when the Spartans' William Steuart, member of the 1956 South Africa Olympic team, won the 1500-meter freestyle in 18 minutes, 40.5 seconds.

This was the only opening event in the three-day conference meet to be run off in 16 events over the 25-yard course. Frank Woolley, member of Michigan's well-balanced team, placed second in the 1500-meter freestyle, John Parks of Indiana was third, Lorin Whitaker of Illinois, fourth, Peter Fries of Michigan fifth, and Earl Kite of Iowa sixth.

The first event was swum in two heats which left Michigan state and Michigan tied for points in team standings 7-7. Indiana third with 1, Illinois fourth with 3 and Iowa fifth with one point.

Preliminaries and finals will be held in nine events today and in the remaining events during afternoon and night sessions Saturday.

Michigan State's strength lies in top-notch entries in the breaststroke, sprint, butterfly and long distance freestyle events, and in the 400-yard medley and 400-yard freestyle events.

The Spartans have a fine breaststroke in Frank Madine, a strong sprinter in Don Patterson, and an excellent butterfly and individual medley performer in Roger Harmon.

Others with scoring potential are Les Lebaugh, sprint, butterfly and individual medley; Wally Dobler, butterfly and individual medley; and Dean Taylor, freestyle events.

State is defending champion in both relay events. Only last Saturday, the medley relay combination of Don Nichols, Harmon, Patterson and Taylor set a new national mark of 3:46.3.

The freestyle crew of Patterson, Gordon Farnell, Dobler and Lebaugh won over Wisconsin last weekend in 3:26, just a second back of State's winning Big 10 time a year ago.

Wrestlers at Illinois; Vie for Big 10 Title

By CHUCK RICHARDS

The return of Ken Maddow to the Michigan State wrestling lineup has boosted the Spartans' hopes in today's Big 10 meet at Champaign, Ill.

The 205-pound heavyweight has been sidelined with a knee injury which kept him out of his last two collegiate dual bouts. Coach Fendley Collins hopes Maddow will be in shape for the tournament. The preliminaries are scheduled for 3:30 p.m. and 7:30 today with the finals on tap at 3:30 Saturday.

The Spartans' dark horse for the meet is sophomore 177-pounder Tim Woodin. He has scored three straight pins in as many matches after sitting out the first portion of the season trying to lim down to meet weight requirements.

Senior Don Stroud is one of the favorites at 130 pounds. Stroud is shooting for a recovery from two setbacks after going six straight matches without defeat.

Collins also has hopes that Jim Ferguson has rounded into shape after convalescing from a broken nose. He was one of State's best performers at 167 before the injury. Sophomore Bob Moser could be troublesome at 157.

Experts have tabbed Illinois for the favorite's role but Iowa retains hope for the crown. The chance of a victory for the Spartans in the annual grappling classic is slim. Only a number of upsets on the part of State could turn the odds in its favor.

Other performers in the lineup for the Spartans are Jack Koehn (123), Bill Allen (137), and Jerry Jackard (147).

Morvich collected $42,750 when he won the first Pimlico Futurity in 1921.

Bruins Tie Blackhawks In Final Period, 4-4

BOSTON (AP) — Jerry Toppazzini's second goal of the game and 22nd of the season enabled Boston to tie Chicago 4-4 Thursday and move a third place National Hockey League deadlock with Detroit.

Playing without goalie Harry Lumley and down 4-2 after the first minute of the final period, Boston made a fine comeback. Coach Toppazzini completed at 11:57.

The Bruins are knotted with Detroit at 59 points apiece in the NHL race.

Toppazzini golfed at the puck in a mad scramble at the cage and the rubber disc rolled over the body of fallen Goalie Glenn Hall into the net.

Puckey Boone had pulled Boston up to 4-3 at 4:37 of the first period.

LU Cager Sick

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Pete O'Brien, second high scorer and rebounder on Indiana University's basketball team, missed practice because of flu Thursday.

O'Brien was taken to the University infirmary after he had dressed for practice and later was sent to his fraternity house.

There was no indication whether he would be able to play in the Hoosiers' game with Michigan State at East Lansing Saturday, in which the Big 10 Championship will be decided.

Yardley Breaks NBA Record

MINNEAPOLIS, (AP) — George Yardley cracked the NBA one-season scoring mark with 49 points here Thursday as he led Detroit to a 132-116 National Basketball Assn. victory over the Minneapolis Lakers.

Yardley scored the basket that broke George Mikan's record of 1,932 points set in 1950-51 with 2 minutes and 8 seconds to go in the third period. He then poured in 20 more points to raise his season total to 1,953.

He has two games left, at Boston Saturday and Syracuse Sunday to get 17 points and become the first player in the history of pro basketball to score 2,000 in one season.

Yardley's scoring Thursday came on 19 field goals for 38 shots and 11 out of 15 free throw attempts. Free throws raised his season total to 635.

breaking Adolph Schay's record of 625 set last year.

Yardley also closed in on two existing eight more free throw two other NBA season records— attempts to break Neil Johnston's record of 794 and 29 field goals scored to break Mikan's record of 678, also set in 1950-51.

The Pistons also got tremendous second half shooting and and 29 points from Gene Shue to win their ninth game in the last 10 starts.

Detroit missed only 12 shots 16 of 20 attempts from the field in the entire second half, hitting in the fourth period and 15 of 23 in the third for an aggregate total of 72 percent.

Detroit scored 80 points in the second half while the Lakers had 73. Larry Foust led the Lakers with 20 and Vern Mikkelsen had 18.

Sam Gee, another Hoosier playing his last game is substitute forward Ray Ball.

For Michigan State four seniors will wind up their careers. They are guard Jack Quiggle and forward Larry Hedden, two of the most important cogs in the great Spartan machines of the past two seasons, reserve center Chuck Boone, and forward Joe Reading.

The Spartans' overall season record going into the game is 16 wins and two losses. Indiana's record is 10-10, despite its lofty conference standing. The Hoosiers had a hard time getting underway in early-season play, losing six of their first seven games, but will enter Saturday's game after winning six of their last seven contests.

Coach Anderson will start with his regular lineup, Anderson and Hedden at the forwards, Green at center, and Quiggle and Tim Rand at the guards.

Indiana's Coach Branch McCracken is expected to counter with forwards O'Brien and Thompson, center Dees, and guards Gee and Bob Wilkinson.

"All preparations for the game have been made," stated Coach Anderson. "The team is now just waiting for the battle. I've seen this team and they've never quit, and I don't anticipate their quitting Saturday. We'll just do everything humanly possible to bring a wonderful Michigan State student body an undisputed championship."

Plots, Schemes Rule-Mid East Political Climate

TUNIS, (AP) — President Habib Bourguiba Thursday threatened to break off relations with Egypt because a plot allegedly was masterminded in Cairo to kill him.

At the same time he asserted his independence of eastern Arab leadership, and declared his own plan to unite the western Arabs of Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco was making progress.

He said he believed his own trouble with France over the rebellion in Algeria would be clarified within a week.

The Tunisian President's statements were made in his weekly broadcast to his people as Egyptians and Syrians aired charges of another assassination plot against President Nasser of their United Arab Republic.

Nasser said "oil money" from Saudi Arabia had been passed to assassinate him and prevent formation of the U. A. R. The charges appeared to some observers in the Middle East to be part of a campaign to unsettle regimes opposing expansion of the U. A. R.

Bourguiba thumped his desk vigorously as he declared that unless Nasser gave a "serious explanation" of the plot against the Tunisian president "we no longer have any need of diplomatic relations with Egypt."

The Tunisian government announced Wednesday that it had caught an agent from Cairo crossing the border from Libya with a pistol, grenade and letters urging the assassination of Bourguiba as an "act of holy war."
