E. Germans to Control Supply Lines

Red Hold On Berlin Imminent

Russia Requests Troop Removal

BERLIN (AP) — A responsible Soviet source said Wednesday Russia intends to give Communist East Germany control over all Western Allies' supply lines to Berlin—air, rail and highway.

It was a confirmation of East German hints and Western expectations in a pattern building up since Premier Nikita Khrushchev called Nov. 10 for an end to the four-power occupation.

The Soviet informant said transfer of control of the supply lines was the meaning behind Khrushchev's speech.

Khrushchev proposed that the United States, Britain and France, with city garrisons totaling 18,000 troops, get out of West Berlin.

He promised Russia would hand over its occupation rights in the old German capital to East Germany.

He did not spell out, however, whether he would risk a new East-West crisis by also transferring to Premier Otto Grotewohl's Red regime the supervision of traffic between West Berlin and West Germany, divided by 110 miles of Communist German territory.

The Western Big Three—and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Bonn government—do not recognize Grotewohl's regime and have refused to have any formal dealings with it.

But the pressure is on. Refusal of the U. S., Britain and France to yield to East German controls might lead to a blockade of their West Berlin garrisons.

If left no choice, experts here believe the three nations would yield to controls while making stilted recognition of the East German government. They would officially regard East Germans manning the checkpoints as simply agents of the Russians.

The Soviet source, however, contended they would have to settle any disputes directly with East Germany.

Under postwar Big Four accords, allied military traffic became subject only to Russian supervision.

However, West Berlin civilian traffic is already under East German police and customs controls. The 2,200,000 West Berliners therefore would not be affected immediately and directly by a controls dispute between the Western Allies and the East Germans.

AUSG Seeks Unity Parliamentary Tactics Foils Student Congress

By LYNN SHEPARD
"Let's get together more," Rep. Bill Livingood (East Lansing) advised Student Congress Wednesday night after AUSG legislative body spent four hours playing with parliamentary shenanigans.

In the words of Congress member Lowell Brigham, "the old leading the blind as parliamentary procedure for the rest of the minority . . . show the Congress how messed up you could get."

Many Congressmen felt the night was beneficial, but including Rep. Bill Janigan, chairman of the House Business and State Committee, which saw judicial revision bill (Bill) sent back to committee, felt action reflected on the quality of the members.

The judiciary bill, which will require an all-university referendum, was opposed by a number of representatives who feared the bill would "mildred" through the Senate in misleading form.

An equal amount of time was spent in debating the merits of House Bill 13 by Reps. George Shuman (East Lansing), Tom Hild (Married Housing), and Bill (Married Housing).

The resolution, as amended, would give the student body a voice in and gratitude to the MSU football team and coaching staff.

When the press, a few leisure groups and some "fair-weather fans" ridiculed and expressed no faith in the 1958 football team and coaching staff, the resolution resolved . . . that we members of Student Congress voice our gratitude to the MSU football team and coaching staff for their excellent record in pre-season.

We praise their spirit and in the face of the losses, "it continues," and in addition that in the future this team will give us the best efforts.

After lengthy discussion and parliamentary maneuvering, the motion, in somewhat watered-down form, passed unanimously.

Now new associate justices to the Traffic Court, Ted Olson, Sharon Jones and Gale Olson, were approved by the former Judiciary Committee and the Judiciary Committee.

Justice Dave Ryckman.

Two Found Alive From Lake Freightier

Lake Michigan Storm Hits, Leaving 33 Expected Dead

CHARLEVOIX (AP)—Thirty-three men apparently perished but at least two survived the sinking of their big freighter torn apart by a raging storm in Lake Michigan.

The 615-foot Carl D. Bradley went down off Gull Island in 300 feet of water at the top of the lake, her master frantically shouting into his radio for help as the big ship broke up under him in gathering darkness.

It seemed certain the sinking would rank among the Great Lakes' major tragedies of recent years.

Veteran seamen had expressed doubt anyone could have survived overnight in the cold, wind-driven waves. But at least two did and the freighter TransOntario radioed the coast guard at 1:16 p.m. It had picked up a body "and there may be some life in it." The ship asked for a doctor via helicopter.

But before the plane could return, the TransOntario radioed that the man was dead.

The coast guard confirmed it had found 10 lifeless bodies. An unofficial tabulation kept on ship and aircraft radios in the search area indicated as many as 18 bodies had been located.

First Mate Elmer Fleming, 62, and deckman Frank Mays, 26, were found alive on a raft off High Island, north and east of where the Bradley sank. Both seamen were in good condition.

The cutter Sundew, which took the two aboard, radioed that Fleming could recall no explosion and it was his belief heavy seas broke the ship, as long as two football fields apart.

One of the first rescue craft to the scene Wednesday night reported evidence the Bradley had been split by a violent explosion.

The TransOntario report of finding a body with apparent evidence of life, raised at least for a time the faint hopes that others might possibly be found alive.

The Bradley was headed home empty in a gale from Ruffin, Ind., when tragedy struck.

Roland Bryan, the skipper, sent a routine message that he expected to arrive home in Rogers City by 2 a.m. Wednesday.

Eleven minutes later—at 5:31 p.m.—Capt. Bryan was shouting into his radio: "Mayday, Mayday. This is the Carl D. Bradley. Our position is approximately 12 miles southwest of Gull Island. We are in serious trouble."

Top Athletic Trio Slated For Panel

Daugherty, Tukey, Munn to Speak
Dr. Harold Tukey, Coach Duffy Daugherty and Athletic Director Biggie Munn are the featured panelists for tonight's "Intercollegiate Sports Program." The discussion is slated for 7:30 in the Union Parlors.

Dr. Jack Bain, assistant to the dean of the College of Commerce, will moderate.

Tukey, MSU's Big 10 faculty representative, heads State's faculty which formulates athletic policy.

Daugherty, coach of the year in 1955, directs the fortunes of State on the gridiron.

Munn, who during his six years as coach won 54, lost nine, and tied two, administrates athletic policy from his position as athletic director.

Topics to be discussed are the administration of the athletic program, finance of the program, recruiting practices and standards, rules and regulations regarding athletes and other miscellaneous questions dealing with collegiate athletics.

The forum is sponsored by the Forensic Union members. A panel of three students will ask questions.

The public is invited to attend and admission is free.

During the past six months Tukey, Daugherty and Munn have been the center of MSU athletic controversies.

Last spring a breach between Munn and Tukey was settled. Tukey had submitted his resignation, but President John A. Hannah asked him to remain as faculty representative.

This past week a Munn-Daugherty rift was patched up. Last Saturday Munn came out with a verbal blast at those who have "caused the crash of his empire." However, Dr. Hannah settled the "disagreement."

Therefore, the meeting is expected to be interesting and informing.

Communications Researchers Ask

What's Wrong With Educational TV?

What's a television set? An educator? An entertainer? Or both?

If the answer is "entertainer" more often than "educator" the Communications Research Center at MSU hopes soon to know some of the specific reasons why.

Researchers at the Center will attempt to find out what makes the viewer flip the dial less frequently to educational television channels than to commercial ones. The results of their study should help in the creation of educational television shows which more nearly meet the requirements of good entertainment as well as good education.

The study is being directed by associate professor Malcolm MacLean, Jr. It is financed by the Educational Television and Radio Center.

Preliminary surveys are described in the first program report issued this month. In these surveys a group of 180 persons, solicited from the congregations of Greater Lansing churches, were shown two television films of the "educational" variety. One, "The Age of Andrew Jackson," was meant primarily to broaden the interests and general knowledge of the viewer and was intended to be of interest to the general viewing public. The second, an instructional film on the preparation of formula for infants, would be of interest to a limited portion of the viewing audience.

Viewers participating in the experiment were asked to indicate by three different methods specific things in each film which they disliked. Each person in one group indicated his response by constantly moving a dial over a five-point scale ranging from "like much" to "dislike much." A round-robin circuit gathered and summarized the responses of the individuals, giving a continuous group response but no individual ratings.

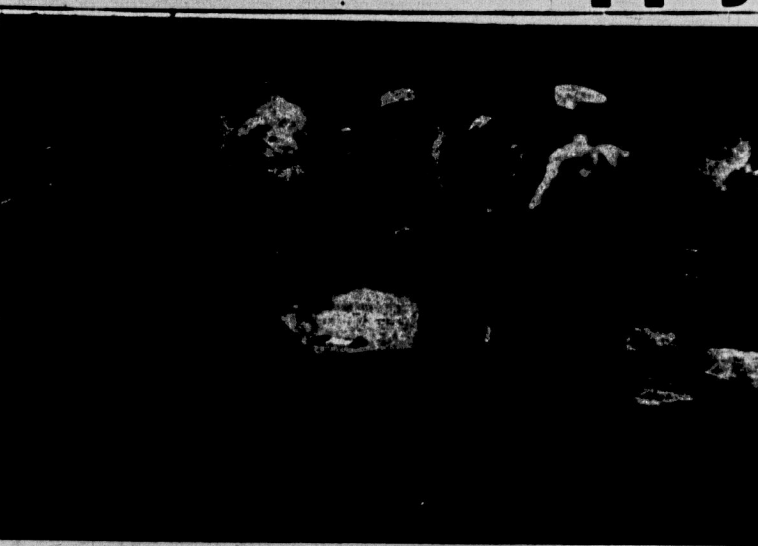

The second group tabulated its reactions by checking with a pencil a spot on a similar five-point scale when a buzzer sounded at 30-minute intervals. This method showed individual responses, but at intervals rather than continuously.

The final group was stopped three times during each showing and asked to indicate its reactions by the choice of adjectives from a listed group.

During the month of December opinion samples similar to those studied in the trial experiments will be taken from television viewers in the Greater Lansing area. This sample "population" will be made to resemble the over-all adult population of the United States.

At the end of the sampling period data will be compiled and studied by Research Center personnel.

In this way researchers hope to determine which specific stimuli within each film created a favorable response in the viewer and which did not. The results of the completed study will be passed along to the producers of educational television films who will alter or continue their production techniques accordingly.

"MISTER ROBERTS," the comedy presented by the MSU Players, opened a four performance engagement at Fairchild Theater Wednesday evening. The play, staged on a supply ship, has been called "the finest war play of our generation."

Rowdy, Sentimental 'Mr. Roberts' Runs Smoothly

By TOM LOPEZ
The rowdy, sentimental comedy, "Mister Roberts," smoothly unfolded its scenes to a Fairchild audience Wednesday night.

The play, taking place upon a cargo ship a few weeks before V-E Day, sparked with an authentic spontaneity.

A rumbled, rebellious and exuberant bunch of thugs called a crew romped through one hectic mess after another like a group of "Oh well, so what?" society refusals. They agreed upon having two enemies, boredom and the captain. This villain, this mean old tyrant known as the captain, was interestingly portrayed by Kenneth Krezel.

The sets were good. They quietly and quickly slid on and off the stage never forcing unnecessary long pauses and eventual disaster.

Edward Flournoy and Donald Bumgarner as Dolan and Dowdy deserve credit for a fine, casual display of acting that fused together the crew and Mister Roberts.

Bringing out a mixture of misery and boredom and turning it into something picturesque and comic, was Robert Spangler as Ensign Pulver. This laundry-and-morale officer, nervously, unpredictably bobbed around having a holiday of humor himself, the cast, and the audience as well.

An agreeable performance was achieved by John Alberts the drily amusing doctor of the ship.

Charles Cioffi, in the lead role as Mister Roberts, displayed an abundance of fine showmanship. Through facial expressions, gestures and a well trained voice, he brought forth a live character that lifted the audience from their seats and placed them upon the stage.

In the final scene, when the dramatic element was at its peak, while Ensign Pulver read a letter telling of Mister Roberts' tragedy, snuffles and then actual tears broke out among several of the more sentimental sections of the audience.

It was through this realism that director Thomas Long has brought forth more than just an interesting interaction of farcical characters, but also individuals of warmth and understanding.

IFC Announces Changed Policy Of Short Rush

The fraternity rush system underwent a major change Wednesday night as the rush committee's resolution was passed unanimously by IFC. As a result, the rush period will now last only one week, formal pledging to follow immediately on the next Sunday.

This resolution stemmed from the findings of a research conducted by the rush committee in the various fraternity houses.

The committee concluded that the former rush period, three weeks, hit too heavily into the study time of both the active members and the pledges.

IFC also released the rush dates for winter term:

January 8-IFC Rush, Union Ballroom.

January 10-Open smokers all houses east of Abbott Rd.

January 11-Open smokers all houses on and west of Abbott Rd.

January 12-Open smokers all houses.

January 18-Formal pledging.

Settle Capital Airline Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Capital Airlines and the Machinists Union reached a settlement Wednesday to end a five-week mechanics strike, first system-wide labor shutdown in the airline's history.

The agreement is subject to a vote scheduled Friday among the 2,474 strikers, most of them located here. Meanwhile the walkout continues. But an okay seemed assured.

A Capital spokesman said most of the line's operations will be resumed at 11 a.m. EST next Sunday if the agreement is accepted by employees. Full restoration of operations is expected by Wednesday, he said.

Details of the pact were withheld pending outcome of the employee ballot. It was reported to parallel closely the settlement terms worked out Tuesday between the Machinists Union and Northwest Airlines providing a 41-cent pay package spread over three years from Oct. 1, 1957.

production has not yet been announced, but, according to General Chairman Don Guernsey, a tentative theme has been selected and official announcement should come early next week.

Rules and regulations concerning living unit entries will be in the mail to all dorms, fraternities and sororities by next Tuesday, says Don Huber, chairman of the Spartacade rules and regulations committee.

The final date for entry notification from living units will be Dec. 4, adds Huber.

Deficit Threatens
Value of Dollar

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican leader Joseph Martin Jr. predicted today President Eisenhower will veto any bills by the heavily Democratic Congress which he envisions excessive deficit spending.

General policy will be to "keep the deficit wherever possible," Martin said, "if spending is excessive."

He said he feels sure Eisenhower would exercise his power "if spending is excessive," and added: "It is essential to the health of the country that we control the deficit."

He told a news conference today after the election that the people apparently pay attention to his campaign promises about what he would do if elected.

He said, without specific details, that he would reduce government spending by 10 percent.

High School-JC Conclave Set for 2,500 Freshmen

An estimated 2,500 freshmen will participate in the 22nd annual high school-junior college follow-up conference today.

This is the annual event when high school officials meet with their former students who are now freshmen here. Junior college officials and their former students also will participate in the project.

The conference got underway at Kellogg Center Wednesday night when school officials discussed basic subjects.

Invitations this year have been limited to high schools with three or more freshmen attending MSU, pointed out Dr. Guy Hill, director of the MSU office of high school cooperation.

Students' reactions to their educational experiences both in high school and at MSU have been of great value to each institution in the past.

The program will climax at noon today with an address by Dr. John Stalnaker, president of the National Merit Scholarship Foundation, Evanston, Ill.

Iowa Sets Offense Record

Iowa's Big 10 champions have finished their conference grid season with a new record for total offense, an average gain of 416.7 yards per game, according to Big 10 statistics released today. The old record of 415.3 yards was set by Wisconsin in 1952.

The Hawkeyes combined a brilliant passing game, which accounted for 166.5 yards on more than 12 completions per game, with break-away running that built an average rushing total of 250.2 yards per game for their record.

Spartans, Wildcats Matched In Season's Final Grid Game

The Spartans will have more on their hands than was anticipated when they meet Kansas State's Wildcats Saturday at Spartan Stadium in the season's grid finale.

The Wildcats, along with the Spartans, are in the tail end of an unproductive season. The Kansas gridders have only three wins to show for their season play against six losses. They've lost four of their last five games in succession.

That's about the same course Michigan State has taken. The Spartans have dropped their last five games in succession, and have only two victories and a tie to show for the 1958 season. There was, however, a considerable difference in the outlook of the two teams last September, before they went into combat.

Michigan State was rated by the majority to have another productive year, with the possibility of a Big 10 championship, a trip to the Rose Bowl, and a high national ranking.

Kansas State's outlook was covered with question marks. In Coach Gus Mertes' words before the season started, "We're green as grass. We have a large group of sophomores, and our big hope is that the sophomores can come through to surprise a few opponents."

Twenty-eight sophomores were listed on the roster of 60 players at the start of the season. Only nine lettermen seniors were on hand, which meant a lack of experience.

Nine starters who finished the season for KSC last year were lost to graduation, and only 16 lettermen were back for action in 1958.

The Wildcats opened the season with a 17-14 decision over Wyoming, but lost the next two in succession, to Colorado and Utah State.

They defeated Nebraska, 23-6, and then were off to a four-game losing streak. The losses were imposed by Missouri (32-8), Oklahoma (40-6), Kansas (21-12), and Oklahoma State (14-7).

In its most recent test, Kansas State defeated Iowa State last Saturday, 14-6.

The Wildcats are sparked by quarterback Les Krull, one of the nation's top serial specialists. He leads the Big Eight in passing, with 45 completions in 77 attempts in the first seven games.

Krull's top receivers include Ced Price, a sophomore, and Joe Vader, a junior. Between them they have caught 28 passes for 340 yards and two touchdowns.

Kansas State's top runners have been halfbacks Max Falk and Ben Grosse, with averages of about five yards.

Delts Triumph In IM Bowling

Delta Tau Delta won the fraternity bowling championship Wednesday, defeating Delta Sigma Pi, 2,470 pins to 2,318.

Delta Sigma Pi, the defending fraternity champions, broke all existing records a year ago and defeated Lambda Chi Alpha in the finals.

The Delts went into a quick lead in the first game of the three-game series, and played on even terms the rest of the way.

CHICAGO BEARS fullback Rick Conner (35), looks as though he's going to be tackled by Baltimore Colts end Don Joyce (83), but gets away and goes for a six-yard gain. It was to no avail, however, as the Colts won, 17-0.

Trainer to Retire in June

Heppinstall Bids Farewell To Spartan Football Scene

By BARRY FUTTERBACK

Jack Heppinstall is saying goodbye to Michigan State football. After spending 45 years as head trainer, Heppinstall will retire next June.

Saturday's game against Kansas State will mark the final appearance of Heppinstall on the Spartan Stadium turf in an official capacity.

Heppinstall, 67, has personally attended the aches and bruises of more than 10,000 Spartan athletes and has worked side by side with 13 football coaches.

In years of service he is the oldest member of the MSU athletic department. He joined the Spartans in 1914 when the school was called Michigan Agricultural college.

"There were just 1,200 students then," Heppinstall recalled, "and the sports facilities consisted of an athletic field. Here the baseball, track and football teams performed."

A native of England, Heppinstall was an outstanding soccer player and track man. He gained his first experience as a trainer in England. He came to the United States in 1913.

When he arrived at State in 1914, Heppinstall became the third full-time member in the athletic department. Now there are more than 100 men and women combined who serve in the department.

The women's gymnasium served as the fieldhouse from 1918 until Jenison was built in 1940. "I was the only fellow who went into the women's gymnasium in 1918," Heppinstall revealed, "and came out in 1940."

For 34 years Heppinstall had charge of all athletic equipment at MSU and has come into contact with many prominent sports figures during this time. Some of his personal friends were Alfonso Stagg, former coach of the U of Chicago; Fielding Yost, one-time great football coach and athletic director of the U of Michigan; and Knute Rockne of Notre Dame fame. "These three men were, in part, responsible for good football when it first began," said Heppinstall.

The elderly trainer has that everything is moving faster than before. "I'm constantly being urged to get in basketball and the games is much better."

In 1948, Heppinstall served as a trainer with the U.S. Olympic team. He is past president of the National Athletic Trainers' Assn. and one of the respected men in his field.

"When I retire in June, I'll enjoy myself. I'll just know how," he said. "I'll go to my fall, winter and spring camps in East Lansing to watch the ball games. In summer, he will relax in his cabin on Lake Charlevoix."

"I have been very fortunate," Heppinstall said, "to have been able to work with a group of Spartan coaches and members of the athletic department here at State."

PCC Votes To See Wh Faces Iowa

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rose Bowl situation in the city's Coast Conference is enough today, but it's even closer after the conference games are played today.

Four teams, California, Washington State and Oregon State (each 5-2), and the University of Southern California (4-2), have a mathematically equal chance to get the sought-after Big 10 competitor.

California and Stanford, Oregon State and Oregon, Southern California and UCLA, Washington State and Washington are games on tap.

Two teams, Oregon and Washington State, are not eligible for the Rose Bowl under the new no-repeat rule, and UCLA, because of conference regulations, is not eligible for the Rose Bowl.

Acting PCC Commissioner Bernard Hammerbeck said the mechanics of the election.

There is no automatic tie-off a victory by any Saturday. The conference vote for its representative. Usually this is a matter of time, but it might not be this time.

There must be a vote of five schools to select a team.

Coeds Keep House Too

Home Management Course Involves More Than Classes

Manage an eight room home and attend school? "Impossible" is the answer the average college coed might make. However, an attractive red brick home on the MSU campus is the core of just such activity.

A home management course, required of all home economics majors, provides the girls with managerial experience in an actual home situation. "After all," stated Miss Esther Everett, adviser of one unit of the home management house, "home economics is comprised of more than just cooking, sewing or cleaning."

This particular course emphasizes the coordination and management of all home activities in relation to time, cost and result. Wilma Woodford, Bay City senior and current house manager, outlined some of the duties and aspects of home management living. "Our unit will house eight girls, but this term we have only five," she said. "The work is done on a rotation basis, each girl acting as manager for a five-day period."

"Planning meals is the biggest problem, since we have to maintain a strict budget. We operate on either a high cost ($1.50 per day per girl for food) or a low cost budget (75 cents per day per girl)."

This doesn't mean a steady diet of macaroni, spaghetti and beans, however. The meals are tasty and varied.

"In fact one night one of our house mates, Gen Wong, made Chinese fried rice and furnished the chopsticks to go with it."

J-Hop Committee Gives Last Clue

"Delta Epsilon is my name" is the last clue for the J-Hop "Name the Band Contest," which closes at noon today.

To enter write your name, address, phone number and the name of the band on a piece of paper and place it in one of the ballot boxes in Berkeley, Short Course, or Union Concourse.

The five lucky winners will be drawn by Pat Horgan, '58 Homecoming Queen, and they will be awarded free tickets to J-Hop. The announcement will be Saturday at the Kansas State-MSU football game.

Defense Department Cuts January Draft

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department Wednesday cut the size of its next draft call. At the same time it ordered the armed services to begin a reduction of over 70,000 from present manpower strength.

The draft quota asked for January is 9,000 men. This is 2,000 below calls for the last several months and the lowest since December, 1957, when 7,000 men were drafted. All draftees will be for the Army.

Simultaneously, the Pentagon announced that Secretary of Defense McElroy has ordered the Army, Marine Corps, Navy and Air Force "to begin action" to trim the total armed services manpower from a present 2,596,282 down to 2,525,000 by next June.

McElroy's orders to the service secretaries said that "if it is feasible" to make the cut before next June, that may be done. The services are to report to him by Dec. 1 on what reduction steps have been taken.

Pentagon spokesmen said the cut in the January draft quota did not mean the department was working toward abandonment of selective service. On the contrary, they said, McElroy recently emphasized the continued need for the draft.

The draft law will expire June 30 unless it is re-enacted. The Pentagon said the quota cut was possible because army enlistments and grade enlistment rates have increased.

RO Seniors To Receive Commissions

Thirteen MSU seniors will become second lieutenants in the U. S. Army Reserve, Dec. 8.

The 13 seniors are Norman August, Chicago, Ill.; Donald B. Churchill, East Lansing; Jeffrey W. Coke, Chesaning; James Duncan, Clare; John D. Curell, LaPeer; Thomas Fox, Indianapolis, Ind.; John E. Howell, East Lansing; and Kent B. Jordan, Lansing.

Others are Allen E. Kempainen, Elio; Leonard Nowak, Cedar Springs; Michael Panitch, Chicago, Ill.; Karl Schwinger, Saginaw; and Clark N. Wentworth, Jr., Ann Arbor.

The guest speaker slated for the program is Colonel Robert G. Platt, who is an ROTC graduate of MSU.

Platt was awarded the Legion of Merit, Army Commendation Ribbon with Oak Leaf Cluster and the Uchi Military Distinguished Service Medal, Republic of Korea.
