'Kennedy Day' Welcome Awaits Dem Candidate

Khrushchev Goes Wild In UN Departure

United Nations, N.Y., Oct. 13. (AP)—Premier Khrushchev delivered a violent farewell to the UN General Assembly today, and it jolted him once again by overwhelmingly rejecting his demand for direct debate on his spy plane charges against the United States. He was voted down 54 to 39.

MR. K

Khrushchev accused President Eisenhower of lying and of being "on a leash" of the U.S. military. He told the United States "if you want war, you'll get war." HE DENOUNCED the security council as "worse than a spittoon—a cuspidor."

He accused the United States of having spied by plane and submarine on his sea trip from Russia on the Baltika. In Washington the United States quickly denied that.

He said the United States went beyond the brink of war in its U2 intelligence plane flights. He said Soviet forces were on the alert with rockets.

THEN HE stepped from the rostrum, saying farewell and that he was sorry if he had spoken out of turn at times or offended anybody.

The United States responded by challenging Khrushchev to permit the spy plane discussion in the political committee to be broadcast to the Soviet Union without the customary jamming.

It was Khrushchev at his most violent in three weeks of unprecedented stormy behavior within the dignified halls of the assembly. The Soviet premier was smarting from a series of jolts, including rebuffs from Asian and African delegates who scolded him for making propaganda with the issue of colonialism. And the final jolt was the vote on his demand for a U2 debate in the assembly. The vote was 54 against raising the debate in the full assembly, 10 in favor, with 33 abstaining. Most African and Asian nations abstained. Cuba was the only non-soviet bloc country to vote with the Russians.

KHRUSHCHEV MADE three separate trips to the rostrum: One to accuse the United States of trying "to wiggle out" of the colonialism issue, another to read a fairly calm speech demanding a U.S. apology for spy plane incidents, and the third for an extemporaneous delivery of a long series of his most harsh threats.

Khrushchev, in what he described as his farewell speech, delivered some of the most violent pronouncements of his already spectacular career as head of the Soviet UN delegation for almost four weeks.

Khrushchev took the rostrum to reply to the United States, which had dismissed his charges, ignored his demand for an apology and pointed out that the Security Council in two sessions had found no basis in the Soviet charges of spy plane aggression.

KHRUSHCHEV THUNDERED: "If a maiden has a baby, then another, then threatens to pro-

20 Win Vacant AUSG Seats

Twenty vacant Student Congress seats were filled in elections Thursday night. Winners were: Lansing, John Lange, Barry Broughton and Michael Harbour; East Lansing, Jim Day and Jim Fleming; frat-ernities, Don Garden and Ken Hance and sororities, Sally Lucas.

Electing without opposition were: Snyder, Hermoine, Har- din and Nancy Lewis; married housing, Jim Gibson; South Wil- liams, Judy Bradley; Phillips, Barbara Ross; Emmons, James Blanchard and Bryan, Mark Graves.

Dick, Jack Fight Over China

Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy slugged it out before a nationwide television and radio audience last night on whether each man's Chinese policy would carry the nation into war. Neither gave ground.

In the third round of their great presidential campaign debate, Republican Nixon and Democrat Kennedy did agree on two things:

1. If West Berlin is menaced by the Russians, the United States would certainly carry out its obligation to maintain freedom in the German capital.

2. Religious prejudice should have no place in their presidential campaign.

But, with Kennedy speaking from New York and Nixon from Los Angeles on a split television screen, they remained firmly divided on whether to pledge U.S. defense of the Chinese islands of Quemoy and Matsu against any Red Chinese aggression. These islands are not worth the risk of war, declared Kennedy. To take Kennedy's stand, Nixon argued, is to invite the Reds to embark on new aggression, aggression that could in itself lead to war that no American wants.

Speech to Highlight MSU Appearance

Senator John F. Kennedy will arrive on campus today at 5:15 p.m. for a 15-minute speech on the south steps of the Union.

Prior to his speech here, he will talk in front of the Capitol at 4:30. He will be accompanied at both stops by Gov. G. Mennen Williams, Lt. Gov. John B. Swainson, Sen. Patrick McNamara and Jerome O'Rourke, candidate for U.S. representative from the sixth district.

Provost Paul Miller will officially represent the university at the address in East Lansing. AUSG President Dan Riepel will present the senator with Dr. Madison Kahn's history of MSU. Swainson will introduce the famous candidate.

Williams will introduce Kennedy at the Capitol. Lansing Mayor Ralph C. Crigo will welcome the senator to Lansing.

Members of the Board of Trustees have been invited to attend the speech on campus, according to Henry C. Donnelly, Kennedy's advance man in Michigan.

Police will clear the Union in time for the motorcade from Lansing to arrive with a minimum of confusion. All unauthorized persons will be out of the building when the motorcade arrives.

Kennedy's arrival will upset normal campus routine somewhat. Traffic regulations have been changed. The marching band will perform in Spartan stadium due to confusion expected in the Lansing field area.

Dorm dinner lines have been extended 15 minutes to allow students to hear all of the senator's speech.

THE SPARTAN stadium parking lot will offer free parking today only to handle the extra load of cars on campus.

The weather bureau has forecasted possible thunder showers for the evening. They are not expected to interfere, however, with Kennedy's late afternoon speech.

The Massachusetts senator will arrive in Lansing at 4:15 p.m. at the Michigan avenue train station. He will give no speeches there, but will motorcade directly to the capitol.

Following his campus address, he will take his campaign train to Gwosso and wind up his 10-stop day in Saginaw.

He will depart for Youngstown, Ohio, at 10 p.m. in his private plane.

KENNEDY arrived in Michigan Thursday night, flying in from New York after his third debating session with Vice-President Richard Nixon. He spent the night at the Michigan Union on the U of M campus.

Kennedy will speak briefly this morning at the Ann Arbor train station, but planned no speech on Wolverine territory.

Approximately 30 coeds in the Young Citizens for Kennedy organization will act as "Kennedy girls." They will pass out bumper strips in parking lots at the stadium and behind People's church.

THE COLLEGE and high school girls will wear the wide brimmed hats with Kennedy's picture on the crown, made famous at the national convention in July.

Local arrangements for Kennedy's arrival are being handled by Dave Roubottom, MSU chairman of Young Citizens for Kennedy. John Tripp, Ingham county organization chairman, and executive board members Ray Pratt and Trevis Markle.

Pirates Nip Yanks In Series

PITTSBURGH, (AP)—Bill Mazeroski's leadoff home run in the ninth inning Thursday brought the fighting Pittsburgh Pirates a 10-9 victory over the New York Yankees and their first World Series championship in 35 years.

The stalwart second baseman's blast over the left field wall came on the second pitch thrown by Ralph Terry, the Yankees' fifth pitcher, and touched off a mad, joyous celebration in Forbes Field.

Thus the Pirates beat the powerful Yankees with the American League champions own prized weapon—the home run. The Pirates, who had hit only one four-bagger in the previous six games, smashed three today. The Yanks clubbed two homers, by Moose Skowron and Yogi Berra, for a total of ten.

But the huge hitting advantage of the Yankees went for naught in the end against the ripping, tearing, scrapping Pirates.

THE PIRATES assumed a quick 4-0 advantage in two innings on Rocky Nelson's two-run homer in the first and Bill Virdon's two-run single in the second.

Skowron's homer in the fifth gave the Yankees their run off starter Vernon Law, the two-game winner with the help of Erloy Face. The Yanks then clubbed Law and Face for four runs, climaxed by Yogi Berra's three-run homer, in the sixth and a 5-4 New York lead.

The Yanks added two more runs off Face in the eighth on three hits to boost their advantage to 7-4. It looked like the end for the Bucs.

But back they came again. Bobby Shantz, who had blazed them with one hit for five innings, and Jim Coates for five runs in the eighth and a 9-7 lead. Hal Smith's three-run homer off Coates wound up the big rally.

But the Yanks weren't finished, either. They roared back with two runs off Bob Friend and Harvey Maddix to tie the pulse-pounding contest at 9-9.

Then came Mazeroski's dramatic drive.

It was the Pirates first World Series title since they beat Washington four games to three in 1925. Their Series record now is 2-2. The Yanks now have an 18-7 record.

FARRELL DOBBS SPEAKS OUT — Joan Miller, State News political editor, asks Farrell Dobbs, Socialist Workers party candidate for president, his stand on election issues.

Republican 'Truth' Squad To Counter Democrats

A Republican "Truth squad" will arrive at Capital City airport at 5 p.m. today to set up replies to statements made by Democratic presidential candidate John F. Kennedy in his one-day swing through the state.

The 14-member squad will hold a press conference in the Jack Tar hotel at 6:45 p.m.

The squad follows the Kennedy entourage and stops in any towns visited by the Democratic candidate.

Origin of the squad, say its members, dates back to the 1953 presidential campaign, when it was formed to answer charges by President Harry Truman as he campaigned across the country in support of the Democratic ticket.

MEMBERS of the Republican flying group are: Sen. Homer Capehart of Indiana, Congressman Donald Black of California; Congressman Robert Michel of Illinois and Congressman William Widnall of New Jersey.

Homecoming Selections Sunday

Beauty, poise and personality are the three qualities the judges will be looking for Sunday afternoon when the judging for the 1960 Homecoming queen gets underway.

Thirty-seven coeds representing as many living units, will participate in the preliminary judging at 2 p.m. in the Union. From this group, 20 semi-finalists will be selected.

Each semi-finalist will be personally interviewed. Selection of 10 finalists will be made at 6 p.m. The public may attend the final judging session.

The 10 finalists will represent Big Ten universities at Homecoming, October 29. The Homecoming queen, who will be announced next week, represents MSU; the runner-up will represent Ohio State.

Players Trip Registration Ends Monday

Sign-up for the MSU Players-sponsored trip to Detroit to see "A Raisin in the Sun" will end Monday at 5 p.m.

Payment of $5 for ticket and round-trip fare must be made then. The trip will be October 22. Buses will leave fairchild theatre at 1:30 a.m.

Pink field trip cards are available in 40 Aud and the Administration building. Receipts may be exchanged for bus tickets in 149 Aud.

Dems Get Republican Dollars

Two members of the Young Republicans have left $2.45 on deposit with the State News for the Young Citizens for Kennedy.

Jack Knirk, president of the Young Republicans, and Tom Bissel, YR member, gave the money from their personal funds after learning about their opponents' financial need from Barry Broughton, member of the Kennedy group.

Broughton—under the two YR members—that his organization has a deficit of $40.

"We of the Young Republicans" said Knirk, "are deeply concerned over the preservation of the two party system at MSU. In the spirit of good government we are donating $2.45 to the treasury of the Young Citizens."

Dobbs: A New Kind of Man

"The United States should get out of Cuba and so should its military base."

For the same reason, Dobbs said that the United States should keep "hands off Formosa" and recognize Red China.

"Let the Formosans decide for themselves whether they want to be a part of the rest of China or declare their independence as a separate country," he suggested.

Turning to the nation's economy, Dobbs pointed out that since World War II, the United States has gone through three economic slumps.

"We are now entering a fourth," he said, and Americans are sensing a growing feeling of insecurity.

To alleviate this, the Socialist leader advocated:

1. Supporting union demands for a 30-hour week at regular 40-hour pay to increase jobs and ease unemployment.

2. Nationalizing big business and big agriculture to be operated by the workers. This would stop absentee owners from gaining wealth through the labor of others, he explained.

At that point the soft-spoken campaigner had to hurry to another appointment. This was his third time around the country for this election, he remarked before he left.

Spotlight on Cuba

Batista Regime One of Terror

The continued threats of the Fidel Castro government against the U.S. has brought the previously obscure island of Cuba into the national focus many times during the past year.

Aside from official government statements, the average U. S. citizen probably knows little of the causes of the present Cuban situation. He is no doubt bewildered that the Cuban people would embrace a regime such as Castro's and equally amazed that these same people have done little to shake off this regime.

In an attempt to catch an "inside" glance at the Cuban situation, the State News has invited Ramon Valdes, an MSU freshman from Cuba, to try and relate the feelings of the Cuban people to our readers.

Having gained his junior and senior high school education in the U. S., Valdes is now a member of the Democratic Revolutionary Movement, an anti-Castro organization.

Valdes more recently spent the summer at home in Cuba where he was able to witness, first hand, the present situation there. The first of his stories appears today. Subsequent stories will appear on the Page of Opinions.

By RAMON VALDES

Have you ever been in a country where, overnight, you find that it has changed leaders by force? Do you know what it is to awaken one day and find yourself under a dictatorship?

I do. I was born and raised in Cuba.

My first recollection of living under a dictatorship was one I awoke to be told by my mother that I would not be able to go to school that day.

All through the neighborhood there reigned an atmosphere of uncertainty. No one knew exactly what had happened but rumors were plentiful.

We cautiously stayed in our house and waited for the news. Streets were deserted and only an occasional car was seen.

By mid-afternoon we learned that the Army, with the dictator Fulgencio Batista at its head, had taken over the government and had demanded that the present president, Carlos Prío Socarras leave the country.

Rumors of battles between opposing factions in the Army circulated all day and it was a weary and pessimistic city that went to sleep that night.

Thus started one of the cruelest reigns of terror in Caribbean history. Batista immediately gave his full support to the country's big businesses, in return for monetary gifts.

Huge land companies took over under the support of government troops and fined the peasants for their land. The labor front was organized in a pro-Batista fashion and any law that favored "big businesses" went immediately into effect.

The people were powerless under the watchful and powerful eye of the Army.

And so on it went, the greatest criminal machine of our times, morning in March of 1952 when hundreds of men who opposed the regime were captured, tortured and killed. I also came into contact with such violence. I'll try to briefly relate here what it was like:

You leave your house, praying that everyone will still be there alive when you return. You walk down the street cautiously, so as not to make yourself suspicious to any policeman. You see one, anyway, and your knees feel suddenly weak.

The policeman calls you over to him and you feel sick to your stomach. As you walk toward him, you notice his sweaty shirt, his mustache, his searching eyes and, finally, you notice his gun.

After checking your "suspicious package" (school books), he tells you to give him 10 dollars and he'll let you go. Relieved, you pay the money and quickly walk off.

This really happened. But at least it had a happy ending. There were 20,000 other cases that ended in death.

After three years of this sort of tyranny, we heard on the radio one day of the assault of a military post by a group of rebels. The newscast mentioned something of a man named "Castro" and the Moncada Army post. But the assault had not been successful and frustration enveloped us once again.

American tourists flocked daily into Havana by the thousands. We asked ourselves how they could not be aware of the tyranny about them. How could they come to have a good time when we were being killed in the streets?

Why, we asked, did the U. S. support such a man with military aid? Didn't they know that American weapons were killing Cuban men?

Everywhere in Cuba the people began to rebel. The general opinion turned against Batista and a year later we were glad to hear of the landing of a rebel soldier who promised an end to all of this.

Here was what we had been looking for: a man to lead us out of bloody tyranny. Fidel Castro was his name.

Now a new leader was here and we were free! We had looked so long for a leader that we embraced Castro with open arms. Fidel had overthrown the hated Batista and hopes of Cuba were soaring to all-time highs.

Little did we know that within a year we would be back again in the same predicament.

(Next: the emergence of Castro.)

Letters to the Editor

Football Conduct Bothers Coed

To the Editor: I have been deeply distressed at the lengths MSU students have reached in expressing their jubilation during home football games. I don't object to lusty cheering, ear-splitting whistles, changing bells, or small pieces of paper infiltrating the air, but it is indecent to use bathroom tissue to show your appreciation of the hard work of our football team.

Can't students think of better ways to use this utility? Many custodians have reported that certain MSU building facilities are being incapacitated due to the use of this commodity during football games.

You don't need these huge exclamation points in the sky to express your feelings.

And what's this "Retard them, retard them, make them relinquish the ball" chant? It's accompanied by hono drums, no less! MSU students are supposed to be more intelligent than this, but what's wrong with conformity?

I've also noticed that the MSU cheerleaders show much dexterity in throwing these rolls back into the stands without unfurling them, so they can be used again and again. Is this what they do during cheerleading practice?

Area businessmen report that they sell bathroom tissue in many varied colors. Spartan fans, if you must support your team in this manner, do it the right way: use green and white toilet paper! Judy Vallender

Corrects Error

To the Editor: On the 10th of September of this year, your paper printed a picture of a sculpture on its back page entitled "The Man." Its caption said that this sculpture was done by one Frank Nulf.

I am writing to you at this time to tell you of your paper's misrepresentation of the facts. The sculpture was done by one Ronald Kinde, instead, and is entitled "The Deposition Of Christ."

Since this misrepresentation of facts has caused my professors and friends to think poorly of me, I deem it necessary that a retraction of this be made, with a full statement as to the true sculptor of this work and its correct title.

Bias Still Here!

To the Editor: On October 3rd through 6th the State News printed a classified ad for employment that specified, "White Only."

On October 4th there was an editorial entitled "Religious Bias Must Go."

How can we as college students and American citizens be expected to give an religious bias and maintain racial prejudice?

That same editorial went so far as to say that no loyal American can tolerate the existing religious bigotry. I agree with that statement. But how can you denounce religious bigots and simultaneously do business with racial bigots?

I feel that a newspaper representing MSU, whose President is Chairman of the Civil Rights Commission, should act immediately to formulate a policy which prohibits the publishing of discriminatory material.

Phyllis Platzer (Editor's note: The term "White Only" slipped by our proofreader. We assure our readers that this is not State News policy. We regret any misconceptions that may have been formed.)

All in Same Boat

Strange as it seems, last week was the first week in history that the United Nations of Europe—as a result of the Russian restrictive policies—were striving for defense.

Spartans of State were preparing for defense.

And the Yankees were aiming for "die" fence.

The Spartan Speaks

Air Views on Nixon, Kennedy

The first of the two major parties' candidates for the presidency visits MSU this afternoon in the person of John Kennedy.

To coincide with his visit the State News has conducted an informal opinion poll of why MSU students support him, or why they support his opponent, Richard Nixon.

Because of the small number of students polled, it should be pointed out that this is in no way an indication of a political trend on campus. Instead, an equal number of Nixon and Kennedy supporters were interviewed in the hopes of finding out why they held their respective positions.

The results make up this week's "Spartan Speaks" column.

By LARRY MILLER
State News Editorial Editor

Although there are many "Nixon" and "Kennedy" buttons adorning peoples' lapels these days, the absence of buttons on still other lapels may indicate an interesting phenomenon: that there is a sizeable percentage of students who like neither candidate.

More than in any other recent election year, there are many MSU students who seem to prefer neither Kennedy or Nixon for the presidency. On the other hand, those that are for either of the two candidates are enthusiastic about their choice.

Hugh Hedrick, San Francisco, Calif. junior, isn't impressed with either candidate, but will pick Kennedy because of the Democratic party's platform.

"Kennedy seems to have more integrity than Nixon," he said. "Of course, he's young, but then so is Nixon. I guess I haven't been very impressed with Nixon in my knowledge of him in California, either," he added.

Chuck Silky, Muskegon junior, on the other hand, leans toward Nixon, even though he's a professed Democrat.

"I guess it's a choice between the lesser of two evils, but Kennedy hasn't impressed me, even though I've shook hands with him," he said.

"I don't like the way he 'railroaded' through in the convention, either. I really don't think either candidate is qualified, but if there has to be a choice, I'm for Nixon. And I'm a Democrat, too."

One student, Jack Vincent, an Oak Park junior, had a rather pessimistic outlook on both candidates.

"Neither has the scope or ability at present to handle the situation," he said.

"He handled it as well as could be expected, but I'm dubious about either Nixon or Kennedy stepping into his shoes."

Those that supported either candidate, however, had definitely made up their mind.

"I've been very much displeased with the present administration," said Kitty Katz, Batavia, N. Y. junior.

And now that Kennedy has such men as Arthur Schlesinger and Chester Bowles on his team, I'm even more willing to support his cause. They are both extremely intelligent men and I feel they would do the country a great deal of good should Kennedy appoint them to a cabinet position.

Ron Wood, Hanover, N.H. junior, expressed a similar opinion. He stressed who would be coming in with either Nixon or Kennedy, should they be elected.

"If Kennedy were elected, he would probably appoint Stevenson to some high position, and I think Adlai would be an invaluable addition to any cabinet," he said.

"This business of Nixon standing up to Khrushchev doesn't impress me, either. I think he should try to get along with that guy's little more, rather than wagging his finger in front of his face so much."

Nixon supporters, meanwhile, emphasized their candidate's greater experience in foreign affairs.

"Nixon is a more capable man," said Tom Krause, Rockford sophomore.

"Kennedy is too radical to be a president in these troubled times," said Judy Howe, Chicago sophomore, felt the same way.

"Kennedy is just too young for the White House," she said.

"I like Nixon's plan for medical care for the aged better, too, because it contains less government control in its structure."

The G.O.P. candidate's superior experience was pointed out by Arne Diehl, Davison sophomore, who said:

"He gave Nixon more responsibility during his administration than any other vice president in history. Since he did such a good job as vice president, I don't see why he wouldn't do the same in the White House."

"I like him because he thinks young" was the reason given by Hub Kelsch, Evanston, Ill. sophomore, who supports Kennedy.

"He really had to think fast at that Protestant minister's conference in Texas and I think he handled himself quite well," he added.

Doug Thompson, Flint junior, deplored the "big business" aspect of Republicanism and gave that as the reason he was supporting Kennedy.

"I just don't like Nixon," he said flatly.

"Kennedy seems to be more personable to me. I also like the Democratic platform better, especially the civil rights clause."

The Editor's Corner

A 'Vote' for U.N.

By SUE PRICE, EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

"IN the United Nations we see the world and each of its nations working out its destiny," Mohammad Toussi, Iranian graduate student, said recently.

The occasion for Toussi's remarks was the first fall session of Model U.N., of which Toussi is secretary-general.

Model U.N., which is formed on a plan like the U.N. in New York, provides the opportunity for students to discuss international problems.

However, the most important aspect of Model U.N. is not the discussion of issues, but the opportunity for students to learn more about other nations and their people. Through Model U.N. a student learns that his nation is not the only "right" one.

THE idea that one nation is the only right one is, unfortunately, a view too often held by Americans. The United States feels that to help another country Americanization must take place. It is through the Model U.N. that this incorrect view is partially destroyed.

Delegates to Model U.N. are selected through petitioning the credentials committee. At present, 50 to 60 per cent of the delegates represent their own nations.

Since Model U.N. began in 1956, problems discussed have ranged from Algerian independence to economic aid improvement problems in less industrial nations. At the present time the group is discussing the Congo and the Red China admittance question.

NATIONAL attention may soon focus on the Model U.N., for a conference of university students on world problems will be held here February 17 through 19.

Students from more than 150 schools have been invited. R.S.S. Gunewardene, former U.N. Security Council president, and present U.S. ambassador from Ceylon, will speak at the conference.

In preparation for the program, Toussi has contacted members of various delegations to the U.N. He hopes to have delegates from many diplomatic embassies attend.

Model U.N. will be televised October 30, in Lansing over channel six. At this time the group will discuss either the Congo problem or Red China.

For the advances in foreign relations Model U.N. has provided, and will continue to provide, the organization receives a vote of thanks and congratulations.

Here's the Other Side

Space Age Defended

By S'News Reporter

By HOWARD HOLMES

THE excitement of the space age and rocketry has taken hold of the 1960 American with a good strong grasp—and it is likely to stay that way.

Although no one can see across Lake Michigan, anyone can stand anywhere on the face of the world and see above him the stars, the heavens and other seemingly minute solar systems racing across the sky.

And what man can see faintly, he must see better; what he does not know about, he seeks to find out.

Racing to the moon has a certain prestige, but that is not the primary reason one would want to go sailing through space.

Man also has another motivation: inquisitiveness. It was somewhere around the fourteenth century—or a little thereafter—that anything new was regarded as absurd. That was when a man set forth across the oceans to find a new world. We are only following in his footsteps, but we are going farther than any man has dared venture—just as Columbus was doing in 1492.

AND because Columbus was the first to reach America, this did not prove that no one else wanted to go there; the same still holds true today.

There may not be anything on the moon. We don't know. But even if there isn't, it is another step closer to the worlds beyond.

What it took 2000 years for man to do, men of the 20th century have done better in the past 50 years. What will the next 10 or 20 years hold?

No one on this earth can hope to keep life in order. The world would be monotonous if it were. Just as the 1961 car models will not be the final solution to car modeling, rules set today would not necessarily apply to the problems arising tomorrow. New problems are constantly arising everyday that must be contended with.

The train to space must not slow down to throw food to freeloaders. We have done enough of that. Many nations on the other side of the globe sit back with mouths open, waiting for the U.S. and USSR to drop free food in their mouths, hoping that each will continue to do so in the effort to sway their way of thinking.

THERE are other ways that these people can be helped: through friendship, through development of their home land, their soils, their resources and their initiative.

Probably not until the whole world is prepared for interplanetary flight will we accomplish what we set out to seek, but we can certainly pave a road for the others to drive over in the meantime.

Competition is not a derogatory word: it is the inspiration that has made man move forward to better and bigger things—to a preview of what we can have tomorrow.

Band Hits South Bend Saturday

The marching band will leave Saturday for South Bend, Indiana, where it will present a half-time show at the Michigan State-Notre Dame football game. The 140-piece band will make the trip through the courtesy of the Oldsmobile division of General Motors. Prior to the game, the band will present a special concert on the steps of the South Bend courthouse. The half-time show, titled "Serenade in Blues," is centered around one of America's most popular styles of music — the blues. Several novel dance steps and maneuvers will accompany such favorites as "Serenade in Blues," "Sugar Blues," and "Saint Louis Blues." The band traveled to Flint Tuesday night to kick off the Flint Community Chest drive. It performed in the Industrial Manufacturers' Association Auditorium.

Study Reactions to Newspapers

How does the public react to newspapers? This question will be answered by Dr. Paul Deutschman, director of the Communication Research center, at the annual meeting of the Inland Daily Press association in Chicago. Dr. Deutschman will present the results of a committee research project completed this September. It is a study of the attitudes of the public toward various newspapers. This has been a cooperative project with communication experts from Minnesota, Wisconsin, Indiana and MSU. The meeting of the association will be held Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in Chicago. Dr. Deutschman is representing MSU at the meeting.

Prof Describes Recent Garden Tour of Europe

Dr. C. E. Wildon of the Horticulture department gave an informal talk concerning a recent garden tour of Europe, Tuesday afternoon in the Horticulture building. His trip covered six northern countries of Europe where he visited parks, gardens and Horticulture schools. "There is a need for gardens and beautiful parks in every city in Europe but not in America," Wildon said. "It is this way in Europe but not in America." The gardens in Europe fill three important purposes, he said. They are of educational, recreational and business value. "The businessmen insist they have the gardens for they attract the tourists who in turn purchase other goods," Wildon said. Wildon also showed slides of some of these gardens from Great Britain, Denmark, Germany, Holland, Belgium and France.

Men's Fall Fashions Echo Days Gone By

With IFC rush in full swing, men's fashions are a topic of discussion this week.

Men will need several additions to their wardrobe this fall if they plan to stay on top of the fashion world. Styles have regressed three decades as clothing manufacturers have gone back to the "era of wonderful nonsense."

The look for gentlemen is "very masculine." Tailors have supplied the Continental, American Ivy, American Ambassador and American Natural lines with a new slant. Time-American.

MEN'S SUITS are slightly revised from last year's continental look. The new ultra-modern style features tapered, slim lines. Slacks are cuff-less, with plain front or single pleat and have a no belt top. The jacket has narrow lapels and a trim-cut, and will be seen in saturated or bold checks.

"Bulkiness" is the word in sweater fashions. Shawl collars, ganch-type collars, the crew neck, and a new high V-neck will all be seen in dark solids and big checks. A new coat sweater with toggles buttoning across the front, almost as high as the buttons on the traditional cardigan sweater is expected to replace the "Pony Club" style.

Light weight wool flannel trousers with single pleat front, no belt and button tabs on the side are musts. Dark olive, grey and brown hues will dominate. Sportshirts in dark prints are in this year with the new barlow and/orion sweater shirts.

SPORTS COATS seem to have survived the fashion upheaval. The ever popular continental and ivy look is still with us. New are blazers in solid blue, olive, grey and brown or in hopsack or other heavy weaves.

Latest in jacket-wise wear is the three-quarter length suit coat, longer than the conventional jacket but shorter than the car coat. The suit coat will feature washable arlon pile lining in dark solid colors. Button-down knit shawl collars of 100 per cent wool are back on jackets. Cashmere is also a good buy with a plaid-blanket type lining.

Top coats are shorter and featuring raglan sleeves in heavy fabrics. Chesterfields are back and British type balmacans with deep wing sleeves. There is even a new "Impressario" look with fur collars, a variety of pockets and rich fabrics.

MEN'S HATS make news this fall with the "Roma" look, featuring a center crease, pinch front, small brim, and a tapered crown. Besides the traditional felt, hats will have a silky wool finish. The velvet or Alpine is also back with a fuzzy finish.

For the semi-sport, there's a silk-finish semi-Tyrolean in the new bronze shade with a cord trim and a belt buckle medallion or a gay feather.

And to prove that females aren't absolutely crazy, here's the report of the Shoe Fashion Service of Leather Industries of America. Men's shoes will emphasize the slim look too this fall, and are tapered to a finer point in keeping with the slim lines of this year's Ivy and American Continental suits.

The shoes are available in an extended range of black, browns and burnished olive to complement fall's glen plaid, worsteds and tweeds.

Hannah, Smith Attend Nigerian U. Services

ENUGU, EASTERN NIGERIA (AP)—A delegation of Michigan State University notables was at Nsukka Thursday for the convocation of Nigeria's first full-scale university.

The delegation is headed by MSU president John Hannah and trustee Connor Smith.

First lectures at the University of Nigeria began Wednesday less than two weeks after the country's independence was celebrated. It will be several years before the vast project is completed. Two hundred students are mustered but plans envisage the enrollment of 6,000 in ten years.

The driving force behind the project is Dr. Nnamdi Azikiwe, (Zik), the nationalist leader who becomes first Nigerian Governor-General next month.

ZIK RECALLS that when he led an educational mission to Michigan State last year the Nigerian university plans caught the imagination of MSU leaders, including Hannah, Dean Glen Tazger, Dr. Troy L. Stearns, and Dr. George M. Johnson, professor of education who is setting in as the university's principal after a week in Nigeria.

Nigeria members of the university teaching staff said in a statement:

"We shall always be grateful to Michigan State university for her practical assistance and encouragement in helping to make a reality of our dream."

"THE PRESENCE of a large MSU representation at today's convocation when they will be given a magnificent welcome is a token of their continued interest in Nigeria's major educational project."

Dr. Johnson, who was a law school dean at Howard for twelve years before going to MSU and is a member of the U.S. civil rights commission, described Nigeria's new university about 45 miles north of the eastern regional capital of Enugu as "an exciting venture which offers a unique challenge to anyone interested in education because of the effort being made to develop an institution of higher learning geared to the special needs of indigenous Nigerians."

Johnson continued in an interview:

"We are going to attempt to examine other cultures and select from them those features which seem to be beneficial to Nigeria. In this work we are getting greatly appreciated assistance from Britain, the international cooperation administration and from Michigan State university."

Johnson's principal assistant and dean of student affairs, Dr. Alvin D. Loving, Michigan educationist.

Spartans, Notre Dame Ready for Scoring Duel

Both Squads Eye Big TD Parades

By JOHN SCHNEIDER

The emphasis should be on scoring this weekend in the MSU-Notre Dame football game if tradition holds true. State meets the Fighting Irish Saturday at South Bend in the battle of bad luck teams.

In each of the games played between the Spartans and Irish since 1949, State has scored at least three touchdowns per game, even in losing in 1953. The score then was 20-19, in favor of the Irish on a muddy field.

Both teams have experienced some tough breaks so far this season. The Fighting Irish were swamped by Purdue 51-19 when they fumbled three times and had three passes intercepted in the second quarter. Purdue scored 31 points in that quarter.

LAST YEAR, MSU defeated the Fighting Irish 19-0 in a hotly-contested ball game that saw State stage a magnificent goal line stand for the second consecutive week.

Notre Dame had marched to the Spartans' two yard line with State leading at the time 7-0. Four times the Irish hit the line and each time the line, then known as Gaudiff's crew refused to give ground. This broke the back of the Irish offense and the Spartans went on to win 19-0.

ONE MAJOR shift was noted this week in the MSU camp with defensive quarterback Ike Grimley working a few offensive plays, mostly of the belly series variety.

Grimley, a senior from Canton, Ohio, has been spelling Tom Wilson, the regular offensive field general, when the opposition gets the ball.

Grimley, a left handed passer, has worked with the defensive unit for the past two seasons.

Five Sophs May Start for Notre Dame

By the Associated Press

SOUTH BEND, IND. (AP)—As many as five sophomores may start for Notre Dame against Michigan State in Saturday's football game here.

Thursday, in dummy, scrimmages, three sophomores—Ed Rutkowski, Daryle Lomenica and Norb Rascher—alternated at quarterback along with Junior George Haflner.

George Sefcik, junior left halfback, who missed two practices earlier in the week because of a leg injury, worked out Thursday and is expected to see at least limited action against the Spartans.

Rockne's Teams To Hold Reunion

State Cross Country Squad To Open Season Saturday

Notre Dame, Ind.—There will be many memories of olden days abounding around here this coming weekend—which is the occasion of the Notre Dame-Michigan State game—as members of Knute Rockne's last two teams, those of 1929 and 1930, will be holding a 30th reunion.

A great many men played on both of these national championship outfits, and as a consequence for reunion purposes they operate as a unit.

Dan Halpin, now a New York City advertising executive, who was the student manager of the 1929 team, is general chairman of the affair, and he has announced that of a possible 90 squad members, 55 have promised to be on hand.

HUNK ANDERSON, assistant coach in those years (and the man who succeeded Rock as head coach) will be on hand as will Johnny Law and Tom Conley, the 1929 and 1930 captains respectively.

Frank Carideo, quarterback, Jack Cannon, guard, Bert Metzger, guard, Marty Brill, halfback, Macky Schwartz, halfback, were the all-Americans of those two teams. The first three have definitely indicated they will be here, and the latter two were still hopeful early this week that they would be able to make the trip from their respective West Coast homes.

Another who will be present is Frank Leahy, 1929 tackle, who himself enjoyed many successful years as head coach of the Irish.

The reunionists hope to gather in time on Friday to attend the final preparatory practice session of the 1960 team. That evening they will be guests at the usual student pre-game rally, and also at the Friday evening press party. On Saturday morning a Memorial Mass will be celebrated on the campus for Rockne, Mrs. Rockne and all squad members who have passed on.

There will also be a visit to Highland Cemetery, in South Bend, to place a wreath on Rockne's grave. The group will participate in half-time ceremonies at the Irish-Michigan State game, and on Saturday evening there will be a private dinner for all squad members and their families.

By IVANHOE DONALDSON

Michigan State cross country squad will open its 1960 season Saturday in a dual meet against Penn State university. The meet will take place over Penn State's five mile course.

Senior Billy Reynolds, captain of the team, and Juniors Jerry Young and Clayton Ward, all lettermen, are the key returnees.

Coach Fran Dittrich will send against the strong Eastern team. Joining Young, Reynolds and Ward, will be crack soph prospects Frank Weaver from Ontario, and Roger Humberger from Michigan. Senior George Tatu of Dearborn, a letterman from the 1958 season, will also join the squad to round out the six man travel team.

"WE ARE running a bit ahead of the pace we set at this time last year," said Dittrich when commenting on team strength. "I don't know if we will have the stuff to take the three championships (Big Ten, ICAA, and NCAA) like we did in the '59 and '58 campaigns, but we will give it a battle," he adds.

Penn State is going to be a difficult opening test for the Spartans.

Coach Chuck Werner's team, always a power on the Eastern coast, defeated Cornell in its first run by a strong score of 15-45.

VETERAN runners Herman Weber and Steven Moorhead of Penn State will probably be the men to keep an eye on. Both were members of last year's squad, which was defeated by Michigan State 21 to 40. Besides defeating Cornell, Penn State also defeated the Panthers of Pitt 19-40.

Billy Reynolds, who manages to keep better than 3.5 all university point average, will be the number one starter for State. Reynolds placed fourth in last year's NCAA Championship. However, teammate Jerry Young, who has been very strong during practice sessions this year, might just edge Reynolds for individual team honors. Young placed eleventh in the National Collegiate in '59.

Mystery Ride Set By Cyclers

One of the newest groups on campus, the cycling Spartans, will hold a mystery trip at 2 p.m. Sunday.

The group will start from the Sparty statue and club president, Harvey Schultz, invited all interested riders to attend.

All cyclists are asked to bring ten cents, said Schultz, and rider and donuts will be waiting when the group arrives at the final point.

A fast growing organization, the club had 33 members last spring and 63 more joined this fall.

WKAR to Air Irish-MSU Game

WKAR will broadcast the football game between Michigan State and the Irish of Notre Dame Saturday afternoon. Bob Shackleton and Larry Frymire, of WKAR's sports staff, will begin reporting play by play at 1:15 p.m.

After World Series

Ya-Hoo! Pitt Fans Flip

PITTSBURGH, (AP)—The steel city flipped its lid just one second after the Pittsburgh Pirates won the world series by defeating the New York Yankees 10-9. The celebration picked up speed by the minute. Traffic was jammed so badly police threw up their hands in despair.

Confetti and torn up newspapers littered the streets. Some fans drank beer from bottles they carried from bars. The bars were swamped, horns tooted, whistles shrilled ... it was a madhouse.

POLICE STREAMED from office buildings. Girls hugged their boy friends. Some of the girls didn't mind kissing anyone—anyone who was a Red fan.

Police said they would be in for a "rough night." That was the understatement of the year from the indications at dusk.

On the riddle of rolling friction

General Motors is pioneering research into the mystery of energy losses in the rolling ball. With a unique measuring device (above), investigators have not only confirmed the hypothesis of how a rolling ball loses energy (Answer: elastic hysteresis), but have also learned where this lost energy is dissipated (Answer: in the interior of the material, not on the surface).

The effectiveness of automation depends upon the ingenuity of the scientist and engineer. If you are about to begin a career in the field of technology you'll benefit yourself by working where ingenuity and enthusiasm pay off. At General Motors they do, and in a big way.

What is your main interest? GM's diversification covers many fields. Automotive research, production engineering and manufacturing, electronics and astronautics are just a few. With so many and varied divisions, GM can offer men who qualify the choice of specialization or the opportunity to work on vastly different projects.

GM also has a financial aid program for both postgraduate and undergraduate students. For complete information, write to General Motors, Personnel Staff, Detroit 2, Mich.

Tells Lansing Audiences

'No Inflation,' Says Mitchell

By SHARON ROBINSON
State News Staff Writer

For the first time in twenty years, America is in a high level of business activity with no danger of inflation, according to Labor Secretary James Mitchell. Mitchell spent three hours in Lansing Thursday with a press conference at city hall and a Kiwanis luncheon at the Jack Tar Lansing hotel.

Mitchell, who has been touring the country, termed the presidential campaign "a close race nationally with Republican momentum picking up."

In his press conference, Mitchell said that he feels Nixon has taken the soundest position on the Quorum-Martin issue. "The United States cannot indicate weakness to the Reds at anytime," Mitchell said. "We must demonstrate to the free world that we will not let the Reds pick us to pieces."

Mitchell termed the present economic situation "a period of high level business activity, not a recession."

BIG BUSINESS is learning that it doesn't have to hedge against inflationary production costs," Mitchell said. "They have found that stocking inventories is no longer necessary since they are readily available."

"Individual decisions and responsibility for American economic growth lies with the private citizens rather than Washington bureaucrats," Mitchell said.

The American people have tended to sit back and let the government do everything, according to Mitchell.

"The government should put a light not a heavy hand on the people," he said.

MITCHELL QUOTED Abraham Lincoln as saying, "The government should do for the people what they can't do themselves."

The problem facing American economy today, according to Mitchell, is a growing concentration of economic power.

Mitchell strongly opposed government intervention in labor bargaining.

"The minute the government intervenes on either side of the bargaining table it is interfering with individual freedom," Mitchell said. "Government intervention can lead straight down the road to socialism."

PRESENT LABOR-management relations illustrate that in the next 15 years business and labor should be concerned with how responsibility and regulations are dispersed unless they want government control," Mitchell said.

"The government should produce a climate encouraging private initiative rather than driving it up," Mitchell said. "The strength of America is not in Washington, but in its towns, villages, and communities."

The major question before Americans today, according to Mitchell, is whether they want economic power placed in the hands of private institutions or a centralized government.

Mitchell said the control of wealth should be left with private enterprise and an assessment should be made of how well this is being done.

HIGHER DUTIES were opposed by Mitchell because they would "hampers America's ability to trade abroad."

Mitchell said America should maintain its present favorable balance of trade and its reciprocal trade agreements.

"American voters should appraise both presidential candidates and decide who can best preserve this individual freedom," Mitchell said. "I believe the people will make the right choice."

The September employment level was the highest in history so far this year, according to Mitchell.

UNEMPLOYMENT totaled 3.5 million in September, but one half of this number was unemployed less than a month," Mitchell said. "Unemployment relief is expected next month."

Bowles To Talk In Lansing

Rep. Chester Bowles (D-Conn.), former governor of Connecticut and ambassador to India, will give a major address on U.S. foreign policy in Lansing Tuesday, at 8 p.m., in the auditorium of Sexton high school.

His speech will be the second of two public discussions sponsored by the Lansing World Affairs Council to present the Republican and Democratic views on one of the top issues of the campaign—U.S. foreign policy.

Also slated to appear on the program is Gov. G. Mennen Williams who will introduce the speaker.

Congressman Bowles, a high ranking Democrat, is a member of the Democratic Advisory Committee on Foreign Policy and was chairman of the Democratic national convention. He has been prominently mentioned for secretary of state or some similar top administrative post should Kennedy be elected president.

Captured BY ESCAPED CONVICTS!

Campers Bob and Pete have just turned on their radio... SHUT DAT ESCAPED FROM STATE PRISON AND ABE HEADING FOR... AN RUSTLE US OF SOME GRUR!

Pete puts a rock at each side of the fire... SURE, ILL GET A COUPLE OF ROCKS FROM THE LAKE TO COOK ON... ILL GO WITH YA-AY NO FUNNY BUSINESS

When the state troopers arrive... EXPLODING ROCKS... YOU SURE THINK FOR YOURSELVES! ILL GET THATS WHY YOU'RE NEVER SMOKERS!

RIGHT Viceroy's GOT IT! AT BOTH ENDS! GOT THE FILTER... GOT THE BLEND!

THE RIGHT TASTE BECAUSE Viceroy's got it... at both ends

NOTE: Bob and Pete knew that rocks in a stream often take up water. When these rocks are heated the water turns to steam - and the rocks explode!
